I. In any station where there is a Government Chaplain, or a Church which is the property of Government, and in every other station (where there is a Clergyman), there may be appointed not less than two nor more than four laymen, with the title of the Church Committee, to assist the Chaplain or Minister in the discharge of such duties as are not necessary parts of his spiritual office. If there be more than one Church, a separate Committee shall be nominated for each.

From these Rules, St. John's Church, Calcutta, is excepted, where the present constitution shall remain unaltered. And if in any station, from its small size or other causes, it may seem hardly possible to carry out these Rules, the Chaplain or Minister shall make a representation on the subject to the Bishop.

II. As a rule, members of the Church Committee shall be two in number; additional members shall only be appointed in exceptional circumstances and on the recommendation of the Bishop.

III. In every station the Chaplain or Minister shall nominate one member of the Committee.

IV. The other member or members shall be appointed as follows :—

(a.) In a purely Military station, where there are European troops, the Commanding Officer of the station, if willing to act, otherwise the Military Officer next in rank, who may be so willing, shall nominate the second member.

(b.) In a station where there are no European troops (or merely a detachment to garrison a fort, as at Lahore or Lucknow Civil Lines), the chief Civil authority of the station, if willing to act, otherwise the Civil Officer next to him in position, shall nominate the other member.

(c). In a mixed station, where there are both European troops and a Civil community, the other members or member of the Church Committee shall be appointed by a Committee of Selection, consisting of the chief Civil and Military authorities of the station, who may be willing to act on such Committee of Selection, and a third person, to be nominated by the Chaplain or Minister from the non-official and uncovenanted community. The powers of this Committee shall be strictly limited to the selection of a member or members of the Church Committee.

V. A member of the Church Committee should be a member of the congregation of the Church, on the Committee of which he is nominated.

VI. The Church Committee shall be appointed annually in Easter week, except in stations where that time of the year is unsuitable. At these stations, the Bishop, on the representation of the Chaplain or Minister, may fix another time of appointment. The members of the past or of the previous year's Church Committee shall be eligible for re-appointment.

VII. The Chaplain or Minister and Church Committee together constitute the Vestry of the Church or Station.

But the Bishop and the Archdeacon, who are now ex-officio members of the Vestries of St. Paul's and St. John's, shall continue so.

Moreover, any Clergyman resident in a station, but not in spiritual charge of it, may be elected to serve upon the Vestry by the other members. The Chaplain or Minister is Chairman of the Vestry, with a casting vote in addition to his own, unless the Bishop or Archdeacon is present.

VIII. The Vestry should meet not less than once a quarter.

IX. The Vestry will have no legal status as a corporate body, and no powers beyond those specified in these Rules.

X. The duties of a member of the Church Committee shall be,—

(a.) To take part with the Chaplain or Minister in the distribution of money gathered at the Offertory, in accordance with the Rubric at the end of the Communion Service, due attention being paid to any particular recommendation made by the Bishop.

(b.) To take part also in the management and expenditure of any other Church funds, such as pew-rents, where these exist;

XI[illegible]ld the nominee of the Chaplain (or in a mixed [illegible] in the non-official member to which appoin[illegible]s made by the Committee of Selection) vacate[illegible]e during a vacancy in the incumbency of the [illegible]n or Church, the other member or mem-bers sh[illegible]nominate a colleague or non-official mem-ber of [illegible]mmittee to act provisionally till the new Chapl[illegible] or Minister arrives, who may or may not adopt [illegible]e appointment.*

XII. When an interpretation of any doubtful point in these Rules is required, resort is to be had to the Bishop; and all the powers here vested in the Bisho[illegible] may be exercised in his absence by the Arch-deacon or Commissary.

It is to be understood that the performance of the duties of Church Committee is purely voluntary, nor is it incumbent on any person, whether a servant of Government or otherwise, to serve on any Church Committee or Committee of Selection.

Resolution.—His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council observes that these references originated with a case which occurred at Allahabad, where an Officer wished to part with his house to a Native under circumstances not open to any suspicion, and with a remark from the Home Department, to the effect that some change or relaxation of the rule which prohibits the sale of property to Natives by public servants under any circumstances seemed desirable. At present under the Notification of the 3rd of December 1858, drawn up in consequence of the orders of the late Court of Directors, sales of property to Natives are strictly prohibited, and Officers are thereby directed to refer all transactions, in regard to which they have any doubts, for the orders of superior authority.

2. His Excellency in Council observes that the weight of authority on the part of the various Administrations and Departments [illegible] have lately been consulted on this subject [illegible] edly in favor of some modification of t[illegible] rule, or, at least, of more clearly and ac[illegible] ing the course to be pursued in such c[illegible] can be no doubt that the restrictions [illegible] erto on such transactions have been, to [illegible] tent, beneficial, and that the Governm[illegible] dia, though it can place a full reliance [illegible] eal-ing, honor, and integrity of its ci[illegible] services, has a right to expect n[illegible] all such transactions shall be correct[illegible] ach-able in themselves, but that they s[illegible] any risk of misconstruction at the han[illegible] ning, ignorant, or credulous persons.

3. The Government of India is [illegible] aware, as pointed out by some of the [illegible] orities consulted, that many officials who [illegible] g their stations have become the owners [illegible] either under an absolute necessity, or fr[illegible] ble motives of convenience and comfort[illegible] a quitting the district or province to [illegible] y have been for some time attached, liter[illegible] no purchasers for their property exc[illegible] tives of wealth or substance. When s[illegible] nsactions openly and avowedly take plac[illegible] vil consequences, His Excellency in Counc[illegible] nks, need ever ensue under proper precautions[illegible]

4. The following rules have t[illegible] fore been drawn up in supersession of the existi[illegible] rule, and are hereby published for general informa[illegible] on. They must be considered applicable to European public servants of all descriptions, Civil, Military, and Uncovenanted.

5. I.—Whenever a public servant wishes to dispose of a house, bungalow, elephant, horse or carriage, or other valuable property to any Native within his jurisdiction, or within the limits of the district in which he is employed on the public service, and from which he is not about to remove, he must report his intention to the Local Government to which he is subordinate, stating the facts and circumstances, and the price offered for the article to be sold. The Local Government will then pass such orders on the reference as may seem fit and proper.

II.—Whenever a public servant is about to quit his station or district permanently, or for a considerable period, and wishes to dispose of his house, bungalow, elephant, carriages, and horses, and the like property of value to Native purchasers, he shall report his intention to the Commissioner or the head local authority to which he may be immediately subordinate, and that authority will use its discretion in allowing the transaction, or in reporting the circumstance to the Local Government for further orders.

III.—Whenever a public servant, on quitting his station or district, wishes to dispose of his furniture, household goods, livestock, &c., he is at full liberty to do so either by circulating lists of such property amongst the community generally, or by having the same put up to public auction, without reference to any authority wh[illegible]r. All that is necessary is that the [illegible]tion should be open and patent to [illegible]ody on the spot.

IV.—Rule N[illegible] be considered applicable to purchas[illegible]y with sales.

6. The [illegible]e of the above rules will, His Excell[illegible] thinks, fully meet the inconve[illegible]gencies to which gentlemen of ack[illegible]our and probity would be put on [illegible]ons, if debarred from such transacti[illegible] at the same time they will be a su[illegible]feguard against any abuse, any impu[illegible]nfair or interested dealings, or any possi[illegible]conception on the part of the non-offici[illegible]ty.

ORDER.—Ord[illegible]at a copy of the above Resolution be sent to [illegible] Governments, Administrations, and Agencies, [illegible]or information and guidance. Ordered further, that a copy of the above be sent to the Departments noted in the margin for information.

A letter from the Deputy Accountant-General, North-Western Provinces, No. 3299, dated 12th August 1868, enquiring whether Mr. Handford, Director of Public Instruction in the North-Western Provinces, should, during absence on privilege leave, pay the acting allowance of his substitute.

RESOLUTION.—In supersession of all existing rules, the Governor General in Council is pleased to allow Uncovenanted Officers absent on privilege leave to draw their full pay during such absence, the acting allowances due to their substitutes being paid out of the general revenues.

ORDERED, that the foregoing Resolution be sent to the several Departments, Governments, and Provincial Accountants-General, and to the Comptroller-General of Accounts, with an intimation to the Accountant-General, North-Western Provinces, that this Resolution will govern the case of Mr. Handford submitted by him.

Ordered also, that the above be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

Again Rule 6 of the Uncovenanted Service Leave Rules dated 13th April 1864.

OBSERVATIONS.—The Governor General in Council observes that the above quoted rule does not require that applicants for leave on medical certificate beyond sea should appear personally before the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department. The final words of that rule only require that the certificate be submitted, with a statement of the case, for the countersignature of that Officer.

It has been assumed in the communication of the Public Works Department from the Calcutta practice, that, although no mention is made in the rules of appearance before a Medical Board at the Presidency, yet that the Principal Inspector-General may impose this condition, if he thinks proper, before countersigning the certificate.

The Governor-General in Council is of opinion that this assumption is not warranted, and that the objection to the present rule so far as it is founded on that assumption is groundless.

But even the necessity of sending by post the certificate from Rangoon to Madras for countersignature would be productive of delay, which in cases of serve illness might be fatal.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council is therefore pleased to rule that, in modification of the provision in the 6th rule above quoted, which requires the countersignature of the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department to the medical certificate, in cases of leave beyond sea, leave may be granted on the medical certificate being countersigned by the local Deputy Inspector-General of Hospitals, when, from the nature of the illness of the applicant, delay would be hurtful.

ORDERED, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Public Works Department, and that it be communicated to the several Local Governments and Administrations, and to the Comptroller-General of Accounts, and to the several Accountants and Deputy Accountants-General in independent charge: also that it be published in the Gazette of India.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to declare that the Resolution quoted above dos not apply to leave granted to Military Officers in Military employ.

ORDERED, that the foregoing Resolution be published in the Gazette of India, and communicated to the Military Department and the Governments of Madras and Bombay.

The Public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1867-68, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade, will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue but, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognise any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified, that, under the 16th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand, that out of the quantities of Behar and Behares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1869, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale, within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thiry days from the publication of this notification. Ca[illegible]urrain in the District of Kamroop.

From [illegible] H. HOPKINSON, Agent to the Governor General, Nor[illegible] East Frontier, and Commissioner of Assam, to the [illegible] Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 252, date[illegible] Shillong, the 5th September 1868.)

I HAVE the [illegible] honor to forward herewith copy of a letter from th[illegible] Deputy Commissioner of Kamroop, to my address, [illegible] enclosing a report by Dr. Purvis, Civil Surgeon o[illegible] Gowhatty, on the cattle murrain which has been [illegible] prevalent for some time back in the District of [illegible] Kamroop, and I trust His Honor the Lieutenant-[illegible] Governor will consider Dr. Purvis' report worthy [illegible] of favorable acknowledgment.

From MAJOR J. SH[illegible]ERER, Deputy Commissioner of Kamroop, to the Persc[illegible] Assistant to the Commissioner of Assam,—(No. 9[illegible] Gowhatty, the 2nd September 1868.)

WITH reference to your Memorandum No. 381, dated 8th ultimo, I have now the pleasure to send you herewith a report, in original, only just received from Dr. Purvis, the Civil Surgeon of Gowhatty, and which was promised in my letter No. 53, dated 8th July last, regarding the cattle murrain in this District.

From DR. H. B. PURVIS, Civil Assistant Surgeon of Gowhatty, to the Deputy Commissioner of Kamroop,—(No. 73, dated Gowhatty, the 20th August 1868.)

I HAVE the honor, in answer to your letter No. 184 of the 8th ultimo, to report on the cattle epidemic which has prevailed in this District, and even up to date has not entirely disappeared, as solated cases are still continuing to occur.

In drawing up the report, I have received much assistance from the Native Doctors under my superintendence, and the owners of cattle in the neighbourhood who have furnished me with what information they could collect from personal experience on the subject. Several diseases have prevailed during the year, such as "gootee," "chupkah," "bhoklak," &c., but the affection requiring chief notice, and which has committed such ravages, is known amongst the Assamese by the names "mour," "serale mour," lohomy muska, &c., which signify a disease resembling a combination of cholera and dysentery. "Mour" appears to me to be very similar to, if not identical with, the "puschima" of Bengal. This disease prevailed with great severity throughout April, May, and June, and it is difficult to estimate the number of cattle that must have perished, not only cattle, but also sheep, goats, pigs, &c., have been its victims, and even wild animals seem not to have escaped its influence, as buffaloes, tigers, deer, &c., have been found dead evidently from similar diseases. The chief symptoms of this disease, mour, are the following: At the commencement the animal appears languid, stands apart from its neighbours, the skin dry, coat stares, ears drop, refusal of food, although a little may be eaten the first day. There is an intense desire for liquids. About the second day a clear viscid discharge takes place from the nose, eyes, and mouth. The abdomen gets distended, and diarrhœa sets in; refusal of all food. No mastication; the only apparent desire being for water. Great difficulty of breathing ensues; the discharges from the different parts change their character, and soon become offensive; the stools get very liquid and frequent, containing blood, mucous, &c. The animal, so soon from extreme weakness, obliged to lie down; these symptoms go on increasing in severity; death generally occurring between the second and fifth days, and in some instances in a much shorter period. The desire for liquids is a most prominent feature in the symptoms from the commencement. So long as their strength permits, they make every effort to reach water, and, if successful, the large quantity they drink causes the disease to run its course to a fatal issue much sooner. The banks of rivers and edges of tanks and jheels are common places to find animals either dead or dying.

The following are the chief post-mortem appearances presented in the cases I examined; sign of severe purging before death; abdomen greatly distended; fœtid discharges from nose and mouth, with inflammation of the mucous membranes, and in some cases ulceration, inflammation of the conjunctiva. On opening the body found general inflammation of the cellular tissue, as also of the living membrane of the larynx and trachea, extending to the bronchial tubes. Enlargement and inflammation of the cervical glands. Lungs, as a rule, not much affected. Effusion into pericardium; right side of heart filled with clotted blood. Liver and kidneys congested; gall bladder greatly distended with bile; the different stomachs much distended with wind, and containing a little food, and numbers of parasites; the latter are, however, said to be of common occurrence in healthy animals; general inflammation throughout the intestinal tract, with commencement of ulceration in some parts, but I saw no cases of severe ulceration of the intestines. Bladder contained a small quantity of high-colored urine. The disease is very fatal, and the general opinion is that from 75 to 80 per cent. of the animals attacked die. That it is highly infectious, there can be no doubt. When the disease appears, the natives consider that the only chance of saving their herds is at once to completely cut off all communication between the diseased and healthy animals. Goats placed on sheds with affected cattle contract and die of the disease.

A Tea Planter, residing some fifteen miles from Gowhatty, who has taken a great deal of trouble in furnishing me with what information he could collect, reports that near his garden there is a hill in the neighbourhood of which large herds of cattle graze. On one side of the hill the above disease raged with great violence, whilst on the other not a case was known to occur. The nature of the land, and cultivation on both sides of the hill, is very similar, and the only reason he could assign for the cattle on one side being exempt was that they had no communication with those which were suffering from the disease on the other. It has been noticed in some cases of recovery that the animals are blind, or nearly so, and in some instances total disorganization of the structures of the eye has taken place.

Treatment in the above disease is generally of little avail. Although some animals which I treated did recover, they were so few that no satisfactory conclusions could be drawn as to the value of any particular method of treatment. It is difficult to assign any particular cause for the production of such a disease, but I am inclined to think that the active principle at work may be very similar to the poison of malaria. The affection appears during the rains and hot season to a certain extent annually, but generally several years intervene between each irritation in an epidemic form. The rain-fall in this District has been much less than usual during the present year, and this may probably have had something to do with the increased virulence of the disease.

Gootee or small-pox has also p[illegible] during the year, but to a much less e[illegible]n the disease just noticed. In small-pox [illegible]erally takes place before the eruption has ti[illegible]elope itself. If the animal has strengt[illegible]rvive until the eruption appears, the nativ[illegible] upon the case as comparatively safe.

"Chupkah" or "khorah" an[illegible]oklah" cases have occurred but to a very sm[illegible]nt.

In chupkah an eruption occur[illegible]hefly affecting the feet, mouth, &c., ulcers form; and if not carefully looked after, maggots are developed in the sores. Fever and other constitutional symptoms are present.

Bhoklah is an inflammation of the throat, and trachea causing great difficulty in swallowing.

Now that my attention has been drawn to the diseases prevalent amongst cattle in this District, I will, in the event of other epidemics occurring, collect all the information I possibly can on the subject.

Report on the Cultivation of Cinchona at Darjeeling during the month of July 1868.

From T. ANDERSON, ESQ., M. D., Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, and in charge of Cinchona Cultivation in Bengal, to the Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 35, dated Botanical Gardens, the 14th September 1868.)

I HAVE the honor to forward the Report on the Cultivation of Cinchona at Darjeeling during the month of July 1868.

Report on the Cultivation of Cinchona at Darjeeling during the month of July 1868.

The weather during July was most favorable for the operations of the cultivation which I was most anxious to perform. Rain fell on every day during the month, except 3, and the weather was throughout the month cloudy and excessively damp. Accordingly, large additions were made to the area of ground planted with Cinchona. 116,960 plants, principally of C. Succirubra, were planted, 102,889 rooted plants were removed to nursery beds, and 182,000 cuttin[illegible] made. The growth of all the plants in the open ground continues to be most satisfa[illegible]

2. I am thankful to be able to report that the anticipations stated in my last letter, that the transplanted rice crop would be successfully cultivated, have been fulfilled. I was in error in that letter in thinking and saying that one planting of that crop had been destroyed; it had not been planted out when the stormy weather occurred. The seedling beds only were destroyed.

3. All present were agreed to-day that if there be, in respect of this crop, some grounds for anxiety as to the future, in the lateness of its cultivation, in the fact that seedlings have not been procurable for the replenishment of all the cultivable lands, and owing to the occurrence of a destructive murrain among the cattle, its condition is not such as to occasion any present alarm, or indeed to require any present particular attention. With a favorable season, there is a fair reason to expect a good out-turn from it.

4. S[illegible]hat our anxiety and our attention may be confined to the tract described in the 11th para[illegible]ph of my former letter, that is to say, to the care of the oval basin of country lying betw[illegible] Calcutta and Diamond Harbour.

5. C[illegible]cerning this country we had full particulars from Baboo Hem Chundra Kur, who is a very [illegible]ve and able Officer, and who has recently traversed the whole tract, with which he is of[illegible]iliarly acquainted, and from Baboo Hari Dass Dutt, a very intelligent zemindar wh[illegible] in its southern portion, and who is also personally conversant with its usual and r[illegible]te.

[illegible]ccounts given by these gentlemen show that the descriptions recorded of these land i[illegible]mer letter is accurate. They will produce no crops this year. The area of extrem[illegible]tion, however, is said to be not quite so large as I stated it. It may be about 6 or 7 mi[illegible]ad by about 16 long; that is to say, about 100 square miles, with a population of about 2[illegible] to 25,000 people.

7. [illegible] country contains one of the largest marts (Magurah or "Mogra") of the 24-Per[illegible]s, and is usually rather an exceptionally prosperous country. The lands being low lying, [illegible]able to the calamity of inundation more or less partial. It is, however, many years since any inundation has occurred so complete as that of this year. I should gather that even the entire loss of the crops for a year could have been borne without serious difficulty, but for the several successive calamitous seasons from which the district has of late suffered.

8. The population affected is supposed to be divided into about one-fourth well-to-do people who are not likely to be dependent upon public charity, and three-fourths actual cultivating laborers, and it contains a few wealthy men.

9. I mentioned in the 15th paragraph of my last letter that the Reverend Messrs. Payne and Ashton had kindly set on foot an experimental work for the relief of the population of this tract on its northern border. Rupees 150 have been expended up to date on this work, indicating that there is a demand, though not a very active one, for employment at the low rates stated in my last letter, viz., 2 annas for an adult, and 1 anna for a lad.

10. Mr. Driberg has in like manner given out about 20 maunds of hemp for manufacture into cordage, and he has employed labour on his own account at our rates rather freely. I did not gather, however, that in his case his labourers had come far from the village where they were employed. Mr. Ashton's labourers had come some of them 7 miles.

11. Mr. Smith's Overseer, Mr. Campbell, has been entirely unable to obtain labour at the authorized rates upon a road running through the very centre of the distressed tract.

12. I do not think that the result of the experiments by either gentlemen can be said to establish any demand for labour at relief prices.

13. The native gentlemen present at our meeting to-day were all still decidedly of opinion that, though distress exists, and though there is room for anxiety in the tract of which I am writing, the people will, with difficulty, but without any public aid, get through the year, and they were all opposed to any more active immediate measures of relief than those we are already taking.

14. One gentleman (Kumar Harendra Krishna) went so far as to protest against any measures of interference with the labour market, feeling assured that the requirements of the country outside the distressed tract would absorb all the labour that it could supply.

15. Another (Baboo Digamber Mitter), while admitting that distress existed, was of opinion that the labouring class could easily take care of themselves, and that the people who would presently most deserve and require relief were rather above that rank, and unaccustomed to labour; yet he deprecated any money distribution (which no one advocates at present) as impracticable and mischievous.

16. The Reverend Messrs. Payne and Driberg alone were decidedly of opinion that immediate and considerable measures of relief in the way of providing artificial labour should be taken. Mr. Ashton sided with them, though with less entire confidence.

17. Although I confess to having considerable confidence in the accuracy of the information of the Native gentlemen on the subject discussed, I can see no harm whatever in offering labour upon the principles already adopted at more centres than one, as near the distressed tract as we can manage, and I have accordingly directed the Magistrate to make it as widely known as possible that employment is to be had from Baraset to Culpee, which passes through the distressed country, and to devise means for the payment of as many labourers as may offer themselves at several centres along the road, and by persons who can be trusted.

18. I have also directed the Magistrate to endeavour to open relief works in other places accessible to the distressed country, so as to provide for every one really requiring it, the means of earning his daily bread.

19. So that if the Missionaries are right, and the Native gentlemen wrong, we shall provide a remedy.

20. There was much discussion as to the rates adopted at our last meeting, the Reverend Messrs. Payne and Ashton being entremely anxious that they should be raised. The rates now given are 2 annas for an adult, and 1 anna far a lad. It was stated at the meeting that very young children had been employed as lads, but I will direct the Collector to arrange that no child under ten years old shall be employed as a lad. If any younger [illegible]re employed at all, they must receive two pice or half an anna only.

21. It appears to me that it is of very great importance to regulate the pr[illegible] of labour on these relief works on currect principles. Our object is, while furnishing to [illegible]ry one the means of procuring daily bread, to abstain carefully from interfering in any [illegible] with the labour market. We must adjust our rates so low that the moment any nat[illegible] [illegible]mand for labour arises, the people will leave our works, and use their labour to their [illegible] [illegible]fit, and that of the whole community.

22. The present rate for rice is Rupees 2 annas 6 a maund, and I suppose t[illegible] [illegible]ving of an average family of five persons to cost about Rupees 6 a month. I can ha[illegible] [illegible]k it more; indeed I have never been accustomed to think that the average earnings [illegible] [illegible]dinary Indian family were so high as 6 Rupees a month.

23. We may safely presume, I think, that such a family will produce a m[illegible] [illegible] a lad, who will at our rates earn very nearly 6 Rupees a month, so that even if the ot[illegible] [illegible]embers contribute nothing, the family will live.

24. It is not at all easy to ascertain what the market rate for labour [illegible] [illegible] Hem Chunder Kur states it to be already as low as 2½ annas in some places, and m[illegible] [illegible] of the native gentlemen present thought it would fall at least to that as soon as the agricultu[illegible] [illegible]ral season for labour was over; that is, about a month hence.

25. I feel therefore that it would be full of risk for us to raise our rate[illegible] [illegible]s to 2½ annas. Were we to do so, we might bring upon ourselves the burden of employing the [illegible] whole labour of the country, while at the same time injuring those who really wished to empl[illegible] [illegible]oy labour.

26. For the present therefore the Collector and I both think that it wou[illegible] [illegible]ld be inexpedient to raise the rates, and we have declined to do so. Should, however, [illegible] [illegible]ircumstances arise which appear to render such a measure expedient, we shall be ready at once [illegible] to alter our decision.

27. I shall convene a meeting of our Committee again in about a month.

28. I may mention in this report that large bodies of the ryots of Pergunn[illegible]ah Magoorah have been with me during this week, urging me to interfere to compel the [illegible] zemindars to abstain from the levy of their rents. In the 24-Pergunnahs about two-t[illegible]hirds of the revenue, and, I presume of the rent, is payable in the quarter ending March; a[illegible]bout one-fifth now; about one-tenth in the quarter just ended; and the rest in the last [illegible]arter of the calendar year.

29. There is no doubt that in the distressed part of the country the people are just now particularly anxious about the demand for rent now due. The ryots who have visited me about 400 on one occasion; and if "they were different persons, about 400 on another, vociferously demanded a release from rent, asserting that they wanted nothing more.

30. I think it very unlikely that the zemindars will be able to get much rent from these people this year, but I could only tell them that I had no power to interfere between them and their zemindars, and that these latter had asked for no indulgence from the authorities at present.

31. I enclose a memorandum written by my predecessar Mr. Dampier on the occasion of similar demonstrations after the cyclone of 1864, with the minutes of the Board upon the subject in original. Kindly return these papers when the Board have read them.

32. In conclusion, I have to say that it is evident that the distress will be confined to a limited tract of country, and that, in my opinion, we shall not have any severe suffering for some months to come yet at any rate.

From T. B. LANE, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 4936B., dated Fort William, the 5th September 1868.)

WITH reference to Government Order No. 2690 of the 25th August last, I am directed to forward herewith, in original, for submission to Government, the annexed letter No. 473 of the 1st instant, from the Commissioner of the Presidency Division, reporting the result of the third meeting held to consider the impending distress in the 24-Pergunnahs.

2. The return of the original report is requested when done with.

From R. B. CHAPMAN, ESQ., Officiating Commissioner of the Presidency Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 473, dated Calcutta, the 1st September 1868.)

IN continuation of my No. 389, dated 4th August, I have the honor to report that a third meeting was held at my Office yesterday, at which the following gentlemen were good enough to attend :—

Babu Digambar Mittra, Zemindar of Mothurapore and Khari.
Babu Rajkumar Roy Chowdhary, Zemindar of Baroipore.
Kumar Harendra Krishna Bahadur, Zemindar of Mooragatcha.
Babu Anand Krishna Bose, Zemindar of Boridhhatty.
Babu Dwarika Nath Biswas, Zemindar of Hatooria, &c.
Babu Hari Das Dutt, Zemindar of Jaynagar.
Babu Ba[illegible]im Chundra Chatterjya, B. A., Deputy Magistrate of Baroipore.
Bab[illegible]ndra Kar, Deputy Magistrate of Diamond Harbour.
M. [illegible]utive Engineer, 24-Pergunnahs Division, Embankments.
The [illegible]. Long, Missionary, Church Mission Society.
The [illegible]. Driberg, Missionary, Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign [illegible]
Th[illegible]. Pearce, Missionary, Baptist Missionary Society.
[illegible]. Payne and [illegible]. Ashton } London Missionary Society.

[illegible]re aware that, since the date of my last letter, a fresh and very serio[illegible]vertaken the portion of the District of the 24-Pergunnahs which lies to th[illegible]. The rain fell on the 11th August, and the following six or seven days, [illegible]e voilence as to cause most serious injury to the crops. The conclave of whi[illegible]ent the results, was held rather earlier than I had intended in order [illegible]tain, as soon as the facts could be calmly discovered, the precise effect[illegible]her.

[illegible]y last letter that the "bunani," or broad-cast crop, had been, as a general [illegible]troyed, in the tract of which I am writing, by the voilent rains in June, but t[illegible]hat [illegible]ed only a small portion of the whole paddy crop of those parts, and t[illegible]hat, des[illegible] favorable weather, the transplanted crop had been, by a great and most pr[illegible]aiseworth[illegible] the people, got into the ground with a fair hope of a favorable result aft[illegible]er all. [illegible]re of rains in August overtook the young crop flourshing, but only lately pla[illegible]nted ou[illegible], with disastrous effect.

4. I reg[illegible]ret to say that by the unanimous testimony of the gentlemen acquainted with the facts, this transplanted crop has been fatally injured throughout the whole country to the south of Calcutta between the Pyali River and the Hooghly. There are in this region exceptional tracts where the crop has been saved, which I need not at present particularly detail, and there are other tracts where it is wholly destroyed. Wherever there is the slightest hope of success, the people are, with honest perseverence, still labouring to plant out once more what seedlings they can obtain. (This process can be continued with some hope of a useful result for about fifteen days more.) But there seems no doubt at all that, on the whole, a great calamity has now overtaken the population, and this at a time when, weakened by former troubles, they [illegible] little able to resist it. The area of distress I must now estimate at some 700 square mile[illegible] and the population at about 200,000.

5. As to the p[illegible]cise proportion of an average crop that may be garnered in the country spoken of, opinions [illegible] course differ, and I shall do no one any injustice if I say that no one can do more than guess it. Few gentlemen, however, think that, over the whole tract, more than a quarter or three-eighths of a harvest can be expected.

6. I need not give so many particulars as in my previous reports, for the landscape has, I grieve to say, assumed a uniformly sombre hue unrelieved by sanguine anticipations in any quarter.

7. All those best able to judge look forward then with gloomy forebodings to the future, no one seeing how we are to escape the necessity of assisting the population on a large scale. I am however glad to say that, as to any immediate pressure from want already existing, not only was there much doubt expressed, but there was much evidence that it has not yet generally begun, and not very much of its presence anywhere. The Naib of Babu Digambar Mittra at Khari, Mr. Pearce's catechist at the same place, and a native gentleman, a friend of Kumar Harendra Krishna Bahadur in Mooragatchia, describe indeed scenes of sorrowful alarm and threatened want:—the numbers coming to Mr. Ashton's relief work spoken of in my previous letters are increasing, and Mr. Ashton thinks that their condition is deteriorating:—and Mr. Payne has, he believes, detected instances of the extrusion from the village communities of some of the non-workers usually dependent upon them. But, on the other hand, the Magistrate's supervisor of Local Public Works was unable, in 43 villages scattered through the midst of the most desolated tract, which he has just personally visited, to find any person willing to labour on a road running through its centre for less than 3¾ annas a day. The people rejected his offer of 2 annas a day with contempt. Babu Hem Chandra Kar, who has been most indefatigable in personally visiting every part of his sub-division, has been unable yet to find a single person in want, and reports that wages are everywhere high as does Kumar Harendra Krishna, even in respect of the part of his property, where he says actual distress threatens already. The numerous deputations of the tenantry that continue to beset the Collector and myself avow with rare exceptions no other wish, and no other want, than that they may be saved from the demands of their landlords for rent; they express generally no anxiety as to their actual means of livelihood. Prices continue everywhere quite moderate.

8. I think we may believe upon these widespread and various indications that the people are not as yet in pressing distress. I even go further and say that it is not very easy to reconcile even the anticipation by the people themselves of very serious want and helplessness with some of these phenomena, and I retain some hope that [illegible] not know and cannot guage the resources of a population situate as this is with[illegible] of the metropolis.

9. It is, however, quite needless to speculate as to the future. T[illegible] rate, in my opinion, ample evidence to show that it is our plain duty to take all [illegible] cautions; and, as we are not called upon to store up food (of which no one has a [illegible] fear of deficiency), these precautions can be taken with the perfect certainty th[illegible] at a very moderate expense. If they do not come into play, no harm [illegible]

10. The meeting was with one mind opposed to anything like a [illegible] in charity. For probably varying reasons, the different parties and in[illegible] curred in thinking such an expedient improper and impracticable. I e[illegible] The revenues of the country ought, in my opinion, to be spent in t[illegible] resort. They can never be so spent, even then without doing imr[illegible]

11. Those present were thus all cordially agreed that wha[illegible] undertake should be given in the shape of a return for honest la[illegible] those entrusted with the distribution of the public funds. I m[illegible] th[illegible] is only by the application of this test that we can expect to [illegible] my that is so essential in the operations that lie, I fear, before us, and to [illegible] from demoralization.

12. Public works, on a considerable scale, cannot be [illegible] or commenced in the affected tract for two months to come, till then the country will n[illegible] dry enough for work of any kind. But these two months may be most usefully employed, and will indeed be needed for planing the works and making all necessary preparations. It is a matter of grave importance that whatever works are constructed shall be well designed for the benefit of the country. I have requested Mr. Archer at once to draw up a scheme and prepare plans in anticipation of the orders which the Government will, I hope, issue in the Public Works Department upon this report.

13. Mr. Archer himself is in favor of providing irrigation tanks in several centres, —a scheme which has its advantages, but which did not appear to commend itself to the gentlemen present who are many of them intimately acquainted with the wants of the District.

14. Mr. Pearce, one of the oldest and most experienced of these gentlemen, suggested the completion of two main canoe channels to traverse the country fro[illegible] north to south, and to be connected and fed by minor lateral channels running east and [illegible]est, which could be marked out and constructed whenever a demand for relief labor ari[illegible]. One of his main channels would run along the Diamond Harbour road, and the other wou[illegible] be an improvement and continuation of the Kuora Pukar Canal.

15. I think that there can be no doubt that such a scheme is peculiary well calculated to meet the wants, and devolop the resources of the 24-Pergunnahs. In this respect it commended itself at once to the approval of all present. It is obviously equally well adapted to provide relief labor within easy reach of every part of the affected country.

16. I therefore mention the plan, though I am sorry to say that Mr. Archer seemed to think that, for want of levels, it could not be got ready in time. The zemindars present expressed themselves as under a willing obligation to give the land for all such works free of cost.

17. Other similar works can no doubt be devised if an Engineer Officer be told off to consult the Magistrate and myself in the matter. What is essential is, that no time be lost in making, with all possible foresight, all needful arrangements for offering the means of earning their living to the people at a good many centres, and upon as useful works as can be devised as soon as the waters subside from the country, and for this it is essential that we look to the Department of Public Works.

18. Meanwhile, Mr. Ashton's scheme will continue at work under the Magistrate's supervision (he has just now despatched the Supervisor to measure up the work in order to see the kind of relation that its results show to the money expended), and Mr. Pearce will undertake to supervise, in connection with Baboo Digambur Mittra's Naib, (who is highly spoken of) some similar work at Khari, where the crop is almost wholly lost. Mr. Driberg is carrying on some like work with funds not supplied by the Government, and Mr. Payne is to try to start something of the same kind on the north-eastern corner of the tract that is affected. We shall continue to offer work on the roads too as the Public Works Department are also still doing. Our Officers will be constantly on the move through the country, and I do not doubt that we shall hear promptly of any sudden development of distress calling for any other measures, before the more considerable scheme above proposed can be got into operation.

19. I think, however, that we may fairly hope that, at any rate until November, there will not be any such increase of distress as to require any more precautions than the rough and ready expedients just sketched.

20. I have said that numerous bodies of ryots continue to be set the Collector and myself, vociferou[illegible]ding a remission or suspension of their rents. We have not of course any right t[illegible] between these poor people and their landlords, nor, if we had the right, have we t[illegible]n upon which we could do so equitably or properly. As before said, I feel confident [illegible]g zemindars will not find it to their interest to press their people with harshnes[illegible]t yet heard of any facts pretended to be authenticated which would lead me [illegible]y are doing so.

2[illegible] overlook the fact that many of the zemindars, especially the smaller ones, [illegible]ose their rents as the ryots can afford to lose their crops, and I do not quit[illegible]igmatizing the landlords without the slightest sympathy or considera-tion [illegible]ause they do not forego their whole demands upon such an occasion as th[illegible]ntial among the ryots are in a position to pay their rents, and ought [illegible]s an English farmer who had lost his year's crop would be expected [illegible]act, and a fact which does not certainly redound to the credit of the [illegible] ryots as a body show little or no confidence in their forbeara[illegible]ct too that these feelings of the ryots have been communi[illegible]ropean and Native, not connected with the land.

23. N[illegible]ze. [illegible] applied to the Collector for a remission or suspension of the Governm[illegible]ent rev[illegible], but th[illegible]e are indications of applications for such favors on the part of the farmer[illegible]s of the Governme[illegible]t estates which, will I am sure, be liberally met.

24. I a[illegible]m happy to say tha[illegible] I have no intelligence of distress to any serious extent in any other par[illegible]t of the Division. In Nuddea the crops are good, and in Jessore they are not bad. Prices [illegible]are everywhere, even in the 24-Pergunnahs, quite moderate, not materially dearer han la[illegible]st year.

From A. Smit[illegible]H, Esq., Magistrate of 24 Pergunnahs, to the Commissioner of the Presidency Division,—(No. A, dated Alipore, the 5th October 1868.)

I have just returned from a visit to that portion of the district in which distress has arisen owi[illegible]ng to the early heavy rain-fall in June.

2. There [illegible] is little information as to the prospect of the crops to communicate which you do not a[illegible]ady know. There are in fact no crops.

3. Commencing from Keorapookoor I went along the Churrial Khal almost to the Diamond Harbour Road. In the immediate vicinity of the Khall, I found some rice growing. I left the Khall and proceeded in a straight line across the country to Bolakhally near Andermanic. At first there were patches of rice interpersed with patches of reed, but after going a mile or two nothing was to be seen but water, except some little patches of rice near the villages. After passing Andermanic to Joynuggur scarcely a blade of rice is to be seen.

4. The appearance of the extensive rice plains or, as they are called, badahas, resembles nothing so much as one of those wide arms of the sea met in the Soonderbuns, with the vegitation of the villages, which are of course on high ground all above water, instead of the jungle in the distance. The water which is in ordinary years about 1½ feet deep stood 3 feet over the whole track.

5. From Joynuggur I returned viâ Mugrah Haut to Barripore. Up to Naraintollah at the entrance of the Soorjeepore Khall, the prospect was the same as from Andermanic to Joynuggur. From Naraintollah to Soorjeepore it became gradually better. I did not proceed eastward but Supervisor Campbell has reported that in the Southern part of Pergunnah Magoora, about Thanah Debeapore, the state of thing is worse rather than better, and the Revd. Mr. Payne, who accompanied me as far as Keorapookoor and who had just returned from that part of the country, confirms fully his statement.

6. During my progress I used every opportunity of communicating with the people and hearing their opinions as to their state, and found them very anxious as to their future. I did not indeed gather that they feared actual starvation, though they anticipated very serious distress, and were anxious for works. In many places they told me they were already reduced to one meal a day. On the other hand I found no appearance of attenuation or emaciation, such as might be expected to result from any serious deprivation of food; nevertheless our relief works are now very largely attended, and the work exacted is by no means light, and the acceptance of the labour at the relief rate is a very full indication that it is required.

7. At Keorapookoor, in addition to the excavation of a part of the Bengal Khal, the labourers had repaired about 3¼ miles of road from Old Tallygunge past Keorapookoor and along the bank of the Churrial Khal. The nature of the work performed may be thus briefly described. One set of labourers stand waist-deep in water by the edge of the road, and either with their hands or Khodalies raise earth from the bottom and pass it to others who place it on the road. The same discription will suffice for the road work carried on at the other places. Of course as a means of repairing the roads it is most expensive. Judging from what had been done at Keorpookoor, I should say that even after allowing for the rates being only half the rates of ordinary labour, the cost will be three times what would suffice in the cold season. This, however, cannot now be helped. Work at any sacrifice must be supplied. For those who are unfit for such severe labor and exposure as work on the roads entails, and where such work is not now practicable at all the spinning of jute, has been resorted to.

8. The actual outlay to date on relief works has been on roads Rupees 1,31,091; in purchase of jute Rupees 781-8; and for payment for spinning jute Rupees 334-2-9.

9. It may give you some idea of the extent to which the demand for relief has risen if I extract from the registers of attendance at the works the numbers present on some of the latest dates to which I have received returns, or where the returns hav[illegible] vet reached me, information by inspection of the registers on my tour. These are as fol[illegible]

Bankipore and Ostee road, 29th Sepember, 1,305 men, [illegible] lads 175, children 204.

Culpee road, 30th September, 364 men, 12 lads, 25 Childre[illegible]

Bolokhally road, 25th Sepetmber, 1,206 men, 26 women, 1[illegible]

Boral road, 24th September, 642 men, 131 lads.

10. As time passes on, the demand will in all probablity large[illegible] that works on a large scale are under preparation by the Officers [illegible]blic Works. I should be glad to recieve as soon as possible an ac[illegible]ment proposes to do.

11. The excavation of the camal viâ Keorapookoor a[illegible] ut and and thence to Culpee and Diamond Harbour and of the Ch[illegible] tres of the greatest usefulness.

12. The repairs of the unmetalled roads [illegible] esses tract will be another measure that can be readily ca[illegible] old, a on advances, and such labour is practicable without the difficult[illegible] to be surmounted, no other work can be more advantageously or economical[illegible] undertaken.

13. The Reverend Mr. Ashton, and the Reverned Mr. Driberg, have heretofore supervised the principal works. Both gentlemen deserve our warmest thanks for their labour and the services they have voluntarily and gratuitously rendered, but from the numbers now flocking to the works, the task is becoming more onerous than it is fair to ask them to undertake.

14. I think therefore it would be well now to appoint two Deputy Magistrates to relieve them, to supervise the works, visit them from day to day, and see that the laborers are regularly paid, and render full talis of work in exchange for the payment.

15. It would of course also rest largely with them to recommend to me for sanction with your approval the works to be undertaken when not devised and carried out by the Department of Public Works.

16. I ask for two such Officers now. If hereafter it should be found necessary to increase or practicable to decrease the number, I will report to you for the purpose.

17. Many of the inhabitants are, as was to be expected, resorting to the Presidency for labor. Some have returned carrying with them the discourging report of failure. I presume, however, that many more will sell labour in Calcutta and other places, and will find it. Fishing is being largely resorted to, but even making every allowance for both resources, there will remain a large portion of the population which will be dependant throughout the year on such labour as we can give them.

MEMORANDUM.

The tract here described is the worst in the whole district. In other parts of the Diamond Harbour Sub-Division the crops promise a fair yield. I have myself just visited Diamond Harbour, and I find the Deputy Magistrate a very experienced Officer, confident that there will be no serious distress. The crops along the first 12 miles of the road are good, in some parts excellent. In the extreme south they will not be very productive owing to their being planted out too late, for there is no hope now of sufficient water to mature the plant, which is about as forward as it ought to have been a month ago. Still the produce will suffice for the population of the locality, and distress will be confined to the country described by Mr. Smith. For the relief of this distress the Irrigation Department is making ample provision by a liberal scheme of public works which has been already sanctioned, and will be actually commenced as soon as possible. The two Superintendents asked for by the Magistrate have been actually appointed and will set to work at once. Food is everywhere cheap; and in the rest of the District the crops are turning out better than was expected.

R. B. CHAPMAN,
Offg. Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

Bridging the Hooghly.

From Colonel C. H. Dickens, R. A., Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department, to the Officiating Joint-Secretary to Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(No. 491R., dated the 25th April 1868.)

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 531G. of the 31st March last, containing an expression of the Lieutenant-Governor's views, and a memorandum on the subject of bridging the Hooghly, and of the arrangements which it is proposed to make in connexion with the several lines of railway.

2. While concurring in the views of His Honor that a bridge at Armenian Ghât cannot, for the present, be thought of, the Governor General in Council is also of opinion that it is premature to think of a high level line along the [illegible] from Chitpore [illegible] a large Station on the [illegible] that the railway arrangements [illegible] of the projected bridge [illegible] be limited to the Goods' [illegible] with a connecting line to [illegible] considered as the ter-

[illegible] that the Directors [illegible] Railway Company will [illegible] by Mr. Prestage. It is more reasonable [illegible] that they will assent at once to make [illegible] passenger station at Sealdah available; but [illegible] this point has been settled at Home, it will [illegible] better to defer making over the Municipal [illegible] railway to the Eastern Railway Company.

4. The advantage which the Eastern Bengal Railway Company will derive from the plan proposed, appears to have escaped Mr. Prestage's notice entirely. In the opinion of the Governor General in Council, however, it is a most important advantage, for it gives the Company at once an equal voice in the management of the railway traffic over the bridge and the junction lines, and thoroughly secures their interests for ever. It is certain that [illegible] or later the East Indian Railway will come [illegible] Calcutta; and if, instead of the present scheme being carried out, the East Indian Railway be left to do the work by themselves, the Eastern Bengal Railway will have no check whatever on their operations, and the probable consequence will be misunderstandings between the two Companies, which can only do both lines mischief.

5. One point of detail noticed by the Committee requires attention, which is the arrangement for giving the land for the Goods' Stations of the two Companies at Chitpore. These Stations, it is proposed, should be formed from the regular Capital of the two Companies, and not from the new Capital. Probably this is necessary, and possible in this case the land would have to be given free of charge. But if, under these circumstances, it should be thought desirable for Government to avoid the payment of the £1,00,000, which the gift of the land will involve, His Excellency in Council conceives that there would be no difficulty in Government making it a part of the bargain with the new Company that their Capital shall include this payment also. Such an arrangement would throw the burden on the profits derived from the bridge and new Metropolitan terminal arrangements, which is only fair. The interests of the new Company would be sufficiently covered by giving them a guarantee of 5 per cent. on their Capital.

6. In limiting the railway arrangements to the Goods' Station at Chitpore and the lines to connect the proposed bridge with Sealdah, the Governor General in Council contemplates the lines of rails being laid, not as proposed on a high level, but along the river bank on the level of the ground and connected with the Chitpore Station. And this line would be constructed and worked by the Port Trust as part of the landing arrangements in connexion with private warehouses in the neighbourhood. No large Station would be necessary, but only a few depôts for wagons, whence they could, on application, be sent to the points where the owners or agents desired to load them with goods.

7. I am to remark that the saving in cartage, coolie hire and boatage, to Howrah, will doubtless leave a sufficient margin for such charges as will at once pay the expenses of the Port Trust and the Railway, and yet afford great advantages to the mercantile public. Moreover, the limitation in this way to the smallest possible scale of the work to be undertaken is likely to result in the early completion of what is desired.

8. Mr. Prestage lays some stress upon his views being shared by a portion of the public. I am to enquire, therefore, whether the Government of Bengal has thought proper hitherto to consult any one, in order to ascertain how far this is the case.

2. I fully concur in the views of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor that a bridge over the Hooghly at Armenian Ghàt cannot be thought of.

The objections to the position are as follows:—

1*st*.—It would curtail the limits of the port, which it has lately been necessary to extend as far south as possible, in order to accommodate the shipping resorting to Calcutta.

2*nd*.—In such a position the bridge would be endangered by vessels breaking adrift from the moorings during the violent cyclones which are of periodical occurrence. In the cyclone of 1864, numbers of vessels were blown up and stranded on the Goosery sand.

3*rd*.—It would destroy the value of the graving docks above the proposed site.

Below is a statement showing the number of vessels which passed above Armenian Ghât in the years 1862 and 1863:—

In the year 1862, 92 ships were docked, 26 put into the moorings, and 26 lay in the stream above Armenian Ghât.

In 1863, 129 vessels were docked, 27 put into moorings, and 24 lay in the stream above the proposed site.

Two miles or thereabouts above Cossipore, south of Bally Khall, or the connecting line as proposed by the Committee appointed by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor to report on the Hooghly Bridge scheme, would, in my opinion, be as near Calcutta as could with safety be recommended; this would place a sand between the shipping and the bridge, which would form a secure protection to the bridge during storms.

From Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot & Co., to the Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(No. 229, dated the 12th May 1868.)

We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 1st instant, forwarding copies of correspondence relative to the bridging of the Hooghly, and requesting an expression of opinion on the subject.

The decision to construct the bridge at an early date will be regarded with general satisfaction, but it appears to us that an opinion as to the details can scarcely be formed without a professional knowledge of the question.

We think, however, that the shipping interests will not admit of the bridge being built within the limits of the port, and the site proposed by the Committee, in their memorandum, appears to be the best that could be selected.

It seems to us that neither Sealdah nor Chitpore will be satisfactory as the eventual terminus of either railway, and that no arrangements will be complete which do not contemplate the goods and passenger traffic of both lines being brought into a central part of the city as proposed by the Committee.

The site on the foreshore, suggested by the Committee, appears very suitable for goods traffic, proper arrangements being made for approaches and for wharves and warehouses along the Strand Bank. For passenger traffic a more central station would be required.

From Messrs. Jardine, Skinner & Co., to the Officiating Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(dated the 15th June 1868.)

Complying with the request in your letter of 1st ultimo, which, through pressure of business, has lain longer unanswered than we had intended, we have now the honor to submit our opinion on the question of bridging the Hooghly, in connection with the proposals to that effect contained in the papers accompanying your letter.

It would no doubt be preferable that the terminal station of the East Indian Railway should be in Calcutta rather than in its present inconvenient situation; but it is doubtful if anything wou[illegible] gained by a plan for br[illegible]ging the lines over [illegible] quarter so remote from [illegible] of th[illegible] cit[illegible] indicated by the Confer[illegible] before us; and one invol[illegible] appears to do, an outlay [illegible] tive, would amount to a [illegible] goods beyond the charg[illegible] over the same ground [illegible]

We should be rathe[illegible] desirability of adaptin[illegible] the end in view, by t[illegible] necting the East India[illegible] by means of a road bri[illegible] way Ferry; a plan by [illegible] valuable time might [illegible], a[illegible] ture on which would do [illegible]ess reproductive, while at t[illegible] sam[illegible] sufficiently serve the convenien[illegible] public.

It would certainly be essentia[illegible] ness of such a project, that the [illegible] bridge should be continuous an[illegible] and this would necessarily involve [illegible] quences which the Lieutenant-Govern[illegible] deprecate; but, while recognising the [illegible] to which His Honor refers, we are no[illegible] attach to them equal significance; fo[illegible] conceive of any privat[illegible] interests so [illegible] they should be held [illegible]out-weigh th[illegible] of a scheme in the [illegible]ation of whic[illegible] community is conc[illegible]l.

The contraction of the port that [illegible] the construction of a bridge at the point we propose would be more nominal than real, and, at all events, unimportant, for the very small number of vessels that are usually moored above that point, could be sufficiently accommodated below it, especially when the increased facilities are taken into account that will be secured by the Port Trust operations now in progress.

The closing of the docks above the bridge would be a matter, no doubt, for more serious consideration; but, while shipping interests would gain by the transference of the docks to a locality lower down the river, accommodation could, we presume, be provided for them without much difficulty, and on a more eligible site, from their own point of view, than they now occupy; while any money compensation to the dispossessed owners, which such arrangements might entail, would be of little consequence, as compared, for instance, with the cost only of the railway terminus in Calcutta which it would be necessary to build if the lines were brought over here.

Even if a railway bridge were decided on, we should still recommend the selection of the site we refer to; and, in that case, a road-way would, beyond doubt, prove a valuable adjunct; but we are not satisfied, for the present, of the necessity for anything more than a road bridge; and we do not, in any case, see that there is sufficient importance in the connection between the East Indian and the Eastern Bengal Railway lines, to make the question of their junction necessarily a matter for consideration in determining the point at which to bring the former into Calcutta.

We understand that engineering science could efficiently provide for the protection of a bridge in the locality we indicate, against the danger of collision with ships in the river.

From E. S. Hickie, Esq., Secretary to the Calcutta Trades' Association, to the Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(dated the 17th June 1868.)

In reference to the letter No. 865G., with papers a[illegible]g, desiring the expression of opinion [illegible]ghly bridge scheme, and the various [illegible]sted for a metropolitan system of rail[illegible] the honor to report that the Commi[illegible]ssociation have considered the various [illegible]nd regret that they cannot express a tu[illegible]rence with any of the plans suggested [illegible]y and grave reasons.

2. Th[illegible]ttee are of opinion that the recomm[illegible] of the Conference, as set forth in the me[illegible]m. of the engineers, are not conceived in [illegible]prehensive spirit which the interests of the [illegible]pub[illegible] require.

3. There are also reasons to believe that, from the constitution of the Committee, this great question has been considered more in its bearings upon railway interests, than upon the interests and convenience of the public, which, in the opinion of the Committee, should have primary consideration.

4. So far as engineering questions are concerned, it may possibly be deemed presumptuous in such a body as the Committee of the Trades' Association to offer opinions as to what may be practicable or otherwise. They therefore content themselves with the expression of a general opinion on the subject, that there is nothing in connexion with any of the proposed schemes which would necessarily require them to be abandoned as impracticable. The Committee are of opinion that the works, already accomplished by engineers in various parts of the world, are a sufficient guarantee that there is nothing physically impracticable in meeting the reasonable requirements of Calcutta.

5. In the letter from the Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department, (No. 491R., dated 25th April 1868,) it is doubted whether the Directors of the Eastern Bengal Railway will take "the narrow view" held by Mr. Prestage. Notwithstanding this opinion, it is not clear whether the "narrow view" of Mr. Prestage is not, after all, the most comprehensive scheme so far as the general interests are involved. The view taken by the Government seems to be based on the idea of smallness of outlay as a primary consideration. That of the East Indian Railway is too exclusively based on the interests of that Company as to immediate prospects, while the increasing prospective results of the scheme have been either overlooked or inadequately appreciated.

6. A goods station at Chitpore would be excessively inconvenient, being practically more distant and inaccessible than Howrah is at the present time. The difficulty of access through the miles of narrow streets between the business portion of Calcutta, the cost of cartage to and from, the construction and maintenance of roads, and the loss of time involved, representing a very large amount of capital, are objections which do not appear to have presented themselves to the Conference. This is the inconvenience represented by the goods traffic alone, but the proposal to convey all passengers to the extreme east of the city, instead of to a convenient centre, would frequently involve additional trouble and cost to passengers; and seems to the Committee as unwise as it would be inconvenient and unpopular. A glance at the map would indicate that the streams of traffic would be much more conveniently accommodated in the direction of the breadth of the city, than of its length, both in the way of facilities and in point of cost; and, further, it appears to the Committee that this course would readily admit of a convenient and even commodious central station in the very heart of the city, say between College Street and Chitpore Road. Such a course may seem almost to imply the necessity of a permanent road communication at Armenian Ghât. The Committee have duly weighed the objections to this course, both on account of the possible contraction of the port, and of the engineering difficulties to be overcome. As regards these latter, there is the assumption that they are not superior to the science of the age, and admitting this, there is a great force in the consideration of accommodating the local traffic which will inevitably be lost to the Railway Companies, if the bridge be constructed at a distance from the town.

It appears to be one great merit of Mr. Prestage's scheme that there should be accommodation for this local traffic which would undoubtedly give a fair return upon outlay which a bridge in any distant position could not possibly furnish, and if this return upon expenditure can be obtained without such an advance of rates as Mr. Prestage says would be otherwise involved, it seems desirable to secure it.

There may be a possibility of connecting the two banks of the river without contracting the port, or doing material injury to the interests involved, above Armenian Ghât.

Indeed, it appears to the Committee that a bridge is not essential to this object, which may, as has been suggested, be accomplished by a tubular sub-way with less liability to injury from storms, less obstruction to the shipping, and with more favorable gradients, and, possibly, at a smaller cost than that of the scheme which the Conference has recommended.

Even should not this be the case, there is yet one grave consideration in the public interests which never seems to have presented itself to the parties who have considered this question. It has been found almost everywhere on railway works that the cities and towns tend to the lines of rails, the exceptions being seaports, where removal is impossible. But if the river be navigable up to the site of the bridge, thither will the city tend. Trade will seek the facilities of the line, and men will of course follow the trade, involving a great depreciation of property in Calcutta.

In addition to the reason above stated, there is the sanitary view of the question to be considered, and it will be a grave error to give cause for the extension of the city eastward, the natural tendency, so far as salubrious influences are concerned, being to the westward.

Holding the opinion that any scheme not embracing the establishment of the terminus in the heart of the city, does not, to any appreciable extent, advance railway communication, the Committee would beg to recommend that calculations may be made of the relative cost of bringing the railway in from the proposed branch above Bally, as also from Armenian Ghât to a central point in the city.

The Committee of the Trades' Association conceive that this question must be viewed more comprehensively than it has been if a satisfactory result is to be obtained; the great interests of the public and the city should not be sacrificed to the fear of expenditure on the part of the Government or the animosities of rival companies.

From A. B. SHEKLETON, ESQ., Officiating Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce, to the Officiating Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(dated the 20th June 1868.)

THE Committee of the Chamber of Commerce direct me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 756G., dated the 1st ultimo, and annexures, requesting them to furnish His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor with an expression of their views on the proposals therein detailed for bridging the Hooghly.

2. Apart from all engineering and financial questions, on which they will not venture an opinion, it appears to the Committee that a bridge to be really useful to the commercial interests of Calcutta, and to benefit the increasing population, should, as nearly as possible, connect the business portion of the city, the situation of which will probably never be disturbed, with the opposite shore, so long as the limits of the port are not injuriously prescribed thereby.

3. On these considerations they recommend that a site a little above or below Hautkhola Ghât should be selected for the structure. This locality, the Committee think, will be found the most convenient for the following reasons:—

1st.—It would not interfere with the existing docks on the Howrah side of the river.

2nd.—Sufficient room would be left for the port to expand in a northerly direction; and 3rd.—It would be within the reach of cart traffic, and of the greater number of native passengers.

4. The structure should be fixed and permanent; and should combine a railway with a road bridge, and foot-paths for passengers.

5. The Committee are prepared to admit that, if the shipping got adrift, as in the cyclone of 1864, there might be considerable danger of injury to the proposed bridge, but they are credibly informed that prior to that disaster some of the port moorings had not been properly examined for eight or nine years, and that the chains were greatly worn by constant chafing for so long a period; this statement is further borne out by the fact that very few ships parted their own cables, and the Committee believe that if the moorings were thoroughly examined at short intervals, and kept in proper order, the danger to be apprehended from ships breaking adrift, and battering down the bridge, would be materially reduced.

6. The next point to be settled is where the goods and passenger termini of the railroad in connection with this bridge should be situated. The central passenger and goods terminus, the Committee are of opinion, could not be better placed than on the space between the back of Writers' Buildings and New China Bazar Street, facing Clive Street or thereabouts, in close proximity to the Custom House and Bonded Warehouse; and another goods station might be erected on the river bank at Hautkhola, near Burra Bazar, which would prove of immense convenience to the native merchants, whose godowns are principally in that portion of the city.

7. As regards the railway connecting these two stations, and also in connection with the Eastern Bengal Railway at Sealdah, its route will probably be determined by the cost of purchasing the property through which it must run; but the Committee might point out that the sanitary condition of the city would be gr[illegible]r[illegible]oved by the opening out of many of th[illegible] crowded streets in the vicinity of the [illegible]d, and that, in dealing with this ques[illegible]ght be expedient for the Government [illegible]o consideration the public health as [illegible]e public purse, and the necessity of acq[illegible]rtain property for the projected railwa[illegible] afford an opportunity of remedying the [illegible]s effects of overcrowding.

8. The Committee suggest [illegible]level line running in a curve between [illegible] stations indicated in their 6th paragra[illegible] an[illegible]d a junction line running north of Bow Bazar St[illegible]reet, uniting the Sealdah station of the Eastern [illegible] Bengal Railway with the proposed Clive Street [illegible] terminus. The arches on which these junctions [illegible] must necessarily be built might be utilized as shop[illegible]s or godowns for native traders, except where thoro[illegible]ughfares intersect.

9. That there are many practical objections to a high level line, especially where the principal traffic consists of goods, the Committee are well aware, and also that the construction of such a line involves an immense expenditure of labor as well as money. If, therefore, the Government is unwilling to entertain the idea, a low level railway worked by horse-power, as in many cities of America and elsewhere, would, the Committee think, meet all the requirements of the case.

10. A bridge across the Hooghly at Bally, or higher up, with a goods station at Chitpore outside the Circular Canal, would not meet the views of the commercial community, as the distance would only increase the difficulty now experienced in controlling shipments of merchandise to and from vessels in the port; it would seriously depreciate the valuable property of the East Indian Railway Company at Howrah; and it could scarcely benefit the general public, being out of the reach of cart and passenger traffic. Looking to the interests of the railway shareholders, and the Government as guarantor, so large a source of income as this traffic would prove ought not to be abandoned.

11. A line of railway along the portion of the Strand Bank recently reclaimed from the river (as proposed by the Conference) would seriously interfere with free access to, and communication with, the shipping. It must be borne in mind that only a small fraction of the produce received from the interior is despatched direct from the railway to ships, as most of it requires cleaning and repacking before a receipt, necessarily specifying "good condition," can be obtained; and, in like manner, most import goods primarily pass through merchants' godowns before they are sent up-country.

12. The construction of the Hooghly bridge and the lines of railroad within the precincts of the town, the Committee advise, should be entrusted to a distinct corporation, (unconnected with the proposed Board of Commissioners for the improvement of the port of Calcutta) who, with the aid of Government for the expropriation of the necessary property, and with a guaranteed interest, could raise the capital required for the project.

13. A bridge toll for foot passengers, carts and carriages, and for each railway train, according to the number of wagons daily crossing the river, might be levied; and the entire working and supervision of the bridge, and the lines in connection [illegible] ould be left to the proposed corporation.

14. T[illegible] Railway Companies would be called [illegible] an amount proportionate to the nu[illegible] gons or quantity of goods conveyed [illegible] the new extensions, each Company [illegible] additional rates for goods delivered be[illegible] r respective present lines of operation; [illegible] ges would reimburse them for their [illegible] ns to the City Railway, and would [illegible] fall on those who profit by the increased accom[illegible] mo[illegible]ation.

15. On questio[illegible] s involving so many engineering and financial c[illegible] onsiderations the Committee express their views [illegible] with some diffidence; but they are of opinion t[illegible] hat the foregoing proposals will afford the facil[illegible] ities of which the growing trade of Calcutta is [illegible] sadly in need, and, at the same time, will prov[illegible] e remunerative; they would further enable the Municipal authorities to carry out sanitary and other improvements in that portion of the city which most urgently requires them.

16. Before closing their reply, the Committee of the Chamber [illegible] desire to submit a further proposition, which [illegible] they trust will find favor with His Honor the [illegible] Lieutenant-Governor, and gain his support. In the largest cities of the world where skilled labor and the most perfect appliances are readily available [illegible] works of the nature under discussion are necessarily tedious in their accomplishment, and, therefore, Calcutta, where neither of these advantages exist, and where so many unusual difficulties present themselves, cannot expect to possess a permanent bridge over the Hooghly for some years to come. To mitigate as much as possible this ad interim inconvenience, it has been suggested that a temporary floating pontoon bridge for cart and passenger traffic should be erected between Armenian Ghât and Howrah, and a proposal for the same, which provides for the free passage of shipping has been submitted to the Chamber by Mr. B. Leslie and other engineers. As the Committee are informed that plans have been forwarded to His Honor's consideration, it will be unnecessary for them to enter into the details of the scheme, but if the promoters' ideas as to its practicability are correct the Committee heartily recommend that the concession sought for should be given.

17. This temporary bridge, it is understood, could be erected in about 18 months, and at a most moderate cost; to which, however, the Government would not be required to contribute. The advantages to commerce of so speedy a relief would be immense, and the population of Calcutta generally would derive incalculable benefit. Even after the completion of the permanent structure at Hautkhola, the Committee contemplate the continued usefulness of this connection with Howrah.

18. The accompanying sketch map will probably serve to illustrate with greater clearness the Committee's ideas as set forth in this communication.

From E. S. Hickie, Esq., Secretary, Calcutta Trades Association, to the Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(dated the 27th June 1868.)

The Committee of the Calcutta Trades' Association, since submitting their opinion on the question of the Hooghly bridge scheme, in my letter of the 16th instant, have received from Mr. W. L. Granville a design prepared by Mr. Bradford Leslie, C. E., and others, for a floating road bridge across the river Hooghly at Armenian Ghât. The design was accompanied by a printed paper and a letter explaining the project, copies of which the Committee understand have also been sent to the Government.

The Committee is anxious to see communication with Howrah accelerated, rendered more secure and less troublesome than it is at present. The whole of the traffic of a city of such a commercial character as Calcutta having to be carried across a large river in boats is, the Committee consider, an anomaly that loudly calls for correction.

The Committee, bearing in mind the agitation regarding the extension of railways into Calcutta, and the advantages which this extension would, as they conceive, yield to the public and to the railways themselves, cannot but be aware that a fixed bridge of such a character as would be required could not be built for many years even if begun at once, but as this is not likely to be the case, and considerable delay is probable, they view with favor the proposal under consideration, which will meet all the requirements of the traffic that can at present be desired.

The promoters are confident of the scheme; they ask no State guarantee of interest, and are prepared to carry out the project. The concession asked for would, the Committee imagine, only depend on the promoters being able to fulfil the conditions of affording a secure communication between Calcutta and Howrah.

The Committee therefore beg to recommend the scheme of Mr. Leslie to the earnest consideration of the Government of Bengal.

From Messrs. Lyall, Rennie & Co., Calcutta, to the Officiating Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(dated the 27th June 1868.)

We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 25th instant, referring to your public communication of 1st ultimo, forwarding copies of letters on the subject of bridging the Hooghly, and requesting the expression of our opinion thereon.

In reply to your request, we have to state that after perusal of the above-mentioned letters and due consideration of the subject, we are of opinon that, for the following reasons :—

1*st*.—The facilities and advantages it would offer the general public from its central situation;

Second—The benefit it would confer on the commercial community from its proximity to their warehouses and the Custom House, where the greatest traffic in the city is carried on;

Third.—The possibility of its early accomplishment;—

the best method of bridging the Hooghly that could be adopted would be by a pontoon bridge from the Armenian to the Railway Ghât at Howrah.

From Messrs. Gladstone, Wyllie and Co., to the Officiating Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(dated the 29th June 1868.)

We have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letters dated 1st May and 25th instant, requesting us to express our opinion on the subject of bridging the Hooghly, and regret that we have been unable to reply at an earlier date.

2. We would state, in the first place, that we are hardly in a position to judge of the merits of certain of the points at issue; those, for example, which affect the interests and rights of the Railway Companies; and that we have considered the matter mainly from a mercantile point of view, that is, in the light in which it presents itself to us as likely to affect or to subserve the commercial interests of the port.

3. And we think that of all the situations which have been suggested as suitable for the proposed bridge—the necessity for which every one, we presume, admits—none seems on the whole so little open to objection as the site a short distance above Cossipore.

4. We are fully aware that certain objections, more or less serious, attack all the sites which have been thought of, but, as already indicated, we prefer the one we have named after full and careful consideration.

5. The Armenian Ghât site unquestionably presents advantages; such, for example, as immediate proximity to the business part of Calcutta, and the facility with which, in the event of its being determined that the Railway Companies should have a central passenger terminus in or near Dalhousie Square, access could be obtained to that locality; and it is to be borne in view that a bridge at Armenian Ghât would not only immensely develope the local traffic which at present exists between Calcutta and Howrah, but would also, no doubt, create a great additional traffic which might be so worked as to afford material assistance to the plan from a pecuniary point of view.

A bridge at Chitpore might also, though probably to a lesser extent than in the case just cited, be recommended by the same considerations, but there are certain grave disadvantages in both these sites which cannot be overlooked—

1*st*.—There is the fact that unless the bridge at Armenian Ghât is an opening bridge, the present docks must necessarily be rendered entirely useless.

2*nd*.—There is the danger—both to the bridge itself and to the shipping of the port—which would arise in the case of such a cyclone as that of 1864, when a vast proportion of the shipping—all of which, it will be remembered, was driven from its moorings—went on shore on either side of the river above Armenian Ghât. This consideration appears to us to be one of enormous importance, and to form an objection which cannot be got rid of until—by the formation of wet docks, or by satisfactory demonstration that moorings, have been laid down which are capable of holding ships in any conceivable storm—all risk of such a contact between the bridge and the shipping is removed.

3*rd*.—There is also to be taken into account the curtailment of the port, which, however, seems to us a matter of minor importance, inasmuch as practically the part of the river above Armenian Ghât is seldom made use of by ships of any considerable size.

6. The Cossipore site is free from all these objections, or at least from the first and last, and in it the risk involved in the second is reduced to a minimum,—is, in fact, so far as experience goes, almost entirely obviated.

7. It seems to us that of the two railways, the East Indian is the one which will mainly benefit from the connection proposed between it and Eastern Bengal, but it is unquestionably des[illegible] in the interests of commerce [illegible] should exist; its terms, as w[illegible] ed out, we are not well quali[illegible] nion upon.

8. It is also a matter [illegible] that the goods stations of [illegible] should be in the same place, [illegible] they now exist, we do not k[illegible] commercial interests are conc[illegible] more convenient situation th[illegible] selected, unless, indeed, the [illegible] Hautkolla could be mad[illegible] available. If a convenient situation even fu[illegible]ner south, on the river bank, could be made available, it would be better than either of the localities named; but we are not aware that such a situation is, or is likely to be, within reach, and we write in view of the conditions which at present exist. A joint passenger station would, of course, be desirable and convenient, and should, we think, be as near the centre of the business part of the town as possible.

9. It will be observed that the opinions above expressed accord generally with those of the Committee appointed to consider this and cognate subjects in the beginning of 1865, of which Committee Mr. Ross, one of our partners, was a member.

From Stuart Hogg, Esq. Chairman of the Justices of the Peace, to the Officiating Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(No. 826, dated the 1st July 1868.)

Your letter No. 866G., dated 12th May 1868, on the subject of bridging the Hooghly, and the accompanying correspondence, was discussed by the Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta at a special general meeting held yesterday, and I am directed to submit, for the consideration of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor, the views of the Justices on the important question on which His Honor has requested an expression of their opinion.

2. The Justices are strongly of opinion that it is of the very greatest importance, for the interests of the inhabitants of this town and of Howrah, that direct communication should be established between Calcutta and Howrah by a bridge across the Hooghly at some central position, and therefore they do not approve of the proposal of the Conference to construct a bridge a little south of Bally. The Justices consider that no arrangement for connecting the East Indian Railway with the Eastern Bengal Railway should be adopted without at the sametime providing a road bridge across the Hooghly at or near Armenian Ghât. That this must be done some day can scarcely be doubted, but the measure will, in all probability, be greatly retarded if a bridge at Bally is built for the sole purpose of connecting the two railways, and without reference to the requirements of road traffic, and to the almost universal wish of the inhabitants of Calcutta and Howrah for a road bridge at some convenient site.

3. The Justices dissent entirely from the opinion expressed by the Committee, appointed in 1865, to consider and report on the junction of the East Indian Railw[illegible] with the Eastern Bengal Railway, namely [illegible]hat there is no real necessity for the provisio[illegible]f a direct communication by bridge between [illegible]owrah and Calcutta; the reason assigned being [illegible] that the importance of the former place is owing to its being the site of the East I[illegible]way terminal station, and therefore, [illegible]way station be removed to the Calc[illegible]he river, the idea of a bridge at Arme[illegible]ay be at once abandoned. It is, o[illegible]e that owing to the river not being [illegible]d the difficulties of crossing by boat bei[illegible]s very great, and frequently dangerous. [illegible]ic to Howrah is at present greatly im[illegible]d therefore its importance is thiefly ce[illegible] the railway station. But because, u[illegible]t time, Howrah has not progressed rapidly [illegible]g to the delay, annoyance, and apprehension [illegible]nger which must be faced before the Hooghl[illegible] can be crossed, it surely by no means follows t[illegible]at she is to continue to labor under the same dis[illegible]dvantages! On the contrary, it seems to the Jus[illegible]tices that the only argument which can fairly be [illegible] reduced from this line of reasoning is in faver [illegible] of rendering Howrah accessible by the constr[illegible]ction of a bridge, and thereby allowing her to [illegible] arrive at that importance which from her close [illegible]roximity to Calcutta she should assume.

4. The pop[illegible]tion of Calcutta, both European and Native, is [illegible]dly increasing, and the wants of the inhabita[illegible]nts must necessarily be met. Now, for persons wh[illegible]ess calls them daily to Calcutta, to re[illegible]side a[illegible]owrah is most inconvenient, but o[illegible]ce re[illegible]e the inconvenience by supplying a bridge, [illegible]d the Justices have but little doubt that, o[illegible] to the central position which Howrah enjoys with reference to the business part of the town, it will at once be resorted to by many persons of all classes.

5. The objections which have been urged against a bridge at or in the vicinity of Armenian Ghât are apparently—

1*st.*—Its limitation of the port.

2*nd.*—Its interference with the access to the Howrah graving docks.

3*rd.*—Its expense.

4*th.*—Its liability to accidents from the collision of ships breaking loose from their moorings.

It seems to the Justices that none of these objections are conclusive, and they submit that the expediency of connecting Calcutta and Howrah being admitted, the question is of such vast importance to the inhabitants of this town that the project should not be abandoned unless proved to be surrounded with insurmountable difficulties. It is not to be expected that a work of such magnitude can be undertaken and carried out without interfering with some interests both public and private; the question for decision seems to be whether the advantages to be gained do or do not counterbalance the alleged difficulties.

6. First, as regards "the limitation of the port." On this point the Justices are in a position to offer a decided opinion, as many of their number are intimately acquainted with the port of Calcutta, and are constantly in the habit of observing the extent of shipping to the north of Armenian Ghât. As far, then, as the present requirements of the port are concerned, the Justicss have no hesitation in recording their conviction that the ships which are moored north of Armenian Ghât are few in number, and altogether of an insignificant class. Should, however, the port hereafter require to be extended, there really does not seem any valid reason why the extension should not be made to the south. It may, of course, be argued that a port should be opposite to the town to which it belongs, and it must be admitted that this is the most desirable arrangement; but on the other hand it is difficult to appreciate, or even to understand, why the fact of the port being a little to the south of the town should be open to the very grave objections which are urged by some persons—certainly the objections cannot be considered to outweigh the advantages of the proposed bridge, which is sufficient for the position the Justices desire to establish.

7. The second objections, namely, "interference with the Howrah docks," appears to the Justices hardly to demand discussion. The docks are believed not to be in an efficient state of repair, and are inconveniently situated, as they can only be entered at certain times of the tide, consequently, if the construction of the bridge should lead to new docks being provided, it would be a decided benefit to ship owners. However, if it is desired not materially to interfere with the docks, the bridge has only to be made to open so as to allow ships to pass. The interruption which this would cause to traffic would be but slight, as ships would, of course, be only allowed to pass between fixed hours on certain days of the week.

8. The third objection is simply one of expense, and the Justices presume that this would apply, though perhaps in a less degree, to bridging the Hooghly at any place. It is, however, stated that to bridge the Hooghly at or near Armenian Ghât would cost far more than if a site further north were to be selected. On the other hand, it cannot be disputed that the traffic which would pass over a bridge at Armenian Ghât would be immeasureably greater thau over a bridge at a place several miles beyond the limits of Calcutta. The Justices would urge that it signifies but little what amount of capital has to be expended on the bridge, provided the profits which will accrue from the undertaking be sufficient to give a liberal return on the total cost, and they believe that no one doubts that over a combined railway and road bridge at or near Armenian Ghât there would be such a continuous stream of traffic that, in a financial point of view, the bridge could not fail to pay.

9. The fourth and last objection is the most difficult to meet, as it is founded on the apprehensions expressed by persons competent to form an opinion, that a bridge at Armenian Ghât might be damaged by ships breaking loose from their moorings. If Calcutta is destined to be visited with triennial cyclones this objection gains much force, but as the town of Calcutta will, it is hoped, be spared such periodical visitations, the Justices trust that vague fears of such a disastrous contingency may not be considered a sufficient reason for withholding from Calcutta a direct bridge communication with Howrah, as it may well be argued that if the progress of science and civilization had always been guided by a too cautious policy, engineering skill would not, up to the present time, have ascertained by practical experience that a river, such as the Hooghly, could be bridged, while the possibility of locomotion by railway, or of connecting England and India by telegraph communication, might still have remained unsolved problems.

10. But allowing that Calcutta will, in all probability, be occasionally devastated by cyclones, the Justices conceive that this contingency must inevitably result in the moorings on the river being made so secure and placed in a state of such efficiency as to render the chance of ships breaking away from them very unlikely, and consequently the anticipated damage to the bridge very remote. That it is quite possible for ships to be moored so as not to be cast adrift even by the violence of a Calcutta cyclone is indisputable from the fact that during both the late cyclones some ships remained firm to the moorings. However, it is decided that ships will always be liable to break away from their moorings during a cyclone, still it is impossible to maintain that a bridge cannot be so protected by special arrangements as to render it proof against the collision of ships running against it, or that the piers cannot be made strong enough to resist the force of ships being driven against them. In either of these cases, the bridge would not suffer, though possibly the ships driven against it might be injured more than they would be if the river had not been spanned by a bridge.

11. That the Governor General in Council does not consider the objection under consideration as at all conclusive is evident from the 2nd paragraph of the letter from the Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department, to Government of Bengal, No. 491R., dated 25th April 1868, in which it is stated, His Excellency in Council is of opinion that at present the necessity of bridging the Hooghly at Armenian Ghât does not exist, from which it is to be presumed His Excellency in Council contemplates that the necessity will probably hereafter arise, and then the work must be undertaken. What the Justices contend for, and desire to submit for the favorable consideration of Government, is, that the necessity is not prospective and uncertain, but is one that actually exists, and has long been felt by the inhabitants of Calcutta, and therefore they earnestly beg that the subject may be at once considered, and a bridge sanctioned for both road and railway traffic at or near Armenian Ghât in lieu of one at Bally.

12. In connection with this subject, the Justices desire me to state that the proposal made by Mr. Granville for a floating bridge across the Hooghly, which has, it is understood, been laid before Government, has their unqualified support as a temporary measure, pending the construction of a permanent bridge, which, even if commenced at once, will probably take eight or ten years to complete. Against this project no valid objection appears to exist, as the cost is to be paid by a Company prepared to guarantee the completion of the bridge within eighteen months, provided Government will allow them to levy tolls on the bridge for a shert term of years, at a maximum rate of one-half of the tolls charged by the existing ferries in Calcutta.

13. This proposal seems to the Justices reasonable, and therefore, on behalf of the residents of Calcutta, they commend it to the favorable consideration and support of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

From LIEUTENANT-COLONEL H. HYDE, R. E., Mint Master, Calcutta, to the Officiating Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(No. 262, dated the 10th July 1868.)

IN reply to your [illegible]ter No. 757G., dated 1st May 1868, calling fo[illegible]y opinion upon the question of a railway bri[illegible] over the Hooghly, I have the honor to forw[illegible] herewith my memorandum on the subject, date[illegible] 4th July 1868.

THE HOOGHLY [illegible]

The papers sent to me sho[illegible] proposed to throw a bridge over the [illegible]hly at a spot a little south of Bally K[illegible]

2. In considering this su[illegible]ears to be advisable—

First of all to determine t[illegible]s for building a bridge and the object to [illegible]ed.

Secondly.—To find out if th[illegible] arrangement is the best and mo[illegible]method of effecting this object.

Thirdly.—To consider [illegible] rights and interests will [illegible] public and private [illegible]fected by the proceeding.

Fourthly.—To consider how [illegible] be best carried out with as li[illegible]he main object can interests as possible. [illegible]tle injury to these

3. The object to be attain[illegible] enable the two railways, namely[illegible]ed is apparently to Railway and the Eastern Bengal R[illegible] the East Indian into Calcutta to carry goods either [illegible]ilway, running

1*st.*—Directly into or out from [illegible] houses. [illegible] the port warehouses.

2*nd.*—Directly into the pro[illegible] downs (at present located in H[illegible]e-cleaning godowns (at present located in H[illegible]holla).

3*rd.*—Directly to and fro[illegible] shipping and thus by doi[illegible] w[illegible] he side of the vention of carts and boat[illegible], to s[illegible] with the intervention of carts and boat[illegible], to s[illegible] with the inter-

1*st.*—A heavy charge [illegible]t is i[illegible]ave— goods imported from, or [illegible]rted [illegible]ncurred by all of the country averaging [illegible]annas p[illegible], the interior

2*nd.*—To save all fragile goods fr[illegible]er ton. a very rough mode of transport. [illegible]m injury by

3*rd.*—To save all loose goods from [illegible] peculation during an exposed and unsafe mode [illegible] of transit under native care.

4. Looking to the proceedings of the Committee, it does not appear how the construction of a bridge over the river Hooghly at Bally Khall with its line of railway along the Strand Bank and other arrangements can effect this.—Because—

1*st.*—The cost of the bridge must be covered by a charge on all goods crossing it into Calcutta, and this charge being equal to that of 100 miles of railway amounting to Rupees 3-12 or 60 annas per ton will exceed the present cartage charge by 300 per cent. and be prohibitory.

2ndly.—Because after this charge has been incurred on all goods, the desired object will even then not be attained, for the goods station East Indian Railway will not practically be one bit nearer to the greater part of the shipping than it is now at Howrah, and necessity for cartage and boatage will still continue.

5. The East Indian Railway passengers will certainly be brought into Calcutta, but not to a station so convenient as Armenian Ghât, and though the Eastern Bengal Railway goods station will be brought near the river, goods carried by that railway will not benefit to any useful extent by the arrangement. For there is no room on the Strand Bank for a goods station, but only for sidings to a very limited extent, and even then not close to the shipping, and carting, though for shorter distance, will practically continue, and boating will remain in its present form.

6. It seems that the main difficulty is in the present condition of the town and port which will not admit of any arrangement of the railway termini for economical delivery and receipt of goods, inasmuch as it is not possible (with one or two exceptions) under existing conditions to place the railway [illegible] direct communication with ware-hous[illegible] ships, and that therefore under ex[illegible]ions, trade cannot derive any materi[illegible] from any revision of railway termini [illegible]ation of port and system.

7. [illegible]e a railway bridge over the Hooghly [illegible] of no use, and that it with a central go[illegible]inus can only be considered satisfacto[illegible]njunction with the trade and port on [illegible] depends, and which I propose to do as f[illegible]

To enable the [illegible]ys to run to the side of the shipping and to w[illegible]re-houses it is necessary—

1st.—To arrang[illegible] the shipping in the best manner the port will [illegible]rmit for this and other practical purposes.

2nd.—To loca[illegible] and arrange ware-houses in the most conveni[illegible]t manner for trade.

3rd.—To carr[illegible]ut these arrangements so as to involve a minim[illegible] cost and a minimun charge on goods.

8.—To effect [illegible] I propose—

1st.—To thr[illegible] double bridge for road and railway over th[illegible] at Armenian Ghât with a line running ir[illegible]entral passenger station in new China Ba[illegible]tation to be on a high level with a st[illegible]les underneath so as to economise r[illegible]age road-way to start from the sa[illegible]he pla[illegible]n road level running under the lin[illegible]e of rai[illegible] by a gradual ascent to, and over the bridge [illegible]lines to rise along the strand, north and s[illegible]th from Strand Road, to the carriage roa[illegible]d over bridge with the same on the Howrah side.

2nd.—To construct wet docks in the Botanical Gardens with dry docks within them, and to provide for clean water in the docks by placing the termination of the Damooda Canal in them.

3rd.—With earth excavated from the dock to embank the Seebpore and Sumatra sands so as to give deep water for jetties and for moorings for ships alongside in the river and for docks within the embankment.

4th.—To build bonded and custom ware-houses at the docks, and to continue the line of railway from New China Bazar station after it crosses the bridge from the west end direct to the docks, and afterwards along the new embankment, to the end of the docks at Garden Reach.

5th.—To run a line from the east end of the bridge, up the Strand Bank, through Hautkholla to join the Eastern Bengal Railway with docks and New China Bazar station. This line to the high level, with high and low level sidings running into all godowns and lifts (after the plan of the East London goods lines), whenever required for goods and grain traffic, also as a low level slow speed line for goods only from the Custom House and all jetties along Strand Bank to Hautkholla, at first to join Municipal Railway, afterwards to run into Eastern Bengal junction.

9. In this scheme by the construction of the bridge at Armenian Ghât, with a railway above and a carriage road-way below, Howrah will be joined to, and become part of, Calcutta; at once a large tract of land will be available for building and trade purposes, and advantages will be given to the town that can hardly be estimated.

10. All experience goes to show that the road traffic will pay for the bridge, and that the railway will have it free, that is to say, that goods crossing it will incur no prohibitory charge.

11. The Seebpore and Sumatra embankment, economically made from dock excavation, will reclaim land that should pay for the embankment in the first place and afterwards be very remunerative for docks, &c.

12. The Botanical Gardens form about the best possible site for wet docks, and with a fresh water canal terminating in them all dock difficulties will be overcome.

13. Garden Reach will provide excellent moorings for extending the port, and the proposed line of railway will bring all ships so placed, and all ships on the Howrah side, practically closer to Calcutta than Coolie Bazar moorings now are.

14. There will be ample room for constructing proper Ware-houses and Custom Houses, Sailors' Barracks, and Mechanics' Houses at the docks and Seebpore; and the railway will place these in close communication with the business centre of the town.

15. Regarding the economy of the scheme, it seems to me that the bridge will pay itself, and that the value of the land Government now hold, and of the land to be reclaimed, will be so enhanced that those portions it may be advisable hereafter to sell or let will more than pay all compensation and go far to render the scheme economical.

16. Looking to the report of the Committee of 1865 on this subject, there appear to be four reasons urged against the scheme—

2nd.—Interference with the docks above site of bridge.

4th.—Expense of construction of bridge.

17. The first of these is of no value, because of late years very few ships, and these only occasionally and when obliged, moor above Armenian Ghât. When this small and inferior part of the port is cut off, more extended and superior accommodation will be provided below bridge.

18. The second is a matter either of finite payment in the shape of compensation and the providing of better sites which will be easily done on the cheap land below bridge or inside the docks, or by a swinging opening in the bridge which many Engineers think quite possible, but which I do not advocate; the present dry docks, being only available at spring tides to large ships, cannot be considered in any way perfect docks, and great inconvenience is often caused by ships being dependent on tide. In the proposed scheme dry docks can be made within, and entered from, the wet docks, and available for docking ships irrespective of the state of the tide. This advantage appears to be of great money value in changing the site of the docks.

19. The third is entirely an engineering question, and many Engineers consider that a bridge can be constructed so as to be secure against all such contingencies. Mr. Henfrey, in his evidence before the Committee of 1865, stated such a bridge to be hardly practicable, and that there would be danger to the iron girders from ships masts, and that ordinary traffic would not go over so high a bridge as this must necessarily be.

20. The Chamber of Commerce before the same Committee stated that a swing bridge would be inadmissible by reason of the danger to shipping from the strength of the stream; that body also brought forward the commercial failure of the Thames Tunnel to show that a high level bridge would not pay for road traffic.

21. In reply to these statements, first it is quite possible to moor ships, and they must be moored, securely even against the force of cyclones; secondly, the question of the possibility of constructing and safely securing a bridge is an engineering question that can easily be settled, but it would seem probable that when piers have been constructed to withstand the St. Lawrence ice, piers can be made to stand any thing in the Hooghly. That if piers can be made thus, girders can be protected by permament guards and other arrangements below the bridge. As to the objection to the swing bridge, ships do not and cannot move within any part of the port in strong tides and therefore would not pass the bridge under such conditions; if a swing bridge were decided on, I think that there would be no more difficulty in a ship passing through the opening than in a ship going through the dock gate, in fact far less.

22. It must be remembered that the number of ships docked is very few, and that the swing would only be opened in spring tides.

23. A swing bridge, however, would be only a makeshift, and I by no means advocate it; on the contrary, I advocate the removal of the dry docks to within the wet docks, for, irrespective of the bridge question. I consider the advantage of being able to dock a ship independent of tide and in positively still water is sufficient to warrant their removal.

24. As to the road traffic not passing over a road-way running under the railway bridge, it is not reasonable. The circumstances of the Thames Tunnel being not the same. The traffic from Wapping to Rotherhithe could not pay the cost of making proper approaches in those localities, while foot passengers were few in number and the descent to the tunnel some 60 feet. Over the Hooghly bridge the traffic will be very great, the height will not exceed 20 feet, and there is ample room for making easy approaches at very small cost.

25. The fourth is not an objection if there is any truth in the supposition that the road traffic will pay.

26. The scheme, then, that I propose will convey goods to and from the ships at a minimum railway charge over and above what at present is incurred, and will entirely save goods from the other evils incidental to transit by boat and cart. The shipping will be concentrated and practically brought much nearer the town than it at present is. All dispersed godowns in the town will be released, and trade arrangements much civilized and assisted. Docks with fresh water from the Damooda Canal will be healthy; there will be ample space for erecting Sailors' Barracks to meet Captain Taylor's objection (see Committee, 1865,) and for the erection of suitable habitable dwellings for the European population that the docks will draw about this location a great necessity in Calcutta.

27. The only private rights affected are those in the property above the bridge; these claims can be met as shown before.

28. The public rights and interests are those of the two Railway Companies, and I think that the arrangement is such as to make it equally advantageous to both interest[illegible]

29. The East Indian [illegible] will hav[illegible] passenger station in the hea[illegible] will, in the most economical [illegible] of its large goods land at H[illegible] run into the docks by a profit[illegible]

30. The Eastern Bengal R[illegible] profitable river suburban lin[illegible] grain into the cleaning depôts [illegible] thence accross the bridge in[illegible] the shipping.

31. It will also run pa[illegible] into the Central China Bazar station.

32. I have submitted the sc[illegible]me in a very hurried way, and in it there are [illegible] figures, as it is only intended to point out [illegible] direction and to elicit figures on the subject fro[illegible] more competent authorities and those possess[illegible] of more detailed information than I have.

33. There is one point, hov[illegible]r, that I would urge on Government and the [illegible]tices; it is this, that European merchants (th[illegible] many of them see and advocate sound sc[illegible] for the general good) have only a passing i[illegible] in the place, and cannot therefore be [illegible]l to look much beyond the period of th[illegible] Calcutta. The tendency then with [illegible] influential class may be to sacrifice sc[illegible] only be carried out gradually, a[illegible]t take many years to mature for those that w[illegible]ve im[illegible]mediate relief and benefit, and therefo[illegible]d most to their own immediate interests, and [illegible]ce in the question of the improvement of the port and trade arrangements of Calcutta, it become[illegible]s the special duty of Government and the Town authorities to protect the permanent interests of the port, and to see that a permanent good is not sacrified to a temporary benefit. I urge this most strongly, because all the evils of Calcutta are due to the want of design and forethought, and to expediency having been for years the principle of action.

34. The proper course is to lay out a plan and work to it gradually, giving immediate and temporary improvements as far as is consistent with the general design.

35. No one would imagine that money could now be found for this scheme or for many years, but this is no reason why this scheme should not be carried out bit by bit as is found possible to provide money, especially as every step in the design, if judiciously taken, will give relief and produce an immediate return, and I would roughly sketch out the method of procedure.

36. Accept Messrs. Leslie and Granville's Floating Bridge Scheme (which will give immediate relief for which money is ready, and which can be erected within two years) as a temporary measure only, the Company's interest to be hereafter merged into any permanent bridge when it may be found possible to erect one. The floating bridge not to form any bar to the construction of a permanent bridge, but to be removed to any eligible site hereafter.

37. A low level show goods line of railway to be laid down immediately from Custom House and Bonded Ware-house, communicating with all jetties, and all private godowns as desired on the Strand Road, and running into the Municipal Railway at Hautkholla. The Eastern Bengal and Strand Junction [illegible]lway to be constructed as soon as possible [illegible] night goods line to be carried from it over [illegible]oating bridge to Howrah.

38. [illegible] only at Garden Reach to be next [illegible] soon as it is found possible, and [illegible]rance on proper design to constru[illegible] which will allow of the constructi[illegible]nent bridge.

39. To [illegible]orary line of rail from Howrah ter[illegible] to these dry docks and to complete [illegible]s found possible hereafter.

I AM directed to [illegible]ply to your letter No. 491R. of the 25th April, [illegible]nquiring if the Lieutenant-Governor had hith[illegible]o thought proper to consult [illegible] any one so as to ascertain if, as stated by Mr. Prestage, his views in respect of a bridge over the Hooghly were shared by a portion of the public.

CHAIRMAN OF THE JUSTICES—

The Justices [illegible] dissent entirely from the opinion of the Comm[illegible]ittee. They consider a railway bridge at Bally [illegible] most undesirable, and they commend a railw[illegible]ay and road bridge at or near Armenian Ghât.

They strongly recommend for the present a floating bridge.

MASTER ATTENDANT—

This officer approves of a bridge at Bally, and says that one at Armenian Ghât is not to be thought of.

MINT MASTER—

Colonel Hyde recommends a road and railway bridge at Armenian Ghât and a passenger station for the East Indian Railway on the site of the New China Bazar; a line along the Srtand Bank and ultimately to join the Eastern Bengal Railway; a line from Howrah station to the Botanical Gardens; the conversion of these gardens into wet docks and the construction of bonded ware-houses. This scheme is roughly sketched in blue ink on the plan. The project also includes the reclamation of the Sumatra and Seebpore Sands.

SECRETARY, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE—

The Chamber of Commerce recommend a road and railway bridge at Hautkholla Ghât; a goods station at Hautkholla; a goods and passenger station at the New China Bazar; a high level line through the heart of the native city to connect these two stations, and another from China Bazar to Sealdah running north of Bow Bazar Street. This project is indicated in red on the map.

The Chamber of Commerce also strongly advocate a floating bridge.

TRADES' ASSOCIATION—

Strongly recommends a floating bridge.

MESSRS. JARDINE, SKINNER & CO.—

MESSRS. GLADSTONE, WYLLIE & CO.—

Propose a bridge at Cossipore, and a joint goods' station at Chitpore or Hautkholla.

MESSRS. GILLANDERS, ARBUTHNOT & CO.—

Think that no bridge should be put within the limits of the port. They object to Sealdah and Chitpore as station sites, but think that a site might be found on the Strand Bank.

MESSRS. LYALL, RENNIE & CO.—

Recommend a floating bridge at Armenian Ghât.

3. In dealing with these proposals, it will probably be the most convenient plan to consider those points to which there are strong objections. The Lieutenant-Governor objects to the idea of moving the East Indian Railway terminus from Howrah to Calcutta. A large sum of money has been spent on the Howrah terminus, and for about £100,000 it is probable that it could be admirably adapted for the conveniences of trade. If moved to Calcutta the terminal station would in all likelihood cost nearly a million sterling, a large portion of which being for land would have to be paid by Government, and the result would be great depreciation of the value of the property at Howrah. On the whole, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, the disadvantages of a change outweigh its advantages.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor also objects to a station at Chitpore, which would involve cutting a new street through the heart of Calcutta at enormous cost, and even then goods would have to be carted such an immense distance that the benefit of the Hooghly bridge would in a great measure be lost to the mercantile community.

5. It was at one time proposed to "mass the passenger traffic at Sealdah." To all who know the main thorougfare from the river side to Sealdah, it must be obvious that this arrangement would necessitate either a new street or doubling the width of the present street known as Bow Bazar. This proposal therefore, on account of the expense which it would entail, also appears to the Lieutenant-Governor to be objectionable.

6. The proposition of a branch line along the bank of the river, mentioned in the 6th paragraph of your letter as contemplated by the Governor General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor feels it to be his duty to state is not one which, in the interests of a large portion of the community, is free from objection. It is true that this class of line is common in American cities, and that this argument is sometimes brought forward in favor of its introduction elsewhere. But the Lieutenant-Governor doubts if the circumstances of India and America and the characters of their inhabitants are sufficiently similar to make this argument of weight in favor of the construction of such a line in Calcutta along the Strand Bank. On such a line the traffic could not fail to be very heavy, and on much of its length there would be incessant shunting, and the practical result would be that a considerable portion of the native population would be deprived of access to the river. Nor in the opinion of the Consulting Engineer, and this opinion was shared by Mr. Power, is it certain that the land which has been reclaimed by Government from the river, and which is proposed to be used for that purpose, is nearly sufficient for a terminal station.

7. Of the plans proposed.

I.—A bridge at Bally involves either—

(b.) Massing the traffic at Sealdah.
(c.) A strand bank line.

II.—A bridge at Hautkholla involves—

(f.) Two enormously expensive connecting lines between the terminus and Hautkholla and Sealdah stations.

III.—A road bridge at Armenian Ghât involves—

(g) Abandoning the docks.
(h) Increasing the harbour, if necessary, to the southwards.
(i). Providing screw moorings for the shipping.

8. All these plans necessitate expense in the taking up of land, or in paying for property which may be injured, but the last plan is that which appears to provide the greatest convenience in relation to the expenditure, and would probably also be the cheapest absolutely.

9. Colonel Hyde's letter enters fully into the question, and his projects regarding wet and dry docks the Lieutenant-Governor thinks highly deserving of consideration. His scheme includes, however, a proposal for a strand bank line and a station in Calcutta, to which His Honor's objections have already been stated. It should be noted, however, that Colonel Hyde has stated that he proposes to provide access to the river by means of light over-bridges or sub-ways opposite to the bathing ghâts, that it is contemplated to run but five trains during the day, and coal trains only during the night. And that in respect of the station no more is required than three lines and two platforms. All station business would be conducted at Howrah, the trains merely coming across to pick up, exactly as is now done at London Bridge and Cannon Street. In the matter of a bridge at Armenian Ghât, the objections to curtailment of the port would be removed by the construction of wet and dry docks in the manner proposed by Colonel Hyde, but there still remains one objection, the liability of the bridge to injury or destruction. It is true that moorings and cables may be laid down which will prevent ships generally from getting adrift in a storm, the fact having been established during the last cyclone. But this does not seem to the Lieutenant-Governor to be all that is required. Cyclones are inevitable in Calcutta, and however much the moorings may be improved, it is too much to hope that on every occasion of a cyclone bringing with it a storm-wave from the south, no vesse will break loose and be carried upwards to the bridge. In addition to improved moorings, therefore, lateral power of resistance is essential in the construction of the bridge. If by engineering appliances, and it seems hardly reasonable to doubt that this is possible, efficient protection can be given, then a road bridge at Armenian Ghât is the measure which on the whole, the Lieutenant-Governor would recommend.

10. In connection with this subject a plan for a temporary floating bridge has been brought forward for which no guarantee is asked, but only certain concessions. As a tentative measure, and one which would fill a gap until a more permanent structure is erected, the Lieutenant-Governor is well disposed to encourage it. On this point a letter will be written subsequently. The proposal has the support of Mr. Bradford Leslie, who is well known in connexion with the Eastern Bengal Railway.

From BABOO JOTENDRO M Honorary Secretary, British Indian As Secretary to the Government of Bengal ks Department,—(dated the 27th July

THE Committee of the Br Associa- tion have perused with great e public correspondence on the subje construction of a bridge over the Hoogh .

So long back as 1855, when Committee under the presidency of Captain odgers, the then Superintendent of Marine, w assembled for reporting on the subject, thi Association was called upon to answer several estions, and in reply it fully supported the ect. The Committee would re-produce the llowing extract from their answers :—

" To the first question ' to extent is the call for a bridge over the Ho y at Calcutta well grounded,' our Committe nsider, that the call for a bridge of some sort without doubt, well grounded, and that a brid vill necessarily be a great boon, and produ f much and extensive benefit to the reside th of Calcutta and the Mofussil. They cons urther, that a solid first class bridge, such the y understand to be proposed, will be viewed by a ll classes of the Native community as a great and noble work, worthy of a great and beneficent Go vernment.

" The want of safe and ready mea ns of transit between Calcutta and the opposite b nk (ranging between Sulkeah and Seebpore) has ve y long been a standing public grievance, causing amongst other evils, periodical loss of life to a fearful extent. This want has, for many years past, engaged the attention of private speculators and of public spirited persons, and it may be in the recollection of some of the members of the Bridge Committee, as well as of many of the public authorities, that in the year 1838, a project for a floating bridge was started but failed. Soon afterwards a suspension bridge was proposed, and Baboos Dwarknauth Tagore, Joykissen Mookerjee, and others volunteered liberal contributions towards that object. The previous failure, however, had thrown a damp over the question of bridging the Hooghly, the attention and interest of many of the projectors became gradually withdrawn, and, with the exception of the small and ill-provided steam ferries which have plied during the last years (the proprietors of which were, it is believed, successively losers, until the opening of the railway), the communications between the banks of the Hooghly, although an absolute want and necessary of daily life to vast numbers of people, has been left to the chance provision of poor Native boatmen, without progress or improvement of any sort, instead of advancing with, and becoming adapted to, the social and commercial advancement of the empire and specially of Calcutta.

"Railway communication has now again attracted public attention to the evil, and has created a new and increasing demand for safe and commodious means of transit that may be permanently relied on."

Nearly thirteen years have elapsed since the above was written, and the necessity for uniting Calcutta and Howrah has increased so vastly, that the Government cannot put off longer the question of bridging the Hooghly without serious public inc

IN continuation of my letter No. 1551G., dated 4th instant, I am directed to forward a copy of a letter* from the Honorar y Secretary, submitting the views of the Britis h Indian Association on the subject of a bridge over the Hooghly.

* Dated 27th July 1868

2. It will be seen th British Indian Association desire a bridge near Armenian Ghât, and are for the pres favor of a floating bridge, such as has ready been recommended.

From COLONEL C. H. DICKE NS, R. A., Secretary to the Government of India, Publ ic Works Department, to the Officiating Joint-Secret ary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Depar tment, Railway Branch,—(No. 1098R., dated the 18th September 1868.)

I AM directed to ackn owledge the receipt of your letter No. 1551G., and No. 1603G., dated, respectively, the 4th and 12th, and received on the 12th and 21st Augus t 1860, submitting, in reply to my No. 491R. of the 25th April last, papers containing the views of a portion of the mercantile community, of othe r gentlemen, and of the British Indian Associa tion, on the subject of bridging the Hooghly and stating that the Lieutenant-Governor is in favor of a road-bridge at Armenian Ghât, if b y engineering appliances efficient protection can be given to the structure, as also of a temporary fl oating bridge as a tentative measure.

2. In reply I am directed to intimate that the Government of Indi a agrees with the Lieutenant-Governor in his ob jection to a large terminal station for the East I ndian Railway in Calcutta, but does not consider that the formation of a moderate goods station at Chitpore would necessitate the cutting of a new street at any very large cost through the heart of Calcutta. On the contrary, it appear s to His Excellency in Council that the preser t street communications should suffice, at least with very moderate and inexpensive improvements.

3. Neither does it appear to the Government of India, that any fresh communications to Sealdah would be required, if the passenger station for both the East Indian and Eastern Bengal Railways were made there. The communications now are as good as those which for years have served in London.

4. Further, it still appears to the Governor General in Council, that the proposed low level line along the Strand Bank to Chitpore might be made and worked without inconvenience to the public, light over-bridges or other communications being made if necessary opposite the bathing ghâts. But if His Honor still sees objections, a plain road might be made along the river bank to Chitpore.

5. The schemes submitted with your letters under acknowledgment appear to the Governor General in Council to be objectionable, from the largeness of the outlay involved. If the promoters of such schemes would arrange satisfactorily to provide the money, the Governor General in Council would be ready to consider what encouragement the Government could properly afford to give. But in the absence of such arrangements, it appears to His Excellency in Council that to put forward such extensive proposals is only to postpone the execution of what is really moderate and practicable.

6. A railway communication across the Hooghly for the convenience of the traffic between the sea-port and the upper parts of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces appears to the Governor General in Council to be a most desirable object, and one which may be attained at a moderate co ot encumbered with the attempt to com with a road-bridge for the local traffic of the f Calcutta. A combined road and railway bri for the traffic of a large city would be especia inconvenient, though it might be very suitable r or many other purposes.

7. A road-bridge at Armenian Ghâut, restricting the port and interfer ing with property, is, in the opinion of the Gove rnor General in Council, an undertaking not to be lightly entertained in the face of so many weighty adverse-opinions, especially those of the m embers of the Committee of 1865, and Mr. Rende l. It is, moreover, one for which funds are not forthcoming as they may be for a railway bridge a t a less expensive site.

8. The proposal for a floating bridge will receive the best attention of the Government of India in connection with the records of former similar proposals, and the views of the Governor General in Council thereon will be hereafter communicated.

9. But, meanwhile, as regards the other proposals the Governor General in Council will refer the present papers to the Secretary of State, expressing his preference for the proposals approved in my letter No. 491 R. of the 25th April last, or failing then, for the construction of a railway bridge at or near Chogda on the Hooghly to join the Eastern Bengal Railway with the East Indian near Pundooa.

MILITARY. INDIA OFFICE ;
No. 301. London, 31*st August* 1868.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council.

SIR,—Some difficulty has been found in ascertaining the course adopted by the several Governments in India, with respect to the date from which the period of three (now reduced to two) years is reckoned, which an Officer is required to have served with a Regiment before entering the Staff Corps ; and it does not appear whether, in the certificate of the Commanding Officer, the commencement of this period is taken from the date of first commission, from that of joining the depôt, from the date of embarkation for the country in which the Regiment may be serving, or from that of the Officer's doing duty with his Regiment.

2. It is obviously desirable that the same rule should be applied to all such cases in future ; and it seems advisable, for the sake of uniformity, to fix the date of first commission for this purpose.

3. I have, therefore, to request that the necessary instructions may be issued to ensure the adoption of this course for the future.

Secretary and Treasurer.

Notice

Is hereby given that an application has been made under Act XXII. of 1863, for the registration of the necessary works for constructing a "Floating Road Bridge" at Calcutta, from a point on the left bank of the River Hooghly, near Armenian Ghât, to the right bank of the said River opposite the new approach to the Station of the East Indian Railway at Howrah, whereby the means of conveying traffic on, along, and across the said River, will be provided; such means being now insufficient, and additional ones being much needed, and the provision thereof being of great local and public advantage.

Water-tight iron flats or barges, each 110 feet long by 16 feet wide, will be coupled together and moored as floating piers at intervals of 100 feet, a timber superstructure being raised thereon, carrying a roadway of 40 feet in width for wheeled traffic, with two footways of 5 feet each, at an elevation of 16 feet above the water level at the ends of the Bridge, rising by easy gradients of 1 in 50 to 25 feet above the water level at the central portion, which will be horizontal for a length of 400 feet.

A minimum hea[illegible]way of 22 feet will be thus afforded in [illegible]tral portion of the Bridge, and a clear op[illegible] 42 feet between the barges for country [illegible]l times, and by removing two pairs o[illegible] clear waterway of 200 feet in width o[illegible]f considered necessary, will be obtained [illegible] passage of ships and steamers. The lan[illegible]ches will slope down to either bank of [illegible]ver by a gentle inclination, the Bridge be[illegible]nected therewith by adjusting ways 160 t[illegible], hinged at one end to the Floating Bridge, a[illegible] at the other end to the fixed abutments. Dated this 20th day of October 1868.

The mean Temperature and the mean Wet Bulb are derived from the twenty-four hourly Observations made during the day.

The Dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants.—The figures in column ten represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity.—The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the Anemometer 70 feet 10 inches, above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's Anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of Officiating Additional Secretary Mr. Bayley's letter, to the address of the Secretary, in the Home Department, No. 1503, dated the 12th May last, enquiring whether church furniture and other articles intended for religious purposes, when imported by private individuals, are to be exempted or not from the payment of customs duty.

2. In reply, I am to state that in these cases there should be no exemption from the payment of customs duties, and that in exceptional cases, where the customs charges may be reasonably defrayed by the State, a bill for such charges is to be submitted to Government after the duty has been paid.

The 21st October 1868.—The following Order of the Government of India, Military Department, is published for general information :—

MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Fort William, the 30th September 1868.

From LIEUTENANT-COLONEL P. S. LUMSDEN, Officiating Quarter-Master General, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department, Simla,—(No. 2258, dated Army Head-Quarters, Simla, the 7th July 1868.)

I AM directed by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief to submit to Government memorandum No. 2787 of 29th June 1868, from the Controller of Military Accounts.

2. As these claims, under paras. 9 and 10, Section XLVII., Bengal Military Regulations, are adjusted by local civil authorities, His Excellency thinks it would be advisable for local Governments to publish this ruling in their respective Gazettes.

Copy of a memorandum from the Controller of Military Accounts, to the Officiating Quarter-Master General, No. 2787, dated 29th June 1868.

In transmitting the enclosures of his No. 1493 of 23rd ultimo, on the subject of a claim for boat-hire for crossing the 7th Bengal Cavalry over the Jumna and Betwa Rivers, the undersigned has the honor to request that such bills may in future be returned, with instructions that they be presented to the nearest Commissariat Officer for payment, as this is the proper course.

Military Department, Fort William,—(No. 443, under date the 17th July 1868.)

Forwarded to the Controller of Military Accounts for perusal and return, with any remarks he may desire to offer.

By order,

(Signed) O. R. NEWMARCH, Cap.,

Offg. Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of India.

From COLONEL F. D. ATKINSON, Controller of Military Accounts, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department,—No. 941E., dated Calcutta, the 17th September 1868.)

IN returning the docket from the Military Department, No. 443, dated 17th July, on the subject of charges for crossing troops over rivers, I have the honor to state that paras. 9 and 10, Section XLVII. of the Military Regulations, do not provide that the cost is to be borne by the Civil Department; the Collector arranges for the service, but the charge is against the Military Department, and such charges have been paid by the Commissariat Department.

2. Under a recent decision in the Financial Department, only charges exceeding 50 Rupees, incurred by one department for another, are to be charged to the department for which the service is performed.

3. In the case of a Collector providing boats under the existing rules, the cost can be charged off at once in the Civil Accounts to debit of Military Department; or in cases when the service is performed by a Contractor, the Collector, instead of paying the amount from the Civil Funds, may send a bill to the nearest Commissariat Officer, who, if the bill is supported by the voucher prescribed in paras. 9 and 10, Section XLVII., Military Regulations, will pay the amount.

(Civil and Criminal.)

To all Zillah Judges, Judicial Commissioners, District Magistrates, and Deputy Commissioners,—(dated Calcutta, the 7th September 1868.)

There being no rules under which prisoners confined in Civil or Criminal Jails can be produced as witnesses in Civil or Criminal cases, and it being very desirable, in the interests of justice, that reasonable facilities should exist for obtaining the evidence of such persons when material to cases under trial and calculated to promote the administration of justice, the following rules on the subject are laid down by the Court, with the concurrence and at the suggestion of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal:—

1*st.*—The District Judge, either on the motion of any person interested, or on the application of any inferior Court, Civil or Criminal, may direct the attendance of any prisoner confined within the local limits of his District to give evidence in any case, Civil or Criminal.

2*nd.*—The grounds of such motion or application shall be that the prisoner sought to be produced as a witness, is a necessary witness without whose evidence the party seeking to examine him cannot safely go to trial. The Judge, before complying with the application, may require to be satisfied in such manner as he may deem proper as to the existence of such grounds.

3*rd.*—It shall not be competent to the District Judge, but it shall be competent to the High Court, on the application of the District Judge, to direct the attendance, for such purpose as aforesaid, of any prisoner confined beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Judge so applying.

4*th.*—Prisoners in Jail at a greater distance than 100 miles from the place where their evidence is required in Civil cases, whether within or without the local limits of the District, may be examined under a commission issued in accordance with the provisions of Section 175, Act VIII of 1859. Commissions under this rule may be directed to the "Officer in charge of the Jail" in which the prisoner to be examined is confined.

5*th.*—The cost of bringing up a prisoner as a witness, or of examining a prisoner under a commission, shall be paid by such party as the District Judge or the High Court respectively may direct, unless, for reasons to be recorded, the Judge shall otherwise direct a deposit to meet such cost shall be made before issue of the Judge's order.

6*th.*—It shall be competent to the District Judge to direct summonses to defendants in Civil cases who are prisoners in any Jail or Lock-up within his District to be served on such defendants within the precincts of such Jail or Lock-up, in such manner as the Lieutenant-Governor may, by his order, from time to time direct.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot, and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot; and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of Rupees 800 specified in the second of these Conditions.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date, by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertised for sale. No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1867-68, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade, will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognise any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified, that, under the 16th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand, that out of the quantities of Behar and Behares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1869, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale, within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thiry days from the publication of this notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above mentioned, the entire quaintity of about 44,915 chests of Behar and Benares as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for a quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales abovementioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French Authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment after by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Notice

Is hereby given that an application has been made under Act XXII. of 1863, for the registration of the necessary works for constructing a "Floating Road Bridge" at Calcutta, from a point on the left bank of the River Hooghly, near Armenian Ghât, to the right bank of the said River opposite the new approach to the Station of the East Indian Railway at Howrah, whereby the means of conveying traffic on, along, and across the said River, will be provided; such means being now insufficient, and additional ones being much needed, and the provision thereof being of great local and public advantage.

Water-tight iron flats or barges, each 110 feet long by 16 feet wide, will be coupled together and moored as floating piers at intervals of 100 feet, a timber superstructure being raised thereon, carrying a roadway of 40 feet in width for wheeled traffic, with two footways of 5 feet each, at an elevation of 16 feet above the water level at the ends of the Bridge, rising by easy gradients of 1 in 50 to 25 feet above the water level at the central portion, which will be horizontal for a length of 400 feet.

A minimum headway of 22 feet will be thus afforded in the central portion of the Bridge, and a clear opening of 42 feet between the barges for country craft at all times, and by removing two pairs of boats a clear waterway of 200 feet in width or more, if considered necessary, will be obtained for the passage of ships and steamers. The land approaches will slope down to either bank of the River by a gentle inclination, the Bridge being connected therewith by adjusting ways 160 feet long, hinged at one end to the Floating Bridge, and at the other end to the fixed abutments. Dated this 20th day of October 1868.

The Kols of Chota Nagpore.

From COLONEL E. T. DALTON, Commissioner of Chota Nagpore, to H. L. DAMPIER, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 167T., dated Camp Moorhoo, the 30th September 1868.)

RECENTLY one of the Calcutta papers* has given currency and support to a statement in the report of the Lutheran Mission at Ranchee for the past year, asserting that in the District of Lohardduggah great oppression is being practised by the Zemindars with the view of driving the Kols out of their possessions. That in more than sixty villages all the rice of the Native Christian Kols had been cut by the Zemindars, and no redress could be obtained; and in other cases, Native Christians were punished and imprisoned for cutting their own crops; and in consequence of all this confusion the schools under charge of the Mission had fallen off.

* The "Friend of India."

2. It is quite true that there has been for many years in Chota Nagpore very great agitation in regard to the right exercised or claimed by numerous Kols as peasant proprietors. Since the formation of the District in 1832, outsiders obtaining grants or farms from the Maharajah or other Zemindars have availed themselves of every opportunity to encroach on and absorb the tenures called Bhuinhari,—so called because held by descendants of the persons who originally cleared the land and formed the villages, and the Kols, through ignorance or timidity, seldom resorted for redress to the Courts. The agitation has now, however, assumed a different phase. Since the mutinies it has been chiefly fomented by the Native Christians. A large and influential body have combined, not to obtain redress for individual grievances; they scout with contempt the idea of being actuated by any such notions; they go in boldly to re-establish themselves and their Pagan brethren in the position that tradition describes them as holding more than seventy generations ago, when, according to the legend, they first chose a Rajah to rule over them. They claim as their own half the lands in every village. They obtained what was called an opinion of Counsel from a Native Barrister in Calcutta, which appeared to favor their wild pretensions; and armed with this, they have persuaded many of their countrymen that they had gained their cause, and only required funds to have the decree put into execution. Many of them are just now undergoing imprisonment for obtaining money under these false pretences; but there is still a body in Calcutta keeping up the delusion and exciting the mistaken commiseration and sympathy of many well disposed persons, who are deceived by their tales of oppression and their apparent piety and humility. The spirit fomented by these Native Christians has naturally given birth to greater feeling of antagonism between the petty Zemindars and farmers on one side, and the peasant proprietors and rent-payers on the other, than previously existed; and there is excitement on the question which needs careful watching, and has been anxiously watched, by the local authorities for some time.

3. Some years ago, an Officer, a native of the District, thoroughly conversant with the nature of its tenures, was specially appointed under rules sanctioned by the local Government to survey and register the Bhuinhari tenures. He was authorized to enquire into cases of dispossession within certain limits, and some progress had been made in the registration, when the Officer entrusted with it died. On the report made by me in January last, sanction has been obtained to continue the enquiry and registration; but as the rules formerly sanctioned are abrogated by the introduction of the Codes into Chota Nagpore, an Act of the Bengal Legislative Council is necessary to give the measure validity; and this is now under consideration.

4. This is the only measure that the local Officers can suggest to save the proprietary rights of the aborigines in their holdings, and I believe it will suffice to allay alarm in the minds of the great majority of the Kols; but that it will satisfy the fomenters of the movement referred to above I do not expect. They must, however, accept it as all that we can do in the matter.

5. On the appearance of the Missionary publication alluded to, I called for a return of all the cases connected with the cutting of crops and dispossession from land that had occurred in the previous year, and found, as I reported to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor in April last, that, according to the verdict and sentence of the Courts deciding them, the Christians were more frequently aggressors than aggressed.

6. I find from the records of the Lohardaggah Criminal Court that during 1867 no complaints were preferred direct by the Christians to the Police, but six complaints were preferred to the Police direct by farmers and petty proprietors against Christians for cutting dhan that did not belong to them. In one case the Christians were convicted. In the others they were acquitted, or the Plaintiffs, having been referred by the Police to the Magistrate, did not proceed.

7. Seven cases in which Christians were defendants, were instituted in the Magistrate's Court, and referred to the Police for enquiry. One case the Police reported false, and it dropped. Six cases were sent back by the Police as true; in five of these the accused Christians were convicted and sentenced. Only one case, in which a Christian was complainant, appears to have been referred for enquiry to the Police. It was reported false, and the Plaintiff did not dispute this verdict by the Police.

8. Seven cases, in which the Christians were the prosecutors, were investigated by the Magisterial authorities without reference to the Police. In five the accused were acquitted; in two the accused Brahmins, the greatest oppressors of their ryots, were convicted, imprisoned, and fined.

9. In all, or nearly all the cases in which Christians were convicted, an appeal was preferred to the Judicial Commissioner, and the order confirmed. I presume it is to these cases that the Missionary alludes when he says, that Christians who had cut their own crops were beaten and imprisoned.

10. I can only say that I have looked over the proceedings in all these cases, and consider they were properly and carefully enquired into.

11. The other charges reflecting on the administration in the Mission Report are too general to be replied to; but in a letter to my address subsequently received from the Revd. F. Batsch, Senior Missionary, he repeated the allegation that the unsettled state of the land tenure question, and, in some instances, specified oppressive conduct of the farmers or Zemindars, were the main cause of the falling off in attendance on the village schools.

12. Mr. Batsch observed that the Christians, in many instances, were completely ruined by having lost the suits they had instituted for the recovery of the lands they claimed as Bhuinhari, or in consequence of decrees against them ousting them from possession of lands, for which, on the plea that it was Bhuinhari, they had not paid rent. This is quite true; but the reverend gentleman should not assume that the decisions of the Court were wrong.

13. The specified instances of oppression are as follows :—

"The Talguri people have been stopped from ploughing their fields, it is not possible to make a school flourish under such circumstances."

As there was some difficulty in identifying this village, Mr. Batsch explained that "Talguri, where the people were not allowed to plough the fields till the 18th or 19th May, is a village one mile to the north-east of Etki, belongs to Munaram Tewaree, and a number of Native Christians under their headman, Masil Das alias Chumroo, live in it."

14. Munaram Tewaree holds heavy decrees against the ryots of this village for back rents and mesne profits. These he has been unable to execute. The Officer deputed by the Officiating Deputy Commissioner to enquire regarding the alleged interference found that the ryots were cultivating the lands, and they admitted that Munaram had not interfered with them.

15. Litigations between Munaram and his ryots, especially Chumroo and the Christian ryots, have been going on for years. A certain proportion of land was declared by the Registration Officer above referred to, to be Bhuinhari in this village; but as the Native Christians paid no attention to the award, but insisted on holding half the land in the village as such, suits were instituted against them, which they lost. Last cold weather I requested Mr. Oliphant to go to this village, and endeavour to settle matters between the ryots and the proprietor.

Mr. Oliphant says, "I found Chumroo in possession of the village, whilst the Zemindar (Munaram Tewaree) was unable to go within its limits for fear of his life except under the protection of my camp."

16. The Zemindar had applied to be put in possession, and on Chumroo being called on to shew cause against it, he said "he had got nothing to urge, and denied that the village was in his possession;" but this was manifestly false, as (says Mr Oliphant) "the whole of my camp was supplied with "russud" and coolies by him." Mr. Oliphant then pointed out what he and others were entitled to hold under the decree, and with the permission of the Zemindar offered a little more to adjust matters; but he (Chumroo) declined to receive it, saying "he and the other Christians were entitled to half the lands in the village, and that they would have that quantity or none." Mr. Oliphant on this declared the Zemindar in possession. But it is evident from Mr. Batsch's complaint, and the Officiating Deputy Commissioner's report on it, that the Christians have still got the upper land.

17. The next charge is contained in the following paragraph, which I extract from Mr. Batsch's letter :—

"Urikel is a large village, and contained till last year 100 families; but fifty families from Urikel, and many families from the villages near it, have emigrated at the close of the official year, because of the oppression they had to endure. Though the school contained twenty-two children, it was not regularly attended, and the progress was nil, as it was not to be expected otherwise."

18. The Officiating Deputy Commissioner, having received orders from me to enquire and report in regard to the alleged oppression and exodus from Urikel, replied that in the first place no complaints of oppression had been made by the ryots. Secondly, that a Native Officer of his Court, deputed by him to investigate the matter, had ascertained from the ryots that they had none of them any acts of oppression to complain of; and thirdly, that fourteen families had left the village permanently to better themselves, most of them having gone to Beru Kissulpore, the proprietor of which was offering lands rent free for a term of years, and four families had left the village temporarily in search of employment; but there were no grounds for supposing that in any instance the emigration was caused by oppression.

19. I communicated this report to Mr. Batsch, and he then obtained from his original informers, the School-Master Samuel and the elder Barnabas, a nominal list of seventy-two persons, who, they alleged, had emigrated from Urikel and adjoining villages during the past year, and I directed that the Assistant Commissioner should be sent to investigate the matter.

20. The result was, the deputation of Mr. G. T. Dalton, who, in my opinion, discharged the duty entrusted to him in a very thorough, impartial, and satisfactory manner. I append a copy of his report* which shows very clearly the nature of the grievances that the Kols have to complain about and will repay perusal. I intend to confine myself to a few extracts from the summing up of the report; the conclusions arrived at appear to me very reasonable.

Dated 4th June 1868.

21. The village of Urikel has recently undergone a change of proprietors. It was in the hands of a widow, called the Thakurani, who died ten months previous to Mr. Dalton's deputation, and the villagers, Christian and Pagan, all declared to Mr. Dalton that during her lifetime they had suffered no oppression whatever.

22. Mr. Dalton found on questioning the villagers, that of the names given by Samuel and Barnabas (who were present) a very large proportion were the names of individuals who had left the village during the Thakurani's life, when it was admitted there was no oppression, and some at so remote a period that their names were almost forgotten in the tolas they had belonged to! Some of the names could not be identified at all.

23. The conclusion Mr. Dalton arrived at was, that instead of the extent of emigration from the village being computable at 50 per cent., as shewn in Mr. Batsch's letter, it would be considerably over-rated if placed at 15 per cent.; and that though it was generally asserted that the oppression of the present rent collector had superinduced such emigration as was found to have occurred, the statements with regard to this oppression were too vague to come to any positive conclusion on. For, though rents had been raised, and service obligations increased, it did not appear on the villagers' own showing that the rents now demanded were excessive, or that they were more than the rates fixed by the Extra Assistant Commissioner, (the Registration Officer above referred to) viz., 1 Rupee per kat (about a beegah).

24. In regard to the service it was difficult to arrive at a conclusion, as no one could define precisely what he had been required to do.

25. The Native Christians admitted there had been no difference in their treatment and that of other ryots; and Mr. Dalton observes that these Native Christians are by far the most influential and prosperous portion of the community.

26. In regard to the schools, Mr. Dalton came to the conclusion that the falling off has not been owing either to emigration or to oppression.

27. Rent is generally very low in the Chota Nagpore Estate; and in all cases where it is so, it is supplemented by service obligations. These are to a certain extent regulated by custom; but the privilege is often abused. I very much doubt if the great mass of the Kol population would at once agree to pay more rent if exempted from labour. The Native Christians, however, regard it as a grievance; but whilst they complain that more work is exacted from them than they are under obligations to give, their landlords aver that the Christians never do any work at all.

28. Last cold weather I visited a colony of Native Christians and took them to task for the dilapidated condition of the house in which the school was held, and where they met for the Divine Service. They said they could not repair it; they were so harassed by the demands made on them for labour by their landlord. I told them to come to my camp where their landlord was in attendance. And when a number had assembled, I called them up singly and asked them to specify what work they had done for their landlord within the last year. Not one of them could specify a single job. The landlord declared that they would do nothing for him, nor for any body else; and pointed out with perfect truth that whilst the Pagan ryots were busy in attending to the wants of the camp and cheerfully rendering such service as was required of them, the Christians would not bear a hand.

29. It must happen that Native Christians, such as these, make themselves very obnoxious to their landlords, and it is not only native landlords that find them the most unmanageable of their people. I have no doubt that in their case the landlords will be glad enough to commute the service to an additional money payment, and I would endeavour to bring this about when they give up the extravagant idea that the fee-simple of half the country is theirs, and has been decreed to them by Mr. G. M. Tagore; but at present the party who are agitating the question will pay no attention to any re suggestion, and they influence the majority, who, but for th would be amenable enough.

30. Copies of Mr. Batsch's to in this despatch and of Mr. Dalt appended.

P. S.—Since writing the above, I have visited the scene detailed in paragraph 28, and I am happy to say that I fi relations existing between the Native Christians and their lar previously the case. They pay him more respect and have wo other ryots worked, and though they still complain that mor he is entitled to demand, they have found time to attend to t too, and appear prosperous and contented. They also attenc ments of my camp and made themselves generally useful. halt, the Native Christians from all the neighbouring villa and children, came to see me. They all had a prosperous cont them, and I never knew them so free from complaints.

From Revd. F. Batsch, Senior Missionary, Chota Nagpore Mission, to Dalton, Commissioner of the Chota Nagpore Division,—(dated Ranchee 1868.)

I have the honor to submit to you the report of the village s Mission in Zillah Lohardaggah. Only nine such schools are in existence now, na schools at Ranchee, Hattea, Etki, Bergari, Kegaro-Erzero, Kachabari, Birhu, Urikel.

The school at Ranchee is intended for the children of the lowest classes, who, on a of their poverty, cannot afford to make use of the Government English school. The teacher is a Hindoo, and teaches what the common Gurujis do, only in a better and rational manner; 39 boys, 18 of whom are Mahomedans, attend regularly. The village Ha which is held on lease by the Mission, belongs to Government. Hattea is a well-t market place, and most of its inhabitants and also all the school children are Hindoos. teacher, too, is a Hindoo Guruji of the better sort. Last year some of the boys fell ill, a one died. The parents being very superstitious removed the children from the school, and were obliged to leave the school-house and take to the verandah of a shop-keeper to go on th school there.

The school at Etki is amongst a population purely Kol, of the Urain tribe. To scho ol belong the villages Etki, Korkotola, Kundi, Tulgura and Ranikatanga, and a la num ber of children of school age are there, but only eleven attended, and even not regular There e is much distress in all the villages named, because of the dispute about the Bhuy landsw. The cases of the Christian Bhuyurs at Etki and Kurkotola are now in the Hig Court. Because of their law suits the Bhuyurs have become indebted to the Mohajuns, an should they lose their law suits, they would be wholly ruined. Kundi is ruined, also the Christian Bhuyurs at Ranikatanga. The Tulgura people have just now been stopped from ploughing their fields. It is not possible to make a school flourish under such circumstances. The Bergari School contained twenty-five children, twelve boys and thirteen girls. Formerly, when the village was in the hands of a Brahmun Ticcadar, there was then much confusion and strife there, and some of the Bhuyurs are still deep in debt on account of their lost cases of that time. The village is now managed by the Mahto and Moonda, and there exists now no strife about the fields, and all children of school age attend the school. The teacher is a hardworking and very zealous young man, and his scholars had made such progress during last year that we gladly gave him a premium of Rupees 7 and prizes to the children. Three boys and two girls were accepted for the Normal School.

The school of Kegaro with Erzero ought to contain about twenty-five children, but only sixteen attend, and not regularly. The Bhuyurs of Erzero have become ruined in the law suits of their Zemindar against them. But there is hope that matters will become better this year. A new school-house is in building at Erzero.

The school at Kachabari is in a pretty good state. Kachabari is held on lease by the Mission; all the children of the Native Christians attend, and there is hope that the Pagans too will now begin to send their children. It contained sixteen children, but only one girl was accepted for the Normal School.

The Birhu School is in the hands of an able young man, the son-in-law of the Ticca-dar of the village. The Bhuyurs here have been reduced to the state of ryots, but as the Ticcadar is a convert and church elder, there is no dispute, but order and quietude. The school contained twenty-four children and lads, most of them able to read; two boys and four girls were transferred to the Normal School.

Urikel is a large village, and contained till last year above 100 families, but fifty families from Urikel and many families from the villages near it have emigrated at the end of the official year, because of the oppression they had to endure. Though the school contained twenty-two children, it was not regularly attended, and the progress was nil, as it was not to be expected otherwise.

ra, too, contains above 100 families, but hitherto the school has not flourished. As w forty-two pupils, children and lads, it appears that there will be more s year. Last year there was no oppression in the village.

be established at Bamani and other places in Bussia, at Hulsa Murum- c. in Doesa at Koodarkon, Jingee and other places in Khookra, at and Tarup and Darighattee in Seeree, at Dorma, Maranghadda, Durhi Sonepore; but there is so much confusion and dispute in most of these rs near them about the Bhuyari fields, that it would be not at all advis- work as long as this confusion goes on.

Bhuyari question is once settled, and the Kols will have become quiet ill be the best prospect for the education of all of them. There will be ming them from ignorance and vice, and to civilize them and to make appy, and loyal people.

of the year ending 31st March 1867 a balance of Rupees 222 in diture on Government account during the past year was only 368-6, sum of Rupees 145-10 on the grant of Government for our village be able to get the whole 550, I should be able to purchase a number of rnment Depôt at Allahabad, and to begin some new schools in giving building expenditure.

Batsch, Senior Missionary, Chota Nagpore Mission, to Colonel E. T. mmissioner of the Chota Nagpore Division,—(dated Ranchee, the 19th)

In returning the letter of Lieutenant Lillingston, I beg to state that of the suits of the Native Converts Ochea, Khaja, and others at Etki, are still pending n Court.

The Converts Lobrea, Latea, and others of Ranikatanga, have lost some years ago inhari law suits, and by it are involved greatly in debt. The same is the case with verts Ladra, Tulsi, and others at Kundi. In Talguri the fields are yet unploughed. rning Urikel I have to state that I got my information from the teacher, Samuel Lako, om some Native Converts of that place. At my request the teacher Samuel Lakoo and lder Barnabas wrote down on the 16th instant the names of all heads of families, or, in e instances, adult males who have emigrated during the last year, which list I give here. (A list of 72 adult males, heads of families, follows.)—

I send the teacher Samuel Lako and the elder Barnabas from Urikel, and the Catechist bhusahay, who has recently been at Urikel, and would beg to have them examined bout migration and its causes. I mentioned it in my village school report, becau the ol there has no success.

om G. T. Dalton, Esq., Assistant Commissioner, Lohardugga, to Lieutenant E. G. Lillingston, Officiating Deputy Commissioner,—(dated Ranchee, the 4th June 1868.)

I have the honor to state that, in compliance with orders received from you, I isited the village of Urikel and made enquiries regarding the state of matters there between the Zemindar and Ticcadar, and the Bhuyurs and ryots.

2. Before proceeding to record my opinion as resulting from this investigation, I will briefly recapitulate the statements of Mr. Batsch in his letters of the 9th April 1868 and the 19th May 1868, in regard to which an enquiry was considered necessary.

3. In his first letter, Mr. Batsch states that Urikel "contained till last year above 100 families, but 50 families from Urikel and many families from the villages near it have emigrated at the end of the official year, because of the oppression they have had to endure." "The school contained twenty-two children, but was not regularly attended, and it was not to be expected otherwise."

In his second letter, Mr. Batsch particularizes and gives the names of seventy-two adult males stated to have emigrated within the last year, and here Mr. Batsch expressly alludes to the emigration as the cause of the bad success of the school.

4. Mr. Batsch's statements are based on information given him by the teacher Samuel and the elder Barnabas; I shall therefore proceed to condense the statements made by the teacher Samuel before me and to test their accuracy.

5. Samuel states that there are now twenty-three names of boy and girls on the school list, and that last year there were forty. He gives the names of twenty-four boys and girls who used to attend, but have ceased to do so; of these twenty-four, it appears on enquiry that only five have left the village with their parents, the rest are all residents up to the present time.

Samuel before me did not attempt to account for the falling off in numbers by the first of the children having emigrated with their parents. He stated that the increase in the demand for "Bent Begar's" service by the Thakoor kept the parents so constantly employed at a distance from their home, that they were obliged to leave their children in charge of their houses and cattle during their absence.

6. There is no doubt whatever that the Kols of Urikel, both Christian and Pagan, are greatly discontented with the present Thakoor's rule. They say that their rents have been doubled, and that in addition to this they are kept constantly on the way to and from Jhurriah in the performance of compulsory service to the Thakoor, which in the time of the Thakoorani they were never called upon to pay. They say they are constantly called upon to furnish wood, straw, lime, bamboos, &c., for the Thakoor's use. In addition to this, they are one and all dissatisfied with the Ticcadar.

7. It appears that the Ticcadar, who is a Brahmin, and has only held the ticca since last Cheyt, has taken into his own hands and is cultivating several pieces of the Bhuyari lands of the village. These pieces of lands were pointed out to me by their owners as I rode round the different tolas, and in no single instance did the Ticcadar deny the possession of them. He said that, being new to the village, he had asked the "Moonda Pahan" to point out the Manjhus lands, and that in some instances he had asked some of the Bhuyurs for pieces of land to cultivate, and that they had given him these pieces which they now complained of his taking "zabudusti."

8. The Ticcadar cannot produce a single villager who will bear him out in his statements. One or two of the Bhuyurs, indeed, do not deny that they consented to his taking some of their lands, but it is quite clear that their consent was given under pressure.

9. The real truth of this part of the matter is pretty clear. The Manjhus lands of the village, i. e., the lands belonging to the Zemindar, and specially reserved for the use of whatever person farms the village for the time being, have during the time of the Thakoorani been left almost entirely fallow; also they are principally situate at some small distance from the Ghassi tola, in which the Ticcadar resides.

The Ticcadar, naturally desirous of having his "bharis" under his own eyes and at an easy distance, has taken possession of several of the Bhuyari "bharis," extorting, in some instances, an unwilling consent, and in some cases dispensing with it altogether. The names of some of the Bhuyurs from whom lands have been taken in this manner are annexed in the margin.

10. The present Ticcadar having only held the ticca since Cheyt last, his behavior cannot be said to have as yet exercised any influence on the school, nor has it been the cause of any emigration. Such emigration, as has taken place, recently took place almost entirely in Magh, shortly after the death of the late Thakoorani, when the Thakoor through his Tehsildar, Gouree Sunkur, is stated to have exacted from the Bhuyurs and ryots rent at a very much higher rate than that previously paid, and also to have greatly increased the amount of "Bent Begar's" service to be rendered to the landlord. In this matter all the villagers were of one voice. I inspected the rent receipts of one man, and found that under the Thakoorani he had received yearly receipts for eight annas as rent for Bhuinhari land. Gouree Sunkur, the Tehsildar, had given this man a receipt for Rupees 10-8 as rent for Bhuyari and other lands, but the man himself, Chachea Christian, a Bhuyur, stated that he had been made to pay Rupees 20, and only received receipt for half the amount. The same statement was made by many of the Bhuyurs; in fact, there was hardly one who did not state that he had been given a receipt by Gouree Sunkur for less rent than he had been actually obliged to pay.

11. I have little doubt that during the interregnum that ensued between the death of the Thakoorani and the appointment of the Ticcadar, a good deal of oppression was practised by the Tehsildar towards the villagers of Urikel.

A good deal of light is thrown upon the aspect of the Tehsildar towards the Kols of Urikel by a letter which was laid before me by Samuel, and which appears to have been written by the Tehsildar, Gouree Sunkur, to the present Ticcadar. This letter which the Ticcadar acknowledges to be genuine, after the customary salutation, goes on to say: "I have up to the present considered you as my friend, I now see that you are not so. You have become a friend of the Kols. The last letter which I wrote to you, you read in the hearing of all the Kols, and if that letter gets to Ranchee it will be prejudicial to me. I wrote to you to send me wood, &c., for the building of my house, and you have hitherto not sent it. You should remember that your ticca is not for always." I am informed that the previous letter referred was also impounded by Samuel, to whom both letters were brought to read, and has been sent to Ranchee.

12. Before proceeding to test the accuracy of the list of emigrants furnished by the teacher Samuel and the elder Barnabas, there is one important point to be taken into consideration; and that is, that it is only ten months since the death of the late Thakoorani, and that the inhabitants of Urikel with one accord declare that in her time they enjoyed perfect freedom from oppression of any kind.

13. The list of families furnished by Samuel is stated by Mr. Batsch to be a list of such as have emigrated during the past year.

It is quite evident that any emigration which took place during the lifetime of the Thakoorani was the result, not of oppression, but of some totally different cause; probably, either poverty brought on by improvidence, and consequent debt or a desire on the part of the emigrants to better themselves elsewhere.

Now I found on questioning the villagers, that of the names given by Samuel and Barnabas a very large proportion were the names of individuals who had left the village during the Thakoorani's lifetime, and some at so remote a period that their names were almost forgotten in the tolas they had belonged to.

14. In the list given by Barnabas and Samuel to Mr. Batsch, nineteen persons are said to have emigrated from Khejur tolah, the tola in which Barnabas himself resides. Before me Barnabas could only give the names of nine men; of these, three had gone to Biru within the last year, the remaining six had left during the lifetime of the Thakoorani, and Barnabas could not remember how long ago. No Bhuyurs have left Khejur tola at all.

15. Under "Ulihathu" the names of six men are given in Mr. Batsch's list. Three of these names Barnabas stated before me that he did know as ever having belonged to Ulihathu. I questioned a man of Ulihathu, who had been for three years in Calcutta, and returned a few days before. He stated that he perceived no change in the village, and that only one or two people had left it since he had gone.

16. The principal emigration of Bhuyurs has been from Bukatola. There are about forty or fifty houses in this tola. Five or six Bhuyurs have left it in the last year, and about ten ryots; the cause of these men going is stated to have been the Tehsildar's oppression. It is, however, a significant fact that of four brothers who held between them four annas Bhuyari land, two, who are Pagans, have left the village, and the remaining two, who are Christians, have remained. The lands of the two Pagan Bhuyurs have been taken as jote by the Ticcadar with, as he declares, the consent of their brother Chachea Christian, but Chachea denies this.

17. From Ghassi tola alias Bhandar tola, only two Bhuyurs have left, and they went in Magh; their lands are in the possession of their relations. One of them, when leaving, stated his intention of returning in three or four years.

The other is gone to Biru. Of the ryots a good many are said to have gone to Biru. Putting one man's statement with another, I should say that about six or seven individuals left this tola in Magh last. From Tunri tola, a small tola of about seven houses, only one ryot has gone.

18. In Urnu tola there is only one Bhuyur and six or seven ryots. Three ryots are stated to have left in Magh on account of oppression. Of the names given in Samuel's list, one Bhangna has returned to the village, and one Bhondo left four years ago. The Bhuyur states that the lands of the ryots that have left are in his possession.

19. Jurakel was formerly a tola of Urikel, but is now under a separate illaquadar, Gujadhur Sahoo. The whole tola is in the possession of three Bhuyurs, brothers. Th state that Gujadhur Sahoo exercises great oppression and keeps the ryots constant ployed in "Bent Begar's" service. The names of seven emigrants were given; but o enquiry it appeared that several of these had not left Sonepore, and were living i close by. I found this the case in several instances, both in this tola and others. alleged to have emigrated, being only ryots and tenants at will, had moved from some other village in the vicinity and taken new jotes there.

20. The conclusion that I have arrived at then is this, that instead of the emigration from the village being computable at 50 per cent., as shewn in Mr. Batsc it would be considerably over-rated if placed at 15 per cent. of the population. of course, to emigration within the last year. That, although the cause of such en is generally stated to have been the oppression exercised by the Tehsildar, nevertheless statements with regard to this oppression as have been made are far too vague to co any positive conclusion on. Doubtless, rents have been raised and compulsory servic creased; but it does not appear on the villagers' own showing that the rents now demai are excessive, or that they are more than the rate fixed by the Extra Assistant Commissio viz., one rupee per kat. With regard to "Bent Begar's" service so universally complai of, in no one case could I get any man to particularize or state the number of times withi given period that he had been called on to perform such service.

21. Secondly, I would remark that the Christians themselves acknowledge that what oppression is practised, is practised towards Christians and Pagans equally, and without resp of creeds. Indeed the Christians in Urikel form by far the most influential and prospero portion of the community.

22. Thirdly, with regard to the school, I must give it as my fixed opinion that the fallin off has not been owing either to emigration or to oppression. I believe that for the first yea that it was established, there was a greater amount of zeal regarding it in the village, a effort was made, and children were sent by their parents regularly; but as such children grew older and fit for herding cattle or other light work, their parents considered it more profitable keep them at work at home, and so withdrew them, but did not send younger childre place.

The statistics of the school bear me out. Twenty-five children were produced of these fourteen had been more than two years (the school has only been established only less than two and more than one; and within the present year no Christians ha to the school, but it has been increased by seven Ghassi children all from one tola, young. As before remarked, the school has only lost five children by emigration. well-to-do Christian, said that when he was poor he used to send his childre had now more cattle, so he kept his sons at home to herd them. Several men did not send their children on account of the "Bent Begars" which took th from home, so they were obliged to make their children work in their absenc fallacy of this excuse by cross-examining them. No man, as far as I could ge went to Jhurriah more than once in ten days or a fortnight on their own show they went they started on one day and returned the next. So that no absent more than six days in the month, and I believe this greatly to exceed th then should they not send their children when at home?

23. Indirectly the disputes existing at Urikel may affect the school, d not affected it. They may have affected it by occupying the mind of the matters than their children's education, and making them careless of the able from the school, but they have not caused emigration to any extent who used to attend.

24. There is scarcely any land fallow in Urikel, and the general ap habitants indicates a state of considerable prosperity.

Floating Road Bridge across the Hooghly.

From WALTER L. GRANVILLE, ESQ., Architect and Civil Engineer, to the Officiating Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(dated 8th July 1868.)

AT the request of the following gentlemen, Messrs. G. Turnbull, W. Purdon, B. Leslie, F. Prestage, and W. Granville, Civil Engineers, I have the honor to forward you a few general drawings* of a design, which has been most carefully considered in all its details, for a floating road bridge across the river Hooghly, proposed to be placed at Armenian Ghat.

* 1. General Elevation
2. Transverse Section.
3. Plan of Moorings, showing shifting pontoons.

2. I annex also a statement of the general object and nature of the work it is proposed to construct, pointing out some of its advantages, and giving an outline of the terms of concession which, in consideration of their providing the said bridge, the promoters desire to solicit from Government.

3. After the very complete discussion of the subject of bridging the Hooghly, which has so recently taken place by the Chamber of Commerce, the Trades' Association, and at the meeting of the Justices of the Peace, the results of which have been already officially communicated to you, as noted in margin, it will hardly be necessary for me in this letter to point out the urgent necessity for a road bridge between Calcutta and Howrah, or allude to the many advantages which will most certainly accrue to the inhabitants of both places, if such bridge is constructed. The public is unanimous in the belief that a passenger road bridge is not only a great public necessity, as regards the mercantile interests of the town, but looking to the annual loss of life alone, common humanity demands that some safer means of transit across the river than exists at present should be speedily undertaken. The promoters of the present scheme, having been convinced of this for many years past, and some of them having for the last ten years occupied themselves with the consideration of the subject of bridging the Hooghly in all its bearings, have come to the conclusion that a railway bridge alone will not satisfy the wants of the community of Calcutta and Howrah, and as it is quite certain that a united railway and passenger bridge will cost just as much as two distinct bridges, they are convinced that the two interests should be viewed separately, and not exclusively, as has hitherto been the case, from a purely railway point of view. With this belief they confidently offer the proposed scheme as a means of giving the most speedy relief to the daily increasing wants of the public, and trust that the Government will view the matter in a favorable light.

Letter No. 826, from Stuart Hogg, Esq., Chairman of the Justices of the Peace, dated 1st July 1868.

4. The promoters consider it desirable, in case their application is favorably received, that a local Act be passed by the Bengal Council, authorizing the construction of such bridge by the promoters, such Act containing powers as to the maintenance of the bridge, its construction, preventing obstruction of the river, erection of toll-gates and houses, taking of tolls, and the usual clauses referring to works of a similar nature.

STATEMENT.

Floating Road Bridge across the River Hooghly at Calcutta.

GENERAL OBJECT.—The general object of the undertaking is to provide a means of communication for ordinary wheeled vehicles, foot passengers, cattle, &c., between Calcutta and Howrah.

NATURE OF THE WORK.—It is proposed to effect this object by means of a floating bridge designed as follows:—

Water-tight iron flats or barges, each 110 feet long by 16 feet wide, are coupled together and moored as floating piers at intervals of 100 feet. Upon these flats or barges is raised a timber superstructure carrying a road-way 40 feet wide for wheeled traffic with two foot-ways of 5 feet each, at an elevation of 16 feet above the water level at the ends of the bridge, rising by easy gradients of 1 in 50 to 25 feet above the water level at the central portion, which is horizontal for a length of 400 feet.

This affords a minimum headway of 24 feet in the central portion of the bridge, and a clear opening between the barges of 42 feet for country craft at all times

The bridge will be connected with the land approaches by means of self-adjusting ways 160 feet long, hinged at one end to the floating bridge, and at the other end to the fixed abutments.

The land approaches will slope down to the Strand road by a gentle inclination.

Accommodation for the passage of sea-going ships or steam vessels is provided by removing two pairs of boats at stated hours, leaving a clear water-way of 200 feet in width.

ADVANTAGES.—1*st.*—That it will cause less obstruction to the limits of the port northwards than any fixed structure.

2*nd.*—That it will cause less obstruction to the free flow of the tidal water.

3*rd.*—The works are extremely simple and possess great strength, and can be completed within eighteen months, and will only cost ten lakhs of Rupees.

4*th.*—No opening wider than eighty feet could be constructed in a fixed bridge, whether for ordinary traffic or railway traffic, and this width would not suffice for the passage of large ships.

PROPOSED CONCESSIONS.—1*st.*—Powers to construct, moor, and maintain such a floating bridge across the Hooghly between the end of Howrah Ghât on the west or Howrah bank of the river, and a point about 100 yards to the north of Armenian Ghât on the east or Calcutta side of the river.

2*nd.*—Powers to connect the adjusting ways and abutments of the bridge with the Howrah Ghât public road on the west side, and the Calcutta Strand road on the east side.

3*rd.*—Power to levy tolls at maximum rates, to be mutually agreed upon between the Government of Bengal and the promoters.

4*th.*—Power to arrest and detain any person trying to evade the payment of the legal toll, or otherwise defrauding or attempting to defraud the proprietors.

5th—An undertaking that the Government or local authorities shall not obstruct or close any road-ways or approaches to the bridge without the consent of the proprietors.

6th—An undertaking from the Government that the promoters of any other Company shall not, within twenty years of the date of the opening of the proposed bridge, be allowed to construct a floating road bridge within three miles of the site of the proposed bridge; also that it will not grant any more favorable concessions than those asked for to the promoters of any other bridge, or allow the proprietors of such bridge to charge higher tolls than those charged by the proposed Floating Bridge Company, also that the minimum clear opening to be given for the passage of ships by the proprietors of any other bridge shall not be less than that given by the proposed Floating Bridge Company It is not sought that the Government should be restricted from granting any concessions it may think fit to any Company intending to construct a railway bridge simply for the crossing of railway vehicles, further than that such Company should be restricted from carrying passengers across such bridge at a less fare than that charged for a journey by a railway of four miles. If a railway bridge is sanctioned to be built at any point south of Aureeatolla Ghât, the proposed Floating Bridge Company should, if it think fit, be allowed to reduce its opening for the passage of ships to the minimum opening sanctioned for the railway bridge.

WALTER L. GRANVILLE,
On behalf of Promoters.

The 8th July 1868.

From MAJOR J HOVENDEN, R E, Officiating Joint-Secretary to Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(No 1566G, dated 6th August 1866)

Letter from Mr Granville, dated 8th July 1868
1 Statement

I AM directed to forward correspondence and plans as noted in the margin, containing the details of a proposal to construct a floating bridge across the Hooghly at or close to Armenian Ghât.

2. The proposition is brought forward by Mr. Granville, and has the support of himself and four other gentlemen, Messrs. Turnbull, Purdon, Leslie, and Prestage. All these gentlemen are well known in India, the first two having been Chief Engineers of the East Indian and Eastern Bengal Railways respectively The third is the Chief Engineer of the Goalundo Extension of the Eastern Bengal Railway, and the fourth, the Agent of that Company.

3. The bridge is calculated to cost £100,000, and to require eighteen months for completion No guarantee is asked, and no aid from Government further than certain concessions, which will be found in the statement appended to Mr Granville's letter, and which will presently be considered.

4 Although the Lieutenant-Governor has doubts as to the successful working of such a bridge as that proposed, they are not founded on reasons which ought, in his Honor's opinion, to carry weight against the convictions of professional men of reputation who are prepared to undertake the scheme and spend money upon it. Assuming, therefore, that the bridge can be successfully constructed and worked in the manner suggested, it is a project which the Lieutenant-Governor considers should be encouraged.

5. The plans are not sent forward in sufficient detail to admit of any minute professional criticism, but a few points for alteration suggest themselves—that the shore girders should be inverted so as to admit of the passage of small boats close in land, that the twin barges should be placed closer together, and the bays for navigation be thus increased. The additional strength requisite for the extra length of road-way which would thus be caused might apparently be given without difficulty.

6 It is the intention to keep the bridge straight, and to provide each barge with crews for this purpose, who will adjust the mooring according to the alterations of the tides The arrangements do not appear to be such as would insure concert among 70 crews, and might probably be improved. It also appears necessary to allow some play for the curvature of the bridge which it will be impossible altogether to prevent. The centre piers might also with advantage be supplied with screw propellers and steam power

7. All these engineering points could, however, be subsequently considered. If the project meets with the general concurrence of the Government of India, it seems necessary to decide in the first instance the more immediate question of the concession which should be given to the Company who undertake it The first four concessions are, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, unobjectionable, and the 5th might be rendered so by the insertion of the words "without providing a sufficient substitute"

8. The limit proposed in the concession, the Lieutenant-Governor would reduce from 20 to 17 years, which would allow 2 years for the construction, and 15 years for the enjoyment of the tolls of the bridge, and His Honor is also of opinion that for the word "construct," "open" should be substituted before "floating bridge." But this substitution does not seem to be of great importance, as it is not probable that a second road-bridge will be required in so short a time as 17 years

9 The Lieutenant-Governor also thinks that a clause should be inserted, giving to Government the power of purchasing the bridge, if necessary, on equitable terms.

From COLONEL C H DICKENS, R A, Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department, to the Officiating Joint Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(No 1183R, dated 6th October 1868)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1566G, dated the 6th August 1868, with correspondence and plans, containing the details of a proposal by Messrs. Walter Granville and others to construct a floating road bridge across the Hooghly at or close to Armenian Ghât.

2. It appears to the Government of India that the proper course for the Government to pursue in respect to this project is to take it up under Act XXII of 1863, and to cause a preliminary investigation to be made under Section 13 By this means all objections, if there be any, of the marine authorities or dock owners, or those interested in the shipping, will be ascertained, and data will be obtained for settling the terms to be made with the company if the scheme is approved, and if it be determined that it should be entrusted to a private company.

3. This Act will give all the needful powers for levying tolls, &c., and provides for a special agreement with the Government in which may be inserted any conditions thought proper for securing the convenience of the port.

4. At the same time the propriety of making the concessions required to any private body seems open to question, especially as the sum of money involved is not so large as to make it an object to the Government to obtain funds in that way. I am to request, therefore, that the point, whether it will be proper that the bridge should be undertaken by the Government or by a company, may with others be referred to the Commission which may be convened to report on the subject under Act XXII. It will be remembered that it is open to the Government under the Act to adopt any course it pleases after obtaining the report.

5. A precis drawn up in this Office from old proceedings on projects for floating bridges is enclosed for information.

Floating Bridges over the River Hooghly at Calcutta.

The following note has been prepared at the request of Captain Williams, with the view of showing what has been proposed previously to this time with reference to floating bridges over the Hooghly, and what was the nature of the objections raised against such proposals.

Consultation, 11th May 1855, No. 18.

In October 1854, the Government of Bengal submitted to the Government of India, in the Home Department, two projects for floating bridges over the Hooghly at Calcutta.

One by Captains Dicey and Hill, 1st and 2nd Assistant Master Attendants, was for a bridge between Hatkola Ghât and Sulkeea Ghât.

Consultation, 11th May 1855, Nos. 20 to 22.

The description of that bridge is very meagre, but it was to consist of pontoons supporting a road-way 24′ wide, the clear space between the pontoons being 30′ and the clear height under the bridge 12′. The cost was estimated at Rupees 15,35,000.

Letter to Bengal, No. 4851, dated 14th September 1854.
Consultation, 11th May 1855, No. 19.

The Master Attendant, in forwarding the project to the Bengal Government, remarked that a bridge of boats below the docks (the site proposed by Captains Dicey and Hill was above the docks) would greatly affect the interests both of the shipping and the dock owners.

The Chief Engineer (Colonel Goodwyn), to whom the project was forwarded for report, objected to the width of road-way, and thought that two carriage ways, each 12′ wide, 2 pathways, each 5′ wide, or 35′ width in all, including space for railing would be necessary.

He thought the space between the pontoons too great, as each road-way girder should, in his opinion, rest on 3 boats.

He objected to the small height of 12′ allowed under the road-way, remarking that though at the site proposed no large ships would require to pass, "yet there are up-country steamers and country craft whose sterns and rudders are from 15 to 25′ above the water."

It was essentially necessary, he thought, that such craft should be able to pass as all times if the bridge were to be placed, as proposed, above the Burra Bazar, so that there might be no obstacle to the traffic from the north through the Bhageerutty, and from the east through the Circular Canals to the ghats of this Bazar.

Letter from Chief Engineer to Bengal, No. 2220, dated 18th October 1854.
Consultation, 11th May 1855, No. 23.

The bridge might, he suggested, be placed below the Bazar at Howrah Ghât, and opened once in each tide for ships to pass to and from the docks.

Much railway traffic would, he thought, be lost by placing the bridge so high up as Hatkola Ghât.

Letter and Estimate from Chief Engineer, No 2219, dated 18th October 1254.
Consultation, 11th May 1855, No. 24.

Colonel Goodwyn at the same time forwarded a project of his own, which was the second of those sent to the Government of India, as noted above.

His bridge was to be between the floating piers of the East Indian Railway at Howrah, and had 12½′ clear under the road-way.

The boats were to be moored separately by two 1½″ chain cables fore and aft with anchors, and the boats were connected with each other by horizontal chains passing diagonally under the girders.

The clear space between the boats was 15′ and two openings for 100′ each were arranged for, for the passages of large ships. The cost was estimated in detail at Rupees 9,65,574, exclusive of the East Indian Railway floating piers, which cost Rupees 3,33,415, but the only tenders he obtained were two lakhs in excess of this.

Consultation, 11th May 1855, No. 25.

All these papers were forwarded to the Consulting Engineer for report in November 1854.

Consultation, 11th May 1855, No 26, under date 15th December 1854.

Colonel Baker, the Consulting Engineer, sent in a report in the following month, in which, instead of confining himself to the consideration of the project sent, he reviewed the whole subject of bridging the Hooghly in a full and complete manner.

With reference to a floating bridge opposite the Howrah Ghat, he remarked that it would interfere with navigation more than a permanent bridge with a provision for passing large vessels, as no floating bridge could be sufficiently raised to pass even large boats.

If opened frequently, road traffic would be much interrupted, and river traffic still not conveniently provided for.

Undulations of the platform in high winds would render the bridge unsafe for horsed vehicles, and storms would occasionally damage the structure, and so would ships passing through.

Above the shipping a bridge would interfere less with river traffic,* but it would still have to be opened daily for the passage of large boats. It would not be so exposed to danger from storms, but it would be of little use to the Railway.

* Colonel Goodwyn, it will be observed, has a different opinion.

Colonel Baker, with reference to a permanent bridge with a draw-bridge for passing ships, remarked that the bridge must be opened twice a day, for ascending and descending ships would require different conditions of tide, and the times of these obstructions would vary daily, irrespective of Railway time tables. This remark would of course apply equally to a boat-bridge at Howrah, or anywhere below the docks, or indeed in all situations, as, wherever placed, a floating bridge would have to be opened for the passage of large country boats.

He then considers the two projects submitted.

In Colonel Goodwyn's project he notices the large establishment which would be required for adjusting the cables at the rises and falls of the tides, each boat being moored separately. In the other preject the boat cables are attached to longiudinal mooring chains which would render the operation more easy, but this system could not be followed so far down as Howrah Ghât, as ships pass up and down dragging their anchors.

He also considered 100′ too little for the width of the opening.

In the other project he only criticises one or two points of detail.

About the same time that this correspondence was going on, the Court of Directors transmitted a report by Mr Rendel on the general question of bridging the Hooghly, including a criticism of Colonel Goodwyn's design for a suspension bridge on the Resultant Tension principle.

Despatch No. 77, dated 18th October 1854.

Rendel observed that it would be only in the event for borings and surveys, undertaken with reference to a permanent bridge proving very unfavorable that he would recommend a floating bridge.

He estimated the cost of such a bridge "in duplicate*" at £50,000, and the annual cost of maintenance at £3,000.

* These are the words used, but I don't know what is meant.

Such a bridge must, he considered, equally with a permanent bridge, be placed above the anchorage ground of ships.

This despatch was forwarded to the Government of Bengal and the Consulting Engineer for report.

Consultation, 15th December 1854. Nos 5 & 6, and 19th Jany, 1855, Nos. 112 & 13.

The report of the Consulting Engineer was followed by minutes on the general question by all the members of Government, but the general impression being that the choice lay between a steam ferry and a permanent bridge either at Howrah Ghât or higher up, the subject of a floating bridge was scarcely touched upon. The question was finally referred to a Committee consisting of Captain Rogers, Superintendent of Marine, Captain Yule, and Mr. Robinson.

Consultation, 11th May 1865, Nos. 27 to 38.

The Committee dispose of a boat bridge at Howrah in a very few words They remark in para. 27 of Report that they are very reluctant to give up the idea of such a bridge, as being in their opinion the only kind that ever seriously had a chance of ever being constructed at Howrah, but they failed to satisfy themselves that the objections raised by Colonel Baker, and referred to above, could be fairly met.

See Consultation, 13th April 1860, No. 5, or page 13 of enclosures to despatch to Secretary of State, (Railway) No. 15 of 1860, dated 28th March.

The majority of this Committee was in favor of constructing a railway bridge over the river at Pultah Ghât or thereabout. A similar proposition was about the same time started by Mr. Turnbull, and the Government of India appeared to think this the best way of disposing of the question, and so reported to the Secretary of State, adding—

"The project of bridging the river at Calcutta was never, in our opinion, a substantial one, and should, we think, be finally dropped. Such is also the opinion of the Right Hon'ble the Governor-General."

Since then the question of a floating bridge does not appear to have been discussed.

Amongst the papers received by me is another project dated 2nd March 1857, by Captains Dicey and Hill, for a floating bridge at Howrah Ghât, which appears to be a modification of that previously submitted. I cannot, however, find that it was officially received here. No great details of this are given, but there is a small lithographed plan which gives some idea of the general nature of the proposal.

The estimate for this was 12½ lakhs, and maintenance at £1,200 a year.

The method of mooring being the same as that proposed in their other project, is open to the objection raised by Colonel Baker with respect to the practice of ships dragging the anchors in passing up or down.

From MAJOR J HOVENDON, R. E., Officiating Joint-Secretary to Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(No. 2003G. dated the 14th October 1868.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1183R, dated 6th instant, on the subject of the proposed floating road bridge across the Hooghly at Armenian Ghat, and in reply to state, that the instructions therein conveyed will be duly acted on, and a report submitted to the Government of India.

From MAJOR J. HOVENDEN, R. E., Officiating Joint-Secretary to Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch, to W. L. GRANVILLE, Esq., C. E.,—(No. 2004G., dated the 14th October 1868.)

IN reply to your letter dated 8th July last, I am directed to forward the accompanying copy of a letter* from the Secretary to the Government of India, in the Public Works Department, on the subject of the proposed floating road bridge across the Hooghly at or close to Armenian Ghat, and to invite your attention to Sections 4 and 9 of Act XXII of 1863, which prescribe the first steps which it will be necessary for the promoters of the project to take.

* No. 1183R, dated 6th October.

2. As soon as a preliminary application, in accordance with the provisions of Section 4, has been made in writing, and published in accordance with the provisions of Section 9 of the Act, the Lieutenant-Governor will be prepared to appoint a Commission, under Section 13 of the Act, to enquire and report on the project.

NOTIFICATION.

The 27th October 1868.—It is hereby notified that his Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India in Council has, at the suggestion of the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, resolved upon the establishment of nine Scholarships tenable in England, of which two have been allotted to the Lower Provinces of the Bengal Presidency, to be held by Natives of India desirous of qualifying themselves for any of the liberal professions, or for the Civil and other Services in this country. The terms on which these Scholarships will be are fully explained in the correspondence on the subject, published in the Supplement to this Gazette.

2. In furtherance of the objects therein set forth, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to direct that all candidates for the Scholarship open to public competition should send in their names to the Director of Public Instruction not later than the 1st December 1868, with a certificate of good character, and of their age not exceeding 21 years, signed by the Head Master of the School or College at which they may have been educated. It should also be stated whether they have passed the Entrance Examination and the First Examination in Arts.

The 15th October 1868.—The following Resolution of the Government of India, in the Home Department, is published for general information :—

Home Department Resolution Nos. 233-237 dated the 20th April 1868, on the subject of Ecclesiastical fees in India.

From Lord Bishop of Calcutta, dated 23rd April.

From Govt. of the N. W. Provinces, No. 2005, dated 30th April.
„ „ Punjab, No. 1284, dated 6th May.

RESOLUTION.—In April last a proposition, submitted by the Archdeacon of Calcutta, for establishing a system of fees for brick-lined graves in burial grounds, drew the attention of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council to the general question of Ecclesiastical fees, and it was considered desirable to introduce a uniform scale in the three dioceses in India. The Local Governments and Ecclesiastical Authorities were accordingly invited to give their opinion on the following proposals :—

I.—To abolish all fees for performance of the rite of baptism or burial, and on all registrations of these offices.

II.—To establish a uniform scale of payment for searching registers, and making copies thereof.

III.—To charge for burials the actual cost of preparing the grave, and on masonry graves, a special fee for keeping the burial ground in order: this special fee might, perhaps, be still further restricted to cases in which a monument other than a simple head-stone was erected.

IV.—To make the charge for a faculty to erect a monument in a church uniformly Rs. 50, to be spent in charity.

V.—To abolish all fees in erecting monuments in the Mofussil, unless for the purpose noted in Rule III., where such fees are now levied in the Presidency towns, any sum taken beyond that necessary for the purpose indicated in the latter part of Rule III., might be expended for charitable purposes.

2. All the authorities consulted agree in thinking that no fee should be levied for the performance of the rite of baptism or burial, except that the Bombay Government would allow a small fee when a church is specially opened for a baptism; and the Government of Madras is of opinion that, in order to compensate the Chaplains for loss of income owing to the abolition of these fees, the sums levied on the erection of monuments in churches and burial grounds should be assigned to them.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal does not think any compensation necessary on account of the loss of these fees, as they have only been levied in the Presidency towns, and as it is in contemplation to provide houses for the Presidency Chaplains, His Excellency the Governor General in Council concurs in the Lieutenant-Governor's view. It is, moreover, probable that if houses are given to Chaplains in Calcutta, a similar concession will have to be made to the Chaplains in the other Presidency towns. His Excellency in Council, therefore, thinks that no compensation will be necessary anywhere, and directs the abolition of the levy of fees on baptisms and burials.

4. As to marriage fees, the only alteration proposed was, that it should be laid down as a rule that no fee should be charged for a marriage after publication of banns. All the Local Governments and Ecclesiastical Authorities agree with this proposal. The Bishop of Calcutta, however, proposes to charge a fee of Rs. 10 in addition to the fee for Surrogate's license, on all marriages by license except military marriages. He also proposes that the fee for the Surrogate's license should be fixed at Rs. 50 for the whole diocese. His Excellency in Council does not see any objection to either of these proposals, but directs that the sum of Rs. 10 should be fixed as the maximum rate of the proposed additional fee.

5. The proposal for the establishment of a uniform scale of payment for searching registers and making copies thereof, is approved by all the authorities consulted. His Excellency in Council accordingly directs that the fee authorized by Act V. of 1865, for searching registers kept under that Act, viz., one Rupee for the first year,* and four annas for every additional year over which the search may extend, and one Rupee for the certificater may be adopted as the general sanctioned rate for all certificates: soldiers, sailors, and non-commissioned and petty officers being, as heretofore, exempted from payment. His Excellency in Council further directs that the fees under this head should be assigned to the clerk.

* i. e., any one year designated by the applicant.

6. It is agreed on all hands, that the charge for masonry graves should be fixed independent of the actual charge for making a grave. The Governor General in Council is of opinion that one Rupee for every square foot of ground occupied by the grave will not be excessive, no fraction under half a foot being charged for, and would fix this rate for adoption in all the dioceses in India.

7. It was proposed that the fees levied on masonry graves should be spent in keeping the burial ground in order. An exception must be made to this rule as regards Calcutta and the city of Bombay, where the fees go to re-pay Government the cost of buying the ground, but in this instance the Government will pay for keeping the burial ground in order from the general revenues.

8. As to the charge for making graves, it is clear that no limit, unless one for the most part needlessly high, can be fixed. The matter may be left, as at present, to be locally settled by the Undertakers or the Sextons, but no fees should be charged as are now charged at Bombay.

9. It now remains to decide the question of fees on monuments in churches and burial grounds. In burial grounds, a fee of double the sum placed on a masonry grave may, as suggested by the Bishop of Calcutta, be levied. This should be credited to the fund for keeping up the burial ground. If there is any excess, the Chaplain may spend it in charity. In Calcutta (and at the other Presidency towns if it be found requisite), the fee should be credited to Government, until outlay in buying the ground is repaid.

10. As regards monuments in churches, His Excellency in Council observes that Lords Dalhousie and Canning fixed the fee for a faculty in the Calcutta diocese at Rs. 50, to be spent in charity. The Registrar of that diocese is, however, in the habit of charging Rs. 50 in the case of non-Government churches, and appropriating the amount to himself. This was certainly never contemplated by the Government, and hereafter, on another incumbency, should not be allowed. It is true the Government has nothing to do with private churches, but the Registrar is a Government servant, and it is evident from the tone of the old correspondence that it was never understood that this source of income remained to him.

11. The Madras Government suggests that the fee for monuments in churches, which is now Rs. 175, should be reduced to Rupees 75, and given to the Chaplain. In Bombay the fee is Rupees 50, and it is proposed to increase it. In that Presidency, the Chaplains in the Presidency town get some portion of the fees, and in the Mofussil a quarter of the fees. The Registrar of the diocese also gets a share. The Local Government, therefore, proposes that compensation should be given to the Presidency Chaplains and the Registrar.

12. His Excellency the Govennor General in Council would settle this point by assimilating the practice both at Madras and Bombay to the Bengal practice, if residences be provided for the Presidency Chaplains at those places. The Registrar at Bombay may continue to draw his share of the fees, but on a vacancy occurring in the appointment, the practice should cease. The amount of the fee may be fixed at Rs. 75 for the three dioceses.

READ—

A docket from the Government of Bengal, No. 3850, dated 22nd September 1868, reporting, with reference to an enquiry, whether the transfer of a Sub-Assistant Surgeon to the rank of an Uncovenanted Medical Officer involves the loss of his services in the former appointment as counting towards pension and leave, that it was never intended that the Officer should forfeit the privileges as to pension and leave which under the rules, he might have already acquired while serving as a Sub-Assistant Surgeon, excepting only that the previous service will not count towards the periodical increments to his salary.

The undermentioned correspondence regarding the allowances of Military Officers in staff employ during absence on preparatory leave:—

From the Accountant-General, Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department,—(No. 1702E, dated the 9th September 1868.)

I HAVE the honor, by direction of the Accountant-General, to observe that the new rules for the grant of leave to Military Officers are silent as to the rate of allowance to be paid to Officers on preparatory leave under Section XVIII; considering, however, that that description of leave is analogous to general leave taken in India, this Office has in three cases passed to Officers proceeding on the former leave full Military pay and allowances and half staff salary, I am to beg the favor of being informed whether this procedure has the sanction of Government.

ORDERED, that the abovementioned correspondence be published in the Gazette of India, and communicated to the Comptroller-General of Accounts, the Accountants-General in Madras, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and British Burmah; and to the Deputy Accountants-General in the Central Provinces, Hyderabad, and Mysore.

Circular Order by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

No. 5A.

CIRCULAR ORDER TO MAGISTRATES.

CRIMINAL SIDE.

THE Court having had under consideration the result of trials and preliminary inquiries before the Magistrates in 1867, as shown in the annexed Table, promulgate the following general rule upon the subject:—

Every Magistrate, who is authorized to receive complaints, is enjoined to comply strictly with the provisions of Sections 66 and 67 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

The examination of the complainant is not to be a mere form, but an intelligent inquiry into the subject-matter of the complaint, carried far enough to enable the Magistrate to exercise his judgment as to whether there is or is not sufficient ground for proceeding.

Where it appears to the Magistrate that there is sufficient ground for proceeding, he is to issue his summons, or in certain cases his warrant, for the appearance of the accused before the Magistrate himself or before some other Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case. Where, in the judgment of the Magistrate there is no sufficient ground for proceeding, he is to dismiss the complaint.

The examination of the complainant is to be upon oath or solemn affirmation, and is to be taken by the Magistrate himself.

The order upon such examination for the issue of warrant or summons, or for dismissing the complaints, shall be in the hand-writing of the Magistrate himself.

The provisions of Section 180 should be resorted to in cases of doubt, in respect of the offences to which this Section applies. When a Magistrate directs a previous enquiry to be made into the truth of a complaint, under the provisions of Section 180, he should fix a day for the further appearance of the complainant, and for taking into consideration the report of the officer directed to make such enquiry, with a view to the issue of process, or otherwise, as the Magistrate may find proper.

Complaints should be received at a fixed hour each day, and should be immediately numbered in the order of their receipt. They should then be enterered in a book to be kept in the form annexed. This book should be kept under the special control of the Magistrate himself.

It will be the duty of the Magistrate of the District to take care that these rules are exactly observed by all Magistrates within the district who receive complaints, and he should impress it upon his subordinates that the object in view is not to secure a certain proportion between acquittals and convictions. That is merely a result which may suggest a necessity for inquiry. The real object of the rules is to ensure that no person shall be compelled to appear before a Magistrate to answer to a criminal charge, unless a Magistrate has first satisfied himself that there is reason for proceeding against such person.

The very knowledge that the complainant will be at once brought face to face with the Magistrate, and that his examination will be a reality, may be fairly expected to have the effect of keeping out of Court many false and some exaggerated complaints, and the examination itself will shew the slight foundation on which many charges rest.

In cases where the Magistrate may have a suspicion that the charge is false or vexatious, but the suspicion is not sufficiently strong to justify him in withholding process, he may fairly warn the complainant of the risk which he runs of being prosecuted for a false complaint or of being ordered to pay something to the accused by way of amends. But he will, of course, be careful not to do so in such a manner as to deter honest complainants.

It will be the duty of the Sessions Judge, whenever he has reason to believe that proper care, as to the issuing of process, has not been exercised by his subordinates, to enquire how far the rules above laid down have been observed and carried out.

By Order of the High Court,

(Sd.) C. D. FIELD,
Registrar.

HIGH COURT, ORIGINAL JURISDICTION;
Registrar's Office, Calcutta,
The 29th October 1868.

Notice

Is hereby given that an application has been made under Act XXII. of 1863, for the registration of the necessary works for constructing a "Floating Road Bridge" at Calcutta, from a point on the left bank of the River Hooghly, near Armenian Ghât, to the right bank of the said River opposite the new approach to the Station of the East Indian Railway at Howrah, whereby the means of conveying traffic on, along, and across the said River, will be provided; such means being now insufficient, and additional ones being much needed, and the provision thereof being of great local and public advantage.

Water-tight iron flats or barges, each 110 feet long by 16 feet wide, will be coupled together and moored as floating piers at intervals of 100 feet, a timber superstructure being raised thereon, carrying a roadway of 40 feet in width for wheeled traffic, with two footways of 5 feet each, at an elevation of 16 feet above the water level at the ends of the Bridge, rising by easy gradients of 1 in 50 to 25 feet above the water level at the central portion, which will be horizontal for a length of 400 feet.

A minimum headway of 22 feet will be thus afforded in the central portion of the Bridge, and a clear opening of 42 feet between the barges for country craft at all times, and by removing two pairs of boats a clear waterway of 200 feet in width or more, if considered necessary, will be obtained for the passage of ships and steamers. The land approaches will slope down to either bank of the River by a gentle inclination, the Bridge being connected therewith by adjusting ways 160 feet long, hinged at one end to the Floating Bridge, and at the other end to the fixed abutments. Dated this 20th day of October 1868.

Scholarships to be held in England by Natives of India.

From E. C. BAYLEY, ESQ., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. $\frac{39}{360}$, dated Simla, the 30th June 1868.)

I AM directed to forward the accompanying copy of a Resolution proposing to place a certain number of scholarships at the disposal of the different Local Governments and Administrations, for the purpose of being bestowed upon Natives of India on condition of their residing in Great Britain and studying for the various learned professions, or for the Civil and other services in this country.

2. In forwarding this Resolution, I am directed to state that the Governor General in Council will be glad to have, at an early date, the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor of the scheme generally, and any suggestions which he may wish to offer as to the best method of carrying out the measure.

3. The Secretary of State will be addressed with a view to suitable arrangements being made for the reception and supervision of the young men on their arrival in England.

4. With regard to the Scholars to be selected by competition, I am to add that it will probably be expedient to make use of the machinery of existing Educational Institutions. It might, for instance, be a good plan to offer the scholarships to the first class of those who pass their first examination in Arts, in order of merit, provided they are otherwise capable of fulfilling the conditions.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, Home Department, No. 360, (Education), dated the 30th June 1868.

READ the following RESOLUTION.

The Governor General in Council having considered the question of encouraging Natives of India to proceed to England for the purpose of their education and of their being trained for the learned professions or for the Civil and other services in this country, believes that this most important object would be facilitated by creating a certain number of Scholarships, to be held on condition of a residence in Great Britain.

His Excellency in Council proposes that nine such scholarships shall, until further notice, be yearly given by the Local Governments and Administrations, in the proportions marginally noted, and under the following conditions:

Madras	2
Bombay	2
Lower Bengal	2
N. W. Provinces	1
Oude & Central Provinces alternately	1

Each scholarship woud entitle the holder to an allowance of £200 per annum, payable from the date of his arrival in England, and would be tenable for three years. No candidate should be less than 16 or more than 20 years of age. Each candidate to whom a scholarship should be awarded, would be required to proceed to England within a reasonable period from the date of his nomination, and to reside there for a period of three years, unless compelled to return sooner by ill-health.

Each scholar would receive the sum of £150 for passage money and out-fit on leaving India, and a similar sum payable within one month before his actual return to India, if he should complete the full period of three years residence, or be compelled by sickness to return before the completion of such period.

It is intended to reserve to the scholars the power of selecting, once for all, the course of study to be followed by them in Great Britain. Each scholar would be required to bind himself by a written engagement to submit to such Regulations as may from time to time be framed by the Secretary of State for India for the guidance of the scholars, in respect of the Educational Institutions in connection with which their studies are to be pursued, and in respect of the manner in which they are to be connected with such institutions.

The object of the Government in creating these scholarships is not only to afford to the students facilities for obtaining a University degree, or passing the competitive examination for admission into the Indian Civil Service, but also to enable them to pursue the study of the Law, Medicine, or Civil Engineering, and otherwise to qualify themselves for the exercise of a liberal Every scholar who, not being disabled by sickness, failed to complete a residence of three years in Great Britain, or who might be guilty of gross misconduct, or disregard of the rules prescribed for his guidance, would, at the discretion of Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, forfeit his scholarship, and further be liable to refund the sum of £150 drawn by him as out-fit and passage money.

The Governor General in Council is of opinion that, considering the present state of education in India and the general condition of the people, it is not advisable to award the scholarships wholly upon the principle of open competition.

It is of great social and political importance to give to the sons of native gentlemen of rank and position a larger share of the advantages now offered than they would be likely to obtain under such a system.

In Madras, Bombay, and Lower Bengal, one Scholarship would be annually awarded on the principle of competition. For the remaining six Scholarships the Local Governments and Administrations would nominate persons whom they may consider to be duly qualified. In both cases the awards would be made under regulations to be framed by the Local Governments with the approval of the Governor General in Council. No one should be selected who is not of ascertained good moral character, and who does not appear to be physically capable of undergoing the course of life and study which he will have to follow in Europe.

It would in every case be an indispensable condition that the selected candidate should be a good English scholar, able to read, write, and speak the English language with fluency and accuracy.

His Excellency in Council would propose that the scholarships should be assigned on the 31st of December of every year. If the arrangements in England can be completed in time to permit of this being done, the first award would be made in December next.

From H. L. Harrison, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Director of Public Instruction,—(No. 3481, dated the 15th July 1868.)

I am directed to forward to you copy of a letter No. $\frac{39}{363}$, dated the 30th ultimo, with enclosure, from the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, and to request that you will be so good as to favor the Lieutenant-Governor with your opinion on the subject, and more especially on paragraph 4, regarding the selection of scholars in accordance with the results of the University First Arts Examination.

From W. S. Atkinson, Esq., M. A., Director of Public Instruction, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 3616, dated Fort William, the 18th August 1868.)

'ave the honor to acknowledge the receipt of 'ter No. 3481, dated 15th July, forwarding ion of the Governor General in Council the establishment of a number of for natives of India to be held on 'esidence in Great Britain, and re- opinion on the arrangements to be 'ard of these scholarships.

2. In Lower Bengal two such scholarships are to be awarded annually, and it is proposed that one of these shall be thrown open to public competition, and that the other shall be filled by a person selected and nominated by the Lieutenant-Governor. I am not certain that the reasons given for restricting public competition to one of the two scholarships have any great weight in reference to the state of things existing in the Lower Provinces; and I think it doubtful whether the Lieutenant-Governor will be able to find eligible candidates of the class intended, to whom the pecuniary advantages offered would be so attractive as to induce them to visit England and reside there for the specified term of three years, when they were not otherwise prepared to adopt such a course of education. On this point, however, His Honor is no doubt better informed than I can be, and I would therefore only suggest that it should be distinctly understood that it is left optional with him at any time to throw open the second scholarship to competition in the same manner as the first. There is obviously nothing in the Government Resolution to prevent the adoption of such a course, and I am inclined to think that in these Provinces it will be found the most suitable arrangement.

3. As regards the manner in which the competition shall be conducted, it has been urged by the Principal of the Presidency College and other Educational Officers whose opinions I have consulted, that a special examination should be held for these valuable prizes open to under-graduate students at the end of their third year, that is to say, at the end of one year after they have passed the first examination in arts. It is argued that the students would improve more at that stage of their education by an additional year in a College in India than they would in the same time in England, and that by this arrangement they would be in a better position for profiting by the advantages that will be opened to them for pursuing a more advanced course of study in England than if the scholarships were awarded a year earlier on the results of the first examination in arts, as suggested by the Government of India. There is no doubt force in the argument; but considering that the maximum age for admission to the Civil Service Examination is twenty-two, and that the maximum age of the competitors for the scholarships has been fixed at twenty with reference, no doubt, to the limit laid down in the Rules for the Civil Service Examination; and considering that, under existing regulations, the average age of candidates at the First Arts Examination is probably nearer nineteen than eighteen, I am on the whole disposed to recommend th[illegible] for the present at least, we should a[illegible] petition to be decided by the first [illegible] arts, as suggested in the 4th par[illegible] Bayley's communication.

4. Instead, however, of offering th[illegible] to the candidates who pass this e[illegible] order of merit, it would be expedien[illegible] as in the case of other scholarshi[illegible] application should be made to [illegible] permission to compete, [illegible] examination, by every [illegible] come a candidate, and [illegible] furnish at the same tim[illegible] of qualification, togeth[illegible] elected, he will accep[illegible] embark for Englan[illegible]

whenever called upon to do so by the Government. The scholarships available should then be awarded to such of these candidates, being otherwise eligible, as obtain the highest number of marks in the examination.

5. If this arrangement is adopted, it will not, however, be possible to fix the 31st December as the actual day of election, as proposed in the Resolution, inasmuch as under the University Regulations the declaration of result of the first arts examination may fall as late as the 4th January. It will be sufficient to provide that the election shall be made as soon as the results of that examination are communicated to this Department and the Government.

From H. L. HARRISON, ESQ., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 4211, dated Fort William the 28th August 1868.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. $\frac{3\,2}{3\,6\,3}$, dated the 30th June 1868, with its enclosure, asking for the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion on the best method of carrying out the proposed scheme to award scholarships to Natives of India, on condition of their residing in Great Britian and studying for the various learned professions, or for the Civil and other services in this country.

2. In reply I am to forward, for the information of His Excellency the Governor General in Council, the accompanying copy of the correspondence* on the subject, so far as the scheme re[illegible]ces to this Presidency, and to state that the [illegible]ieutenant-Governor concurs generally in the opi[illegible]ns expressed by the Director of Public Instruct[illegible], except in the matter of the second scholars[illegible], for which the Local Government will nomina[illegible]rsons whom they may consider to be duly quali[illegible]ed. This His Honor would dispose of exactly [illegible] as proposed by the Government of India. Su[illegible]ch an arrangement will leave it quite open to the Local Government to take the course suggested by Mr. Atkinson, should it any time seem desirable to award the second scholarship also in accordance with the result of the examination.

2. From Director of Public Instruction, No. 3616, date[illegible] the 8th instant.

No $\frac{6\,3}{5\,5\,2}$.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Home Department, (Education),—under date Simla, the 18th September 1868.

[illegible]again—

[illegible] No. 360, dated 30th June 1868, regarding the [illegible]y of encouraging Natives of India to resort [illegible] England for the purpose of perfecting [illegible], and of studying for the various learn[illegible], or for the Civil and other Services in [illegible]

[illegible]—Replies having been received from [illegible] 299, dated 26th [illegible] 310, dated 28th [illegible] the Governments noted in the margin to the Resolution of the 30th June last, the [illegible]overnor-General in [illegible]ncil considers it [illegible]xpedient longer to [illegible]y the final consi[illegible] awarding annual scholarships to enable and encourage Natives to proceed to England to study for entrance into the learned professions or into the service of Government.

2. The replies which have been received do not tend to modyfy the views of the Governor General in Council as to main points of the scheme.

3. Two questions, however, have been raised by the Governments of Madras and Bengal, which require some consideration. The Madras Government seem to wish that the scheme should apply to men grown up and in the public service, rather than to boys or to very young men, with a view to the completion of their education.

4. The Government of Bengal likewise adopt the views of their Director of Public Instruction, who seems to think that students of a somewhat more advanced age than that proposed in the sketch Resolution circulated, will be in a better position to profit by the advantages of English education.

5. The Governor General in Council, while unable entirely to coincide with the views taken by the Government of Madras, thinks that the limit of age at which the scholars shall be appointed may be advantageously raised to a minimum of 17 years and to a maximum of 21 years.

6. The Madras Government also ask for a definition of the term "Natives of India." His Excellency in Council considers that it should be held to include only persons born in India and of purely Indian extraction.

7. With these modifications, His Excellency in Council considers that the scheme may be fairly recommended to the Secretary of State for India, at whose suggestion it was initiated, who will be asked to make early arrangements in England with the various educational bodies, on which the Governor General in Council considers the success of the measure will materially depend.

8. The Local Governments will be authorized to take measures to put in force the scheme in this country at the commencement of next year in anticipation of the reply from the Secretary of State, which may be expected before that date.

9. Although the Governor General in Council suggested that the competition should take place (whenever a competitive examination was contemplated) in connection with the First Arts Examination of the three Universities, it is not His Excellency's desire strictly to prescribe this line of action. He will prefer to leave the Local Governments to decide upon the exact mode of conducting such examination. His Excellency would only wish that in any case they should be carried on in connection with, and, if possible, by the machinery of the Presidency Universities.

Government of Madras. Government of Bombay. Government of Bengal. Government of N. W. Provinces.	Government of Punjab. Chief Commissioner of Oudh. Chief Commissioner of Central Provinces.

Ordered, that a copy of the foregoing Relution be forwarded to the Governments and Administrations noted on the margin.

Report on the Cultivation of Cinchona in Bengal for the year 1867-68.

From THOMAS ANDERSON, ESQ., M. D., Superintendent, Botanical Gardens, and in charge Cinchona Cultivation in Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 17, dated Botanical Gardens, the 30th June 1868.)

I HAVE the honor to forward my Annual Report on the cultivation of Cinchona in Bengal from 1st April 1867 to 31st March 1868.

Report on the Cultivation of Cinchona in Bengal for the year 1867-68.

THE cultivation of the Cinchonas has been most successfully carried on during the year. The number of plants propagated has far exceeded the amount added to the Cinchonas during any previous year. The open-air cultivation has been greatly extended, and now consists of four times the amount of plants reported last year. Good seed, from which young plants have been reared, was procured from C. Succirubra and the varieties of C. Officinalis. A very satisfactory analysis has been made in London, by Mr. Howard, of the bark of C. Succirubra and C. Officinalis grown at Darjeeling. I shall follow the arrangement of the report of last year, and shall consider the plants in their different stages of growth.

Stock Plants.—These plants, which are all grown under glass panes, are in excellent condition, and not withstanding the vast amount of cuttings they have yielded, their vigour has increased during the year, as shown by the table of the monthly number of cuttings made during the year.

The stock plants of C. Succirubra were increased to 20,000 in August 1867. In May, the nnmber of stock plants of C. Micrantha was reduced from 5,000 to 1,000, and the space obtained by the reduction was devoted to the extension of the stock plants of C. Calisaya.

The stock plants of C. Calisaya were increased from 624, the number at the end of March 1867, to 4,158, this increase being attained in November 1867. The stock plants of the varieties of C. Officinalis have had no additions made to them, as many of the plants of this species planted in the end of 1664 are again in flower, and large quantities of seed will be secured this year.

Cuttings.—As in previous years, the increase of all the species has been effected principally by cuttingmade from the stock plants. The number of cuttings made during 1867-68 is much above the number of any previous year.

The largest number of cuttings made in one month was 87,500 in August 1867, and the smallest number 24,500 in January 1868. The maximum and minimum numbers of the previous report were 74,550 in September 1866, and 12,000 in January 1867. The total nnmber of cuttings made and rooted in 1867-68 was 6,86,470 against 5,50,611 in 1866-67. The number of cuttings made in each month is as follows :—

			Cuttings.

Seedlings.—A quantity of excellent seedlings of C. Officinalis and a very few of C. Succirubra were reared from seed yielded by the plants planted at Rungbee in October 1864. Besides these, I received during the year several packets of seed of C. Officinalis and of C. Succirubra from Mr. Thwaites, the Director of the Botanical Gardens, Ceylon. The number of seedlings raised during the year amounted to 1,01,750. The number of seedlings obtained during the previous year was 38,500.

Nursery Beds.—Large additions we[illegible] made to the nursery beds, as I always endeavou[illegible] to plant as many rooted cuttings, and seedlings [illegible] these beds during the winter as possible, in order [illegible] that a great number of well hardened plants may [illegible] ready for permanent planting at the commencem[illegible]nt of the rains. The new nursery beds were prepared on the slopes of the Rishap spur adjoining Rungbee, where land has been cleared for the extension of the plantations. Most of the plants in these beds remained unprotected throughout the winter. The number of the plants in the nursery beds on the 31st March 1868 was 5,18,821 ; they belonged in nearly equal proportions to C. Succirubra and C. Officinalis, with the exception of 8,260 plants of C. Micrantha and 160 of C. Calisaya. The number of plants in nursery beds at the [illegible] ponding period of the previous year was [illegible]

Permanent Plantations.—The f[illegible] open air plantations and the tend[illegible] in them are the simplest parts of [illegible] of Cinchona as practised at Darj[illegible] process of planting followed by m[illegible] has not yet been fully stated in an[illegible] reports, the time has now arrived f[illegible] various stages of the open-air [illegible] the clearance of the forest-co[illegible] end of the seco[illegible] plants. Hithertm[illegible] of ground on [illegible] carried on the c[illegible] rice (a peculiar [illegible] being irrigated) in the manner known as joom* cultivation, with patches of virgin forest occurring every here and there among the partially cleared spaces.

Nepalese coolies with their kookeries (short heavy curved knives) and Lepchas with their long straight sword like knives are sent to fell the jungle as close to the ground as possible.

The scrub, and even young trees as thick as a man's body, fall rapidly before the knives of these clearers. Where patches of virgin forest are met with, the axe must be used, but here every tree is not felled, as the smaller ones, being notched near the ground, are borne down by the fall of the full grown trees. In preparing ground for Chinchona planting at Darjeeling the practice has always been to clear the land entirely of all vegetation, not a tree of even the smallest size ever being spared. In these hills, forest should not be felled before the middle or the end of November; if the land is cleared earlier, the grasses and underwood spring up among the branches of the fallen trees, and thus their burning is prevented. Felling may be continued until the middle of March. After two or three months' exposure to the bright sunshine and dry air of the cold season, the felled trees are in a fit state to burn. By the end of March, therefore, fires may be lit in the afternoon, when the sun has thoroughly dried up the heavy dew, at the bottom of the slope covered with felled and dry jungle. The fire rapidly consumes the whole of the brushwood and the branches of the trees leaving only the large branches and trunks to smoulder for weeks.

Where over virgin forest or bamboo jungle has existed it has been necessary, after burning the lighter vegetation, to cut up the trunks of the trees and the bamboos into short pieces, and either to pile them into heaps for burning, or to roll them into the steep ravines which are too stony for planting Cinchonas. The land thus cleared by fire is ready for laying out the ground for planting and for marking the bridle paths required to give easy access to all parts of it. These paths are made about four or five feet wide, and are connected with the principal roads of the plantation. The sites for the plants are fixed by means of a cord about 100 feet in length, on which marks are tied at intervals of 6 feet for C. Succirubra, and at shorter distance for C. Officinalis. This marked cord is stretched along the ground, and at each mark on it a stick, about 2½ feet in length, is thrust into the ground, thus indicating the place where a Cinchona is to be planted. In order to secure uniformity in the plantation, each line is continued to the full extent of the ground to be planted before another line is commenced; the laid out plantations will thus be ons of C. Succirubra the lines are m each other, and as the plants are 6 feet apart in the lines, a uniform distance of 6 feet between the plants is maintained.

At first, C. Officinalis was planted with an interval of 5 feet between the plants, but I have lately altered this plan for a system of close planting in lines, the lines being 4 feet apart.

After the ground has been "staked out," the next preparation for planting consists of digging the soil to the depth of a foot, removing the roots at the same time in a circle about 1 foot in diameter, of which the stake is the centre The planting of the ground thus prepared is performed in dull cloudy weather when showers are frequent, but when the ground is not saturated by long-continued heavy rain. The thoroughly hardened plants are brought from the adjoining nursery beds in shallow boxes, which the men carry on their heads. The plants are given to the coolie engaged in planting, who with his hands makes a hole in the loose soil sufficiently large to admit the roots of the plant, and the soil is gently pressed around the roots to prevent the plant being beaten down by heavy rain. The plants when taken from the nursery bed should not be less than 4 inches, and should not exceed a foot in height, but plants varying from 6 to 10 inches in height, are of the best size.

After the plants have been planted for three weeks, it is necessary to cut down the weeds which had sprung up around them, as in a few weeks more the young Cinchonas would soon be smoothered in a jungle 5 or 6 feet high. This luxuriant growth of weeds springs from the creeping roots and deeply buried tubers of gigantic grasses, ferns, Dioscoreæ, Araceæ, Cucurbitaceæ, Convolvulaceæ, etc, which protected by their underground position, escaped destruction when the jungle was burned. The soeds too of some of the most noxious weeds, such as Bidens, Ageratum, Chenopodium, Polygonum, seem to have the power of not being injured by a considerable amount of heat, as after the first showers in May the ground becomes covered by such annual species, two months after a fierce fire has apparently destroyed all vegetation. Many of these weeds could be eradicated by deeply trenching the soil before planting, but from the steepness of the slopes and the excessive rain-fall this cannot be attempted in Sikhim. It is followed by the washing away of the best soil and even by extensive landslips. These weeds require to be cut down once a month from May until the end of October; they are laid in lines following the slope of the hill, and the slightly raised ridges soon disappear as they are decomposed by the heavy rain and high temperature. During the same period of the year, it is necessary to weed every six weeks the prepared circles in which the Cinchonas are growing, and at the same time to loosen the soil round the plants by lightly hoeing with a kodalie or furroah. In November the entire surface of the plantations is throughly hoed, and by this means the weeds receive a great check by being exposed to the drying sunshine of the cold season after having been uprooted. After hoeing, the plantation requires no attention until the end of April, when a light covering of weeds having sprung up again, the circles round the plants should be lightly hoed and somewhat enlarged. From May again, until the end of October, the periodical cutting of the weeds must be continued, but not so frequently as in the previous season, as many of the strongest growing weeds by this time have succumbed to the hoeing in November. The growth of the plants is greatly favoured by a hoeing of the ground in November again, after the second growing season is over, and if this is done in the following year, their 3rd growing season, the plants are tall and strong enough to out-grow the jungle which then begins in its turn to be smothered under the dense foliage, at least of C. Succirubra.

The number of plants of C. Succirubra, added to the permanent plantation during the year, amounts to 2,28,773, and of C. Officinalis to 1,28,559. The area of ground planted with Cinchonas on the 31st March measured about 350 acres. The small number of plants of C. Succirubra planted in October 1864 were, on the 31st March 1867, from 6 to 14 feet 4 inches high, and a few plants of C. Officinalis planted at the same time were from 5 to 8½ feet high. The girth of the stems of these plants of C. Succirubra at 6 inches above the ground varied from 7 to 12¼ inches.

The plants of C. Succirubra referred to in my last annual report as having been placed in the Terai have succeeded only on the gentle slopes which occur close to the base of the hills, those (about 50) planted on flat but well-drained land, distant two miles from the hills, have completely failed.

The Selim Tea Association purchased 10,000 plants of C. Succirubra in July 1867, and all of these which were planted on the steep slopes of the Himalaya immediately above the Terai are inferior in condition and promise to only the splendid plants of Cinchona in the Government plantation at Rishap, close to Rungbee. I fear it is hopeless to attempt the cultivation of any species of Cinchona in the proper Terai District,—in that District the cultivation will succeed only on the forest-clad slopes which are intermediate between the flats of the Terai and the declivities of the Himalaya.

Chemical Analysis of the Bark.—The bark of C. Succirubra and C. Officinalis, referred to in the last annual report as having been sent to London for analysis, was analysed by Mr. Howard. The analysis was most satisfactory, one specimen of C. Succirubra, thirty-one months old, yielding no less than 7·30 per cent. of precipitated alkaloids, of which 3·20 was quinine and 2·27 Cinchonidine mixed with a little quinine,—a larger percentage of alkaloids than has been found in any other bark of the same age. The bark of C. Officinalis taken from plants, twenty-eight months old, gave 3·20 of alkaloids. The conclusion drawn by Mr. Howard from this analysis is "that there is no reason to think the Darjeeling barks at all inferior to those grown at Ootacamund; the difference of climate does not appear to have much effect on the alkaloids therein contained."

Flowering and Seeding.—A small number of (270) plants of the varieties of C. Officinalis planted in October 1864 have again produced a profusion of flowers, and already many of them are covered with most promising panicles of seed vessels. A considerable amount of good seed was obtained from several of these plants in August and September 1867. Out of 389 plants of C. Succirubra planted in October 1864, only two plants produced flowers and seed last year, and a few seedlings were raised from their seed. These plants which were in an unhealthy state at the time of flowering soon after became healthy and vigorous, and this year they have not flowered. Another plant of C. Succirubra, from whose stem a large piece of bark was taken, has put forth a few flowers from one or two of the branches. With these exceptions none of the C. Succirubra plants have flowered at Darjeeling, although many of the oldest plants are above 12 feet in height.

Distribution of Cinchonas.—11,390 plants of C. Succirubra were distributed during the year. Of these 10,290 were sold to planters in the District of Darjeeling, 1,000 plants were despatched to Chittagong for distribution among the Tea planters, and 100 were sent to the Deputy Commissioner of Hazara in the Punjab.

Private cultivation of Cinchona in Darjeeling.—100 acres were planted with Cinchona Succirubra during the year by the Darjeeling Cinchona Association. The area on this estate planted with Cinchona is now 120 acres. I have not been informed of the number of plants this Company possesses, but as 200 acres of land have been prepared for planting during the approaching rainy season, the number of plants probably amounts to 500,000.

At Coombe Banks, the Cinchona estate of Major Fitzgerald, 25 acres have been planted and the total number of plants of C. Succirubra, the only species cultivated is about 80,000.

The Darjeeling Tea Company possesses some fine plants of C. Succirubra planted in May 1864. This Company is also forming plantations of red bark on land well adapted to the cultivation of Cinchona.

Mr. Robson, the Superintendent of the Cinchona plantations of the Tuckvar Tea Company, has made large additions to the plantations of C. Officinalis and C. Succirubra. Some of the older plants of C. Officinalis on this estate are now in flower.

The Selim Tea Association, whose lands extend almost into Terai, possesses 10,000 plants of C. Succirubra, which were purchased from the Government plantations in July 1867. They have been planted among the Tea plants in lines along the roads of the estate, the plants being placed about 10 feet apart, so as to form avenues of Cinchona.

I regret that I am not able to state the exact number of Cinchona plants possessed by private companies and individuals in this District, but I estimate the number at nearly six hundred thousand. The area planted is probably 170 acres.

1,000 plants of C. Succirubra were sent to Chittagong in February 1868, and most of them arrived in good order. The accounts I have received of the state of the plants formerly sent to Chittagong are very meagre, but so far as they extend they show that the clima[illegible] C. Succirubra. 1,800 plants [illegible] been distributed in the Chittago[illegible] March 1866.

Khasia Hills.—The establish[illegible] nursery at the Khasia Hills was s[illegible] vernment early in 1867. The nu[illegible] ed only for raising plants of C[illegible] tribution among the planters in A[illegible] European Gardeners [illegible] tion was sent, in Feb[illegible] plants from Darjeeling [illegible] was to be commenced.

the Khasia Hills in the end of March, and early in May the cultivation was commenced on land near the Dâk Bungalow of Nunklow, on the Gowhatty and Khasia Hill road, on the northern slopes of the hills.

The plants had been increased from 650, the original number sent from Darjeeling, to 6,778 on the 31st March 1868. The distribution was begun in March 1868 by the sale of 100 plants, and other applications had been registered. The species in these nurseries is C. Succirubra, the only species that will probably succeed in Assam.

Meteorological records taken at the different elevations at Darjeeling during 1867 are appended.

From H. L HARRISON, ESQ., Officiating Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 5552 B., dated Fort William, the 20th October 1868.)

WITH reference to paragraph 2 of Government Order No. 3123, dated the 25th September last, I am directed to submit, for the information of Government, the following report on the state of the crops in the several districts of the Lower Provinces up to the end of the month of September last.

2. The accounts received from the under-mentioned districts are favorable:—

1. Bhullooah.
2. Chittagong.
3. Tipperah.
4. Backergunge.
5. Dacca.
6. Furreedpore.
7. Mymensing.
8. Sylhet.
9. Cossyah and Jynteah Hills.
10. Durrung.
11. Luckimpore.
12. Nowgong.
13. Seebsagur.
14. Gowalparah.
15. Cooch Behar.
16. Eastern and Western Dooars.
17. Hazareebaugh.
18. Maunbhoom.
19. Singbhoom.
20. Purneah.
21. Deoghur.
22. Nya Doomka.
23. Godda.
24. Rajmehal.
25. Bancoorah.
26. Beerbhoom.
27. Burdwan.
28. Hooghly.
29. Midnapore.
30. *Cuttack.
31. Pooree.
32. Balasore.

Less favorable accounts have been received from the following districts, as will be seen from the remarks made agaist each.

1 Howrah.—Three-fourths of the crops in Thannahs Doomjoor Amptah, and Bagnan have been destroyed; in Shampore the out-turn will be about $\frac{2}{3}$ of a full harvest; in the Bally, Sukrail and Sibpore Police Stations the area of destruction is now limited; while in the Juggutbullupore and Oolooberiah Stations the yield will probably be like that of Shampore. No distress is apprehended until December or January next, when the Collector observes it will perhaps be necessary to assist the indigent classes which are not numerous. He has been instructed to watch carefully the rise of the price of grain in different parts of the district, and to make a report after visiting the injured tract during the cold season. The Board are not of opinion that any relief measures will be necessary in this district, but will give their best attention to the reports which may be received from time to time from the Local Officers.

2. Kamroop.—There has been serious loss of rice crop throughout the Burpettah Sub-division from heavy rain, and insects and inundation have also much injured the crops in the low lying mouzahs.

3. Lohardugga.—An average crop is expected, except in Palawmow, where, however, owing to the fall of copious rain, the prospects of all crops have improved and the price of rice has fallen. The people in other parts of the district are stated to be well satisfied with their prospects, and cooly recruiting is almost at a stand still.

4. Monghyr.—The Bhadoi has been a full crop. Owing to want of rain the Aghanee rice crop will not average above six annas, and in parts of the Sheikpoorah and Secundra Thannahs it will fall below this. There will be no great pressure, and employment on local works for which an additional grant has been made by Government, and on the Chord Line of Railway, where labor is in demand, will relieve any distress that may arise.

5. Bhaugulpore.—There has been generally a good Bhadoi crop. To the north of the Ganges the prospects of the aghanee crops are very fair, but on the south the crop will not exceed eight annas generally, and in a small part of the Kutonia Thannah, there is only a four-anna crop; no real distress, however, is apprehended.

3. The Commissioner of Bhaugulpore adds that, notwitstanding that a very heavy export of grain by rail is going on from his Division to the North-West Provinces, the price of rice is not expected to exceed sixteen seers for the rupee.

4. A supplementary statement will be submitted on receipt of the reports from the Commissioners of Patna, Rajshahye, and the Presidency Divisions. Meanwhile Mr. Chapman has submitted an inspection report from Deputy Magistrate, Baboo Hem Chunder Ker, of a very large portion of the injured tract in the 24-Pergunnahs. A brief abstract of this report is subjoined.

Sultanpore Thannah. About three-fifths of the culturable land in this Thannah have this year been cultivated, and it is expected that 8 to 10 annas of the crop will be reaped. The labouring classes are said to have at present no work, and to be consequently in distress, and a relief centre is therefore about to be opened at Kharee. The Deputy Collector intends to make another tour of inspection, and report whether other centres of relief should be opened. It does not appear to the Board that the necessity for gratuitous relief is made out. Rice is selling in this part of the country at 17½ seers the Rupee.

Punkipore Thanah. Three-fourths of the culturable land in this Thannah were submerged, and only 25,000 to 30,000 beegahs cultivated, from which a four-anna crop is expected The labouring classes are in want but there is no chance of commencing any work before November or December next.

Gobindpore Thannah: a twelve-anna crop is expected.

Debipore Thannah contains 70,000 beegahs of rice land, of which 60,000 were cultivated, but there is paddy on about 40,000 beegahs, the crop on the remaining portion having been destroyed by too much rain. The labouring classes are in distress and eager for work, but it is difficult to start any earth-work at this season of the year.

The health of the people throughout the Sub-Division is good. The supply of rice is equal to the demand, and the cattle murrain is much on the decrease.

From H. L. HARRISON, ESQ.. Officiating Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 576B, dated Fort William, the 29th October 1868.)

REFERRING to paragraph 4 of Board's letter No. 5552B. of the 20th instant, I am directed to submit, for the information of Government, the following supplementary report on the state of the crops in the Patna, Presidency, and Rajshahye Divisions at the close of the month of September last.

2. The prospects of the crops throughout the Rajshahye Division are favorable, and such is also the case in the Presidency Division, with the exception of the limited tract of country to the south of Calcutta, regarding which special reports have already been laid before Government.

3. The accounts received from the Patna Division are briefly as follows:—

1*st.*—Gya.—The prospects of the rubbee crops are said to be first rate, but the Board have reason to believe that the want of rain during the current month has much injured these prospects. The rice crop will be a short one, especially along the Soane. It will be cut in December, and rice will then be cheaper for a time. It will afterwards be dear till the rubbee harvest is reaped in April next. The intensity of the strain from January to March 1866, will depend upon the price at which rice may then be sold, and the ability of the poor to buy it. As they will then have little or no work to support them, the Collector proposes to undertake certain local public works, and solicits a special grant of half a lac of rupees for the purpose. The Commissioner and Board have recommended to keep a careful watch over the state of the people, but to undertake no relief measures at present.

2*nd.*—Patna.—The Bhadoi has been good in the Behar Sub-Division, and in the northern portion of the Sudder Sub-Division. The rice will be a short crop. The rubbee promises well in the Behar Sub-Division, but its prospects are uncertain in the rest of the district.

3*rd.*—Tirhoot.—The prospects of the crops are not favorable. Rain is greatly wanted but there is no apprehension of scarcity at present.

4*th.*—Sarun.—The out-turn of the Bhadoi crop is estimated at 10 annas, and that of rice at 4 annas. The prospects of the rubbee crop are uncertain, and unless there be sufficient rain during the cold weather it will fail to a great extent. The Collector has been instructed to draw out plans and estimates for relief works in those portions of his district where distress is anticipated.

5*th.*—Shahabad.—The prospects of the crops are good, owing to timely fall of rain.

6*th.*—Chumparun.—The out-turn is estimated at 12 annas, but fears are entertained of a rise in the price of grain, owing to bad accounts from the neighbouring district of Goruckpore.

The Dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants.—The figures in column ten represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity.—The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 14 feet, and that of the Anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's Anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th October 1868:—

No. 26 OF 1868.

A Bill to define and amend the Law of Evidence.

PREAMBLE.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the Law of Evidence; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

MEANING OF WORDS.

1. In the following rules, the word Court shall be taken to comprise all Courts of Justice, civil or criminal, and all persons having by law or consent of parties authority to take evidence; and the word Cause shall be taken to comprise all judicial proceedings, civil or criminal.

ADMISSIBILITY.

2. Whenever any evidence is said to be admissible, it is not meant that it is to be regarded as conclusive, but only that the weight, if any, which the deciding authority may consider due, shall be allowed to it.

Anything which has a bearing upon any question in issue in a cause, the determination of which question is material to the decision of the cause, is admissible, unless it is excluded by the rules contained in this Act.

3. No statement by a witness of anything, or founded upon anything spoken, written, or otherwise intimated by another person, and no statement contained in any document is admissible in evidence, except in the cases specified in the rules hereinafter contained.

Illustrations.

(a.)—B is tried for robbing C. A gives evidence that D told him that he saw B rob C. The evidence is inadmissible.

(b.)—B is tried for robbing C. A gives evidence that D, a deaf and dumb person, intimated to him by signs that he saw B rob C. The evidence is inadmissible.

(c.)—A gives evidence that B robbed C. Being asked how he knows it, he says that he knows it only because E told him so. The evidence which has been admitted must be struck out.

(d.)—A says that B was alive on the 1st January 1860. It appears that A does not speak to this fact of his own knowledge, but that he learnt it from a letter written to him by C, or from a newspaper, or from a printed book, or a picture. In each of these cases, A's statement is not admissible as evidence that B was alive on that day.

(e.)—A says that B was alive on the 1st January 1860. Being asked how he knows this, he produces a letter dated that day from B, whose handwriting he verifies. The letter is admissible as evidence that B was alive on that day.

4. Such evidence is admissible,—

(1.)—Where the fact that a thing was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated is a question in issue.

Illustration.

A says that he has been told by B that he saw C pick D's pocket. This is admissible in an action against B for slandering C.

(2.)—Where the fact that a person by or to whom the thing was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated, was acquainted with such thing is a question in issue.

Illustration.

A writes to B "I have just heard that C has failed." The letter is received by B. The letter is not admissible as evidence that C has failed; but when it is proved that C had then failed, the letter is admissible as evidence that the failure was known to A at the place and time at which the letter was written, and also that B was apprised of it.

(3.)—Where the thing spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated, tends to explain any act or conduct which is a question in issue.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A says on a trial of C for robbing D's house, that he heard B say to C "D's house has been robbed," and that thereupon C fled. This evidence is admissible.

(b.)—On a trial of B for robbing C's house, it is proved that B fled immediately after the robbery. A witness is produced, who says that he heard A tell B before B fled, that a warrant had been issued for his arrest under a decree of a civil court. This evidence is admissible.

(c.)—A is on his trial for shooting at B with intent to kill him. It is alleged on A's behalf that the shooting was accidental. Evidence of what A said at the time is admissible as evidence, either for A or against him.

(d.)—A sues B for compensation for maliciously causing him to be apprehended on a charge of theft. Evidence that a theft had been committed in B's house, and that C told B that he saw A running away immediately after, is admissible.

(e.)—A says that he has heard B say to C "Pay me the 1,000 rupees which you owe me." This is no evidence that C owed B 1,000 rupees, but it is evidence that B claimed 1,000 rupees, and it is admissible in order to introduce evidence of what C said or did with respect to [illegible]m.

(f.)—A is charged with seditio[illegible] to have combined with B for s[illegible] Evidence of words spoken by B.

in a riot in furtherance of those purposes, is admissible against A.

(4.)—Where the thing was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated by a party to the suit, or some one whom he represents in interest, and it is sought to be used against him.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A brings a suit against B to establish a right of way across B's field. Evidence that C, from whom B derives his title to the land, had, while owner, admitted A's right of way, is admissible.

(b.)—A writes to B "By the direction of C, I request you will ship for him 100 bales of cotton." The letter is evidence against A that he had received such direction from C, but is not evidence against C that he had given the direction.

(c.)—In a deed to which A was not a party, but which was made between B and C, strangers to A, it is stated that A had become insolvent. This deed is as against B or C admissible in evidence to show that A had become insolvent, but it is not admissible against A for that purpose.

(5.)—In the cases provided for by sections 368, 369, 370 and 371 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

(6.)—Where the evidence tendered consists in a statement which was received in evidence in a former judicial proceeding relating to the same subject and between the same parties, or those whom they represent in interest, and where the person who made such statement has since died, or become incapable of giving evidence, or where his presence cannot be procured: provided that if such person were present, his evidence would be admissible.

(7.)—Where the thing spoken, written, stated or otherwise intimated was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated in the ordinary course of business by a person who has died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A, the shipping agent of the firm of B and Co., states in a letter to B and Co. that he has just seen a certain ship of theirs sail from the port of Calcutta. The letter is admissible as evidence of the sailing of the ship.

(b.)—A, an attorney, prepares the draft of an intended deed to which B was to be a party, and indorses upon it a memorandum that a copy had been sent to another attorney on a certain day. The draft contains a statement that B was in insolvent circumstances. The draft and indorsement are admissible as evidence to shew that such a copy was sent to the other attorney, but are not admissible as evidence to show that B had become insolvent.

(c.)—A, a commercial traveller employed by the firm of B and Co. to obtain orders and information in the cotton trade only, writes to B and Co. that the firm of C and Co. have ordered of him as such traveller a certain quantity of cotton, and in the same letter he mentions the state of the silk market. A's letter is admissible as evidence of the order given to him, but not of the state of the silk market.

(8.)—Where the thing intimated consists in [illegible] books kept in the ordinary course of [illegible] written acknowledgments [illegible] goods, securities, or pro- [illegible] any document used in

Illustrations.

(a.)—Entries are made by a clerk of a firm in the books of the firm to the effect that the firm has received a consignment of cotton from A, and has purchased 50 chests of indigo from B. These are admissible in evidence against all the partners in the firm.

(b.)—A, one of two partners, makes an entry in the partnership books that he had lent his partner B Rupees 1,000. The entry is not admissible in evidence against B that A had lent him the Rupees 1,000.

(c.)—A clerk whose business it is to make entries in the books of a firm of all monies paid by him, makes an entry in the books that he had paid away Rupees 1,000 for the firm. This entry is admissible in evidence that he had so paid away the money.

(d.)—The firm of A and Co. keep a book in which the despatch and receipt of letters by the firm is regularly noted. An entry in this book of the despatch of a letter on the 1st January 1860 to the firm of B and Co. is admissible in evidence that a letter was despatched on that day by A and Co. to B and Co.

(e.)—The letters written by the firm of A and Co. are, according to the ordinary course of business, copied into a book, and afterwards despatched. A and Co. in order to show that a letter in stated terms was despatched by them on a certain day to B and Co., tender in evidence an entry in their letter-book purporting to be a copy of a letter addressed by them on that day to B and Co., and an entry of the fact that such letter was despatched. The entries are admissible.

(f.)—A guarantees the payment by C of a sum of money due from him to B. A pays the amount to B, and sues C for re-payment. A tenders in evidence a receipt given to himself by B for the amount due. The receipt is admissible in evidence.

(g.)—A sues B for the proceeds of a cargo of cotton consigned by A to B, and sold through a broker. The account sales rendered by the broker are admissible in evidence.

(h.)—A, a wharfinger, gives to B an acknowledgment that 100 tons of copper have been deposited at A's wharf. This acknowledgment is admissible in evidence of the fact that the deposit has been made.

(i.)—A effects a policy on his ship against sea-risks. The ship goes to sea and sustains injury. A institutes a suit to recover damages from the underwriters. The log-book of the ship is admissible in evidence.

(9.)—Where the thing spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated, relates to the usages or tenets of any body of men, the constitution or government of any religious or charitable foundation, or the meaning of any technical or conventional words or terms, or of any words or terms used in particular districts, or to any matter of public or general interest, and was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A, in order to show the religious tenets of a certain sect, tenders in evidence a manuscript treatise, proved to have been written by a deceased member of the sect. The treatise is admissible.

(b.)—It is a disputed fact in a suit whether a certain spot is or is not a public landing-place.

Statements made on the subject by A and B, now deceased, who resided in the neighbourhood, are admissible in evidence.

(10.)—Where the thing spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated, has reference to the relationship of one person to another, and was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured: provided that such person was a member of the family, or had otherwise special means of knowledge.

Illustrations.

(a.)—It is a disputed fact in the suit whether A is the son of B. A statement made on the subject by C, who was a nurse in B's family about the time of A's birth, is admissible in evidence.

(b.)—A alleging that he is the son of B, deceased, produces the following documents in which he is mentioned as the son of B:—

1. An entry made by B in a memorandum book stating A's birth;
2. Letters which passed between two of B's brothers, since deceased;
3. A deed executed by B.

A also produces witnesses who state that B told them that A was his son.

The contents of the documents and the testimony of the witnesses are admissible in evidence.

(11.)—Where the thing intimated is a fact of a public nature and appears by a recital contained in any Act of the Governor General of India made before or after the passing of this Act, or is notified by any official communication of the Government appearing in the Gazette of India, or in any paper purporting to be the Government Gazette of any Presidency or Lieutenant-Governorship of British India, or of any colony or possession of the British Crown.

(12.)—Where the thing intimated is that there has been a public meeting or public proceeding, and such intimation is contained in a report thereof published in any newspaper or journal.

Explanation.—Such report is not admissible in evidence of any fact reported to have occurred, or of any statement reported to have been made at the meeting or proceeding.

Evidence of law of Foreign Country.

(13.)—Where the thing intimated purports to be the law of a foreign country, and appears to be contained in books or documents purporting to be printed or published under the authority of the Government of that country, or in reports of decisions of the Courts of such country.

Maps.

5. Maps made under the authority of Government shall be admissible as evidence.

"Res Judicata."

6. A grant of probate or of administration unrevoked shall have effect as provided by the Indian Succession Act, section 242.

7. A decree declaring a marriage void is proof that the parties never were husband and wife. A decree declaring a marriage dissolved is proof that the parties have ceased to be husband and wife, if they ever were such.

8. A decree adjudging a ship to the captors as a prize of war is proof that the ship has become the property of the captors.

9. The judgment of a Court of competent jurisdiction upon a matter directly in issue is admissible as evidence between the same parties, and those who represent them in interest upon the same matter directly in issue in another cause; but not between any other parties, except as provided for in the next following section of this Act.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A sues B for a horse, alleging that it was stolen from himself, and that B bought it, knowing it to be stolen. Judgment is given in B's favor. B afterwards loses the horse. A finds it, and B sues A for it. A in defence makes the same allegations as in the former suit. The judgment pronounced in the former suit is admissible as evidence in B's favor.

(b.)—A sues B for rent in the Court of the Collector, which has cognizance of such suits. B sets up in defence a mortgage under which he is entitled to retain the rent in satisfaction of the interest of his mortgage. A disputes the genuineness of the mortgage, but the Court pronounces it genuine, and dismisses A's suit. Afterwards B sues A in the District Court to recover the amount due to him upon the mortgage. A disputes the genuineness of the mortgage. The judgment of the Collector is admissible in evidence.

10. A decree of a Court of competent jurisdiction is admissible as evidence that such a judgment pronounced between the parties, but is not as against any person other than the parties thereto and those who represent them in interest evidence of any other fact thereby appearing.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A sues B for compensation for injury sustained through the negligence of C, who is B's agent. A obtains judgment. In a suit brought by B against C for compensation for loss sustained by B through C's negligence the judgment is admissible as evidence of the amount which A has been adjudged to pay, but not as evidence of B's negligence.

(b.)—A sues B for compensation, because B yielded up to C certain lands which B held as guardian of A, who was then a minor. A decree passed in a prior suit, whereby B was directed to yield up possession to C as owner, is admissible in evidence.

(c.)—A is tried on the charge of having forged a deed of gift from B. He is acquitted. Afterwards C, alleging the deed of gift to be a forgery, institutes a suit against A for certain lands, of which A has obtained possession under it. The record of A's acquittal is not admissible in evidence.

(d.)—A, one of three Hindú brothers, undivided in estate, dies, and his brothers B and C alleging that they are his heirs, sell to D a portion of the land which they possessed jointly with A.

E, claiming as the adopted son and heir of A, sues D for A's share of the land sold to D, and obtains a decree in his favour. He afterwards claiming as such adopted son of A, sues B and C for A's share of the land which remains in their possession. The decree in the former suit is not admissible in evidence.

(e.)—A, alleging that he is the only brother and the heir of B, deceased, sues C for possession of B's land. The Court declares A's title established, and decrees that C shall yield up the land to him.

Afterwards D claims [illegible] B, and sues A for pos[illegible] decree in the former s[illegible] that A had obtained such a decree, but is not admissible as evidence that he was entitled to the land as the only brother and heir of B.

(f.)—Two ships come into collision, whereby A, a passenger in one of them, is maimed, and B's goods are destroyed. A obtains a decree for compensation from the owners of the other ship on the ground that the injuries were sustained by him through the negligence of their captain. B sues the owners of the same ship for compensation for the loss of his goods. The judgment is not admissible in B's suit as evidence of the captain's negligence.

(g.)—A sues B for maintenance of C, a minor, whom A alleges to be B's son. B denies that C is his son. The Court decides that C is B's son, and decrees payment by B of A's claims.

B. dies. C, alleging that he is B's son, sues the executor of D for a legacy of 10,000 rupees; D having by his will bequeathed that sum to every child of B. The judgment is not admissible in evidence that C is not a son of B.

Proof of Writings which constitute primary evidence.

11. A writing which is not required by law to be attested, but which is alleged to have been signed by a specified person, or to have been written wholly or in part by a specified person, shall not, except in the cases provided for by sections 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 of this Act, be received as evidence, unless the signature attached thereto or so much of the same writing as it is sought to verify, be proved to be in the hand-writing of the person by whom it is alleged to have been written or signed.

12. A written instrument which is required by law to be attested, shall not (except in the cases provided for by Section 20 of this Act) be received as evidence, unless the following rules are complied with:—

(1.)—The execution of such instrument shall be proved by one attesting witness at the least if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court by which the cause is tried, and capable of bearing testimony.

(2.)—If no attesting witness is alive and subject to such process as aforesaid, and capable of bearing testimony, it shall be proved that the attestation of one attesting witness at the least is in his handwriting, and evidence must be adduced to show that the person who executed the instrument was the same person who is alleged to have done so.

13. In order to ascertain whether a signature, writing, or seal, is genuine, any signature, writing, or seal, which has been admitted or proved to the satisfaction of the judge to be genuine, may be compared with the disputed one.

14. Where a written instrument purports or is proved to be thirty years old, and is produced from the proper custody, it shall be admissible in evidence without proof of its execution or attestation.

Proof of the Contents of Documents by Secondary Evidence.

15. Evidence of the contents or purport of any written or printed document, or of letters, figures, or other marks not produced to the Court, shall not be admissible, except as provided by the rules next following:—

(1.)—A copy of or extract from any proclamation, order, or regulation, issued by Her Majesty in Council or any department of Her Majesty's Government, shall be admissible in evidence: Provided that such copy or extract is contained in the London Gazette, or in such other Gazette or paper as mentioned in section four, clause (11) of this Act: Or provided it purports to be printed by the Government printer, or to be printed under the authority of the Legislature of any British colony or possession, or to be certified to be true by the proper officer.

(2.)—A copy of a record of any court, or of an entry in any public book or register, which is proved to be a correct copy, or which purports to be under the seal of such Court, or to be certified by the proper officer, shall be admissible as evidence of the existence and the contents of any such record or entry.

(3.)—Evidence shall be admissible of inscriptions or marks which are proved to have been destroyed or lost, or which cannot be produced by reason of their being engraved on or affixed to trees, buildings, or other things of an immoveable character.

(4.)—Evidence of the contents of a written or printed document shall be admissible when it has been proved that the document has been destroyed or lost, or when the person in whose custody it is, is not subject to the process of the Court by which the cause is tried, or is not legally bound to produce the document, or refuses, after due notice, to produce it, or when its absence is otherwise satisfactorily accounted for.

Evidence of Terms of Contract.

16. Where a contract or a grant or other disposition of property is in writing, no evidence of the terms of such contract, grant, or disposition shall be received, except the writing itself, or such evidence of its contents as may be admissible under the provisions of the last preceding section.

Explanation.—The statement of a fact in any such document does not preclude the admission of oral evidence relating to the same fact; and where a suit is instituted for the purpose of setting aside or varying a document on the ground of a mistake in the writing thereof, evidence may be received for the purpose of proving such mistake.

Papers of which proof is not required.

17. No proof shall be required of the genuineness of any paper purporting to be the London Gazette or the Gazette of India or the Government Gazette of any Presidency or Lieutenant-Governorship of British India, or of any colony or possession of the British Crown, nor of any paper purporting to be a newspaper or journal, or a copy of a private Act of Parliament printed by the Queen's printer.

18. No proof shall be required of the genuineness of any paper purporting to be a certificate, certified copy or other document which is by law made evidence of any particular fact: Provided that such paper is substantially in the form and purports to be executed in the manner directed by the law in that behalf.

19. No proof shall be required of the official position of any person certifying to the truth of any such paper as is mentioned in the last preceding rule.

20. Any paper purporting to be a power of attorney, and to have been executed before and authenticated by a notary public or any Court, Judge, Magistrate, British Consul or Vice-Consul or representative of Her Majesty, or of the Government of India, shall be admissible in evidence.

21. An impression of any document made by a copying machine, or a representation of any thing made by means of photography, or of any other process which affords a reasonable assurance of correctness, shall be admissible in evidence, wherever under these Rules the production of the original may be dispensed with.

Persons who may testify.

22. Those persons only shall be incompetent to testify who from tender years, or from unsoundness of mind, or from any other cause appear to the judge to be incapable of understanding the questions addressed to them.

Privilege.

23. A witness is not at liberty to disclose a communication.

(1.)—When such communication relates to affairs of State, and its disclosure has not been sanctioned by the proper officer.

(2.)—Where the communication was made by one of a married couple to the other during their marriage, and did not relate to a matter then in dispute in a suit pending between them, and where the consent of the person who made it, or, if such person be dead, of his or her representative in interest, has not been obtained for such disclosure.

(3.)—Where the witness is a barrister, attorney or vakeel, or an interpreter or intermediate agent between the client and his legal adviser, and the communication was made by the client or principal to the witness in the course of his professional employment, or consists of any advice given or conveyed by the witness professionally to his client or principal, or of the contents of any document of his client or principal, the knowledge of which the witness has acquired in the course of his professional employment, and where the client or principal or his representative in interest has not consented to the disclosure of such communication.

(4.)—Where the disclosure demanded of the witness consists in the production of documents belonging to another person who would not be bound to produce them if in his possession, and who has not consented to their production.

24. A witness is not compellable to disclose to the Court any confidential communication which may have taken place between him and his legal professional adviser.

25. No communication made in furtherance of a criminal purpose is protected from disclosure.

26. A witness summoned to produce a document shall, if the same be in his custody, possession, or power, be bound to bring it into Court, notwithstanding any objection to the right of the party calling for it to compel its production, or to its being read, or being put in as evidence, or to the disclosure of its contents.

The validity of any such objection made by the person bringing the document shall be determined by the Court; and for the better determination thereof, it shall be lawful for the Court to receive any admissible evidence which such person may give respecting it; and it shall also be lawful for the Court, unless the document relates to affairs of State, to inspect it, and if necessary, to employ any person to interpret it under the obligation of an oath, and not to disclose its contents except to the Court, unless the Court shall decide that the document is to be given in evidence.

27. No question shall be put to a married person which substantially amounts to inquiring whether that person has had sexual intercourse forbidden to him or her by the law to which he or she is subject.

28. No question regarding the occurrence of sexual intercourse between a husband and wife shall be put to either of them, except in the case of Christians, where the suit is for a decree of nullity of marriage on the ground of bodily incapacity; and except in the case of persons who are not Christians, where the knowledge of the fact inquired after is necessary to the determination of some question between the husband and wife according to the law to which they are subject.

Examination of Witnesses.

29. The party at whose instance a witness is examined, may, with the permission of the Court, cross-examine such witness, to test his veracity, in the same manner as if the witness had not been called at his instance, and may be allowed to show that the witness has varied from a previous statement made by him.

30. In order to repel an attack on the testimony of a witness, any former statement made by such witness relating to the same fact, at or about the time when the fact took place, before any authority legally competent to investigate the fact shall be admissible, and for that purpose a copy duly certified of any deposition or statement taken before such authority shall be admissible in evidence that such deposition or statement was made, and that it was made at the time and place, and under the circumstances, if any, which shall be stated in the certificate or on the face of the deposition or statement.

31. It shall not be lawful to ask a witness, in order to test his credit, any question the answer to which might criminate, or might tend, directly or indirectly, to criminate him, or might expose or tend, directly or indirectly, to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture of any kind. But a witness shall not be excused from answering any question relevant to the matter in issue in any cause upon the ground that the answer to such question would or might criminate, or tend to criminate him, or that it would or might expose, or tend to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture: Provided that no answer which a witness shall be compelled to give shall, except for the purpose of punishing him for wilfully giving false evidence in such cause, be used as evidence against him in any criminal proceeding.

32. No evidence is admissible to contradict the answers of a party or a witness as to matters affecting his character, but not otherwise bearing upon any question in issue in the cause.

Evidence of statements or conduct of a witness inconsistent with his evidence as to a question directly in issue in a cause is not excluded by this rule.

Illustrations.

(a.) A claim against an underwriter is resisted on the ground of fraud. The party claimant is asked whether in a former transaction he had not made a fraudulent claim. He denies it. Evidence is not admissible to show that he had made a fraudulent claim.

(b.) In a suit by A against B, A is asked whether he h[illegible] from B's service for misco[illegible] Evidence is tendered to c[illegible] statement as to such dismi[illegible] not admissible.

(c.) In an action against [illegible] him by B, a witness for B de[illegible] goods sold and delivered. He is asked whether he had not given a different account of the transaction. He denies it. Evidence is tendered to show that he had given such different account. This evidence is admissible. He is asked whether he had not, after the date of the alleged sale, dealt with B as the owner of the goods. He denies it. Evidence is tendered to show that he had so dealt with B. This evidence is admissible. He is asked whether he had not given a false account of another transaction not in issue in the cause. He denies it. Evidence is tendered to show that he had given such false account. This evidence is not admissible.

(d.) The witness is asked whether he had not received money or a promise of some favour from B to induce him to give his evidence. He denies it. Evidence is tendered to show that he had received such money or promise. This evidence is admissible.

33. A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing, or reduced into writing, relative to the subject-matter of the cause, without such writing being shown to him; but if it is intended to contradict such witness by the writing, his attention must, before such contradictory proof can be given, be called to those parts of the writing which are to be used for the purpose of so contradicting him. The Court may, however, at any time during the trial, require the production of the writing for its inspection, and may thereupon make use of it for the purposes of the trial as may seem fit.

34. A witness may, while under examination, refer to any writing made by himself at the time of the transaction concerning which he is questioned, or so soon afterwards that it may be reasonably presumed that the transaction was fresh in his memory; and he may for the like purpose refer to a writing made by any other person, and read by the witness at the time of such transaction, or so soon afterwards that it may be reasonably presumed that the transaction was fresh in his memory; in such case the writing shall be produced and may be seen by the adverse party, who may, if he choose, cross-examine the witness upon it.

Number of Witnesses.

35. A Court, if satisfied by the evidence given, may in any case act on such evidence, although there may be only the testimony of one witness.

This rule is not rendered inapplicable by the circumstance that the testimony is given in a trial for giving false evidence, or for any offence against the State, or that it is the testimony of an accomplice.

Things of which Judicial Notice is to be taken.

36. The Courts shall take judicial notice of,—

(1.)—All Acts, Regulations and Ordinances having the force of law in any part of British India;

(2.)—All public Acts of the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and all local and personal Acts directed by Parliament to be judicially noticed;

(4.)—All divisions of time, the geographical divisions of the world, the territories under the dominion of the British Crown, the commencement and termination of hostilities between the British Crown and any other State, and the existence, title and national flag of every Sovereign or State recognized by the British Crown.

37. Every Court shall take judicial notice of the names of its own Members and Officers and of their deputies and subordinate Officers or Assistants, and also of all Officers acting in execution of its process, and of all Advocates, Attorneys, Proctors, Vakeels, Pleaders, and other persons authorized by law to act before it

Sources of Information to which Courts may refer.

38. A Court may, in order to inform itself in respect of any of the matters mentioned in Sections 36 and 37 of this Act, and also on matters of public history, literature, science, or art, refer, for the purposes of evidence, to such books, maps, almanacks, or charts as the Court shall consider to be of authority on the subject to which they relate.

SIMLA,
22nd October 1868.

H. S. MAINE.

REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

WE, Your Majesty's Commissioners appointed to prepare a body of substantive law for India, now humbly submit to Your Majesty rules of law which we have prepared on the subject of evidence.

India does not at present possess an uniform law upon this subject. Within the Presidency towns the English law of evidence is in force, modified by certain Acts of the Indian Legislature, of which Act II of 1855 is the most important.

This Act contains many valuable provisions. It extends the range of judicial notice, and facilitates the proof of documents, of foreign systems of law, and of matters of public history. It removes incompetency to testify by reason of interest or relationship; renders parties to suits liable to be called as witnesses and makes husband and wife competent witnesses for or against each other in civil proceedings; renders dying declarations admissible, though the declarant may have entertained hopes of recovery; provides that witnesses may be cross-examined by the party who called them, and that they shall not be excused from answering questions because they may thereby criminate themselves. Declarations which were against the pecuniary interest of the persons who made them, and entries according to the usual course of business, both of which kinds of evidence the English law admits only in case of death, are under this Act admissible if the person who made the declaration or the entry has become incapable of giving evidence or if his testimony cannot be procured. The Act also gives to books regularly kept, and to certain commercial documents, the character of corroborative though not of independent evidence, and makes entries in such books independent evidence of certain formal matters: it extends the class of persons whose declarations are admissible in case of pedigree, and provides in effect that mistakes committed in the rejection or reception of evidence shall not lead to a new trial or to the reversal of a decision unless a substantial failure of justice has been caused thereby. The Act, however, bears reference in many places to the existing law, and it appears to have been designed, not as a complete body of rules, but as supplementary to and corrective of the English law, and also of the customary law of evidence prevailing in those parts of British India where the English law is not administered.

This customary law has not assumed any definite form; the Mahomedan law, since the enactment of the new Code of Criminal Procedure, has ceased to have any validity in the country courts, even in criminal matters; and those courts have in fact no fixed rules of evidence except those contained in Act II of 1855. They are not required to follow the English law as such, although they are not debarred from following it where they regard it as the most equitable.

In laying down uniform rules for the guidance of the Indian judges in general, as well in the Courts just mentioned as in those in which the English law of evidence has hitherto prevailed, we do not think that it would be advisable to adopt a system so artificial as that which has grown up in this country.

The English practice has been moulded in a great degree by our social and legal institutions and our forms of procedure; and much of it is admitted to be unsuited to the various states of society and the different forms of property which are to be met with in India.

In England the aim has been to avoid presenting to the consideration of the jury whatever it was thought could not safely be presented to an unprofessional tribunal. In order to obtain this end, various kinds of evidence, which were deemed little worthy of credit, were pronounced inadmissible, and a great deal of evidence which, if duly weighed and dispassionately considered, would tend to the elucidation of truth, is absolutely excluded. On the other hand, evidence is admitted which is at least as dangerous as that which is shut out. Thus parent and child cannot refuse to bear testimony for or against each other in criminal cases, while a wife cannot be asked a question on the trial of her husband, unless the trial be for an offence committed against herself. In matrimonial cases the inconsistencies of the law as to the competency of the married persons to give evidence cause frequent embarrassment, and even occasional failure of justice.

In a country like India, where the task of judicial investigation is attended with peculiar difficulties, and where it is the duty of the judge in all civil and in some criminal cases, to decide without a jury, there is greater danger of miscarriage from the mind of the court being uninformed than from its being unduly influenced by the information laid before it. It seems, therefore, better to afford every facility for the admission of truth although with some risk that falsehood or error may be mixed with it, than to narrow, with a view to the exclusion of falsehood, the channels by which truth is admitted. It is of course impossible to admit all evidence that may be offered, for this would lead to excessive waste of time, but we have provided that all relevant evidence not expressly excluded by our rules shall be admissible, and that except in those few cases where the Act itself attaches a special importance or effect to particular evidence, the court shall decide for itself whether any weight, and what weight, shall be assigned to each piece of evidence that is submitted to it. The judge must, of course, form his own opinion regarding the relevancy of any evidence which the parties may desire to submit to him, but it is often difficult, especially in the early stage of a trial, to show the exact bearing of each piece of evidence upon the issues. It is by no means our desire that our rules should be understood as imposing upon the judges the use of excessive strictness in excluding evidence of which the applicability cannot be fully shown at the moment when the evidence is tendered. We have, however, inserted provisions intended to a guard against the trial of collateral issues arising out of questions asked with a view to impugn the credit of witnesses.

It will be seen that we have discarded, for the most part, the rules which limit the discretion of the Court in drawing its conclusions from the whole of the evidence. While we do not interfere with those provisions of the Act for the registration of assurances or of the Code of Criminal Procedure which recognize certain things as primâ facie evidence, that is to say, as conclusive unless met by counter-evidence; yet we do not by our own rules attach this character to evidence of any class, nor,—except where the testimony of a witness has been attacked,—do we recognize anything as corroborative though not independent evidence. We have provided that the Court may act upon the testimony of a single witness, even in the case of the gravest offences against the State, or of perjury, or of criminal charges supported by the evidence of accomplices alone.

An attempt to define all the cases in which, and the purposes for which, particular evidence may be received, would in our opinion impede instead of aiding the investigation of truth. We hope that the course which we have adopted will render it easier for those who administer the law to avoid the error so often committed in practice where a strict standard of admissibility exists, that of supposing that whatever evidence is admissible comes in some degree accredited to the court.

The exclusion even of relevant evidence may be desirable, when the evidence is such that people are naturally inclined to attach undue importance to it; when it is such as cannot be admitted without the danger of encouraging forgery; or when it is such as cannot be received or at cannot be extorted, without injury to interests which are even more important than the judicial investigation of truth.

Although we have laid it down generally that all relevant evidence shall be admissible, we have thought it necessary to make certain exceptions from this rule. These exceptions relate chiefly to that kind of evidence which is described in the English books under the title "hearsay." We have, however, abstained from making use of the word "hearsay" from the uncertainty and vagueness of the meaning usually attributed to that word. What a witness says as to what some other person has said or written may be called "hearsay" in one sense of that word, and that the widest or popular sense: but the statements by a witness of what he has heard another person say may be in fact (as in cases of slander) the very matter in issue; or in other cases may be part of the circumstances which it is essential to ascertain. On the other hand, "hearsay" may be defined to be that which a witness does not say as of his own knowledge, but says that another has said or signified to him. This is probably a more strict and accurate definition of the word "hearsay" as used in the English law; but it does not include all that is known in that law as "hearsay."

After much considering this subject, we have thought that it would promote a more accurate apprehension of our meaning, and be of more practical utility in the Indian courts, if we were to exclude the word altogether. We have, therefore, without attempting any definition of the "hearsay," endeavoured to lay down rules for the exclusion of that class of evidence in the cases in which we think it ought to be excluded, and for the admission of it in the cases in which we think it ought to be admitted. We have accordingly gone through the various classes of evidence, which arises the question of admissibility or exclusion of what is called in the English law "hearsay," and have endeavoured to state the rule applicable to each class.

Most of the rules are recognized by the English kind of evidence in accordance with the Indian law, others are above referred to, or are intended Act II of 1855, and rules still further than was to relax the English rules done by that enactment.

We have, for instance, made admissible in evidence that which has been spoken, written, or otherwise intimated in the ordinary course of business by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured; and we have admitted entries in books kept in the ordinary course of business. We have also made admissible written acknowledgments of the receipt of money, goods, securities, or property of any kind, and documents used in commerce. Declarations which under the English law are only admitted because they have been made against interest by the effect of our rules, be excluded, unless they have been made in the ordinary course of business. The test of pecuniary interest is exceedingly difficult of application, and appears to us to be of little value as a test of truth.

We have admitted statements as to matters of [illegible] and of pedigree made by persons since [illegible] or whose presence cannot [illegible] the case of pedigree a [illegible] made the statement [illegible] of knowledge. We have discarded the condition of the English law which requires that the statement shall have been made before the controversy had arisen, as we think that this circumstance affects rather the weight than the admissibility of the statement.

We have allowed a limited effect, as evidence, to newspaper reports of public meetings.

The indulgence afforded to witnesses by the existing law in permitting them to refer to contemporaneous memoranda appears to us to be carried too far when copies of such memoranda are allowed to be used for the purpose; and our rules do not permit the use of copies.

Another cause of exclusion applies to documentary evidence. Unless some degree of caution were observed with regard to the authentication of writings, great facilities would be afforded for the fabrication of documents. We have, therefore, laid down rules for the evidence to be required of the proper execution of documents, and retaining the distinction between primary and secondary evidence, have provided against the admission of the latter where the former is procurable. We hope that these rules will, in combination with the laws lately passed by the Indian Legislature for the registration of assurances, tend to the improvement of Indian documentary evidence.*

The third case in which we have excluded testimony is, where its admission would be dangerous to the public service, or inconsistent with decency or morality, with the confidence of married life, or with the freedom of intercourse between a client and his legal adviser.

We have provided that questions of a criminatory tendency shall not be asked merely in order to test the credit of a witness.

We have not adopted Section 19 of Act XIX of 1853, which excuses witnesses from producing their own title-deeds, a provision which must, under an improved system of registration, become every dayess suited to India. Judges will, no doubt, protect witnesses from the production of their title-deeds when they are not relevant and material to the cause.

We have not adopted in all respects the doctrines of the English law on the subject of the effect of previous decisions when adduced as evidence.

To those judgments, which are admitted by the laws of all other countries as conclusive evidence not only between the parties but as against strangers, we have affixed the same character in India; in all other cases we have provided that the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction upon a matter directly in issue shall be admissible as evidence between the same parties upon the same matter directly in issue in another cause, but that it shall not be conclusive. As regards strangers, we have provided that it shall be admissible merely as evidence that such judgment was pronounced between the parties.

We have thought that the court will arrive at the truth more accurately if left to draw their inference from the evidence given, than if fettered by rules of presumption, which are, in our opinion, incapable of being laid down so as to be universally applicable.

* By the Indian Registration Act XX of 1866, it is provided that instruments creating important interests in immoveable property must, in order to be received in evidence or to affect property, be registered; that other documents may be registered, and that all registered documents shall possess certain advantages.

It may perhaps be made a question how far the subject of evidence falls under the head of substantive law, and some of the sections of the draft now submitted certainly border closely on procedure. Those sections, however, have not found a place in either of the Codes of Procedure. We have, therefore, inserted them (with some modifications), as it appears to us that the Law of Evidence ought not to be left to be gleaned from many different enactments, but that so much of it as is not to be found in the Codes of Procedure should be, as far as possible, comprised in the rules of law now submitted by us, and that the enactments which will thus be rendered unnecessary should be repealed.

We recommend the repeal of so much of Acts II of 1855 and XIX of 1833 as remains unrepealed, except section 26 of the latter enactment, which does not form part of the Law of Evidence

The following are the Conditions of Sale :—

1. The Opium will be sold for exportation by Sea only, and no Certificate will be granted except to cover such Export.

2. The Opium will be ordinarily offered for sale at an upset price of Rupees 800 per chest and sold to the highest bidder above that price, except under the circumstances for which provision is made by Clause 12th of these Conditions of Sale.

3. The sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day fixed by previous notification, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M.; but if at that hour any of the lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a Public Holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M., and so on until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of, or, if the whole quantity advertised shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board may dispose of the lots which remain [illegible] a future sale.

5. A Promissory Note for a sum calculated according to the scale noted in the margin shall be taken as a deposit on each lot from the purchaser in the Sale-room, and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government, on before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after the sale, or on the other hand, falling such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts, or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit, and all losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale, shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

On bids of Rs. 1,600 and upwards, but less than Rs. 2,000 per chest	,, 400 ,,

And so on, Rs. 100 being added to the deposit for every bid additional to the extent of Rs. 400.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last-mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realisation in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No Tender of Money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth Condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or chests shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium, after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchace, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots, or of a different number of lots or chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present Cond'tions will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual, unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these Conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot, and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot; and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of Rupees 800 specified in the second of these Conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots, provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date, by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertised for sale. No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1867-68, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade, will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognise any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified, that, under the 16th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand, that out of the quantities of Behar and Behares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1869, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale, within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thiry days from the publication of this notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above mentioned, the entire quaintity of about 44,915 chests of Behar and Benares as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for a quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales abovementioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French Authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

By Order of the Directors,

E PEREMPTORILY SOLD,

Notice

Is hereby given that an application has been made under Act XXII. of 1863, for the registration of the necessary works for constructing a "Floating Road Bridge" at Calcutta, from a point on the left bank of the River Hooghly, near Armenian Ghât, to the right bank of the said River opposite the new approach to the Station of the East Indian Railway at Howrah, whereby the means of conveying traffic on, along, and across the said River, will be provided; such means being now insufficient, and additional ones being much needed, and the provision thereof being of great local and public advantage.

Water-tight iron flats or barges, each 110 feet long by 16 feet wide, will be coupled together and moored as floating piers at intervals of 100 feet, a timber superstructure being raised thereon, carrying a roadway of 40 feet in width for wheeled traffic, with two footways of 5 feet each, at an elevation of 16 feet above the water level at the ends of the Bridge, rising by easy gradients of 1 in 50 to 25 feet above the water level at the central portion, which will be horizontal for a length of 400 feet.

A minimum headway of 22 feet will be thus afforded in the central portion of the Bridge, and a clear opening of 42 feet between the barges for country craft at all times, and by removing two pairs of boats a clear waterway of 200 feet in width or more, if considered necessary, will be obtained for the passage of ships and steamers. The land approaches will slope down to either bank of the River by a gentle inclination, the Bridge being connected therewith by adjusting ways 60 feet long, hinged at one end to the Float- [illegible] other end to the fixed [illegible]

State of the Crops in the Lower Provinces of Bengal.

From R. L. MANGLES, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 5984B., dated Fort William, the 7th November 1868.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of Government Order No. 3501, dated the 3rd instant, and with reference to its last paragraph to submit, for the information of Government, the following abstract of the reports received up to date, on the state of the crops in the Lower Provinces at the close of the last month.

2. In the Presidency Division the prospect of the crops is reported to be generally fair, with the exception of the tract in the 24-Pergunnahs which was submerged, and where relief measures are already in progress.

3. District of Midnapore.—The crops are stated to be very good in the Sub-Divisions of Gurbetta and Contai, except about Jellamoota and in the Debda Jheel, where it is stated there can be no cultivation this season. In the Sudder Sub-Division a good crop is expected in Pergunnah Brahmunbhoom, and in the neighbourhood of the Station, and a fair one about Narainghur and Dantoon; but the accounts from the Jungle Mehals state the crops there to be perishing for want of rain. In the Tumlook Sub-Division the want of rain is also felt, specially in Pergunnah Doro. The Collector is, however, of opinion that if there is one or two days' rain now, a fair crop will be reaped throughout almost the whole District, otherwise it will be found that the drought has done more harm than the inundation.

4. District of Bullooah.—The crops are reported to be everywhere good.

5. District of Chittagong.—Eleven or twelve annas crop is expected, and more if rain falls.

6. District of Tipperah.—The prospects of the crops continue excellent.

7. District of Hazareebaugh.—The prospects of the rice crops are generally good, except in parts of Pergunnahs Ahoori and Chye, at Kodurmah and Datarah, and Kendee, where they are very indifferent.

8. Cooch Behar Division.—The crops are favorable, but rain is wanted in the Sub-Division of Dhoobree, and the Sudder Sub-Division of Gowalparah.

9. Dacca Division.—The crops are reported to be generally good all over the Division. The Commissioner, who lately passed through the Districts of Backergunge, Dacca and Mymensing, states that the crops generally seemed excellent. Owing to want of rain, however, a certain amount of failure is anticipated as regards the crops on the high grounds, but notwithstanding this, a fair out-turn of rice is expected, though the total will fall short of the estimates formed in September last. In Sylhet a full crop is not anticipated unless rain is obtained.

10. Patna Division.—The prospects of the crops are generally unfavorable, and unless rain falls soon, the rice crops will greatly fail, and very little rubbee will be sown. The Commissioner has called upon the Collectors to draw up and be prepared with schemes for affording relief if required. The Board are of opinion that any further steps are not immediately necessary. The Commissioner has promised to submit a further report this week. The Commissioners of Patna and Bhaugulpore have been requested to submit Statements shewing the quantity of grain exported, by the Railway into the North-Western Provinces, from Stations in those Divisions during the month of October, and for each week subsequent to that date.

11. A supplementary report will be submitted on receipt of information from the remaining Districts.

P. S.—Since the above has been written, the following telegram has been received from the Commissioner of the Bhaugulpore Division:—"The crops everywhere, except in Purneah, have suffered much from want of rain; rice crops will be very short in south of Bhaugulpore, south-west of Monghyr, and Rajmehal. No serious distress apprehended anywhere for two or three months; full report by post to-morrow."

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th October 1868:—

No. 26 OF 1868.

A Bill to define and amend the Law of Evidence.

PREAMBLE.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the Law of Evidence; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

MEANING OF WORDS.

1. In the following rules, the word Court shall be taken to comprise all Courts of Justice, civil or criminal, and all persons having by law or consent of parties authority to take evidence; and the word Cause shall be taken to comprise all judicial proceedings, civil or criminal.

ADMISSIBILITY.

2. Whenever any evidence is said to be admissible, it is not meant that it is to be regarded as conclusive, but only that the weight, if any, which the deciding authority may consider due, shall be allowed to it.

Anything which has a bearing upon any question in issue in a cause, the determination of which question is material to the decision of the cause, is admissible, unless it is excluded by the rules contained in this Act.

3. No statement by a witness of anything, or founded upon anything spoken, written, or otherwise intimated by another person, and no statement contained in any document is admissible in evidence, except in the cases specified in the rules hereinafter contained.

Illustrations.

(a.)—B is tried for robbing C. A gives evidence that D told him that he saw B rob C. The evidence is inadmissible.

(b.)—B is tried for robbing C. A gives evidence that D, a deaf and dumb person, intimated to him by signs that he saw B rob C. The evidence is inadmissible.

(c.)—A gives evidence that B robbed C. Being asked how he knows it, he says that he knows it only because E told him so. The evidence which has been admitted must be struck out.

(d.)—A says that B was alive on the 1st January 1860. It appears that A does not speak to this fact of his own knowledge, but that he learnt it from a letter written to him by C, or from a newspaper, or from a printed book, or a picture. In each of these cases, A's statement is not admissible as evidence that B was alive on that day.

(e.)—A says that B was alive on the 1st January 1860. Being asked how he knows this, he produces a letter dated that day from B, whose handwriting he verifies. The letter is admissible as evidence that B was alive on that day.

4. Such evidence is admissible,—

(1.)—Where the fact that a thing was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated is a question in issue.

Illustration.

A says that he has been told by B that he saw C pick D's pocket. This is admissible in an action against B for slandering C.

(2.)—Where the fact that a person by or to whom the thing was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated, was acquainted with such thing is a question in issue.

Illustration.

A writes to B "I have just heard that C has failed." The letter is received by B. The letter is not admissible as evidence that C has failed; but when it is proved that C had then failed, the letter is admissible as evidence that the failure was known to A at the place and time at which the letter was written, and also that B was apprised of it.

(3.)—Where the thing spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated, tends to explain any act or conduct which is a question in issue.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A says on a trial of C for robbing D's house, that he heard B say to C "D's house has been robbed," and that thereupon C fled. This evidence is admissible.

(b.)—On a trial of B for robbing C's house, it is proved that B fled immediately after the robbery. A witness is produced, who says that he heard A tell B before B fled, that a warrant had been issued for his arrest under a decree of a civil court. This evidence is admissible.

(c.)—A is on his trial for shooti[illegible] B with intent to kill him. It is alleged on [illegible] behalf that the shooting was accidental. Evidence of what A said at the time is admissible as evidence, either for A or against him.

(d.)—A sues B for compensation for maliciously causing him to be apprehended on a charge of theft. Evidence that a theft had been committed in B's house, and that C told B that he saw A running away immediately after, is admissible.

(e.)—A says that he has heard B say to C "Pay me the 1,000 rupees which you owe me." This is no evidence that C owed B 1,000 rupees, but it is evidence that B claimed 1,000 rupees, and it is admissible in order to introduce evidence of what C said or did with respect to the claim.

(f.)—A is charged with sedition, and is proved to have combined with B for seditious purposes. Evidence of words spoken by B, while taking part in a riot in furtherance of those purposes, is admissible against A.

(4.)—Where the thing was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated by a party to the suit, or some one whom he represents in interest, and it is sought to be used against him.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A brings a suit against B to establish a right of way across B's field. Evidence that C, from whom B derives his title to the land, had, while owner, admitted A's right of way, is admissible.

(b.)—A writes to B "By the direction of C, I request you will ship for him 100 bales of cotton." The letter is evidence against A that he had received such direction from C, but is not evidence against C that he had given the direction.

(c.)—In a deed to which A was not a party, but which was made between B and C, strangers to A, it is stated that A had become insolvent. This deed is as against B or C admissible in evidence to show that A had become insolvent, but it is not admissible against A for that purpose.

(5.)—In the cases provided for by sections 368, 369, 370 and 371 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

(6.)—Where the evidence tendered consists in a statement which was received in evidence in a former judicial proceeding relating to the same subject and between the same parties, or those whom they represent in interest, and where the person who made such statement has since died, or become incapable of giving evidence, or where his presence cannot be procured: provided that if such person were present, his evidence would be admissible.

(7.)—Where the thing spoken, written, stated or otherwise intimated was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated in the ordinary course of business by a person who has died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A, the shipping agent of the firm of B and Co., states in a letter to B and Co. that he has just seen a certain ship of theirs sail from the port of Calcutta. The letter is admissible as evidence of the sailing of the ship.

(b.)—A, an attorney, prepares the draft of an intended deed to which B was to be a party, and indorses upon it a memorandum that a copy had been sent to another attorney on a certain day. The draft contains a statement that B was in insolvent circumstances. The draft and indorsement are admissible as evidence to shew that such a copy was sent to the other attorney, but are not admissible as evidence to show that B had become insolvent.

(c.)—A, a commercial traveller employed by the firm of B and Co. to obtain orders and information in the cotton trade only, writes to B and Co. that the firm of C and Co. have ordered of him as such traveller a certain quantity of cotton, and in the same letter he mentions the state of the silk market. A's letter is admissible as evidence of the order given to him, but not of the state of the silk market.

(8.)—Where the thing intimated consists in entries in books kept in the ordinary course of business, or consists in written acknowledgments of the receipt of money, goods, securities, or property of any kind, or in any document used in commerce.

Illustrations.

(a.)—Entries are made by a clerk of a firm in the books of the firm to the effect that the firm has received a consignment of cotton from A, and has purchased 50 chests of indigo from B. These are admissible in evidence against all the partners in the firm.

(b.)—A, one of two partners, makes an entry in the partnership books that he had lent his partner B Rupees 1,000. The entry is not admissible in evidence against B that A had lent him the Rupees 1,000.

(c.)—A clerk whose business it is to make entries in the books of a firm of all monies paid by him, makes an entry in the books that he had paid away Rupees 1,000 for the firm. This entry is admissible in evidence that he had so paid away the money.

(d.)—The firm of A and Co. keep a book in which the despatch and receipt of letters by the firm is regularly noted. An entry in this book of the despatch of a letter on the 1st January 1860 to the firm of B and Co. is admissible in evidence that a letter was despatched on that day by A and Co. to B and Co.

(e.)—The letters written by the firm of A and Co. are, according to the ordinary course of business, copied into a book, and afterwards despatched. A and Co. in order to show that a letter in stated terms was despatched by them on a certain day to B and Co., tender in evidence an entry in their letter-book purporting to be a copy of a letter addressed by them on that day to B and Co., and an entry of the fact that such letter was despatched. The entries are admissible.

(f.)—A guarantees the payment by C of a sum of money due from him to B. A pays the amount to B, and sues C for re-payment. A tenders in evidence a receipt given to himself by B for the amount due. The receipt is admissible in evidence.

(g.)—A sues B for the proceeds of a cargo of cotton consigned by A to B, and sold through a broker. The account sales rendered by the broker are admissible in evidence.

(h.)—A, a wharfinger, gives to B an acknowledgment that 100 tons of copper have been deposited at A's wharf. This acknowledgment is admissible in evidence of the fact that the deposit has been made.

(i.)—A effects a policy on his ship against sea-risks. The ship goes to sea and sustains injury. A institutes a suit to recover damages from the underwriters. The log-book of the ship is admissible in evidence.

(9.)—Where the thing spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated, relates to the usages or tenets of any body of men, the constitution or government of any religious or charitable foundation, or the meaning of any technical or conventional words or terms, or of any words or terms used in particular districts, or to any matter of public or general interest, and was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A, in order to show the religious tenets of a certain sect, tenders in evidence a manuscript treatise, proved to have been written by a deceased member of the sect. The treatise is admissible.

(b.)—It is a disputed fact in a suit whether a certain spot is or is not a public landing-place Statements made on the subject by A and B, now deceased, who resided in the neighbourhood, are admissible in evidence.

(10.)—Where the thing spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated, has reference to the relationship of one person to another, and was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured: provided that such person was a member of the family, or had otherwise special means of knowledge.

Illustrations.

(a.)—It is a disputed fact in the suit whether A is the son of B. A statement made on the subject by C, who was a nurse in B's family about the time of A's birth, is admissible in evidence.

(b.)—A alleging that he is the son of B, deceased, produces the following documents in which he is mentioned as the son of B:—

1. An entry made by B in a memorandum book stating A's birth;
2. Letters which passed between two of B's brothers, since deceased;
3. A deed executed by B.

A also produces witnesses who state that B told them that A was his son.

The contents of the documents and the testimony of the witnesses are admissible in evidence.

(11.)—Where the thing intimated is a fact of a public nature and appears by a recital contained in any Act of the Governor General of India made before or after the passing of this Act, or is notified by any official communication of the Government appearing in the Gazette of India, or in any paper purporting to be the Government Gazette of any Presidency or Lieutenant-Governorship of British India, or of any colony or possession of the British Crown.

(12.)—Where the thing intimated is that there has been a public meeting or public proceeding, and such intimation is contained in a report thereof published in any newspaper or journal.

Explanation.—Such report is not admissible in evidence of any fact reported to have occurred, or of any statement reported to have been made at the meeting or proceeding.

Evidence of law of Foreign Country.

(13.)—Where the thing intimated purports to be the law of a foreign country, and appears to be contained in books or documents purporting to be printed or published under the authority of the Government of that country, or in reports of decisions of the Courts of such country.

Maps.

5. Maps made under the authority of Government shall be admissible as evidence.

"Res Judicata."

6. A grant of probate or of administration unrevoked shall have effect as provided by the Indian Succession Act, section 242.

7. A decree declaring a marriage void is proof that the parties never were husband and wife. A decree declaring a marriage dissolved is proof that the parties have ceased to be husband and wife, if they ever were such.

8. A decree adjudging a ship to the captors as a prize of war is proof that the ship has become the property of the captors.

9. The judgment of a Court of competent jurisdiction upon a matter directly in issue is admissible as evidence between the same parties, and those who represent them in interest upon the same matter directly in issue in another cause; but not between any other parties, except as provided for in the next following section of this Act.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A sues B for a horse, alleging that it was stolen from himself, and that B bought it, knowing it to be stolen. Judgment is given in B's favor. B afterwards loses the horse. A finds it, and B sues A for it. A in defence makes the same allegations as in the former suit. The judgment pronounced in the former suit is admissible as evidence in B's favor.

(b.)—A sues B for rent in the Court of the Collector, which has cognizance of such suits. B sets up in defence a mortgage under which he is entitled to retain the rent in satisfaction of the interest of his mortgage. A disputes the genuineness of the mortgage, but the Court pronounces it genuine, and dismisses A's suit. Afterwards B sues A in the District Court to recover the amount due to him upon the mortgage. A disputes the genuineness of the mortgage. The judgment of the Collector is admissible in evidence.

10. A decree of a Court of competent jurisdiction is admissible as evidence that such a judgment pronounced between the parties, but is not as against any person other than the parties thereto and those who represent them in interest evidence of any other fact thereby appearing.

Illustrations.

(a.)—A sues B for compensation for injury sustained through the negligence of C, who is B's agent. A obtains judgment. In a suit brought by B against C for compensation for loss sustained by B through C's negligence, the judgment is admissible as evidence of the amount which A has been adjudged to pay, but not as evidence of B's negligence.

(b.)—A sues B for compensation, because B yielded up to C certain lands which B held as guardian of A, who was then a minor. A decree passed in a prior suit, whereby B was directed to yield up possession to C as owner, is admissible in evidence.

(c.)—A is tried on the charge of having forged a deed of gift from B. He is acquitted. Afterwards C, alleging the deed of gift to be a forgery, institutes a suit against A for certain lands, of which A has obtained possession under it. The record of A's acquittal is not admissible in evidence.

(d.)—A, one of three Hindú brothers, undivided in estate, dies, and his brothers B and C alleging that they are his heirs, sell to D a portion of the land which they possessed jointly with A.

E, claiming as the adopted son and heir of A, sues D for A's share of the land sold to D, and obtains a decree in his favour. He afterwards, claiming as such adopted son of A, sues B and C for A's share of the land which remains in their possession. The decree in the former suit is not admissible in evidence.

(e.)—A, alleging that he is the only brother and the heir of B, deceased, sues C for possession of B's land. The Court declares A's title established, and decrees that C shall yield up the land to him.

Afterwards D claims to be the son and heir of B, and sues A for possession of the lands. The decree in the former suit is admissible in evidence that A had obtained such a decree, but is not admissible as evidence that he was entitled to the land as the only brother and heir of B.

(f.)—Two ships come into collision, whereby A, a passenger in one of them, is maimed, and B's goods are destroyed. A obtains a decree for compensation from the owners of the other ship on the ground that the injuries were sustained by him through the negligence of their captain. B sues the owners of the same ship for compensation for the loss of his goods. The judgment is not admissible in B's suit as evidence of the captain's negligence.

(g.)—A sues B for maintenance of C, a minor, whom A alleges to be B's son. B denies that C is his son. The Court decides that C is B's son, and decrees payment by B of A's claims.

B. dies. C, alleging that he is B's son, sues the executor of D for a legacy of 10,000 rupees; D having by his will bequeathed that sum to every child of B. The judgment is not admissible in evidence that C is not a son of B.

Proof of Writings which constitute primary evidence.

11. A writing which is not required by law to be attested, but which is alleged to have been signed by a specified person, or to have been written wholly or in part by a specified person, shall not, except in the cases provided for by sections 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 of this Act, be received as evidence, unless the signature attached thereto or so much of the same writing as it is sought to verify, be proved to be in the hand-writing of the person by whom it is alleged to have been written or signed.

12. A written instrument which is required by law to be attested, shall not (except in the cases provided for by Section 20 of this Act) be received as evidence, unless the following rules are complied with:—

(1.)—The execution of such instrument shall be proved by one attesting witness at the least if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court by which the cause is tried, and capable of bearing testimony.

(2.)—If no attesting witness is alive and subject to such process as aforesaid, and capable of bearing testimony, it shall be proved that the attestation of one attesting witness at the least is in his handwriting, and evidence must be adduced to show that the person who executed the instrument was the same person who is alleged to have done so.

13. In order to ascertain whether a signature, writing, or seal, is genuine, any signature, writing, or seal, which has been admitted or proved to the satisfaction of the judge to be genuine, may be compared with the disputed one.

14. Where a written instrument purports or is proved to be thirty years old, and is produced from the proper custody, it shall be admissible in evidence without proof of its execution or attestation.

Proof of the Contents of Documents by Secondary Evidence.

15. Evidence of the contents or purport of any written or printed document, or of letters, figures, or other marks not produced to the Court, shall not be admissible, except as provided by the rules next following:—

(1.)—A copy of or extract from any proclamation, order, or regulation, issued by Her Majesty or by the Privy Council or any department of Her Majesty's Government, shall be admissible in evidence: Provided that such copy or extract is contained in the London Gazette, or in such other Gazette or paper as mentioned in section four, clause (11) of this Act: Or provided it purports to be printed by the Government printer, or to be printed under the authority of the Legislature of any British colony or possession, or to be certified to be true by the proper officer.

(2.)—A copy of a record of any court, or of an entry in any public book or register, which is proved to be a correct copy, or which purports to be under the seal of such Court, or to be certified by the proper officer, shall be admissible as evidence of the existence and the contents of any such record or entry.

(3.)—Evidence shall be admissible of inscriptions or marks which are proved to have been destroyed or lost, or which cannot be produced by reason of their being engraved on or affixed to trees, buildings, or other things of an immoveable character.

(4.)—Evidence of the contents of a written or printed document shall be admissible when it has been proved that the document has been destroyed or lost, or when the person in whose custody it is, is not subject to the process of the Court by which the cause is tried, or is not legally bound to produce the document, or refuses, after due notice, to produce it, or when its absence is otherwise satisfactorily accounted for.

Evidence of Terms of Contract.

16. Where a contract or a grant or other disposition of property is in writing, no evidence of the terms of such contract, grant, or disposition shall be received, except the writing itself, or such evidence of its contents as may be admissible under the provisions of the last preceding section.

Explanation.—The statement of a fact in any such document does not preclude the admission of oral evidence relating to the same fact; and where a suit is instituted for the purpose of setting aside or varying a document on the ground of a mistake in the writing thereof, evidence may be received for the purpose of proving such mistake.

Papers of which proof is not required.

17. No proof shall be required of the genuineness of any paper purporting to be the London Gazette or the Gazette of India or the Government Gazette of any Presidency or Lieutenant-Governorship of British India, or of any colony or possession of the British Crown, nor of any paper purporting to be a newspaper or journal, or a copy of a private Act of Parliament printed by the Queen's printer.

18. No proof shall be required of the genuineness of any paper purporting to be a certificate, certified copy or other document which is by law made evidence of any particular fact: Provided that such paper is substantially in the form and purports to be executed in the manner directed by the law in that behalf.

19 No proof shall be required of the official position of any person certifying to the truth of any such paper as is mentioned in the last preceding rule.

20. Any paper purporting to be a power of attorney, and to have been executed before and authenticated by a notary public or any Court, Judge, Magistrate, British Consul or Vice-Consul or representative of Her Majesty, or of the Government of India, shall be admissible in evidence.

21. An impression of any document made by a copying machine, or a representation of any thing made by means of photography, or of any other process which affords a reasonable assurance of correctness, shall be admissible in evidence, wherever under these Rules the production of the original may be dispensed with.

Persons who may testify.

22. Those persons only shall be incompetent to testify who from tender years, or from unsoundness of mind, or from any other cause appear to the judge to be incapable of understanding the questions addressed to them.

Privilege.

23. A witness is not at liberty to disclose a communication.

(1.)—When such communication relates to affairs of State, and its disclosure has not been sanctioned by the proper officer.

(2.)—Where the communication was made by one of a married couple to the other during their marriage, and did not relate to a matter then in dispute in a suit pending between them, and where the consent of the person who made it, or, if such person be dead, of his or her representative in interest, has not been obtained for such disclosure.

(3.)—Where the witness is a barrister, attorney or vakeel, or an interpreter or intermediate agent between the client and his legal adviser, and the communication was made by the client or principal to the witness in the course of his professional employment, or consists of any advice given or conveyed by the witness professionally to his client or principal, or of the contents of any document of his client or principal, the knowledge of which the witness has acquired in the course of his professional employment, and where the client or principal or his representative in interest has not consented to the disclosure of such communication.

(4.)—Where the disclosure demanded of the witness consists in the production of documents belonging to another person who would not be bound to produce them if in his possession, and who has not consented to their production.

24. A witness is not compellable to disclose to the Court any confidential communication which may have taken place between him and his legal professional adviser.

25. No communication made in furtherance of a criminal purpose is protected from disclosure.

26. A witness summoned to produce a document shall, if the same be in his custody, possession, or power, be bound to bring it into Court, notwithstanding any objection to the right of the party calling for it to compel its production, or to its being read, or being put in as evidence, or to the disclosure of its contents.

The validity of any such objection made by the person bringing the document shall be determined by the Court; and for the better determination thereof, it shall be lawful for the Court to receive any admissible evidence which such person may give respecting it; and it shall also be lawful for the Court, unless the document relates to affairs of State, to inspect it, and if necessary, to employ any person to interpret it under the obligation of an oath, and not to disclose its contents except to the Court, unless the Court shall decide that the document is to be given in evidence.

27. No question shall be put to a married person which substantially amounts to inquiring whether that person has had sexual intercourse forbidden to him or her by the law to which he or she is subject.

28. No question regarding the occurrence of sexual intercourse between a husband and wife shall be put to either of them, except in the case of Christians, where the suit is for a decree of nullity of marriage on the ground of bodily incapacity; and except in the case of persons who are not Christians, where the knowledge of the fact inquired after is necessary to the determination of some question between the husband and wife according to the law to which they are subject.

Examination of Witnesses.

29. The party at whose instance a witness is examined, may, with the permission of the Court, cross-examine such witness, to test his veracity, in the same manner as if the witness had not been called at his instance, and may be allowed to show that the witness has varied from a previous statement made by him.

30. In order to repel an attack on the testimony of a witness, any former statement made by such witness relating to the same fact, at or about the time when the fact took place, before any authority legally competent to investigate the fact shall be admissible, and for that purpose a copy duly certified of any deposition or statement taken before such authority shall be admissible in evidence that such deposition or statement was made, and that it was made at the time and place, and under the circumstances, if any, which shall be stated in the certificate or on the face of the deposition or statement.

31. It shall not be lawful to ask a witness, in order to test his credit, any question the answer to which might criminate, or might tend, directly or indirectly, to criminate him, or might expose or tend, directly or indirectly, to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture of any kind. But a witness shall not be excused from answering any question relevant to the matter in issue in any cause upon the ground that the answer to such question would or might criminate, or tend to criminate him, or that it would or might expose, or tend to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture: Provided that no answer which a witness shall be compelled to give shall, except for the purpose of punishing him for wilfully giving false evidence in such cause, be used as evidence against him in any criminal proceeding.

32. No evidence is admissible to contradict the answers of a party or a witness as to matters affecting his character, but not otherwise bearing upon any question in issue in the cause.

Evidence of statements or conduct of a witness inconsistent with his evidence as to a question directly in issue in a cause is not excluded by this rule.

Illustrations.

(a.) A claim against an underwriter is resisted on the ground of fraud. The party claimant is asked whether in a former transaction he had not made a fraudulent claim. He denies it. Evidence is not admissible to show that he had made such fraudulent claim.

(b.) In a suit by A against B a witness for A is asked whether he had not been dismissed from B's service for misconduct. He denies it. Evidence is tendered to contradict the witness's statement as to such dismissal. The evidence is not admissible.

(c.) In an action against A for goods sold to him by B, a witness for B deposes that he saw the goods sold and delivered. He is asked whether he had not given a different account of the transaction. He denies it. Evidence is tendered to show that he had given such different account. This evidence is admissible. He is asked whether he had not, after the date of the alleged sale, dealt with B as the owner of the goods. He denies it. Evidence is tendered to show that he had so dealt with B. This evidence is admissible. He is asked whether he had not given a false account of another transaction not in issue in the cause. He denies it. Evidence is tendered to show that he had given such false account. This evidence is not admissible.

(d.) The witness is asked whether he had not received money or a promise of some favour from B to induce him to give his evidence. He denies it. Evidence is tendered to show that he had received such money or promise. This evidence is admissible.

33. A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing, or reduced into writing, relative to the subject-matter of the cause, without such writing being shown to him; but if it is intended to contradict such witness by the writing, his attention must, before such contradictory proof can be given, be called to those parts of the writing which are to be used for the purpose of so contradicting him. The Court may, however, at any time during the trial, require the production of the writing for its inspection, and may thereupon make such use of it for the purposes of the trial as may seem fit.

34. A witness may, while under examination, refer to any writing made by himself at the time of the transaction concerning which he is questioned, or so soon afterwards that it may be reasonably presumed that the transaction was fresh in his memory; and he may for the like purpose refer to a writing made by any other person, and read by the witness at the time of such transaction, or so soon afterwards that it may be reasonably presumed that the transaction was fresh in his memory. In such case the writing shall be produced and may be seen by the adverse party, who may, if he choose, cross-examine the witness upon it.

Number of Witnesses.

35. A Court, if satisfied by the evidence given, may in any case act on such evidence, although there may be only the testimony of one witness.

This rule is not rendered inapplicable by the circumstance that the testimony is given in a trial for giving false evidence, or for any offence against the State, or that it is the testimony of an accomplice.

Things of which Judicial Notice is to be taken.

36. The Courts shall take judicial notice of,—

(1.)—All Acts, Regulations and Ordinances having the force of law in any part of British India;

(2.)—All public Acts of the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and all local and personal Acts directed by Parliament to be judicially noticed;

(3.)—The names, titles and functions of the persons filling for the time being any public office any part of India;

(4.)—All divisions of time, the geographical divisions of the world, the territories under the dominion of the British Crown, the commencement, continuation and termination of hostilities between the British Crown and any other State, and the existence, title and national flag of every Sovereign or State recognized by the British Crown.

37. Every Court shall take judicial notice of the names of its own Members and Officers and of their deputies and subordinate Officers or Assistants, and also of all Officers acting in execution of its process, and of all Advocates, Attorneys, Proctors, Vakeels, Pleaders, and other persons authorized by law to act before it.

Sources of Information to which Courts may refer.

38. A Court may, in order to inform itself in respect of any of the matters mentioned in Sections 36 and 37 of this Act, and also on matters of public history, literature, science, or art, refer, for the purposes of evidence, to such books, maps, almanacks, or charts as the Court shall consider to be of authority on the subject to which they relate.

Saving of Registration law.

39 The foregoing Rules are to take effect subject to the provisions of the law for the time being in force regarding the registration of any document.

Repeal of Acts.

40. Act No. XIX. of 1853 (to amend the Law of Evidence in the Civil Courts of the East India Company in the Bengal Presidency,) Section 19, and Act No. II. of 1855 (for the further improvement of the Law of Evidence) are hereby repealed.

SIMLA, 22nd October 1868. } H. S. MAINE.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

WE, Your Majesty's Commissioners appointed to prepare a body of substantive law for India, now humbly submit to Your Majesty rules of law which we have prepared on the subject of evidence.

India does not at present possess an uniform law upon this subject. Within the Presidency towns the English law of evidence is in force, modified by certain Acts of the Indian Legislature, of which Act II of 1855 is the most important.

This Act contains many valuable provisions. It extends the range of judicial notice, and facilitates the proof of documents, of foreign systems of law, and of matters of public history. It removes incompetency to testify by reason of interest or relationship; renders parties to suits liable to be called as witnesses and makes husband and wife competent witnesses for or against each other in civil proceedings; renders dying declarations admissible, though the declarant may have entertained hopes of recovery; provides that witnesses may be cross-examined by the party who called them, and that they shall not be excused from answering questions because they may thereby criminate themselves. Declarations which were against the pecuniary interest of the persons who made them, and entries according to the usual course of business, both of which kinds of evidence the English law admits only in case of death, are under this Act admissible if the person who made the declaration or the entry has become incapable of giving evidence or if his testimony cannot be procured. The Act also gives to books regularly kept, and to certain commercial documents, the character of corroborative though not of independent evidence, and makes entries in such books independent evidence of certain formal matters: it extends the class of persons whose declarations are admissible in case of pedigree, and provides in effect that mistakes committed in the rejection or reception of evidence shall not lead to a new trial or to the reversal of a decision unless a substantial failure of justice has been caused thereby. The Act, however, bears reference in many places to the existing law, and it appears to have been designed, not as a complete body of rules, but as supplementary to and corrective of the English law, and also of the customary law of evidence prevailing in those parts of British India where the English law is not administered.

This customary law has not assumed any definite form; the Mahomedan law, since the enactment of the new Code of Criminal Procedure, has ceased to have any validity in the country courts, even in criminal matters; and those courts have in fact no fixed rules of evidence except those contained in Act II of 1855. They are not required to follow the English law as such, although they are not debarred from following it where they regard it as the most equitable.

In laying down uniform rules for the guidance of the Indian judges in general, as well in the Courts just mentioned as in those in which the English law of evidence has hitherto prevailed, we do not think that it would be advisable to adopt a system so artificial as that which has grown up in this country.

The English practice has been moulded in a great degree by our social and legal institutions and our forms of procedure; and much of it is admitted to be unsuited to the various states of society and the different forms of property which are to be met with in India.

In England the aim has been to avoid presenting to the consideration of the jury whatever it was thought could not safely be presented to an unprofessional tribunal. In order to obtain this end, various kinds of evidence, which were deemed little worthy of credit, were pronounced inadmissible, and a great deal of evidence which, if duly weighed and dispassionately considered, would tend to the elucidation of truth, is absolutely excluded. On the other hand, evidence is admitted which is at least as dangerous as that which is shut out. Thus parent and child cannot refuse to bear testimony for or against each other in criminal cases, while a wife cannot be asked a question on the trial of her husband, unless the trial be for an offence committed against herself. In matrimonial cases the inconsistencies of the law as to the competency of the married persons to give evidence cause frequent embarrassment, and even occasional failure of justice.

In a country like India, where the task of judicial investigation is attended with peculiar difficulties, and where it is the duty of the judge in all civil and in some criminal cases, to decide without a jury, there is greater danger of miscarriage from the mind of the court being uninformed than from its being unduly influenced by the information laid before it. It seems, therefore, better to afford every facility for the admission of truth although with some risk that falsehood or error may be mixed with it, than to narrow, with a view to the exclusion of falsehood, the channels by which truth is admitted. It is of course impossible to admit all evidence that may be offered, for this would lead to excessive waste of time, but we have provided that all relevant evidence not expressly excluded by our rules shall be admissible, and that except in those few cases where the law itself attaches a special importance or effect to particular evidence, the court shall decide for itself whether any weight, and what weight, shall be assigned to each piece of evidence that is submitted to it. The judge must, of course, form his own opinion regarding the relevancy of any evidence which the parties may desire to submit to him, but it is often difficult, especially in the early stage of a trial, to show the exact bearing of each piece of evidence upon the issues. It is by no means our desire that our rules should be understood as imposing upon the judges the use of excessive strictness in excluding evidence of which the applicability cannot be fully shown at the moment when the evidence is tendered. We have, however, inserted provisions intended to guard against the trial of collateral issues arising out of questions asked with a view to impugn the credit of witnesses.

It will be seen that we have discarded, for the most part, the rules which limit the discretion of the Court in drawing its conclusions from the whole of the evidence. While we do not interfere with those provisions of the Act for the registration of assurances or of the Code of Criminal Procedure which recognize certain things as primâ facie evidence, that is to say, as conclusive unless met by counter-evidence; yet we do not by our own rules attach this character to evidence of any class, nor,—except where the testimony of a witness has been attacked,—do we recognize anything as corroborative though not independent evidence. We have provided that the Court may act upon the testimony of a single witness, even in the case of the gravest offences against the State, or of perjury, or of criminal charges supported by the evidence of accomplices alone.

An attempt to define all the cases in which, and the purposes for which, particular evidence may be received, would in our opinion impede instead of aiding the investigation of truth. We hope that the course which we have adopted will render it easier for those who administer the law to avoid the error so often committed in practice where a strict standard of admissibility exists, that of supposing that whatever evidence is admissible comes in some degree accredited to the court.

The exclusion even of relevant evidence may be desirable, when the evidence is such that people are naturally inclined to attach undue importance to it; when it is such as cannot be admitted without the danger of encouraging forgery; or when it is such as cannot be received or at least cannot be extorted, without injury to interests which are even more important than the judicial investigation of truth.

Although we have laid it down generally that all relevant evidence shall be admissible, we have thought it necessary to make certain exceptions from this rule. These exceptions relate chiefly to that kind of evidence which is described in the English books under the title "hearsay." We have, however, abstained from making use of the word "hearsay" from the uncertainty and vagueness of the meaning usually attributed to that word. What a witness says as to what some other person has said or written may be called "hearsay" in one sense of that word, and that the widest or popular sense: but the statements by a witness of what he has heard another person say may be in fact (as in cases of slander) the very matter in issue; or in other cases may be part of the circumstances which it is essential to ascertain. On the other hand, "hearsay" may be defined to be that which a witness does not say as of his own knowledge, but says that another has said or signified to him. This is probably a more strict and accurate definition of the word "hearsay" as used in the English law; but it does not include all that is known in that law as "hearsay."

After much considering this subject, we have thought that it would promote a more accurate apprehension of our meaning, and be of more practical utility in the Indian courts, if we were to exclude the word altogether. We have, therefore, without attempting any definition of the word "hearsay," endeavoured to lay down rules for the exclusion of that class of evidence in the cases in which we think it ought to be excluded, and for the admission of it in the cases in which we think it ought to be admitted. We have accordingly [illegible] through the various classes of evidence, [illegible] which arises the question of admissibility or [illegible]usion of what is called in the English law [illegible] "hearsay," and have endeavoured to state the rule applicable to each class.

Most of the rules for the admissibility of this kind of evidence are recognized by the English law, others are in accordance with the Indian Act II of 1855, above referred to, or are intended to relax the English rules still further than was done by that enactment.

We have, for instance, made admissible in evidence that which has been spoken, written, or otherwise intimated in the ordinary course of business by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured; and we have admitted entries in books kept in the ordinary course of business. We have also made admissible written acknowledgments of the receipt of money, goods, securities, or property of any kind, and documents used in commerce. Declarations which under the English law are only admitted because they have been made against interest will, by the effect of our rules, be excluded, unless they have been made in the ordinary course of business. The test of pecuniary interest is exceedingly difficult of application, and appears to us to be of little value as a test of truth.

We have admitted statements as to matters of reputation and of pedigree made by persons since dead or incapacitated, or whose presence cannot be procured; adding in the case of pedigree a proviso that the person who made the statement shall have had special means of knowledge. We have discarded the condition of the English law which requires that the statement shall have been made before the controversy had arisen, as we think that this circumstance affects rather the weight than the admissibility of the statement.

We have allowed a limited effect, as evidence, to newspaper reports of public meetings.

The indulgence afforded to witnesses by the existing law in permitting them to refer to contemporaneous memoranda appears to us to be carried too far when copies of such memoranda are allowed to be used for the purpose; and our rules do not permit the use of copies.

Another cause of exclusion applies to documentary evidence. Unless some degree of caution were observed with regard to the authentication of writings, great facilities would be afforded for the fabrication of documents. We have, therefore, laid down rules for the evidence to be required of the proper execution of documents, and retaining the distinction between primary and secondary evidence, have provided against the admission of the latter where the former is procurable. We hope that these rules will, in combination with the laws lately passed by the Indian Legislature for the registration of assurances, tend to the improvement of Indian documentary evidence.*

The third case in which we have excluded testimony is, where its admission would be dangerous to the public service, or inconsistent with decency or morality, with the confidence of married life, or with the freedom of intercourse between a client and his legal adviser.

We have provided that questions of a criminatory tendency shall not be asked merely in order to test the credit of a witness.

We have not adopted Section 19 of Act XIX of 1853, which excuses witnesses from producing their own title-deeds, a provision which must, under an improved system of registration, become every dayess suited to India. Judges will, no doubt, protect witnesses from the production of their title-deeds when they are not relevant and material to the cause.

We have not adopted in all respects the doctrines of the English law on the subject of the effect of previous decisions when adduced as evidence.

To those judgments, which are admitted by the laws of all other countries as conclusive evidence not only between the parties but as against strangers, we have affixed the same character in India; in all other cases we have provided that the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction upon a matter directly in issue shall be admissible as evidence between the same parties upon the same matter directly in issue in another cause, but that it shall not be conclusive. As regards strangers, we have provided that it shall be admissible merely as evidence that such judgment was pronounced between the parties.

We have thought that the court will arrive at the truth more accurately if left to draw their inference from the evidence given, than if fettered by rules of presumption, which are, in our opinion, incapable of being laid down so as to be universally applicable.

* By the Indian Registration Act XX of 1866, it is provided that instruments creating important interests in immoveable property must, in order to be received in evidence or to affect property, be registered; that other documents may be registered, and that all registered documents shall possess certain advantages.

It may perhaps be made a question how far the subject of evidence falls under the head of substantive law, and some of the sections of the draft now submitted certainly border closely on procedure. Those sections, however, have not found a place in either of the Codes of Procedure. We have, therefore, inserted them (with some modifications), as it appears to us that the Law of Evidence ought not to be left to be gleaned from many different enactments, but that so much of it as is not to be found in the Codes of Procedure should be, as far as possible, comprised in the rules of law now submitted by us, and that the enactments which will thus be rendered unnecessary should be repealed.

We recommend the repeal of so much of Acts II of 1855 and XIX of 1833 as remains unrepealed, except section 26 of the latter enactment, which does not form part of the Law of Evidence.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The generally admitted defect of the existing Stamp Law, Act X of 1862, is the very imperfect arrangement of its provisions, especially in regard to the subject-matter of Schedule A., which is so complicated that the requirements of the law are frequently ill-understood by its administrators, whilst to the mass of persons whose entire business transactions are so materially affected by its those requirements are for the most part wholly, unintelligible.

The primary result of this state of the law is a loss of revenue through evasion of the Stamp Duty, and this evasion is in some degree fostered by the tendency of administrators of the law, from the reasons above stated, presume as the cause of under-stamping ignorance of what the law requires rather than a wilful attempt to defraud the revenue.

The infrequency of criminal prosecutions for breaches of the Stamp Law may be also partly ascribed to the somewhat conflicting provisions of the existing law in regard to penalties and the imperfect procedure for their enforcement which results from the withdrawal by Act XXXVI of 1860 of the power of impounding unstamped documents, a power which, prior to the passing of that enactment, obtained in Bengal under Regulation X of 1829.

The main desideratum, therefore, in any amendment of the existing Stamp Law is its simplification, and the chief object of the present Bill is so to express and re-arrange the provisions of that law as to render them generally intelligible, and to enable persons whose transactions involve the execution of instruments liable to stamp-duty, to ascertain, without difficulty, what amount of stamp such instruments must bear to secure their validity.

For this purpose, the provisions of the Bill have been arranged in chapters, each chapter treating of a distinct branch of the subject: all instruments chargeable with stamp duty have been classed according to the amount of duty to which they are severally liable: the exemptions and all other enacting matter have been placed in the body of the Bill; and an interpretation clause, embracing every denomination of instruments specified in the schedules, has been supplied. The interpretations attempt a generic description of the documents which each denomination intended to include rather than a definition of the denomination specified, as such a description is better calculated to explain the requirements of the law. Provision has been made also for the preparation by each Local Government of a well-authenticated translation into the principal vernacular languages of the territories subject to its control.

The Bill also aims at obviating the ambiguity of the provisions of the existing law in regard to the action of the courts and public officers before whom unstamped or insufficiently stamped documents are produced. It empowers the Civil and Criminals Courts to impound all unstamped and insufficiently stamped instruments coming before them, with a view to the criminal prosecution of the executants, when the proper stamp duty appears to have been fraudulently evaded: it provides for the impounding and transmission to the Collectors of all unstamped or insufficiently stamped documents produced before any registering or other public officer; and it prescribes the procedure to be followed by the Collector in the case of such documents so transmitted, or otherwise brought before him.

The Bill does not contemplate the acquisition of increased revenue by any general enhancement of the now prevailing rates of stamp duty, but advantage has been taken of the opportunity afforded by the revision of Schedule A. to adjust the gradations of the ad valorem duties chargeable on bonds and conveyances on a scale of uniform percentage in accordance with the English system. The number of classes of ad valorem duties contained in Schedule A has been reduced from five to three, instruments of partition being classed with conveyances, and leases, if for an indefinite period or for a term exceeding one year being charged as conveyances, and if for less than one year being made liable to the same duty as bonds. The effect of these modifications is a reduction of the rates now chargeable, on bonds for a less amount than Rs. 10,000, and on conveyances, when the amount involved does not exceed Rs. 15,000, and a considerable enhancement of the rates on bonds and conveyances for any higher amount. But as the vast majority of bonds and conveyances executed in this country involve an amount less than the sums above-mentioned, the net result of the change is presumably in favor of the tax prayer.

By Section 19, Act X of 1862, provision is made on the payment of a fee of Rs. 10 for the adjudication by the chief controlling revenue authority of doubts as to the proper stamp to be borne by any instrument. Owing probably to the excessive amount of the fee, and the delay and inconvenience caused by the required reference to such distant authority, this provision is practically inoperative. The Bill proposes to make the Collector the adjudicating authority, to reduce the fee to Rs. 5, and to allow an appeal or reference to the High Court from the decision of the Collector on the further payment of a fee of Rs. 20—to be refunded to the appellant in the event of the Collector's decision being reversed. The procedure will thus be assimilated to that obtaining under the English law.

The Civil penalty leviable under Act X of 1862, for the validation of an instrument executed on unstamped or insufficiently stamped paper, varies greatly according to the time which may have elapsed from the execution of such instrument until it is brought to the Collector; whilst the period within which the penalty may be remitted on the ground of unavoidable accident, is practically unlimited. Such distinctions are purely arbitrary, and not recognized by the English law. The only limit which the English law prescribes as to after-stamping is in regard to instruments executed through any unavoidable cause on paper not bearing the proper stamp. Any such instruments, to obtain a remission of the penalty incurred, must be brought to the Revenue Officer within one year from the date of their execution. Following this course, the Bill provides for the remission of the penalty in such cases, when the unstamped instrument is brought to the Collector or (to any other public officer by whom it is transmitted to the Collector) within one year from the date of its execution, and in all other cases constitutes that period the sole ground of distinction in regard to the amount of fine to be levied: the penalty on instruments brought within one year, being fixed at ten times, and if brought after that period, at twenty times, the deficient amount of stamp duty chargeable thereon.

The provisions of Section 29, Act X of 1862, in regard to the cost of the stamp on certain instruments have been extended. The obligation of bearing the expense of supplying the stamp is fixed by the Bill, in the case of all instruments specified in the first, second, and third schedules, in accordance with the English practice on this subject.

The appellate jurisdiction of the chief controlling revenue authority is extended by the Bill to the revision of all orders passed by the Collector. With the view of obtaining from time to time an authoritative construction of the law for the guidance of the courts and public officers concerned in its administration, the Bill also provides for references being made to the High Court by the chief controlling revenue authority.

In lieu of the existing provisions of the law regarding the sale of stamps, the Bill proposes to invest the Local Governments with the power of framing rules for the regulation of such sale. It is almost impossible to devise a single set of rules suitable to the circumstances of all the provinces of British India, and separate systems adapted to the provinces subject to each Local Government, are better calculated to have successful operation.

The Bill proposes to impose fixed stamp duties of small amount on certain instruments which are stamped under the English law, but have hitherto escaped the impost when executed in this country. It provides also for the reduction of the stamp duty now charged on instruments evidencing the gift or exchange of immoveable property, and the re-conveyance of mortgaged property, or the release of an equity of redemption, instruments of co-partnership, proxies and copies of documents; and it slightly enhances the rates on bills of exchange of large amount, and the fixed duty on a general power-of-attorney.

It further imposes penalties on a legal practitioner who inserts in a conveyance an amount of consideration less than that actually given. This provision is in the modification of the second clause of section 51, Act X of 1862, and in accordance with the English law, on the subject.

In accordance also with the provision of the English statute 48 Geo. III, c. 149, s. 24, purchasers are empowered to recover from the vendors any amount paid for the property purchased by them in excess of the amount stated in the instrument of conveyance.

The present Bill relates only to that branch of stamp duties comprised in Schedule A., Act X of 1862. The subject of stamp duties on judicial proceedings, which are of the nature of Court fees, is reserved for separate legislation.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 14th November 1868, and was referred to a Select Committee, who are to report thereon within a week:—

A Bill to ascertain, record, and regulate certain tenures in Chota Nagpore.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to ascertain and define the lands which belong to the Bhuinhari and Majhahas classes respectively in certain parts of the Chota Nagpore Division, and to make a record of such lands; it is enacted as follows:—

Power to appoint Commissioners for purposes of Act.

I. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, by an order published in the Calcutta Gazette, to appoint one or more persons, as may be judged expedient, to be a Commissioner or Commissioners for the purposes of this Act, and from time to time, in like manner, to alter, vary, or revoke any such order, and to appoint some other person or persons to be Commissioners for the purposes of this Act.

Limits of jurisdiction.

II. The Lieutenant-Governor shall, by an order published in the Calcutta Gazette, define the limits within which each Special Commissioner so to be appointed shall exercise jurisdiction under this Act.

Duties of Special Commissioner.

III. Each Special Commissioner, so to be appointed, shall, with all convenient speed, investigate and ascertain the titles and tenures of all lands within the limits so assigned to him, which may be alleged by any person to be held upon the tenures known as Bhuinhari and as Majhahas respectively, and shall demarcate the same.

Powers of Special Commissioner.

IV. In making such investigation, the Special Commissioner shall, in addition to all powers conferred on him by this Act, as far as may be necessary for the purposes of this Act, exercise all such and the same powers as are conferred by Regulation VII. of 1822, and the various Acts and Regulations amending the same, upon a Collector making or revising a settlement of land revenue, in regard to ascertaining and recording information as to landed tenures, and the rights, interests, and privileges of the various classes of the agricultural community; to the adjustment of differences which may arise or be made known by such enquiries, and to receiving, hearing, investigating, and determining claims arising out of such differences.

Contents of record.

V. Each Special Commissioner shall make an accurate record, in such form as may from time to time be ordered by the Government, of the lands which he may ascertain to belong to the Bhuinhari and Majhahas classes respectively; and of the conditions to be fulfilled and the services to be rendered in respect of the several lands which he may ascertain and record as being Bhuinhari.

Power to restore persons wrongfully dispossessed.

VI. In case it shall be proved to the Special Commissioner that any person, who, within twelve years next before the passing of this Act, held any lands of Bhuinhari tenure, had, at any time before the completion of the investigation of the titles and tenures of the village within which such lands may be situate, been wrongfully dispossessed of such lands, the Special Commissioner shall cause such person, or, in case of his being dead, the heir of such person, to be put in possession of such lands, and shall cause the name of such person to be entered in the record as the Bhuinhari occupant of the said lands.

Ancient rents and services only to be charged on lands.

VII. In case it shall appear that any rents, services, or cesses have been exacted in respect of any lands of Bhuinhari tenure within the term of twelve years before the passing of this Act, greater than those which were rendered in respect of such lands at the commencement of the said term of twelve years, the Special Commissioner, in determining the rents and services to be rendered in respect of such lands, shall disregard such increased rents, services, and cesses.

Record to be published.

VIII. As soon as the record required by Section V. above shall be complete as regards any village, a copy of it shall be published in such village, in such manner as the Lieutenant-Governor may direct, and another copy shall be delivered at the residence or at some Cutcherry of the Zemindar; a third copy shall be available for general inspection at the Office of the Special Commissioner wherever it may be at the time; and of this public notice shall be given. Any person who may be dissatisfied with the entry on that record may, unless his claim shall have been already preferred to, and adjudicated upon, by the Special Commissioner, present a petition to the said Special Commissioner, who shall thereupon proceed to enquire into, and adjudicate upon such claim. Provided that no such petition shall be admitted or acted upon, unless it be presented to the Special Commissioner within three months of the date on which the record may have been published in the village in question.

Power of appeal.

IX. Any person who may be aggrieved by any decision or order of the Special Commissioner made under this Act, may appeal to the Commissioner of Revenue of the Division of Chota Nagpore by a petition, but no sach petition shall be received after the expiration of three months from the date of such decision, unless sufficient cause for the delay be shewn to the satisfaction of the said Commissioner of the Division.

Decision to be final.

X. No decision or order of the Special Commissioner shall be in any way altered, varied, or reversed, save by such appeal as aforesaid, and no suit shall be received in any Court to vary or set aside any such decision, or any decision upon appeal by the Commissioner of the Division made under the provisions of this Act; and every such decision upon appeal by the Commissioner of the Division shall be final.

Orders to be final.

XI. Subject to any alterations and amendments which may be made by order of the Special Commissioner on enquiries under Section VIII. of this Act, or by order of the Commissioner of Revenue on appeal, the record prepared under Section V. above shall be conclusive as to whether any land belongs to the Bhuinhari or to the Majhahas class; and with regard to Bhuinhari lands, as to the occupant of the lands at the time that the record was prepared, and the conditions and services for which he is liable for such occupation.

Lieutenant-Governor may make rules.

XII. It shall be lawful for the said Lieutenant-Governor from time to time to make such rules and orders as to him may seem fit for regulating the practice and procedure to be followed in making the enquiries, investigations, and records required by this Act, and all appeals therefrom; and such rules and orders, when published in the Calcutta Gazette, shall have the same force and effect as if the same were a portion of this Act.

Appeal from former settlement.

XIII. It shall not be necessary for the Special Commissioner to investigate the title or tenure of any land, the title and tenure of which was investigated and registered by Lall Lokenath Sahee; but any person aggrieved by any decision of the said Lall Lokenath Sahee in respect of any such investigation, demarcation, or registration, may, within three months from the passing of this Act, appeal from such decision as if the same were a decision of the Special Commissioner, and subject to such right of appeal, every such decision of the said Lall Lokenath Sahee, and every entry in the register which the said Lall Lokenath Sahee prepared, shall be as valid, binding, and conclusive, as if the same were a decision of the Special Commissioner, or an entry made by him in the record prepared under this Act.

Omission to present claim to be conclusive evidence.

XIV. The fact that no claim is presented to the Special Commissioner, for the registration of any given land as Bhuinhari or as Majhahas, before the expiration of three months from the publication of the register, shall be taken as conclusive proof that the land does not belong to either of these classes, unless it shall have been recorded as belonging to either of them.

Omission to present claim in villages registered by Lall Lokenath Sahee, to be conclusive evidence.

XV. The fact that no claim is presented within three months of the passing of this Act for the registration of any land as Bhuinhari in the villages for which Lall Lokenath Sahee prepared registers, shall be proof that they are not Bhuinhari, unless they are recorded as such in the register.

Interpretation.

XVI. In the construction of this Act, the words "The Special Commissioner," shall be taken to mean the Commissioner to be appointed for the purposes of this Act, unless a contrary sense be apparent from the context.

Short title.

XVII. This Act shall be called "The Bhuinhari Tenures' Registration Act, 1869."

Commencement of Act.

XVIII. This Act shall commence and take effect on the day of 1869.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In many parts of the Chota Nagpore Division a tenure exists, known as "Bhuinhari," on which lands are held by the representatives of those who originally brought them under cultivation.

The Bhuinhars hold either rent-free or at very low rates; and are bound to give a certain amount of their labor to the Zemindars.

For many years, and especially since 1858, the Farmers and Jagheedars of the Zemindars have persistently endeavoured to encroach on these Bhuinhari lands, either by ousting the Bhuinhars and taking possession of their fields as "Majhahas" or land which is absolutely at the disposal of the Zemindars; or by treating them as "Rajhahas," or ordinary rent-paying lands.

These attempts have been resisted by the Kol Bhuinhars, and the feeling which such disputes create has been a serious source of irritation in the District, occasionally breaking out into collisions and breaches of the peace. Looking at the relative positions of the contending parties, and the rude and backward state of the Kols, it was considered desirable to provide a summary means of settling such questions without the necessity of recourse to the Courts. In 1860 and 1861, Lall Lokenath Sashee was empowered to hold local enquiries and to define and record the Bhuinhari tenures.

The villages in which he carried out his enquiry and registration have since that time been perfectly quiet. Recent occurrences have made it desirable to set the question at rest by a similar prompt and special procedure in the villages to which his enquiry did not extend. Since the passing of the Indian Councils' Act an order of the Executive Government is no longer sufficient to legalize such a departure from the ordinary procedure, and therefore the introduction of the present Bill has become necessary.

From F. Lushington, Esq., Accountant-General, Madras, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department,—(No. 735, dated the 13th July 1868.)

I have the honor to enquire whether a Civil Servant, who, having had special leave under the rules of 1855, was, in virtue of the Secretary of State's Despatch, dated 16th June 1865, No. 141, Financial, eligible after six years' service to another six months' leave on private affairs with moiety of salary under the rules of 1864, can be granted that leave on the same terms under the rules of 1868.

From G. H. M. BATTEN, ESQ., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, in the Financial Department, to the Accountant-General Madras,—(No. 1842, dated the 19th August 1868.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 735 of the 13th ultimo, and in reply to state that Section XXV. of the new Leave Rules, which states that special leave on urgent private affairs may be repeated after intervals of six years without allowances, cancels all previous orders on the subject.

Extract from a letter from the Financial Secretary to the Government of India, to the Officiating Accountant-General, Punjab, No. 3286, dated October 1868.

Para. 1.—I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 99 of the 2nd instant, enquiring whether a Covenanted Civil Servant, who has taken six months' leave on private affairs under the old rules, may, after rendering six years' service, take another special leave on private affairs with allowances under the new rules, and in reply to inform you that in the case you describe, special leave on private affairs could not be granted under the rules except without allowances.

ORDERED, that a copy of the above be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

No. 3420.—The 2nd November 1868.—The following letter to the address of the Accountant-General, North-Western Provinces, is published for general information :—

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of Mr. Deputy Accountant-General J. Eede's letter No. 15576 of the 19th October 1868, and in reply to state that the Resolution No. 2703, passed in this Department on the 29th September 1868, allowing Uncovenanted Servants to draw full salary during absence on privilege leave, is applicable to all Uncovenanted Servants who are allowed leave of absence under the rules promulgated in the Notification of this Department, No. 1915, dated the 13th April 1864.

No. 3477.—The 5th November 1868.—Read the following extracts from the rules regarding leave of absence to Covenanted Civil Servants, published in the Notification of this Department, No. 533, dated the 16th June 1868:—

Section I.—"Actual service includes the period during which an Officer is on duty, also periods spent on privilege and subsidiary leave, and periods during which an Officer not on leave may be out of employ on subsistence allowance in India."

Section III.—"One year's furlough shall be placed to the credit of each Officer for every four years of actual service."

RESOLUTION.—To the definition in Section I, the Governor General in Council is pleased to add that "actual service" includes the period spent by a Covenanted Civil Servant on leave within the limits of the late East India Company's Charter, which under the rules in force before the 8th June 1855, was allowed to be reckoned as service and residence.

2. With reference to Sections I and III, His Excellency in Council is also pleased to rule that periods of leave granted without any pay shall be regarded as dies non, i. e., it shall neither be credited in an Officer's account as actual service, nor debited to him as furlough taken.

3. Leave on urgent private affairs taken under former rules, and which was allowed to be reckoned as service and residence, shall be considered as actual service under the new rules.

ORDERED, that the foregoing Resolution be published in the Gazette of India, and communicated to the Foreign and Home Departments; Governments of Bengal, Madras, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, and the Punjab; Comptroller General of Accounts; Director-General of the Post Office of India; Accountants-General in Bengal, Madras, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and British Burmah; Deputy Accountants-General in the Central Provinces, Hyderabad, and Mysore.

No. 3478.—The following letter to the address of the Officiating Accountant-General, Punjab, is published for general information :—

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your endorsement No. 114, without date, and in reply to forward a copy of a letter No. 3420 of the 2nd instant, to the address of the Accountant General, North-Western Provinces, and to state that as the Resolution No. 2703, passed in this Department on the 29th September 1868, declares that the acting allowances of the substitutes of Uncovenanted Officers absent on privilege leave are to be "paid out of the general revenues," you are wrong in supposing that the rule that privilege leave can be granted to Uncovenanted Servants "only when it is unattended with additional expense to the State" is still in force.

No. 3536.—Mr. H. D. Sandeman received charge of the Office of Accountant-General, Bengal, on the afternoon of the 31st ultimo, from Mr. J. E. Cooke, who at the same time received charge of the Office of Deputy Accountant-General, Bengal, from Mr. G. W. Macleod.

The 9th November 1868.—The following Circular of the Comptroller-General of Accounts is published for general information :—

OFFICE OF COMPTR.-GENL. OF ACCOUNTS;
CENTRAL ACCOUNTS BRANCH,
Calcutta, the 30th October 1868.

CIRCULAR No. 82.

From E. F. HARRISON, ESQ., Comptroller-General of Accounts, to all Accountants-General.

At the instance of the Head Commissioner of Paper Currency, I have the honor to request that you will instruct Treasury Officers under your control to be guided by the annexed opinion of the Advocate-General in cashing or accepting in payment a Currency Note which is entered in the list of stopped Notes sent to the Treasury Officers from the Currency Department.

2. Immediately on presentation of such Note at the Treasury, the Treasury Officer will inform the Police that a certain lost Note has been presented, and intimate the fact to the Office from which the Note was issued.

3. That Office will, on your information, place the loser of the Note in communication with the Police and will remove the Note from the [illegible] st Notes.

4. The loser will proceed in the [illegible] the way he thinks fit.

OPINION.

If any Government Treasury Officer receives a Currency Note of the alleged loss of which he has received notice from the Issue Department, he should enquire of the person tendering it in payment as to the circumstances under which he got the Note. If he gave value for it and there is no reason to suppose from his statement that he received it otherwise than in good faith, it should be accepted by the Government Officer as a good legal tender.

2. I think that the Head Commissioner of Paper Currency should satisfy himself as far as he can, by enquiring from the person who alleges a Note to have been stolen or lost, whether such is really the case, and should ask the alleged owner to produce any evidence he can of his former possession of the Note. Having satisfied himself of the probability of the story as to the alleged stealing or loss, the Commissioner will be quite justified in inserting the Note in his list.

3. A person who takes a Note in good faith and for consideration will have a title to it, notwithstanding he may have seen it enumerated in the list of lost or stolen Notes. But if he takes the Note with knowledge of its having been advertized, and does not make reasonable enquiry, that is, if he takes it under such circumstances as would fix on him the suspicion of participation in the fraud, he could not make a good title to the Note. And it follows that if he takes the Note otherwise than in good faith, it is not a good payment, and he may and ought to refuse it as a legal tender, unless he has reason to believe that the person tendering it to him has come by it honestly.

Registrar's Office,

Notice.

Is hereby given that an application has been made under Act XXII. of 1863, for the registration of the necessary works for constructing a "Floating Road Bridge" at Calcutta, from a point on the left bank of the River Hooghly, near Armenian Ghât, to the right bank of the said River opposite the new approach to the Station of the East Indian Railway at Howrah, whereby the means of conveying traffic on, along, and across the said River, will be provided; such means being now insufficient, and additional ones being much needed, and the provision thereof being of great local and public advantage.

Water-tight iron flats or barges, each 110 feet long by 16 feet wide, will be coupled together and moored as floating piers at intervals of 100 feet, a timber superstructure being raised thereon, carrying a roadway of 40 feet in width for wheeled traffic, with two footways of 5 feet each, at an elevation of 16 feet above the water level at the ends of the Bridge, rising by easy gradients of 1 in 50 to 25 feet above the water level at the central portion, which will be horizontal for a length of 400 feet.

A minimum headway of 22 feet will be thus afforded in the central portion of the Bridge, and a clear opening of 42 feet between the barges for country craft at all times, and by removing two pairs of boats a clear waterway of 200 feet in width or more, if considered necessary, will be obtained for the passage of ships and steamers. The land approaches will slope down to either bank of the River by a gentle inclination, the Bridge being connected therewith by adjusting ways 160 feet long, hinged at one end to the Floating Bridge, and at the other end to the fixed abutments. Dated this 20th day of October 1868.

MR. DAMPIER said, the first measure which he had the honor to introduce was a particularly uninteresting one: it related to the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta, situated within the 24-Pergunnahs. In 1857 an Act was passed, which began by declaring that special enactments had been passed for regulating the Police and Conservancy of the Town of Calcutta and of the other Presidency Towns; and that whereas large portions of the Suburbs of Calcutta and of Howrah were no less populous than parts of Calcutta, it was considered desirable to make special provision for the Conservancy and Police of the Suburbs and of Howrah: and the Suburbs of Calcutta were therein defined. In the course of things, in 1864, the District Municipal Improvement Act was passed; and by one of its clauses so much of the Act of 1857, as related to Conservancy matters, was superseded within the limits of the Suburban Municipality. Thus, as the Municipal jurisdiction was at first extended to the whole of the Suburbs as defined in the Act of 1857, the Conservancy clauses of Act XXI. of 1857, so far as they affected the Suburbs of Calcutta, disappeared.

Then, in 1866, it was thought expedient to remove the Suburbs from the general Police of Bengal, and to place it, by special legislation, under the Officers of the Calcutta Police; and in providing for that, Act II of 1866 of this Council enacted that the Act of 1857 should cease to have effect in that part of the Suburbs into which the Act of 1866 should be introduced. In making the enquiries which were found necessary in order to place the Suburbs under the Calcutta Police, it was found that a considerable tract, included in the Suburbs as defined in the Act of 1857, was really not in a condition to require those special urban arrangements, the lands included in that tract consisting of paddy fields and uncultivated land occupied by the agricultural classes. Therefore, the Notification which gave the Calcutta Police jurisdiction in the Suburbs, excluded a certain tract to the North-east of the Suburbs as defined in the Act of 1857, and also a tract to the South-east. Roughly speaking, the first tract was about two miles long by one in breadth, and the other was about half its size.

The Municipality followed suit. They also agreed that the abovementioned tracts should be excluded from the limits of their jurisdiction. So that the present state of things was that there was a Municipality in the Suburbs whose jurisdiction was conterminous with that of the Commissioner of Police for Calcutta. Surrounding that, roughly speaking, was a tract known as the Extra-Suburban Union under the Chowkeedaree Act of 1856; but there were those two isolated tracts, not more than three miles square, in which the special Act of 1857 remained in force. This was obviously undesirable, and therefore this Act was introduced to repeal Act XXI of 1857, in so far as it related to the Suburbs.

The motion was agreed to.

MR. DAMPIER said, this Bill being one of the simplest nature, he would apply to the President to suspend the Rules for the conduct of business, to enable him to move that the Bill be passed through its subsequent stages.

The President having declared the Rules suspended:—

MR. DAMPIER moved that the Bill be read in Council.

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. Dampier, the clauses of the Bill were then settled in Council.

TRANSFER OF CIVIL COURT NATIVE MINISTERIAL OFFICERS.

MR. THOMPSON postponed the motion, which stood in the List of Business, for leave to bring in a Bill to empower the High Court of Fort William in Bengal to transfer Native Ministerial Officers from one Civil Court to another.

EVIDENCE OF PRISONERS IN CIVIL AND CRIMINAL CASES.

MR. THOMPSON moved for leave to bring in a Bill to provide facilities for obtaining the evidence in Civil and Criminal cases of prisoners detained in any Jail or Prison. He said, it would be seen from the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanied the Bill that, until very recently, no rules existed by which the evidence of prisoners detained as convicts or in a Civil Jail could be made use of in any case in a Civil or Criminal Court. It might seem extraordinary that no definite rules should exist on the subject, and their non-existence could scarcely be attributed to the absence of any necessity for such rules, because, in his own experience he had often found it essential in cases before him to obtain the evidence of prisoners confied in Jail, and he had received occasionally applications from the Courts subordinate to him, where the same request was made.

The Council would be aware that no subpœna can have effect upon a person under custody, and accordingly the practice had been, though irregular, that where the evidence of a prisoner was indispensable, the Court made an application to the Magistrate or other Officer in charge of the Jail in which the prisoner was confined, requesting that the prisoner might be sent to the Court for examination. If the Magistrate complied with the request, it was well and good: the prisoner was brought into Court, where his evidence was taken; or if a Commission had been issued, he was examined according to the interrogatories received. But this all depended on the good-will of the Magistrate or Officer in charge of the Jail, who might refuse to allow the prisoner to be taken to Court for the purpose of his examination, or to be examined in Jail by a Commission; and cases had arisen in which such refusals had been made. He (Mr. Thompson) had no doubt that the existing difficulties in the matter had often deterred parties from availing themselves of the evidence of prisoners detained in Jail, and the Courts too had been reluctant in making such applications in the absence of any rules for their guidance in such cases, and because it entirely depended on the favor and indulgence of the Officer in charge of the Jail whether the application would be complied with or refused.

In his (Mr. Thompson's) search for any rules on the subject, the only one he had been able to find was one dated so far back as the year 1840, when a Circular Order was issued by the North-Western Provinces' Court in which it was laid down that the Court requiring the attendance of a prisoner for the purpose of taking his evidence in any case should make a request to the Magistrate and report the circumstances to the Nizamut Adawlut. The days of the Nizamut Adawlut had, however, passed, and the control of Jails was now under the charge of a Special Department, which was naturally unwilling that the dimission of prisoners to distant stations and Courts should be at the indiscriminate option of any one requiring their attendance; and on every ground it was desirable that their transfer, when indispensable, should be regulated by definite rules. The abuse of the practice had led, he believed, to an order from Government that except under special circumstances, to be reported to Government, no prisoner should be allowed outside the walls of a Jail. In many cases, therefore, serious detriment had been caused by the inability to obtain the evidence of a witness confined in Jail.

Under these circumstances, and in consequence of the case which had lately arisen, provisional Rules on the subject had been drawn up by the High Court, and sanctioned by Government for the guidance of those who desired to have the evidence of a prisoner confined in Jail. Those Rules had temporary force, but to give proper effect to them an Act of the Legislature was necessary. The present Bill had, therefore, been prepared in general accordance with the Rules drawn up by the High Court, and provided facilities for obtaining the evidence of Civil and Criminal prisoners where such evidence was necessary to further the ends of justice. If permission was given to introduce this Bill, the draft of it could at once be placed in the hands of the Members of Council.

The motion was agreed to.

REGULATION OF CERTAIN TENURES IN CHOTA NAGPORE.

MR. DAMPIER said, he would now ask the permission of the Council to the introduction of a Bill, which, he thought, would commend itself more to the interest of Hon'ble Members than the last Bill which he had the honor to bring forward, and which indeed had been the subject of considerable public discussion already. It was a Bill to ascertain, record, and regulate certain tenures in Chota Nagpore.

It would be necessary for him to recapitulate the events which had led to the necessity for the introduction of this Bill. He found a letter on the subject from Dr. Davidson, the Principal Assistant to the Agent to the Governor-General, in 1839, which went to the foundation of what he (Mr. Dampier) had to say. It appeared that in the villages of Chota Nagpore the tenures might be roughly classed into three kinds. He would read Dr. Davidson's definitions to the Council:—

"Rajhahas or the land paying rent to the owner or his representatives.

Majhahas or ground allotted to the landlord or his theekadars, which is cultivated chiefly by the ryots in return for their Beth-khetá and Bhúinhari. This is subject to great abuse and requires regulation, to be hereafter described.

Land held rent-free by the original clearers of the soil or their descendants; it is called Bhúinhari, Byballa, Arecuot, Khoot-kutty, in different parts of the country. The holders of this land in general pay no rent, but are bound to accompany the landholders or their theekadars on journeys carrying their banghies, and to cultivate their Majhahas ground, also thatch and build their house, &c., without payment. In some parts of the country this description of land pays a rent, but never more than half the rate of the village; in general, however, it does not pay rent."

Dr. Davidson described some other kinds of tenures, but for the purposes of the present Bill, they would be considered as subordinate to the Bhuinhari and Majhahas tenures. With the first of the three classes, the Rajhahas or ordinary rent paying land, the Bill had no special connection. The object of it was to define, demarcate, and record the Majhahas lands of the zemindar, and the Bhuinhari land belonging to the villagers and claimed by them as representatives of the original founders of the villages and clearers of the soil. It would be convenient here to read the description given by Dr. Davidson of the other classes of tenures which in this Bill it was proposed to include under the general denominations of Majhahas and Bhuinhari:—

"Beth-khetá, [illegible]ain portion of the Rajhahas which each ryot, not a [illegible]nhari, is allowed to cultivate free of rent, and for [illegible]n he performs various services to the landlord [illegible] representatives, such as thatching his house, [illegible]ting the Majhahas, &c. The Beth-khetá allow[illegible]ach ryot is generally sufficient to sow from 20 see[illegible]one maund of seed."

This appe[illegible]ed to be in fact land which originally belonged to the zemindar and were at his absolute disposal, and which he had of his own will assigned as wages for some of the labor which he employed on what might be called his home farm. It therefore might be classed under Majhahas.

The other tenures described by Dr. Davidson were—

"The Jagheers of the Muhto, Pahan, and Bhúinhari, which they have free of rent, on performance of certain services to be hereafter described.

Bhut-kheta or rent-free land, the produce of which is appropriated for the performance of poojahs. Part of this called Dáli-Katári is given up to the Páhur of the village, the rest is cultivated by the ryots, but the produce of the whole is appropriated to poojahs.

These were held by the occupants in virtue of certain services to be performed, but appeared never to have been at the absolute disposal of the zemindar. They might therefore for the purposes of this Bill be classed under Bhúinhari, and this would be done by an Interpretation Clause.

The principal object then was to demarcate the Bhúinhari lands, which were claimed by those who represented themselves to be the descendants or assigns of the first clearers of the soil; he said "assigns," because Colonel Dalton had informed him that some of those tenures had been transferred. The conditions on which those tenures were held were sometimes half rent and half service, and sometimes entirely service; and less frequently a low rent. According to Dr. Davidson, the service was explained to be generally twelve days labor towards sowing, cutting, and reaping the crops, besides giving assistance in thatching and carrying loads when the zemindar travelled. Such were the acknowledged conditions and rights of the Bhúinhars. But from the earliest times the zemindars, and more especially the farmers and theekadars, had left no stone unturned to transfer to themselves the profits derived from the Bhúinhari lands by gradually increasing the pressure of the conditions—whether money or service—on which they were held by the Bhúinhars (and this had gone on to such an extent in 1839 even that Dr. Davidson said that in some instances the zemindar and his farmers could plead custom in support of their exactions;) or by filching portions of land and annexing them to the class of lands which were at their own disposal, the Majhahas or Nijjote land. And one of the devices by which the proprietors frequently got possession of portions of Bhúinhari lands was by taking advantage of an acknowledged condition of the Bhúinhari tenures, which was that not only if the Bhúinhars died without heirs his lands reverted to the zemindar, but that if the Bhúinhar and his family left the country, for so long as they were absent, the lands reverted to the zemindar. Those were admitted conditions of the Bhúinhari tenure. But it was also admitted that when the Bhúinhar and his family came back to their village, the zemindar was bound to give back the land. This part of the condition the zemindar did not fulfil when they returned, and in order to drive the Bhúinhars out of the villages it was stated that false charges were instituted and every oppression resorted to. That was of course the cause of a very serious complaint, and Dr. Davidson attributed the disturbances of 1832 in a great measure to this oppression on the part of the proprietors and their representatives; Dr. Davidson then recommended that the cause of irritation should be remedied by some summary settlement of rights and claims between the Bhúinhars and zemindars. The proposed measure was, however, never carried into effect, probably because there was some fear that those enquiries would raise more disputes than they would settle.

The subject was opened up again in 1859 by the disturbances of that time, and then an element was introduced which had never before appeared, and which he (Mr. Dampier) should prefer to describe in the words of Colonel Dalton himself who he thought put the case as fairly and honestly as it could be put. Colonel Dalton said—

"These disturbances no doubt originated first in the wrongful dispossession by zemindars and theekadars or farmers of the descendants of old proprietory cultivators from lands which had been held in their family rent-free for generations in virtue of their ancestors having been the original clearers. Such tenures called Bhoocharry are to be found in most of the Chota Nagpore villages, and the zemindars or farmers have for years availed themselves of every opportunity of assessing them or of ousting the old proprietors.

It has been commonly remarked that when matters came to issue between the "simple kol" and zemindar or the foreign farmer, the kol had no chance, and indeed he appeared to think so himself, for he seldom sought redress; but the Kols who embraced Christianity imbibed more independent notions, and in several instances successfully asserted their rights. From this the belief unfortunately spread through the district that when kols go to Court as Christians they are more uniformly successful than those are who have not changed their religion. Mainly, in consequence of this impression, they suffered much persecution from their landlords during the absence of the authorities after the mutiny, and were almost all plundered. On the restoration of order they obtained through the Relief Fund a considerable sum to meet their pressing necessities, and this was considered as another clear indication of their being a class highly favored by the authorities.

The result of this has been a great accession of strength to the ranks of nominal Christians. A reasonable desire to be reinstated in Bhoocharry lands actuated some, a dishonest wish to become one of this favored family of Bhoochars seized others. The next step was to profess Christianity and going up to Ranchee to the Mission, they returned with their hair puritanically cropped and ready to assert their rights and defy their landlords.

Right or wrong, the demands that were made by the latter were resolutely opposed. Affrays took place and blood was shed, and considering the acts of the nominal Christians who took advantage of these disturbances to seize lands to which they had no right and to extort from zemindars and farmers what they called compensation for the property they alleged had been taken from them during our absence, it is surprising that disturbances of a more serious nature did not break out: but doubtless the zemindars dreaded compromising themselves with the authorities."

And in continuation of that it was only right to read one short paragraph of Colonel Davies' report, in which it is said—

"Of the parties concerned in these proceedings, I have had a number before me and regret to say many stated openly that their object in becoming Christians was to regain their lands, &c. In justice to the true Converts, I must say these are invariably men who are not recognized as Christians by the Missionaries, and really know nothing of the true faith, but they imagine they have become so, because they have been a few times to the Mission and have cut their hair off; but it is to be the more regretted since it gives a coloring to the complaints brought by the zemindars against the Christians as a body, for these men have undoubtedly been guilty of taking the law into their own hands, instead of preferring their claims through the ordinary Courts, but which in reality they have not the means of doing."

He (Mr. Dampier) thought the case might be fairly summed up by saying that up to about 1857 the zemindars and their representatives were entirely in the wrong, and that they in fact originated the cause of irritation, but that from 1857, and he was afraid up to the present time, both parties had been most grievously to blame. In 1859 again the same remedy was proposed that had been suggested by Dr. Davidson, and at different times by every one who had been called on to consider the question—some easy and summary way of settling these disputed claims. An officer named Láll Lokenath Sahee was appointed to hold a summary enquiry in each village, and to record the rights to land of the Bhúinhars only. His decisions appeared to carry with them no sort of judicial authority, but the result had been that in the five hundred villages in which that officer carried on operations there had been no riot or disturbance from that time to this. If this was the ascertained effect of action of the executive authority very summarily carried out, and which carried no judicial weight, he (Mr. Dampier) thought that it might be expected that any more perfect measure in the same direction would be at least as successful. In 1862 Láll Lokenath Sahee died, and unfortunately his investigations were not carried on, partly it was said because the Indian Councils' Act took away from the Executive Government the power of passing such summary orders in any Non-Regulation Provinces, and nothing had been done in the matter since 1862. So in a very large proportion of the villages—Colonel Davies incidentally mentions about 2,000, and Colonel Dalton in one place estimates that the work to be done was ten times as much as that which had been got through—no investigations had been made. The Bill was proposed for the purpose of doing more effectually in the remaining villages what Láll Lokenath Sahee had done in some, and also for remedying the defects of Láll Lokenath Sahee's work in those 500 villages.

He (Mr. Dampier) then came to the events that immediately led to the introduction of the present Bill. In September 1867, a petition was presented to Government signed by Noush, Eleazar, and others, and professing to emanate from 14,000 Kols professing Christianity. The petitioners said:—

"That your petitioners, who are an increasing body of Native Christians, have from time immemorial peaceably held and enjoyed lands as ryots of the Rajah, when in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three the said Rajah inaugurated a system of persecution against your petitioners by cutting down their crops and dispossessing them of their ancestral holdings, rights, and privileges, thereby entailing on your petitioners considerable loss of moveable and immoveable property."

That petition was supported by the professional opinion of a legal gentleman in Calcutta, whose name he might mention, as it was well known, Gyanendro Mohun Tagore; and these documents were referred to Colonel Dalton for report. Colonel Dalton at once consulted Mr. Batsch, the Senior Missionary in the place, as being the pastor of those in whose name the petition was given. Mr. Batsch wrote in reference to that petition:—

"I have the honor to state (1) not more than about twenty of our converts, all excluded from church fellowship, together with some Pagan Kols, are connected with the petition."

2. Of the two whose names disgrace the petition, one, Noas of Nagra, has nothing whatever to do with it."

In fact, he disclaimed on the part of his congregation of converts the putting of the petition; and then Colonel Dalton wrote as follows:—

"It contains replies to two of the questions I have to answer. Mr. Batsch says that not more than twenty of the converts are connected with the petition. The remainder, who have supported its presentation, are Pagan Kols. This may be true in regard to this particular petition, which has evidently been suggested by some person who could not understand, or cared not trouble himself to make out, what the fomenters of the movement really complained of, but I know that a large number of Christians joined and aided the deputation that first proceeded to Calcuttta, and they professed to be delegated to obtain a hearing on behalf of all the Kols who have, or claim to have, certain proprietory rights in the soil as Bhúinhars. They never complained against the Rajah of Chota Nagpore. Their complaints of encroachments of their Bhúinhari rights have ever been against sub-proprietors—frequently Brahmins and Farmers."

"It will be observed that neither Mr. Batsch nor the Deputy Commissioner of Loharduggah consider that the encroachments complained of are directed by any spirit of animosity towards the petitioners because they are converts to Christianity, but there is no doubt that for several years certain converts have taken a prominent lead in resisting such encroachments, or what they declared to be such, and have succeeded in exciting a combination on the subject, which, without them, might not have been attained. A spirit of antagonism has been aroused, and as encroachments continue, or are attempted or suspected, the claims of the Bhúinhars assume more portentous proportions."

And as usual Colonel Dalton went back to the old proposal of removing the cause of irritation by a prompt and summary means of deciding those claims. He (Mr. Dampier) had no doubt from what had been seen of the results of Lall Lokenath Sahee's work, that the present Bill would do much good; but the Council must not expect that it would satisfy all the expectations of the Bhúinhars and their advisers. Those expectations had been raised most unfortunately to an absurd pitch; for nothing would probably now satisfy them but the consideration of every claim which was based on the traditions of the last seventy generations. Colonel Dalton wrote:—

"It is quite possible that, at the present time, the Bhúinhars would object or disregard any registration or investigation into their claims that did not take as the basis of the enquiry, the traditons which they have recently been putting forth in their petitions to me and to Government. This would be utterly impracticable and absurd, but I think, to give any mode of satisfaction, it would be desirable that the Officer specially deputed should be circumscribed only by the provisions of Act XIV. of 1859, in regard to the limitations of the claims preferred."

It would, he (Mr. Dampier) thought, be enough in this place to say—and to this he supposed no one would demur—that there must be some limitation to the recognition of these claims. What that limitation ought to be would be considered when the Bill was before the Committee. He had only to add that the result of some specific cases and enquiries reported to Government showed that however much the Kols might be acting in good faith, they had attempted by violence, and even by applications to the Courts, to enforce claims which no reasonable law of limitation could possibly recognize. It was evident that no measures the Government could take could satisfy their demands to that extent.

With these remarks he would move for leave to bring in the Bill.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. Dampier then said, it was evident that it was of the utmost importance that executive measures should be taken immediately under the proposed law; he would therefore ask the President to suspend the Rules for the conduct of business so [illegible] as was necessary to enable him to move that the Bill be read in Council.

The President having declared the Rules suspended.

Mr. Dampier moved that the Bill be read in Council. In doing so, he said he might mention that since the Bill had been printed, he had received a communication from Colonel Dalton on the subject of the Bill of which he had sent a draft to Colonel Dalton. He had also received a paper on the subject from the Judicial Commissioner containing suggestions and recommendations. In one or two material points they had suggested alterations which he would mention below.

By the Bill it was proposed to bar the jurisdiction of the Regular Courts in regard to these tenures, and it was proposed to record two classes of tenures only, viz., Majhahas and Bhuinhari, not regarding Rajhahas which would comprise the greatest proportion of the tenures. Every tenure that was not recorded or decided to be either Majhahas or Bhuinhari might be assumed to be Rajhahas, or ordinary rent-paying land. It was proposed that in addition to the exceptional power given under the Bill, the Special Commissioner should exercise the powers of a Collector making a settlement under Regulation VII. 1822. Awards of Settlement Officers under that Act could, however, be contested by civil suit within three years, but this Bill proposed to make the orders of the Special Commissioner appealable within three months to the Commissioner of the Division, and to allow no other appeal or process of any sort to modify the decision of the Special Commissioner.

Then there was the power of restoring possession to those who had been dispossessed. Some had proposed twenty years as the period within which possession might be recovered: twelve years stood in the Bill, but that would be a subject for consideration in Committee.

It would be seen that the 6th and 7th clauses of the Bill were in favor of the Bhuinhar, but it was found in the course of the local investigations that the Bhuinhars had taken possession, here and there, in the course of these disputes and disturbances, of the zemindar's Rajhahas lands, and had claimed them as Bhuinhari. The object was not to make the Bill one-sided; and it was therefore proposed to enable the Special Commissioner to hear all complaints regarding lands held under color of being Bhuinhari, and if found not to be Bhuinhari he would refuse to record them as such.

There was also another important suggestion in the papers which came in yesterday,—so important that he (Mr. Dampier) could not attempt to give any opinion on it at present. It was that the Special Commissioner should not only be empowered to define the amount of service, but also where the Bhuinhars were willing, that he should be empowered to commute such service to a money-rent. That suggestion was he believed made by Major Ousely in 1839, but Dr. Davidson rejected it at once, believing that the Bhuinhars would not hear of it. The proposal was again referred to in 1859, and dropped, and it was now again brought forward for consideration. It was said that probably the Zemindars would object to such a measure, because it would take away from them the power of oppression and filching which the very vagueness of the conditions now left in their hands, and that it would probably be unpalateable to the Bhuinhars, generally speaking, because they clung to old customs, but that the Christian converts would be very glad to get rid of this means of oppression in the hands of the zemindars.

In the 13th and 15th clauses of the Bill as it stood, it was proposed that the Act should give a certain validity to Lall Lokenath Sahee's register. But the local Officers had pointed out that the principles on which some of the Lall's conclusions were founded had since been declared to be erroneous by the Civil Courts, and that in other respects the Lall's record was not such as would justify the Council in giving perfect validity to it.

Baboo Peary Chand Mittra said, he was anxious that the bulk of the people who had suffered from exactions and oppression should have prompt justice done to them, and the present Bill, when modified and passed, would no doubt secure that object. But it was highly necessary that the provisions of the Bill should be made widely known to the people of Chota Nagpore: a mere Bengali translation would not achieve that object; and it was a matter for the consideration of the Select Committee whether there should be a distinct provision to that effect in the Bill, or whether it should be left to the Government to make the provisions of the Bill widely known.

With regard to the Bill itself, when the papers connected with the Bill were printed, the Council would be in a position to judge whether only the tenures enumerated in the Bill should be protected, or whether there were other tenures that should also be protected, although he believed the Hon'ble Mover had taken every care to make the classification complete.

There was another point which required consideration. The 7th Section of the Bill provided, that the Special Commissioner, in determining the rents and services to be rendered in respect of such land, should disregard any rents, services, and cesses which appear to have been exacted in respect of any land of Bhuinhari tenure within the term of twelve years before the passing of the Act. The question was, whether the men who had been made to pay increased rates or cesses and to give their labor, should not have compensation, which in point of justice and equity they were entitled to. That, he (Baboo Peary Chand Mittra) submitted, should be a question for the consideration of the Select Committee. And he was not sure whether there should not, also, be some provision for the punishment of persons who exacted labor to which they were not entitled by virtue of any law, custom, or agreement between the parties. That was another point worthy of consideration, because if such persons were allowed to go unpunished, it would amount to slavery, which had been prohibited thoughout British India, and it was high time that stringent means should be adopted to put an end to such measures as compulsory labor being adopted in Chota Nagpore.

Mr. Dampier said the Hon'ble Member had thrown out a few suggestions for the consideration of the Council. The first was that the Bill should be made known to those whom it concerned, and to that he (Mr. Dampier) cordially agreed. He thought the Government might be left to do that.

The Hon'ble Member had also enquired whether there were no other tenures which should be protected. The object of the Bill was to put a stop to the irritation which had occurred in regard to certain specific tenures. He (Mr. Dampier) had before him a preamble drawn up by Colonel Dalton, detailing the tenures to be included in the Bill. Similar details were given by Dr. Davidson in 1839, and, with one exception, he (Mr. Dampier) found that the two agreed with each other, and therefore he might conclude to accept Colonel Dalton's preamble as including every thing which required to be included.

The third matter to which the Hon'ble Member referred was compensation. It seemed to him (Mr. Dampier) that to provide in this Bill for compensation during the time a person might have been wrongfully dispossessed of his tenure would be to import something entirely foreign to the matter in hand. When the rights of parties were once investigated and defined by the Special Commissioner, those who had been kept out of possession would be able to go with a strong case to the Civil Courts for compensation.

Then with regard to the Hon'ble Member's remarks as to providing a punishment for illegal exactions and for the enforcement of labor in excess of what was due, which amounted to slavery, he (Mr. Dampier) did not exactly understand whether the Hon'ble Member proposed to introduce a penal clause into this Bill; but he (Mr. Dampier) thought any such provision would be quite out of place in a Bill of this kind.

The motion was then agreed to, and the Bill referred to a Select Committee, consisting of Mr. Thompson, Baboo Peary Chand Mittra, and the mover, with instructions to report within a week.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 28th instant.

The Dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants.—The figures in column ten represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity.—The receiver of the lower rain gauge is [illegible]½ feet, and that of the Anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity [illegible] wind, as indicated by Robinson's Anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The generally admitted defect of the existing Stamp Law, Act X of 1862, is the very imperfect arrangement of its provisions, especially in regard to the subject-matter of Schedule A., which is so complicated that the requirements of the law are frequently ill-understood by its administrators, whilst to the mass of persons whose entire business transactions are so materially affected by it, those requirements are for the most part wholly unintelligible.

The primary result of this state of the law is a loss of revenue through evasion of the Stamp Duty, and this evasion is in some degree fostered by the tendency of administrators of the law, from the reasons above stated, presume as the cause of under-stamping ignorance of what the law requires rather than a wilful attempt to defraud the revenue.

The infrequency of criminal prosecutions for breaches of the Stamp Law may be also partly ascribed to the somewhat conflicting provisions of the existing law in regard to penalties and the imperfect procedure for their enforcement which results from the withdrawal by Act XXXVI of 1860 of the power of impounding unstamped documents, a power which, prior to the passing of that enactment, obtained in Bengal under Regulation X of 1829.

The main desideratum, therefore, in any amendment of the existing Stamp Law is its simplification, and the chief object of the present Bill is so to express and re-arrange the provisions of that law as to render them generally intelligible, and to enable persons whose transactions involve the execution of instruments liable to stamp-duty, to ascertain, without difficulty, what amount of stamp such instruments must bear to secure their validity.

For this purpose, the provisions of the Bill have been arranged in chapters, each chapter treating of a distinct branch of the subject: all instruments chargeable with stamp duty have been classed according to the amount of duty to which they are severally liable: the exemptions and all other enacting matter have been placed in the body of the Bill; and an interpretation clause, embracing every denomination of instruments specified in the schedules, has been supplied. The interpretations attempt a generic description of the documents which each denomination intended to include rather than a definition of the denomination specified, as such a description is better calculated to explain the requirements of the law. Provision has been made also for the preparation by each Local Government of a well-authenticated translation into the principal vernacular languages of the territories subject to its control.

The Bill also aims at obviating the ambiguity of the provisions of the existing law in regard to the action of the courts and public officers before whom unstamped or insufficiently stamped documents are produced. It empowers the Civil and Criminals Courts to impound all unstamped and insufficiently stamped instruments coming before them, with a view to the criminal prosecution of the executants, when the proper stamp duty appears to have been fraudulently evaded: it provides for the impounding and transmission to the Collectors of all unstamped or insufficiently stamped documents produced before any registering or other public officer; and it prescribes the procedure to be followed by the Collector in the case of such documents so transmitted, or otherwise brought before him.

The Bill does not contemplate the acquisition of increased revenue by any general enhancement of the now prevailing rates of stamp duty, but advantage has been taken of the opportunity afforded by the revision of Schedule A. to adjust the gradations of the ad valorem duties chargeable on bonds and conveyances on a scale of uniform percentage in accordance with the English system. The number of classes of ad valorem duties contained in Schedule A has been reduced from five to three, instruments of partition being classed with conveyances, and leases, if for an indefinite period or for a term exceeding one year being charged as conveyances, and if for less than one year being made liable to the same duty as bonds. The effect of these modifications is a reduction of the rates now chargeable, on bonds for a less amount than Rs. 10,000, and on conveyances, when the amount involved does not exceed Rs. 15,000, and a considerable enhancement of the rates on bonds and conveyances for any higher amount. But as the vast majority of bonds and conveyances executed in this country involve an amount less than the sums above-mentioned, the net result of the change is presumably in favor of the tax prayer.

By Section 19, Act X of 1862, provision is made on the payment of a fee of Rs. 10 for the adjudication by the chief controlling revenue authority of doubts as to the proper stamp to be borne by any instrument. Owing probably to the excessive amount of the fee, and the delay and inconvenience caused by the required reference to such distant authority, this provision is practically inoperative. The Bill proposes to make the Collector the adjudicating authority, to reduce the fee to Rs. 5, and to allow an appeal or reference to the High Court from the decision of the Collector on the further payment of a fee of Rs. 20—to be refunded to the appellant in the event of the Collector's decision being reversed. The procedure will thus be assimilated to that obtaining under the English law.

The Civil penalty leviable under Act X of 1862, for the validation of an instrument executed on unstamped or insufficiently stamped paper, varies greatly according to the time which may have elapsed from the execution of such instrument until it is brought to the Collector; whilst the period within which the penalty may be remitted on the ground of unavoidable accident, is practically unlimited. Such distinctions are purely arbitrary, and not recognized by the English law. The only limit which the English law prescribes as to after-stamping is in regard to instruments executed through any unavoidable cause on paper not bearing the proper stamp. Any such instruments, to obtain a remission of the penalty incurred, must be brought to the Revenue Officer within one year from the date of their execution. Following this course, the Bill provides for the remission of the penalty in such cases, when the unstamped instrument is brought to the Collector or (to any other public officer by whom it is transmitted to the Collector) within one year from the date of its execution, and in all other cases constitutes that period the sole ground of distinction in regard to the amount of fine to be levied: the penalty on instruments brought within one year, being fixed at ten times, and if brought after that period, at twenty times, the deficient amount of stamp duty chargeable thereon.

The provisions of Section 29, Act X of 1862, in regard to the cost of the stamp on certain instruments have been extended. The obligation of bearing the expense of supplying the stamp is fixed by the Bill, in the case of all instruments specified in the first, second, and third schedules, in accordance with the English practice on this subject.

The appellate jurisdiction of the chief controlling revenue authority is extended by the Bill to the revision of all orders passed by the Collector. With the view of obtaining from time to time an authoritative construction of the law for the guidance of the courts and public officers concerned in its administration, the Bill also provides for references being made to the High Court by the chief controlling revenue authority.

In lieu of the existing provisions of the law regarding the sale of stamps, the Bill proposes to invest the Local Governments with the power of framing rules for the regulation of such sale. It is almost impossible to devise a single set of rules suitable to the circumstances of all the provinces of British India, and separate systems adapted to the provinces subject to each Local Government, are better calculated to have successful operation.

The Bill proposes to impose fixed stamp duties of small amount on certain instruments which are stamped under the English law, but have hitherto escaped the impost when executed in this country. It provides also for the reduction of the stamp duty now charged on instruments evidencing the gift or exchange of immoveable property, and the re-conveyance of mortgaged property, or the release of an equity of redemption, instruments of co-partnership, proxies and copies of documents; and it slightly enhances the rates on bills of exchange of large amount, and the fixed duty on a general power-of-attorney.

It further imposes penalties on a legal practitioner who inserts in a conveyance an amount of consideration less than that actually given. This provision is in the modification of the second clause of section 51, Act X of 1862, and in accordance with the English law, on the subject.

In accordance also with the provision of the English statute 48 Geo. III, c. 149, s. 24, purchasers are empowered to recover from the vendors any amount paid for the property purchased by them in excess of the amount stated in the instrument of conveyance.

The present Bill relates only to that branch of stamp duties comprised in Schedule A., Act X of 1862. The subject of stamp duties on judicial proceedings, which are of the nature of Court fees, is reserved for separate legislation.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 14th November 1868, and was referred to a Select Committee, who are to report thereon within a week:—

A Bill to ascertain, record, and regulate certain tenures in Chota Nagpore.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to ascertain and define the lands which belong to the Bhuinhari and Majhahas classes respectively in certain parts of the Chota Nagpore Division, and to make a record of such lands; it is enacted as follows:—

Power to appoint Commissioners for purposes of Act.

I. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, by an order published in the Calcutta Gazette, to appoint one or more persons, as may be judged expedient, to be a Commissioner or Commissioners for the purposes of this Act, and from time to time, in like manner, to alter, vary, or revoke any such order, and to appoint some other person or persons to be Commissioners for the purposes of this Act.

Limits of jurisdiction.

II. The Lieutenant-Governor shall, by an order published in the Calcutta Gazette, define the limits within which each Special Commissioner so to be appointed shall exercise jurisdiction under this Act.

Duties of Special Commissioner.

III. Each Special Commissioner, so to be appointed, shall, with all convenient speed, investigate and ascertain the titles and tenures of all lands within the limits so assigned to him, which may be alleged by any person to be held upon the tenures known as Bhuinhari and as Majhahas respectively, and shall demarcate the same.

Powers of Special Commissioner.

IV. In making such investigation, the Special Commissioner shall, in addition to all powers conferred on him by this Act, as far as may be necessary for the purposes of this Act, exercise all such and the same powers as are conferred by Regulation VII. of 1822, and the various Acts and Regulations amending the same, upon a Collector making or revising a settlement of land revenue, in regard to ascertaining and recording information as to landed tenures, and the rights, interests, and privileges of the various classes of the agricultural community; to the adjustment of differences which may arise or be made known by such enquiries, and to receiving, hearing, investigating, and determining claims arising out of such differences.

Contents of record.

V. Each Special Commissioner shall make an accurate record, in such form as may from time to time be ordered by the Government, of the lands which he may ascertain to belong to the Bhuinhari and Majhahas classes respectively; and of the conditions to be fulfilled and the services to be rendered in respect of the several lands which he may ascertain and record as being Bhuinhari.

Power to restore persons wrongfully dispossessed.

VI. In case it shall be proved to the Special Commissioner that any person, who, within twelve years next before the passing of this Act, [illegible] of the Bhuinhari tenure, had, at any time before the completion of the investigation of the titles and tenures of the village within which such lands may be situate, been wrongfully dispossessed of such lands, the Special Commissioner shall cause such person, or, in case of his being dead, the heir of such person, to be put in possession of such lands, and shall cause the name of such person to be entered in the record as the Bhuinhari occupant of the said lands.

Ancient rents and services only to be charged on lands.

VII. In case it shall appear that any rents, services, or cesses have been exacted in respect of any lands of Bhuinhari tenure within the term of twelve years before the passing of this Act, greater than those which were rendered in respect of such lands at the commencement of the said term of twelve years, the Special Commissioner, in determining the rents and services to be rendered in respect of such lands, shall disregard such increased rents, services, and cesses.

Record to be published.

VIII. As soon as the record required by Section V. above shall be complete as regards any village, a copy of it shall be published in such village, in such manner as the Lieutenant-Governor may direct, and another copy shall be delivered at the residence or at some Cutcherry of the Zemindar; a third copy shall be available for general inspection at the Office of the Special Commissioner wherever it may be at the time; and of this public notice shall be given. Any person who may be dissatisfied with the entry on that record may, unless his claim shall have been already preferred to, and adjudicated upon, by the Special Commissioner, present a petition to the said Special Commissioner, who shall thereupon proceed to enquire into, and adjudicate upon such claim. Provided that no such petition shall be admitted or acted upon, unless it be presented to the Special Commissioner within three months of the date on which the record may have been published in the village in question.

Power of appeal.

IX. Any person who may be aggrieved by any decision or order of the Special Commissioner made under this Act, may appeal to the Commissioner of Revenue of the Division of Chota Nagpore by a petition, but no sach petition shall be received after the expiration of three months from the date of such decision, unless sufficient cause for the delay be shewn to the satisfaction of the said Commissioner of the Division.

Decision to be final.

X. No decision or order of the Special Commissioner shall be in any way altered, varied, or reversed, save by such appeal as aforesaid, and no suit shall be received in any Court to vary or set aside any such decision, or any decision upon appeal by the Commissioner of the Division made under the provisions of this Act; and every such decision upon appeal by the Commissioner of the Division shall be final.

Orders to be final.

XI. Subject to any alterations and amendments which may be made by order of the Special Commissioner on enquiries under Section VIII. of this Act, or by order of the Commissioner of Revenue on appeal, the record prepared under Section V. above shall be conclusive as to whether any land belongs to the Bhuinhari or to the Majhahas, and such, with regard to Bhuinhari lands, as to the occupant of the lands at the time that the record was prepared, and the conditions and services for which he is liable for such occupation.

Lieutenant-Governor may make rules.

XII. It shall be lawful for the said Lieutenant-Governor from time to time to make such rules and orders as to him may seem fit for regulating the practice and procedure to be followed in making the enquiries, investigations, and records required by this Act, and all appeals therefrom; and such rules and orders, when published in the Calcutta Gazette, shall have the same force and effect as if the same were a portion of this Act.

Appeal from former settlement.

XIII. It shall not be necessary for the Special Commissioner to investigate the title or tenure of any land, the title and tenure of which was investigated and registered by Lall Lokenath Sahee; but any person aggrieved by any decision of the said Lall Lokenath Sahee in respect of any such investigation, demarcation, or registration, may, within three months from the passing of this Act, appeal from such decision as if the same were a decision of the Special Commissioner, and subject to such right of appeal, every such decision of the said Lall Lokenath Sahee, and every entry in the register which the said Lall Lokenath Sahee prepared, shall be as valid, binding, and conclusive, as if the same were a decision of the Special Commissioner, or an entry made by him in the record prepared under this Act.

Omission to present claim to be conclusive evidence.

XIV. The fact that no claim is presented to the Special Commissioner, for the registration of any given land as Bhuinhari or as Majhahas, before the expiration of three months from the publication of the register, shall be taken as conclusive proof that the land does not belong to either of these classes, unless it shall have been recorded as belonging to either of them.

Omission to present claim in villages registered by Lall Lokenath Sahee, to be conclusive evidence.

XV. The fact that no claim is presented within three months of the passing of this Act for the registration of any land as Bhuinhari in the villages for which Lall Lokenath Sahee prepared registers, shall be proof that they are not Bhuinhari, unless they are recorded as such in the register.

Interpretation.

XVI. In the construction of this Act, the words "The Special Commissioner," shall be taken to mean the Commissioner to be appointed for the purposes of this Act, unless a contrary sense be apparent from the context.

Short title.

XVII. This Act shall be called "The Bhuinhari Tenures' Registration Act, 1869."

Commencement of Act.

XVIII. This Act shall commence and take effect on the day of 1869.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In many parts of the Chota Nagpore Division a tenure exists, known as "Bhuinhari," on which lands are held by the representatives of those who originally brought them under cultivation.

The Bhuinhars hold either rent-free or at very low rates; and are bound to give a certain amount of their labor to the Zemindars.

For many years, and especially since 1858, the Farmers and Jagheedars of the Zemindars have persistently endeavoured to encroach on these Bhuinhari lands, either by ousting the Bhuinhars and taking possession of their fields as "Majhahas" or land which is absolutely at the disposal of the Zemindars; or by treating them as "Rajhahas," or ordinary rent-paying lands.

These attempts have been resisted by the Kol Bhuinhars, and the feeling which such disputes create has been a serious source of irritation in the District, occasionally breaking out into collisions and breaches of the peace. Looking at the relative positions of the contending parties, and the rude and backward state of the Kols, it was considered desirable to provide a summary means of settling such questions without the necessity of recourse to the Courts. In 1860 and 1861, Lall Lokenath Sashee was empowered to hold local enquiries and to define and record the Bhuinhari tenures.

The villages in which he carried out his enquiry and registration have since that time been perfectly quiet. Recent occurrences have made it desirable to set the question at rest by a similar prompt and special procedure in the villages to which his enquiry did not extend. Since the passing of the Indian Councils' Act an order of the Executive Government is no longer sufficient to legalize such a departure from the ordinary procedure, and therefore the introduction of the present Bill has become necessary.

The following Order issued by the Government of India, in the Home Department, is re-published for general information :—

No. 4565.—The 12*th November* 1868.—The following rules are laid down for the disposal of applications for leave or furlough from Officers of the Bengal Civil Service, or from Officers of the Madras or Bombay Civil Service, employed in the Presidency of Bengal, in modification of the rules published in Notification No. 3414, dated 19th of August last :—

I.—Subject to the exigencies of the public service, Lieutenant-Governors and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh and the Central Provinces are empowered to grant any leave or furlough authorized by the rules to Officers serving under their respective orders.

II.—If an Officer applying for leave or furlough be serving out of his own Presidency, the Local Government or Administration under which he is serving, will, if the leave or furlough be granted, inform the Government of India, Madras, or Bombay, as the case may be.

III.—All applications for leave or furlough should be accompanied by a certificate from the local Accountant-General, showing that the applicant is entitled to the leave asked for, and should be forwarded, through the usual channel, to the Local Government or Administration under which the Officer is serving.

IV.—Except under orders of the Secretary of State, the term of leave or furlough cannot be altered without the permission of the Government or Administration by which it was granted.

V.—Every Officer who obtains leave or furlough shall supply himself with a last pay certificate, and with a statement showing the pay which he is entitled to draw while absent. It shall be the duty of the local Accountant-General to furnish these documents, and no leave allowances will be payable without their production.

VI.—A quarterly statement of the Officers absent on furlough or special leave with the dates of the grant and expiry of such furlough or leave brought up to the 31st March, 30th June, 30th September, and 31st December of each year, shall be punctually furnished by Local Governments and Administrations, to the Government of India, in the Home Department.

VII.—From these quarterly returns, a register will be compiled and kept at the Office of the Secretary to the Government of India, in the Home Department, of all grants of leave or furlough, of all extensions of leave or furlough, and of all returns to duty from leave. This register will be published quarterly in the Gazette of India.

VIII.—Every Officer returning to duty shall report his return to the Government of India, and to the Local Government or Administration by which his leave or furlough may have been granted.

IX.—If any Local Government or Administration shall see fit to refuse a furlough on the ground of the exigencies of the public service, it shall report such refusal for the confirmation of the Government of India.

The following Order issued by the Government of India, in the Financial Department, is re-published for general information :—

No. 3585.—Simla, the 11*th November* 1868.—Notification.—Under the provisions of Section 26 of the Indian Post Office Act, 1866, the Governor General in Council is pleased to declare that the registration of letters containing coin, or a Currency Note, or any portion thereof, shall be compulsory, and that a registration fee of 8 annas shall be levied on the delivery of any letter which may have been posted unregistered, but which ought, under this order, to have been registered.

This order does not apply to letters posted in India for places abroad, or received in India from places abroad.

This order will have effect from and after the 1st January 1869.

The following Orders issued by the Government of India, in the Military Department, are re-published for general information :—

No. 1048.—Simla, the 10*th November* 1868.—The undermentioned Officer is allowed furlough to Europe (medical certificate) :—

Captain Arthur Tulloch, of the Bengal Staff Corps, District Superintendent of Police, Bengal ...	For 2 years, under the Regulations of 1868.

No. 1050.—The undermentioned Officers have reported their departure on the date specified opposite to their names :—

Assistant Surgeon J. G. French, M. D., of the Medical Department, Government General Order, No. 1014 of 1868 ...	Candia, 28th October 1868.

No. 1064.—The Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India having, with certain modifications, approved generally of the rules relative to the absence on leave of Military Officers, published in Government General Order No. 613, dated 19th June 1868, the following revised rules are published in substitution of those contained in the order above referred to.

These rules will be applicable to all Officers who may elect to adopt them belonging to the several Indian Staff Corps or to the Indian Army, and in regard to the period of leave of absence during which appointments may be held, and in regard to the increased allowances they will also be applicable to Officers of the Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers, late of the Indian Army, holding permanent staff appointments not of a regimental nature.

The question of the application of these rules to the Officers generally of Her Majesty's British Forces serving in India is still under the consideration of Her Majesty's Government.

To obviate confusion or misconception as to the rules referred to, those previously in existence and those now sanctioned will be severally designated as the Furlough Rules of 1796 of 1854, or of 1868.

The term "Furlough Pay" having now a changed and two-fold signification, in all future orders and references "Furlough Pay" will be understood as the half Indian salary within the prescribed limits, specified in paragraph 5 of these rules, converted at the exchange of 2 shillings for the rupee, whilst "English Furlough Pay" will represent the rates heretofore allowed to the several grades as English pay under the rules of 1796 and 1854.

I.—The distinction with respect to allowances hitherto drawn between furlough on private affairs and sick leave is abolished, both kinds of leave being included under the general term furlough, provision, however, being made for the obtainment of furlough under medical certificate, without all the restrictions applicable to furlough when taken without medical certificate.

II.—Leave taken under the rules now prescribed will not involve forfeiture of appointment, except in the cases herein specially provided for.

III.—The rules now prescribed do not affect the provisions of Act XXXIII. of George III., Chapter 52, Section 70; but an absentee cannot retain his appointment and draw absentee allowances, except under the rules now prescribed.* Nor do they affect the regulations by which General Officers Commanding Divisions and Brigades can only obtain limited periods of leave without forfeiting their commands.

IV.—Leave of absence will in future be of three kinds, viz.:—

I.—Furlough in or out of India.

II.—General leave on private affairs or sick certificate in India, or short leave to sea.

III.—Privilege leave.

Chapter I.

Furlough.

V.—An Officer drawing staff pay in addition to pay of rank, proceeding on furlough, will be allowed pay at the rate of 50 per cent. of the salary of his substantive office. But an Officer on civil employ and drawing consolidated salary will be allowed 50 per cent. of the average salary drawn by him for three years prior to his proceeding on furlough. No absentee shall in either case draw more than £1,200 or less than £250 per annum. The term salary will signify the total amount drawn by an Officer, whether as consolidated pay or staff allowances in addition to pay, but will not include any extra or special allowances. It is to be clearly understood that an Officer absent on furlough, who may be transferred to another office during his absence, shall be entitled, for the entire period of his furlough, to pay at the rate sanctioned to him when leaving India, provided that an Officer whose term of office shall lapse during his furlough shall cease to draw his half staff salary from the date of such lapse. An Officer will also be entitled to the benefit of his promotion to a higher Staff Corps or regimental rank whilst on furlough, subject to the maximum limit.

Officers not in staff employ will receive half the Indian pay of their rank, provided that in no case will an Officer entitled to furlough receive less than the above minimum of £250 per annum.

Note.—Officers who may be entitled to income allowance from the Military Fund during absence in Europe, will draw their half salary or minimum absentee allowance under the foregoing clause, subject to a deduction equivalent to the amount of such income allowance.

VI.—All grants of furlough on private affairs are subject to the exigencies of the public service, of which exigency the Government is to be exclusively the judge, and to any regulations that may be found necessary for limiting the number of absentees.

* The section referred to is quoted below:—

Section 70.—"And be it further enacted that no person who shall have held any civil or military station whatever in India, in the service of the said United Company, being under the rank or degree of a Member of Council or Commander-in-Chief of the Forces, and who, having departed from India by leave of the Governor General in Council, shall not return to India, within the space of five years next after such departure, shall be entitled to any rank or restoration of office, or be capable of again serving in India, either in the European or Native Corps of Troops or in the civil line of the Company's service, unless in the case of any Civil Servant of the Company, it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Court of Directors that such absence was occasioned by sickness or infirmity, or unless such person be permitted to return with his rank to India by a vote or resolution passed by way of ballot by three parts in four of the proprietors assembled in General Court, specially convened for that purpose, whereof eight days' previous notice of the time and purpose of such meeting shall be given in The London Gazette, or unless in the case of any Military Officer, it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the said Court of Directors and the Board of Commissioners for the Affairs of India, that such absence was occasioned by sickness or infirmity, or some inevitable accident."

VII.—The maximum amount of furlough on private affairs to be taken at any one time, carrying pay and retention of appointment, will be two years.

VIII.—A period of at least three years' service after return from last furlough, except furlough under Rule XI., must be completed before furlough can again be taken unless obtained under medical certificate (see Rules XIII. and XIV.)

IX.—An Officer will be eligible for two years' furlough on the completion of eight years' actual service in India, for a third year after a further period of six years' actual service, and for a fourth or fifth year after similar intervals of six years. The grant of furlough to an Officer eligible for it will be subject only to the conditions specified in Rules VI. and VII. The fact of having taken furlough on medical certificate will not affect the grant of these furloughs, except as to the conditions laid down in Rules VIII., XIII., and XVI.

X.—An Officer eligible for furlough need not take the whole amount to which his service entitles him, but may apply for any portion thereof as an instalment; and in that case the balance will remain at his credit in any future computation of the amount of furlough to which he may be entitled

Illustrations.

(1)—An Officer who has served nine years in India is entitled to two years' furlough. He takes only one year, and after his return remains in India for five years. He is then eligible for two years' furlough as follows:—

Total service in India ...	...	14 years.
Furlough due on that service	...	3 "
Furlough already taken ...	...	1 "
Balance for which he is eligible	...	2 "

(2)—An Officer who has served 20 years in India without taking furlough is entitled to four years' furlough. He can only take, however, two years at one time carrying pay, the balance remaining at his credit in any future computation of furlough to which he may be entitled. He can take that balance after completing three years' service from the date of his return from the first instalment.

XI.—Furlough on urgent private affairs for six months with pay equivalent to the British regimental pay of his rank to be extended to a year, if necessary, may be granted, when the Officer is not eligible for ordinary furlough. The said period may form part of the periods of either eight or six years referred to in Rules VIII. and IX.

XII.—Subject to State considerations, there will be no restriction as to the places to which an Officer may resort during furlough.

XIII.—Absence on medical certificate for a longer period than two years at one time, or departure on such furlough within three years of the date of return from a previous furlough, except furlough under Rule XI., will involve forfeiture of appointment. Such furlough may, however, be extended to a third year on English furlough pay.

In the event of an Officer not being able to return to his duty after an absence of three years, it will rest with the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India in Council to order him to appear before a Medical Board, with a view to placing him on the retired list, if entitled to pension, or on the half pay list.

Should the circumstances of the case warrant a further extension of leave, it can only be granted without pay.

XIV.—An Officer not entitled to furlough, whose health may necessitate his taking it within three years from the date of last return may, under the usual medical certificate, obtain such amount as may be duly certified to be necessary for the restoration of his health, but will only receive English furlough pay, and must vacate any appointment he may be holding.

XV.—An Officer entitled to furlough, whose health may necessitate his absence from India, will be compelled to take leave as furlough under Rule IX., but without forfeiting any passage money to which he may be entitled under Military Fund Rules, or, if a Subaltern, by Regulation when proceeding on medical certificate.

Any extension of this furlough beyond the period to which he may be entitled under Rule IX., will be regarded, in all respects, as furlough on medical certificate. Such extension will not be allowed to take effect, until the Officer shall have exhausted the entire amount of his available furlough on private affairs. If the aggregate of two years' leave is exceeded, the Officer will after that date come under the provisions of Rule XV.

XVI.—The aggregate amount of furlough with pay and retention of appointment, whether on private affairs or on medical certificate, that may be granted to an Officer during his service, will be limited to eight years.

XVII.—If taken in India, furlough will be reckoned from the date of the absentee quitting his station to the date of his return thereto; if taken out of India, from the date of the sailing of the vessel in which he may have embarked to the date of his disembarkation in India.

XVIII.—Preparatory leave to embark for Europe or elsewhere on furlough will be granted for any period not ordinarily exceeding 30 days. Leave to the same limit, to enable him to rejoin on his return from furlough, will be granted from the date of his disembarkation in India.

XIX.—Furlough allowances shall be payable monthly if payment is taken in India, and quarterly if payment is taken in England.

XX.—Advances of furlough pay will continue to be made in India to those Officers who desire it for three months from date of embarkation. Payments in continuation will be made in England on the expiration of six months from that date.

XXI.—The last pay certificate issued to each Officer who may be granted furlough, whether on private affairs, or on medical certificate, will specify the rate of the pay and staff salary of his last substantive appointment, and the rate to which he will be entitled in Europe in virtue of Rule V.

XXII.—An Officer acting in India for an absentee will be restricted for the entire period of such acting to the half staff salary of the appointment in which he may be acting, in addition to the full pay of his rank, and the half staff salary of his own appointment, if he possess one. The staff salary granted to an acting Officer will, however, in no such case be less than Rs. 100 per mensem.

XXIII.—The privilege heretofore granted to Military Officers of counting the proportion of leave noted in the margin as service for pension is retained. The periods of service qualifying for pension remain unaltered.

XXIV.—In computing the furlough on private affairs to which an Officer who has already enjoyed some portion of such furlough will be entitled, under these rules, it will be necessary to deduct the total amount of the furlough on private affairs of which he may have availed himself during his service from the total periods to which under Rule IX. he can lay claim. The balance will represent the leave to which he will be entitled on the expiration of not less than three years from his last return to duty.

Illustration.

(1).—An Officer, who had obtained under the existing rules two years' furlough after ten years' service, returns to India on the date on which this order is promulgated. He accepts its conditions, and serves four years longer in India. On the expiration of that term, he can take one year's furlough, thus—

Total service in India	14 years.

Balance	1 year.

(2).—An Officer of four years' service has proceeded on sick certificate to England for 20 months, extended afterwards to two years. He returns, serves six years in India, takes two years' furlough, and returns to India about the time of the promulgation of these rules, which he accepts. He must serve four years before he can take an additional year's furlough, thus—

Chapter II.

General Leave on Private Affairs and Sick Certificate in India.

XXV.—An Officer will be eligible, as at present, to take leave on private affairs or on sick certificate in India for any period not exceeding six months, at the discretion of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, or of the Government under which he may be serving. During the entire period of his absence on this account, the Officer will be entitled, as at present, to his full pay and a moiety of his staff salary. Leave taken under this rule will form no part of the eight years' aggregate furlough. If this indulgence should be taken advantage of for a third year consecutively, the Officer will lose his staff appointment.

XXVI.—Leave on sick certificate for a period exceeding six months, capable of extension, under renewed medical certificate, to a limit of one year, may be granted to any Officer who, in the opinion of a Medical Board, may require it. Leave of this nature, taken after the promulgation of these rules, will be held to constitute a part of the maximum period of eight years' leave of absence to which an Officer is entitled in his entire period of service, but will not be regarded as furlough, nor will it affect the intervals entitling to furlough laid down in Rule IX. During this leave the absentee will draw a moiety of his staff salary in addition to the pay of his rank.

XXVII.—Short leave not exceeding three months on private affairs or sick certificate, may also be taken to sea, on the above condition, but absence from India for any longer period will be treated as furlough.

XXVIII.—All general leave taken in India counts as part of the leave reckoning against service for pension.

Chapter III.

Privilege Leave.

XXIX.—Privilege leave may be granted, as at present, for sixty days in each year to all Officers in military employ, without deduction from the salaries and emoluments drawn by them. General leave, in extension of privilege leave, can only be granted on the ground of sickness, or some other serious emergency which could not have been foreseen when the Officer proceeded on privilege leave. Privilege leave may, however, be converted into general leave with the sanction of the Commander-in-Chief or the Government.

XXX.—In the case of the stations noted in the margin, privilege leave may, as at present, be granted for ninety days to Officers of local Corps, or of Corps which are usually employed in one or other of the districts named.

Assam.	Bunnoo.
Shillong.	Dera Ismael Khan.
Erinpoora.	Dera Ghazee Khan.
Deolee.	Rajanpore.
Khairwara.	Jacobabad.
Khotra.

XXXI.—An Officer is at liberty to proceed wherever he may desire on privilege leave, provided he can ensure his return before the expiration of his leave.

XXXII.—Privilege leave cannot be taken in continuation of furlough, nor can furlough be obtained in continuation of privilege leave. If furlough be obtained by an Officer while absent on privilege leave, the privilege leave will be converted into general leave, the Officer for that period sacrificing a moiety of his staff salary.

Military Officers in Civil Employ.

XXXIII.—Military Officers in Civil or Political employ taking leave in India come, as respects periods of leave obtainable and amount of pay to be granted, under the Civil Leave Rules. When they take leave out of India, they come under the Military Leave Rules.

Subsidiary Rule.

XXXIV.—Officers of the Indian Military and Medical Services will be required generally to notify their intention to accept these rules, or to adhere to those now existing, on the first occasion of their taking furlough or general leave after the publication of this order. Such election must be considered final, and under no plea whatever will an Officer be subsequently relieved from the choice thus made.

Officers who may determine to abide by existing rules will be allowed to proceed on furlough on the conditions laid down in Rules VII., VIII., and XIII. to the extent to which they may be entitled under the Furlough Regulations of 1854, and on the rates of pay contemplated in those Regulations, but retaining their appointments. The principle laid down in Rule XV. must, however, be applied in those cases.

If an Officer under the Furlough Rules of 1796 elects the present rules, his service for pension will be reckoned under the former rules up to 1st July 1868, and thenceforward under the rules of 1868.

The foregoing rules take effect from the 1st July 1868 as respects retention of appointments and terms under which leave will be granted, but half staff allowances will not be available for Officers now on leave in cases where the acting Officer has already come into receipt of the full staff salary. Nor can Officers who have vacated appointments which have since been permanently filled up, have any claim to be restored to them.

No. 4.—Fort William, the 19*th November* 1868.—Notification.—The following notice has been received for publication from the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, in a letter dated Rangoon, 5th October 1868 :—

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The following lighthouses are about to be established off the coast of British Burmah, probably on the 31st May 1869, and this is issued as a warning in case they should be so established :—

1.—Coast Lighthouse.

On the Krishna Shoal, Gulf of Martaban, Bay of Bengal. In latitude N. 15° 36′ 30″ ; longitude E. 95° 35′. A lighthouse on screw piles in 3 fathoms of water at low water on the south-eastern edge of the above shoal, showing a fixed dioptric light of the second order. The focal plane of the light 55 feet above high water rise, and fall 12 feet at full and change, visible 15 miles.

The light is cut off at W. S. W. to the westward, and at N. N. E. to the eastward, the centre of the light being S. E.

In making this light (the object of which is to enable vessels to round the Baraque Point, so as to avoid the dangers of the Baraque Flat and Krishna Shoal) from the westward, a vessel should keep in not less than 7 fathoms of water to the south, steering east till the light bears N. W. and distant from 5 to 10 miles, then steering N. E. by N. 40 miles to make the China Buckeer lighthouse at the mouth of the Rangoon river. Vessels from the northward going south must not get in less than 6 fathoms of water to the westward, or make the light on a bearing to the W. of S. W. by S. ; if after passing the light, a ship is going to the westward, she can turn in that direction when the light bears N. W., keeping in 7 fathoms.

2.—Harbour Lighthouse.

The China Buckeer for the mouth of the Rangoon river on the western side.

Hitherto the entrance to the channel to the Rangoon river has been marked by a light ship in 3½ fathoms of water.

This light ship will not be removed till this and the following lighthouse have been illuminated.

The lighthouse is situated on the high land of China Buckeer, which is generally first made by ships bound for Rangoon, and is about 2 miles north-east of the mouth of the China Buckeer river.

It is on screw-piles, and the lower part being against a back ground of dark trees, will be painted white.

It is close to high water mark, but the sands at low water stretch 6 miles to the eastward of it. Ships must therefore keep well to seaward from it.

It will bear a dioptric light, the upper and lower cupolas showing a fixed light, and the centre drum a revolving light, attaining its greatest brilliancy once a minute; it can be seen 18 miles from the deck of a ship. It is in latitude N. 16° 17′ and longitude E. 96° 13′.

3.—Harbour Lighthouse.

The eastern grove for the mouth of the Rangoon river on the eastern side.

This lighthouse is also on screw piles, in latitude N. 16° 29′, longitude E. 96° 27′ 30″.

This lighthouse will show a light of 60°, and will be cut off to the eastward due south; 10° of this angle will show a condensed light, the centre of which will pass through the present position of the light ship, or in a direction S. 30° W. This condensed light will be visible 18 miles from the mast head of a ship; and the remaining 50° of light will show 12 miles from the deck of a vessel

Sailing directions for making the mouth of the Rangoon River.

Having made the China Buckeer Light from the southward or eastward, a vessel must not go to the northward of a bearing to it of west to avoid the eastern sands; and to avoid the western sands the Eastern Grove Light must not be brought to bear to the eastward of N. N. E.

All vessels steering from the eastward should make the China Buckeer Light bearing W. by N., and should not proceed on their course beyond a point where the eastern Grove Lighthouse will bear as above, N. N. E.

Ships are not to go up channel by the eastern Grove Light, but must anchor south of a bearing to the China Buckeer of west.

A ship anywhere to the southward of W. by N. bearing to the China Buckeer Light, and anywhere to the eastward of a bearing to the Eastern Grove of N. N. E. is in safety ; anywhere to the northward or westward of these bearings, in danger.

This notice is intended to be preliminary, so that vessels may not be deceived in case they find the lights lighted as above, and the light ship removed. But as something may occur to prevent their being lighted at the time noted, 31st May 1869, until a second notice is issued that they have been lighted, masters of vessels should adopt all the precautions which they would adopt if the present light ship was to be their only guide.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual, unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these Conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot, and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot; and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of Rupees 800 specified in the second of these Conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots, provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date, by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertised for sale. No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1867-68, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade, will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognise any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified, that, under the 16th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand, that out of the quantities of Behar and Behares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1869, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale, within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thiry days from the publication of this notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above mentioned, the entire quaintity of about 44,915 chests of Behar and Benares as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for a quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French Authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Notice

Is hereby given that an application has been made under Act XXII. of 1863, for the registration of the necessary works for constructing a "Floating Road Bridge" at Calcutta, from a point on the left bank of the River Hooghly, near Armenian Ghât, to the right bank of the said River opposite the new approach to the Station of the East Indian Railway at Howrah, whereby the means of conveying traffic on, along, and across the said River, will be provided; such means being now insufficient, and additional ones being much needed, and the provision thereof being of great local and public advantage.

Water-tight iron flats or barges, each 110 feet long by 16 feet wide, will be coupled together and moored as floating piers at intervals of 100 feet, a timber superstructure being raised thereon, carrying a roadway of 40 feet in width for wheeled traffic, with two footways of 5 feet each, at an elevation of 16 feet above the water level at the ends of the Bridge, rising by easy gradients of 1 in 50 to 25 feet above the water level at the central portion, which will be horizontal for a length of 400 feet.

A minimum headway of 22 feet will be thus afforded in the central portion of the Bridge, and a clear opening of 42 feet between the barges for country craft at all times, and by removing two pairs of boats a clear waterway of 200 feet in width or more, if considered necessary, will be obtained for the passage of ships and steamers. The land approaches will slope down to either bank of the River by a gentle inclination, the Bridge being connected therewith by adjusting ways 160 feet long, hinged at one end to the Floating Bridge, and at the other end to the fixed abutments. Dated this 20th day of October 1868.

Reporting on the state of the Crops in the Lower Provinces to the end of October.

From R. L. MANGLES, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 6181B., dated Fort William, the 17th November 1868.)

IN continuation of Board's letter No. 5984B., dated 7th instant, I am directed to forward, for the information of Government, the following supplementary Report on the state of the crops in the Lower Provinces at the close [illegible] st month [illegible]

[illegible] the District [illegible] rs [illegible]

ASSAM [illegible] uttra, 16 seers for th[illegible]

2. In Kamroop the damage done by inundation ar[illegible]od, and fr[illegible] to the rice crops is not so great [illegible] was previously supposed. They are now in a t[illegible]rable. [illegible] state, and there is no cause for al[illegible]n. In Nowgong and in the Cossyah and Jyn[illegible]lls the crops are reported as promising. In Durrung a tolerable harvest is expected, the no[illegible]us damage having been caused either by inundation or drought. The crops in Luckimpin the Seebsagur are in a flourishing condition.

BHAUGULPORE DIVISION.

3. Bhaugulpore.—The Collector estimates the out-turn of the rain crops from 8 to 12 annas, but this, the Commissioner observes, is too high for the south of the District, where, he believes, it did not reach 8 annas; the Deputy Magistrate's estimate being so low as 6½ annas. The prospects of the Aughanee rice and Rubbee crops are not favorable. It is estimated that one-half has been destroyed by the continued drought. Considerable distress is likely to be felt from April till the next Bhadoi crops are cut. If, however, rain falls before the end of this month, there will be some improvement, and the Rubbee crop will turn out well. No actual distress has been as yet felt by the people, but as there are signs of some scarcity among the non-agricultural portion of the poorer classes at Dugmarrah, Mudhepoorah, and Kumargunge, the Collector has called for a detailed report. He has also written to the Sub-Divisional Officers and to the District Superintendent of Police, as also to several European and Native Zemindars, asking them to give him timely information of the appearance of distress among the people. The Commissioner adds that as not more than an 8-anna Aughanee crop is expected anywhere in the district, while to the south-east and south there will hardly be a 4 anna crop, considerable distress may be apprehended among the laboring classes, and work will have to be provided for them two months hence.

4. Monghyr.—There was a good Bhadoi crop throughout the District. In the south-west portion of the District a very poor Aughanee harvest is expected, estimated at a 4-anna crop. The Rubbee crops are much in want of rain. There is no distress at present among the population, but arrangements will have to be made for providing work about two months hence.

5. Purn[illegible]—The out-turn of the Aughanee crop will be good, save in the high lands. The Rubbee sowings a[illegible] be extensive and good. The people are well-to-do. Prices are very moderate.

6. Sonthal Pergunnahs, Rajmehal.—There is [illegible] Rubbee crops [illegible] Aughanee rice crop. Owing to the want of seasonable rain, a very limited extent. In the heart of the Damin-i-koh among the Sonthals, there is but little grain in store. Looking to the ruling prices of rice, the slight rise in which is owing to large exportations to the west, no distress is apprehended at present. Rain even now would do much good, but there is little prospect of it. Better accounts have been received from Pakour, where the public works now carried on will afford adequate relief to any distress which may arise.

7. In Deoghur there was a good Bhadoi crop, and an 8-anna rice crop is expected.

8. The report from Doomka is to the same effect; no distress is anticipated for several months.

9. In Godda there was a fair Bhadoi crop, and the yield from the rice crop is estimated at 10 annas.

10. On the whole, the Commissioner observes that, unless the Rubbee crop fails, the distress will be confined to the south-west of Monghyr, the south and south-east of Bhaugulpore, and the Sub-Division of Rajmehal, and that for the relief of the poorer classes in those parts it will be necessary to provide labor about two months hence. The Commissioner has written to the contractors of the chord line of the East Indian Railway to ascertain whether unlimited employment, as it is reported, can be obtained on their works, and what wages will be given. He has also asked for information as to the places to which persons seeking work should be directed to proceed. Should the reply be favorable, timely measures will be adopted by the Commissioner to make its purport generally known.

11. The Board have approved of the Commissioner's proceedings, and informed him that, if all the places at which distress is anticipated are situated near the Railway chord line, and if work can be provided by the contractors, no other action seems necessary; otherwise the District Officers should be called upon to submit schemes for providing local employment.

BURDWAN DIVISION.

12. Bancoorah.—The paddy and sugarcane crops are promising almost throughout the District. If there is rain, an average crop is expected; otherwise nearly one-fourths of the paddy will be lost. The Aous paddy has been reaped, but the produce fell short of the average crop owing to the excessive rains which fell early in the year. The ryots are now engaged in sowing for the winter crop, of which the out-turn cannot be ascertained at present; but this is not an important crop in the District.

13. Beerbhoom.—Since the early part of last month there has been no rain. The out-turn is expected to be from 8 to 12 annas, and no scarcity is apprehended.

14. Burdwan.—There has been scarcely any rain during the past month, but in Raneegunge one inch fell in one shower. Rain is much wanted in the District, and the ryots are busy everywhere baling water to their [illegible] The average out-turn is expected to be from 12 to 14 annas, though [illegible] will be as low as 8 annas.

15. Hooghly.—Up to the [illegible] October the weather was so favorable that three-fourths or more of an average [illegible] was expeeted, but in consequence of no rain after that date the crops on the high lands [illegible]ched, and that portion of the harvest which survived the inundation is now being th[illegible]d with drought. The out-turn of the whole District will not exceed 10 annas of the y[illegible] an average year, but no fear of want of food is felt by the people.

16. Howrah.—In this District one-fourth of the rice fields escaped the flood and inundation of August last, and promises to return a good crop. The Rubbee or Winter crop has not yet been sown for want of rain.

17. Midnapore.—From almost every part of the District the crops are reported to be perishing for want of water. The state of the crops appears to be best in the Gurbettah Sub-Division, and in the large Pergunnah of Brahmunbhoom to the south of Gurbettah. In the jungle mehals in the west it was at first feared that the drought would cause an actual famine, but better accounts have since been received; and in the north-west of the District a ten or twelve-anna crop is looked for. To the south of the station, towards Naraingurh and Dantoon, the crops are tolerably good; but the reports from Tumlook are very discouraging. The inundation there prevented the low lands from being sown, but the crops on the high lands, which promised well, are now reported to be perishing for want of rain. The accounts from Contai are of a similar character. In Southern Hidgellee a 12-anna crop is still hoped for, but in the northern and western parts of the Sub-Division the paddy is everywhere drying up without coming to an ear, and it is believed that fully half the crop will be lost. In the Doobdah Jheel, where the finest rice in the Sub-Division is grown, and which could not be affected by any drought, no paddy could this year be sown in consequence of the inundation. There is no present prospect of rain, and in Midnapore not more than half of an average year's yield can be looked for. The winter crop in Midnapore is not a very important one, and it is expected that there will be rain in time for the mustard and pulses. The present accounts of the linseed and sugarcane crops are not favorable. Considerable exportation is reported from the marts both in Hidgellee and Gurbettah,—from the former to Calcutta and the latter to the North-West. These exportations, at a time when local prices are considerably higher than usual, are attributed to the expectation of a still more serious scarcity in [illegible] places. The Collector proposes to leave for the interior in a few days (visiting [illegible] Gurbettah first) to keep a careful watch on the state of the District.

CHITTAGONG DIVISION.

18. Chittagong.—The further report received of this district shows that the absence of rain in the latter part of October has, to a considerable extent, injured what had previously promised to be an excellent crop. This year's Shail crop will be short by 4 annas at least. The latest sowings, and also the crops on the up-lands along the hills, have suffered most of all. The Commissioner states that at the present moment it seems possible there may be some rain, which would improve the crops. A good many ships are expected at the Chittagong Port during the cold season, and they will take away rice.

CHOTA NAGPORE DIVISION.

19. Lohardugga.—From the south-eastern parts of this District (excluding Palamow) the reports of the crops gathered and on the ground are favorable. In other parts of the District, owing to want of rain, no more than half an average crop is expected. This appears to the Commissioner to be a very low estimate.

20. In Palamow the prospects both of the rice and the Rubbee harvests are very gloomy, particularly of the former. In some villages the rice crop will be an 8-anna yield, and in some few instances 12 annas; but in far the greater portion, i e., in five out of ten villages, there will be 2 to 4 annas crop, and in the remainder not even a return for the seed. As regards the Rubbee crop, in some places 12 annas have been sown, and in others 8 annas. A great portion of the wheat and linseed crops have been attacked by caterpillars and eaten up. If rain does not fall shortly, the Rubbee crop will fail. The price of grain of all sorts is rising in Palamow, and beparees from Behar (Gya) are purchasing and carrying off rice from every bazar. The Deputy Commissioner suggests that exportation should be stopped. The Commissioner is very unwilling to recommend such a measure, adding—"but it must be borne in mind that Palamow is a District from whence rice goes, and into which it comes not. Considering, however, that there is expensive carriage on pack-bullocks to be paid for in exporting rice to Behar, I should expect that the rising prices, which Mr .Forbes notes, will suffice to stop over-exportation." The Commissioner has been informed that the Board do not approve of the suggestion made by the Deputy Commissioner.

21. Maunbhoom.—The cessation of rain since the 13th ultimo has seriously affected the up-land crop, but prices continue steady, and the low land crop, the most important in the district, is considered safe: on the whole, a fair average crop is expected.

22. Singbhoom.—The crops in the heart of the District are considered very fine. The up-lands have yielded well, and the low land crop is of great promise. In the south of the District a loss of about one-fourth is expected, and in the Bamunghatty direction, or to the east, of about one-eighth. No accounts have been received from Dhulbhoom, but the price of rice there and at Chyebassa has fallen 8 seers since the new rice came into market; the latest quotations for common rice being 32 seers for the rupee.

23. Hazareebaugh.—The western part of the District appears to have suffered from drought, like Palamow, and the price of rice at Chuttra, 16 seers for the rupee, is unusually high for that mart. About Hazareebaugh the crops are good, and from Khurruckdiba and the Burhee Sub-Division generally the reports are very favorable.

CUTTACK DIVISION.

24. Balasore.—The out-turn of the Sarud Rice crop to the north of the Subunreka is estimated at 6 annas, from that river to Bustah at 2 annas, and in the rest of the Sudder Sub-Division at 10 annas. The estimate for the Bhuddruck Sub-Division is 8 annas. The Rubbee crops of the District are indifferent. The price of rice in the Sudder Sub-Division averages 27 seers, and in Bhuddruck 25 seers.

25. Cuttack.—A fair Sarud crop is expected from the Sudder Sub-Division and Juggutsingpore, while the out-turn in the Jajipore Sub-Division is assumed at 8 annas, and in Kendraparrah Sub-Division at 9 annas. As regards the Rubbee crops of the District, the prospects of the pulse are fair, and those of mustard and linseed indifferent. The price of rice in the town of Cuttack and in Jajipore is 18 to 21 seers, in Juggutsingpore 40 seers, and in Kendraparrah 27 seers for the rupee. The supply in the Jajipore and Kendraparrah Sub-Divisions is short.

26. Pooree.—The state of the crops in this District is not favorable; people estimate the out-turn at half the average. This, the Commissioner observes, is probably somewhat too low an estimate. Rice is growing dearer, and is not easily procurable everywhere.

27. In consideration of the importance of husbanding the stocks of imported Government rice in the Division, and as it is desirable to bring the selling rates more nearly to those prevailing and expected to prevail in the local markets, the prices of Government rice have recently been raised by the Commissioner, in accordance with the Board's instructions, to Rupees 2 per maund for Calcutta and clean Burmah, and to Rupees 1-8 for inferior Burmah in the Districts of Cuttack and Balasore, and to Rupees 1-12 and Rupees 1-4 respectively in the Pooree District. The Commissioner has been desired to raise these rates still higher, should it become necessary to do so, with reference to the bazar prices in each District, and to submit a weekly statement of the sales of Government rice in each District of the Division. The quantity available for sale was on the 31st October last—

In Pooree	..	85,561 „
In Balasore	..	19,706 „
Total	..	397,547 „

Dacca Division.

28. Cachar.—There is great likelihood of an unusually good harvest if rain falls shortly; if, however, it does not fall or if the rain fall, be light, there will be a partial failure of the less advanced crops.

29. Furreedpore.—The harvest of every sort promises to be an abundant one. The only exception is in the high country south of the Goalundo Extension, comprised within the Police Stations of Belghachi and Goalundo, where both the Amun and Sugarcane crops are poor from want of sufficient moisture, and the former crop has also suffered from the ravages of an insect locally known as the Moricha. Throughout the rest of the district the Amun rice has derived the greatest benefit from the gradual and steady subsidence of the inundation. The Asheni or intermediate rice harvest which has been reaped has turned out very well. Sugarcane, which is a main staple of the District, is excellent, and the winter crops look extremely promising.

30. Mymensing.—The state of the crops in several Police stations is reported as promising, but it is apprehended they will suffer to some extent should no rain fall soon, while in Kishoregunge rather more than one-third of the low land crop has been destroyed from excessive rain.

Patna Division.

31. Tirhoot.—The want of rain has in most places entirely ruined the rice crop, and the newly-sown rubbee crops are also suffering from deficient moisture. In some places the rice out-turn will not exceed two annas; in a few it will possibly amount to 8 annas; but the average is estimated at 4 annas only. The prospects of Pergunnah Alapore in the north-east of the District are much better than those of other portions of Tirhoot, and the Collector remarks that, if this pergunnah alone should produce a fair crop, there will be enough rice to supply the whole District, if not exported. The condition of the District, he adds, will depend greatly on the rates of grain prevailing in the neighbouring Districts of Chuprah, Gazeepore, and Goruckpore. The amount of grain in store is assumed to be not less than three-fourths of the usual quantity. The price of the cheapest sort of rice in most of the marts is upwards of 20 seers per rupee.

32. Sarun.—The rice crop has almost totally failed, and great anxiety is felt for the Rubbee crop. If rain falls within a fortnight, an average Rubbee harvest is looked for; otherwise it will be immediately injured, if not lost, and there will be severe scarcity. The Collector has been instructed by the Commissioner to spend the Local and Ferry Fund money at his disposal as soon as it is ascertained that the Rubbee crop will be a failure. Rice is selling in the District at from 16 to 18 seers per rupee.

33. Champarun.—Two-thirds of the crop has been irretrievably lost. If rain fall at once, the out-turn of the Rubbee will be only about one-half an average return. A large quantity of grain is said to be in the District in anticipation of scarcity: the ryots are refusing to sell. Coarse rice is selling at 22 seers per rupee.

34. Gya.—The prospect of this District have not improved, and there is no doubt that some distress will be felt by the poorer and laboring classes. The Collector anticipates that this distress will be felt between the cutting of the Rice and the Rubbee harvest, i. e., from the middle of January to the end of March. Taking the average prospects of the whole District, the Collector counts on a 4-anna Rice crop only, and states that there has been a sudden and great rise in prices, from 20 seers for the rupee to 12 seers, and that the Rubbee crop will be very poor if rain does not fall within a short time. In order to afford special relief in the localities in which the distress will be most severe, the Collector has proposed the construction of two main roads*,—one from Munjeewan to Daoodnuggur, and the other from Gya to the latter place. This proposal has been strongly supported by the Commissioner.

35. Patna.—In the Dinapore Sub-Division there will be a small rubbee crop if rain does not fall within a week or ten days. In the Behar Sub-Division the rice on the banks of the Sukree River is drying up; the Khurreef has totally failed; and the prospect of a good Rubbee crop is far from hopeful. In Barh cultivation is at a stand-still for want of rain. In the Sudder Sub-Division along the banks of the Ganges the Bhadoi crop has been good; the Urhur crop is also good, but rain is wanted for the wheat and barley sowings. The Collector observes that the rubbee crop will fail unless it rains soon, and relief measures on an extended scale will then become necessary, and a large quantity of grain must be imported into the District. According to the Commissioner relief measures will have to be commenced shortly in the Behar Sub-Division, and he recommends strongly the construction of the Buktearpore and Behar Road, which has been suggested by the Collector. Plans and estimates have been called for by the Commissioner for this work.

36. No report has been received from Shahabad, but the Commissioner's following remarks apply to it equally with the other Districts. He says if rain falls within ten days the Rubbee crops will promise fairly; if it falls within a month, there will be a Rubbee crop, but not a full one. In either case the poor will suffer, but there will be no famine. If, however, the Rubbee fail totally, there will be much distress, and work must be provided for the poor throughout the Division. The Collectors have [illegible] by the Commissioner to [illegible] becomes actually necessary, and he has solicited authority to commence

* The first has since been sanctioned.

37. As it appears nearly certain now that relief measures will be necessary, the Board have recommended to Government the grant of the discretion the Commissioner asks for, and the construction of one of the two roads proposed by the Collector of Gya, viz., that from Munjeerwan to Daoodnuggur, the other road being taken up later, if necessary. They have also recommended for sanction the construction of the Buktearpore and Behah road in the Patna District.

PRESIDENCY DIVISION.

38. 24-Pergunnahs.—Except in the tract to the south, where the crop was destroyed, and where relief works are in full operation, the crop is everywhere fair. Up to the 10 h November the sum of Rupees 42,700 has been spent on the relief works in question, and the Commissioner has been requested to submit a statement of detailed expenditure every fortnight.

39. Jessore.—The Rice crop promises very favourably on the whole, though in some parts it will be poor.

40. Nuddea.—The chief Rice crop is safely housed long since. The late rice will be a poor crop, and a good deal of anxiety is felt about the cold weather crops, which are important in this District.

41. The Commissioner adds that though the agricultural prospects of the whole Division have been unfavourably influenced by the too early cessation of the rains, still as yet (excepting the particular tract in the 24-Pergunnahs) there is prospect of a fair agricultural year in the Division as a whole.

RAJSHAHYE DIVISION.

42. The prospects of the crops in this Division are generally favourable. In the Rajshahye and Maldah Districts, however, more rain is wanted. In Pubna about one-fourth of the crops is reported to have been lost, but the Collector proposes to submit a full report after he has made further personal enquiries.

From R. B. CHAPMAN, ESQ., Officiating Commissioner of the Presidency Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 669, dated Fort William, the 10th November 1868.)

I HAVE the honor to make my report upon the crops to the end of October.

2. I have, as already reported, been personally through the 24-Pergunnahs quite recently, except in the tract to the south, where the crop was destroyed, and where relief works are in full operation; the crop is everywhere fair.

3. In Jessore the rice crop promises very favorably, indeed, on the whole, though in some parts it will be poor.

4. In Nuddea the chief rice crop is safely housed long since. The late rice will be a poor crop, and there is a good deal of anxiety felt about the cold weather crops, which are important in Nuddea.

5. The agricultural prospects of the whole Division have been unfavorably influenced by the too early cessation of the rains. There was scarcely any rain in October. The whole season has been abnormal.

6. Still as yet I may say that (always excepting the particular tract so often referred to) there is prospect of a fair agricultural year in this Division as a whole.

7. Rupees 42,700 has been spent to date in the relief of distress in the 24-Pergunnahs.

From A. SMITH, ESQ., Collector of 24-Pergunnahs, to the Commissioner of Revenue, Presidency Division,—(No. 530, dated Alipore, the 10th November 1868.)

WITH reference to your letter No. 557, dated the 15th ultimo, I have the honor to submit my report for the fortnight ending the 5th instant, on the prospects of the ammon crop.

2. In Satkhera the crops are progressing favourably. In Busseerhaut and Barripore a 12-anna crop is expected; in Baraset and Diamond Harbour those on the high lands present an unhealthy appearance from want of rain; while in the submerged tracts above the Keorapooker Khal there are no crops. In Barrackpore much loss was caused by the heavy rains, and the Cantonment Magistrate says a 2-anna crop is only expected. In the Sudder Sub-Division the ammon is not also in a very promising condition. The people are anxiously looking out for a fall of rain.

A Bill to provide facilities for obtaining the evidence in Civil and Criminal cases of prisoners detained in any Jail or Prison.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide facilities for the examination in Civil and Criminal suits of prisoners whose evidence may be material and necessary in such suits ; It is enacted as follows :—

Court may order prisoner to be brought up.

I. It shall be lawful for any Court in its discretion, if it appear to such Court that any prisoner detained in any Jail or Prison is a material and necessary witness in any suit, matter, or cause which may be depending in such Court, to make an order in the form in the Schedule to this Act annexed, directed to the Officer in charge of the Jail or Prison in which such prisoner is confined.

Zillah Court and Court of Session to countersign orders.

II. In case such suit, cause, or matter may be depending in any Court subordinate to a District Court or to a Court of Session, or in any Court of Small Causes, such order shall not be issued until the same shall have been submitted to, and countersigned by, the Judge of the District Court, or of the Court of Session, to which such Court may be subordinate, or to the Judge of the District Court of the District within which such Court of Small Causes may be situate ; and such Judge may, if, after having heard the grounds upon which application is made for such order, he may deem it to be inexpedient to issue the same, decline to countersign such order.

Expenses to be deposited.

III. No such order shall be issued until there shall have been deposited in the Court issuing the same, the amount of the reasonable and necessary costs and charges to be incurred in conveying to such Court from such prison, and to such prison from such Court, such prisoner and such escort and guards as may be required for preventing the escape of such prisoner ; such costs to be estimated by the Court by which such order shall be made, according to any scale to be from time to time in that behalf appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and in the mean time and until such scale shall be so appointed, then according to the discretion of such Court.

Prisoner to be brought up.

IV. Upon delivery of such order to the Officer in charge of the Jail or Prison in which the prisoner named in such order may be confined, such Officer shall cause the prisoner named in such order to be carried or taken to the Court from which such order shall have been issued, so as to be present at such Court at the time in such order in that behalf named, and shall cause him to be accompanied by such sufficient guards as in his discretion he shall deem necessary for preventing the escape of such prisoner.

Officer may in certain cases disobey order.

V. In case any Officer in charge of any Jail or Prison may deem it to be probable that any prisoner mentioned in any such order may escape or be rescued in proceeding from or returning to such Jail or Prison in obedience to such order, he shall apply to the Magistrate of the District in which such Jail may be situate, and in case such Magistrate shall by any writing under his hand declare himself to be of opinion that such escape or rescue is probable, such Officer may abstain from obeying such order, and shall in such case send to the Court from which such order shall have been issued, a statement of his reasons for not obeying such order.

Power to make Rules.

VI. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor, by an order published in the "Calcutta Gazette," to make such Rules as to him shall seem fit for the custody and security of prisoners, removed from any Jail or Prison in pursuance of any order under this Act, during the time of their absence from such Jail or Prison, and from time to time, by any order to be in like manner published, to alter, vary, or revoke any such Rules which shall have been so made.

VII. In any case in which it shall appear to any Court to be inexpedient to grant an order under the provisions of this Act to bring up before it any prisoner whose evidence may appear to such Court to be material and necessary in any Civil suit which may be depending before it, it shall be lawful for such Court, if it shall think fit, to issue a Commission under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure for the examination of such prisoner in the Jail or Prison in which he may be confined, although such Jail may be distant less than one hundred miles from the place in which such Court is held. Provided always that no such Commission shall be executed until the estimated cost of executing such Commission shall have been deposited in the Court.

Power to issue Commission.

VIII. Any such Commission shall be directed to the District Court of the District within which may be situate the Jail or Prison within which such prisoner may be confined, and such Court last mentioned shall commit the execution thereof to the Officer in charge of such Jail or Prison, unless to such last mentioned Court it shall seem fit to order otherwise.

Commission how to be directed.

IX. In the construction of this Act, any Magistrate and any person exercising all the powers of a Magistrate shall, while exercising jurisdiction in respect of a charge on which he has power to sentence to fine or imprisonment, or to commit for trial to a Court of Session, be deemed to be a Court and to be a Court subordinate to the Court of Session to which he has power to commit prisoners for trial.

Interpretation.

X. This Act shall not extend to the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, nor to the Small Cause Court at Calcutta.

Extent of Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

It has been brought to notice that, in the absence of any rules under which prisoners confined in Jails could be produced as witnesses in cases before the Courts, much inconvenience has been caused to parties concerned in litigation, and to the Courts both of Criminal and Civil jurisdiction. It being very desirable, in the interests of justice, that reasonable facilities should exist for obtaining the evidence of such persons, when material to cases under trial, and calculated to promote the administration of justice, certain rules were drawn up by the Hon'ble the Judges of the High Court of Judicature, which, with the concurrence and at the suggestion of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, have been circulated to all Officers concerned in their observance.

It is deemed advisable, however, in order to confer and secure necessary powers, that these rules should receive a legislative sanction; and with this view the present Bill has been prepared to provide facilities for obtaining the evidence in Criminal and Civil cases of prisoners detained in any Jail or Prison.

and letter No. 824T., dated 22nd ultimo, from the Inspector-General of Jails, Lower Provinces.

It has been determined, with the approval of His Excellency the Governor General in Council, to place the executive charge of Jails throughout the Lower Provinces in the hands of the Civil Medical Officers of the several stations.

2. It is intended to except from the operation of this rule the Jails at those stations, the medical charge of which is entrusted to Sub-Assistant Surgeons. As, moreover, the Civil Surgeon of Moorshedabad and the Civil Surgeon of Dacca have a large amount of purely professional work to perform, which may make it difficult for them to pay proper attention to the details of prison management, the Lieutenant-Governor inclines, subject to re-consideration should the Inspector-General be of a different opinion, to think that it will be better not to make over the executive charge of the Jails of these two districts to the Medical Officers. A copy of Dr. Wise's letter No. 259, and of that of Dr. Fleming No. 23, both dated the 2nd September last, will be forwarded to Dr. Mouat. The Jails at Godda, Cossyah Hills, Pakour, and Nya Doomka, in which the average number of prisoners does not exceed fifty, are unsuited to the development of the system of intra-mural labor, and will not be made over to the executive charge of the Medical Officer. The Maldah Jail also will not be placed in charge of the Medical Officer. The Alipore, the Presidency, the Hazareebaugh, and the Deegah Jails are already under Special Superintendents, and will therefore not be affected by the new arrangement. The Meetapore Jail is already under the Special Superintendent of the Deegah Jail.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor is accordingly pleased, under the provisions of Section 3 of Act V. (B. C.) of 1865, to vest the Medical Officers of the following stations with the charge of the Jails of their respective districts. They will be entrusted with this charge from the 1st of January 1869, so as to give them time to make themselves acquainted with any points of administrative supervision on which they may require information.

5. As this arrangement will throw extra work and responsibility upon the Medical Officers, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks it right that some additional remuneration should be afforded to them. His Honor is accordingly pleased to direct, in compliance with the recommendation of Dr. Mouat, and with the sanction of the Government of India, that Rupees 150 be allowed for the charge of the Jails in which the average number of prisoners amounts to 500 or more; Rupees 100 for the charge of Jails containing not less than 300 and not more than 500 prisoners; Rupees 75 for Jails containing not less than 150 and not more than 300 prisoners; and Rupees 50 for Jails containing less than 150 prisoners. The Jails which will be included in the new scheme have accordingly been divided into four classes as shewn above, on the principle indicated, the number of prisoners in each case being calculated on the average of the years 1863-64-65, the subsequent year's returns being set aside as unduly disturbed by the temporary pressure owing to the famine and its attendant crime. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the expenditure incurred on this account will be fully compensated by the more efficient superintendence of the Jails, and by an increase of profits in Jail manufactures.

6. The Officers to whom these extra allowances are assigned, are to understand that the allowance is liable to reduction whenever the number of prisoners is materially reduced, either by the opening of Central Jails or from any other cause.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to receive Dr. Mouat's statement regarding the satisfactory manner in which the past management of the Jails has been conducted.

ORDERED, that a copy of this Resolution and of the letters from Dr. Wise and Dr. Fleming, referred to in paragraph 2 thereof, be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Jails, Lower Provinces, for his information.

Ordered also, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded for the information of all Commissioners, all Magistrates, the Inspector-General of Hospitals, Lower Provinces, and Accountant-General, Bengal.

RESOLUTIONS.

I. Managing Agents.

INASMUCH as the clause referring to appears incomplete, it is resolved to alter it to the following :—

The Directors shall have power, if they think fit, to appoint Managing Agents of the Company, to be remunerated either by salary or commission or both, as may be arranged ; and the Directors shall have power to define the duties and responsibilities of such Managing Agents, and they shall have further power to remove such Managing Agents : such removal, however, to be subject to confirmation by the general body of Shareholders.

II. Resolution. To alter clause 25 of the Articles of Association of the following.

That in lieu of Managing Agents, the Directors shall have power, if they think fit, to appoint a Managing Director and Superintendent (who shall be ex-officio a Director of the said Company), and who shall be remunerated by a salary not exceeding Rupees Eight hundred per month, together with a commission of five per cent upon all profits made from the date of his appointment; but such Managing Director shall not be allowed to participate in the fees or allowance to the Directors.

The removal of any such Managing Director shall likewise be with the Directors of the said Company, but both the appointment and dismissal shall be subject to confirmation by the general body of Shareholders. The duty of the Managing Director and Superintendent shall be to superintend and control the whole working of the Concern under the orders of the Directors, and to visit the Collieries and Depôts, and, subject to the orders and control of the Directors, to regulate the sale of Coals, and generally to carry out the views and wishes of the Directors.

III. Resolution. Strike out clauses 26 and 27.

IV. Resolution. In clause 28—

Substitute the words other than the Managing Agents or Managing Directors and Superintendent for Secretary.

V. Resolution.

That Erskine and Co.'s proposal for the general management by their firm of the Company's affairs in the Mofussil be accepted on the following terms, viz.:—

1. That the appointment be for a term of one year; three months of notice of termination of Agreement to be given to Messrs. Erskine and Co. at the expiration of the year.

2. That it will not be incumbent on them to reside at the Collieries, but responsibility in every respect, as at present, will attach to their appointment; they will visit the Collieries frequently, and will furnish monthly reports which will accompany the Accounts.

3. That all correspondence on current business be addressed to Munglepore, whence replies from their authorized Agent will be received, and thus save delay.

4 That the disposition of the Assistants and Engineer be entirely under their control, the Board being advised of all changes. The dismissal and appointment of the Native servants to be absolutely in their power, but those of Europeans with the Board.

5. That a sum of Rupees 3 500, which is about the present disbursement for Establishment, be given them monthly to meet the European and Native salaries, both for Collieries and Talooks, including horse allowance (which will be apportioned as they please), and every travelling charge; but should more than 10 shafts and 5 quarries be worked, the usual additional charge for shaft or quarry must be allowed.

6. That a commission of Rupees 2 per mille maunds on Depôts or consumers receipts' be allowed from 1st January 1869, of which each Assistant shall be entitled to half in the Coals of the Colliery under his charge.

VI. Resolution.

That a Member of the firm of Erskine and Co., or whoever may be accepted Managing Agents for the Company at the Mines or in the Mofussil shall be an ex-officio Director of the said Company during such time as they may be such Managing Agents.

The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's Anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

Wrongful loss.

Wrongful loss" is the loss by unlawful means of property to which the person losing it is legally entitled.

A person is said to gain wrongfully when such person retains wrongfully, as well as when such person acquires wrongfully. A person is said to lose wrongfully when such person is wrongfully kept out of any property, as well as when such person is wrongfully deprived of property.

Dishonestly.

24. Whoever does any thing with the intention of causing wrongful gain to one person, or wrongful loss to another person, is said to do that thing "dishonestly."

Fraudulently.

25. A person is said to do a thing fraudulently if he does that thing with intent to defraud, but not otherwise.

Reason to believe.

26. A person is said to have "reason to believe" a thing, if he has sufficient cause to believe that thing, but not otherwise.

Of Hurt.

Hurt.

319. Whoever causes bodily pain, disease, or infirmity to any person is said to cause hurt.

Grievous Hurt.

320. The following kinds of hurt only are designated as "grievous."

First.—Emasculation.

Secondly.—Permanent privation of the sight of either eye.

Thirdly.—Permanent privation of the hearing of either ear.

Fourthly.—Privation of any member or joint.

Fifthly.—Destruction or permanent impairing of the powers of any member or joint.

Sixthly.—Permanent disfiguration of the head or face.

Seventhly.—Fracture or dislocation of a bone or tooth.

Eightly.—Any hurt which endangers life, or which causes the sufferer to be, during the space of twenty days, in severe bodily pain, or unable to follow his ordinary pursuits.

Voluntarily causing hurt.

321. Whoever does any act with the intention of thereby causing hurt to any person, or with the knowledge that he is likely thereby to cause hurt to any person, and does thereby cause hurt to any person is said "voluntarily to cause hurt."

Voluntarily causing grievous hurt.

322. Whoever voluntarily causes hurt, if the hurt which he intends to cause or knows himself to be likely to cause is grievous hurt, and if the hurt which he causes is grievous hurt, is said "voluntarily to cause grievous hurt."

Explanation.—A person is not said voluntarily to grievous hurt except when he both causes grievous hurt and intends or knows himself to be likely to cause grievous hurt. But he is said voluntarily to cause grievous hurt if, intending or knowing himself to be likely to cause grievous hurt of one kind, he actually causes grievous hurt of another kind.

Illustration.

A, intending or knowing himself to be likely permanently to disfigure Z's face, gives Z a blow which does not permanently disfigure Z's face, but which causes Z to suffer severe bodily pain for the space of twenty days. A has voluntarily caused grievous hurt.

Of Criminal Force and Assault.

Force.

349. A person is said to use force to another if he causes motion, change of motion, or cessation of motion to that other, or if he causes to any substance such motion, or change of motion, or cessation of motion as brings that substance into contact with any part of that other's body, or with anything which that other is wearing or carrying, or with anything so situated that such contact affects that other's sense of feeling; Provided that the person causing the motion, or change of motion, or cessation of motion, causes that motion, change of motion, or cessation of motion in one of the three ways hereinafter described.

First.—By his own bodily power.

Secondly.—By disposing any substance in such a manner that the motion or change or cessation of motion takes place without any further act on his part, or on the part of any other person.

Thirdly—By inducing any animal to move, to change its motion, or to cease to move.

Criminal Force.

350. Whoever intentionally uses force to any person without that person's consent, in order to the committing of any offence, or intending by the use of such force to cause or knowing it to be likely that by the use of such force he will cause iujury, fear, or annoyance to the person to whom the force is used is said to use criminal force to that other.

Illustrations.

(a). Z is sitting in a moored boat on a river. A unfastens the moorings, and thus intentionally causes the boat to drift down the stream. Here A intentionally causes motion to Z, and he does this by disposing substances in such a manner that the motion is produced without any other act on any person's part. A has therefore intentionally used force to Z; and if he has done so without Z's consent, in order to the committing of any offence, or intending or knowing it to be likely that this use of force will cause injury, fear, or annoyance to Z, A has used criminal force to Z.

(b). Z is riding in a chariot. A lashes Z's horses, and thereby causes them to quicken their pace. Here A has caused change of motion to Z by inducing the animals to change their motion, A has therefore used force to Z; and if A has done this without Z's consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby injure, frighten, or annoy Z, A has committed criminal force to Z.

(c). Z is riding in a palanquin. A, intending to rob Z, seizes the pole and stops the palanquin. Here A has caused cessation of motion to Z, and he has done this by his own bodily power. A has therefore used force to Z; and as A has acted thus intentionally without Z's consent, in order to the commission of an offence, A has used criminal force to Z

(d). A intentionally pushes against Z in the street. Here A has by his own bodily power moved his own person so as to bring it into contact with Z. He has therefore intentionally used force to Z, and if he has done so without Z's consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby injure, frighten, or annoy Z, he has used criminal force to Z.

(e). A throws a stone, intending or knowing it to be likely that the stone will be thus brought into contact with Z, or with Z's clothes or with something carried by Z, or that it will strike water and dash up the water against Z's clothes or something carried by Z. Here, if the throwing of the stone produce the effect of causing any substance to come into contact with Z or Z's clothes, A has used force to Z; and if he did so without Z's consent, intending thereby to injure, frighten, or annoy Z, he has used criminal force to Z.

(f). A intentionally pulls up a woman's veil. Here A intentionally uses force to her; and he does so without her consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby injure, frighten, or annoy her, he has used criminal force to her.

(g). Z is bathing. A pours into the bath water which he knows to be boiling. Here A intentionally, by his own bodily power, causes such motion in the boiling water as brings that water into contact with Z, or with other water so situated that such contact must affect Z's sense of feeling: A has therefore intentionally used force to Z: and if he has done this without Z's consent intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause injury, fear, or annoyance to Z. A has used criminal force

(h). A incites a dog to spring upon Z, without Z's consent. Here, if A intends to cause injury, fear, or annoyance to Z, he uses criminal force to Z.

Assault.

351. Whoever makes any gesture or any preparation, intending or knowing it to be likely that such gesture or preparation will cause any person present to apprehend that he who makes that gesture or preparation is about to use criminal force to that person, is said to commit an assault.

Explantion.—Mere words do not amount to an assault. But the words which a person uses may give to his gestures or preparation such a meaning as may make those gestures or preparations amount to an assault.

Illustrations

(a). A shakes his fist at Z, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause Z to believe that A is about to strike Z. A has committed an assault.

(b). A begins to unloose the muzzle of a ferocious dog, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause Z to believe that he is about to cause the dog to attack Z. A has committed an assault upon Z.

(c). A takes up a stick, saying to Z, "I will give you a beating." Here, though the words used by A could in no case amount to an assault, and though the mere gesture, unaccompanied by any other circumstances might not amount to an assault, the gesture explained by the words may amount to an assault.

OF EXTORTION.

Extortion.

383. Whoever intentionally puts any person in fear of any injury to that person or to any other, and thereby dishonestly induces the person so put in fear to deliver to any person any property or valuable security, or anything signed or sealed which may be converted into a valuable security, commits "extortion."

Illustrations.

(a). A threatens to publish a defamatory libel concerning Z, unless Z gives him money. He thus induces Z to give him money. A has committed extortion.

(b). A threatens Z that he will keep Z's child in wrongful confinment, unless Z will sign and deliver to A a promissory note binding Z to pay certain monies to A. Z signs and delivers the note. A has committed extortion.

(c). A threatens to send club-men to plough up Z's field, unless Z will sign and deliver to B a bond binding Z under a penalty to deliver certain produce to B., and hereby induces Z to sign and deliver the bond. A has committed extortion.

(d). A by putting Z in fear of grievous hurt, dishonestly induces Z to sign or affix his seal to a blank paper, and deliver it to A. Z signs and delivers the paper to A. Here, as the paper so signed may be converted into a valuable security, A has committed extortion.

107. A person abets the doing of a thing, who—

First.—Instigates any person to do that thing; or,

Secondly.—Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or,

Thirdly.—Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.

Explanation 1.—A person who, by wilful misrepresentation, or by wilful concealment of a material fact which he is bound to disclose, voluntarily causes or procures, or attempts to cause or procure, a thing to be done, is said to instigate the doing of that thing.

Illustration.

A, a public officer is authorized by a warrant from a Court of Justice to apprehend Z. B, knowing that fact and also that C is not Z, wilfully represents to A that C is Z, and thereby intentionally causes A to apprehend C. Here B abets by instigation the apprehension of C.

Explanation 2.—Whoever, either prior to or at the time of the commission of an act, does anything in order to faciliate the commission of that act, and thereby facilitates the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act.

Abettor.

108. A person abets an offence who abets either the commission of an offence, or the commission of an act which would be an offence, if committed by a person capable by law of committing an offence with the same intention or knowledge as that of the abettor.

Explanation 1.—The abetment of the illegal omission of an act may amount to an offence, although the abettor may not himself be bound to do that act.

Explanation 2.—To constitute the offence of abetment, it is not necessary that the act abetted should be committed, or that the effect requisite to constitute the offence should be caused.

Illustrations.

(a). A instigates B to murder C. B refuses to do so. A is guilty of abetting B to commit murder.

(b). A instigates B to murder D. B in pursuance of the instigation stabs D. D recovers from the wound. A is guilty of instigating B to commit murder.

Explanation 3.—It is not necessary that the person abetted should be capable by law of committing an offence, or that he should have the same guilty intention or knowledge as that of the abettor, or any guilty intention or knowledge.

Illustrations.

(a). A, with a guilty intention abets a child or a lunatic to commit an act which would be an offence if committed by a person capable by law of committing an offence, and having the same intention as A. Here A, whether the act be committed or not, is guilty of abetting an offence.

(b). A with the intention of murdering Z, instigates B, a child under seven years of age, to do an act which causes Z's death. B, in consequence of the abetment, does the act, and thereby causes Z's death. Here, though B was not capable by law of committing an offence, A is liable to be punished in the same manner as if B had been capable by law of commiting an offence, and had committed murder, and he is therefore subject to the punishment of death.

(c). A instigates B to set fire to a dwelling-house. B, in consequence of the unsoundness of his mind, being incapable of knowing the nature of the act, or that he is doing what is wrong or contrary to law, sets fire to the house in consequence of A's instigation. B has committed no offence, but A is guilty of abetting the offence of setting fire to a dwelling-house, and is liable to the punishment provided for that offence.

(d). A intending to cause a theft to be committed, instigates B to take property belonging to Z out of Z's possession. A induces B to believe that the property belongs to A. B takes the property out of Z's possession, in good faith, believing it to be A's property. B, acting under this misconception, does not take dishonestly, and therefore does not commit theft But A is guilty of abetting theft, and is liable to the same punishment as if B had committed theft.

Explanation 4.—The abetment of an offence being an offence, the abetment of such an abetment is also an offence.

Illustration.

A instigates B to instigate C to murder Z B accordingly instigates C to murder Z, and C commits that offence in consequence of B's instigation. B is liable to be punished for his offence with the punishment for murder; and as A instigated B to commit the offence, A is also liable to the same punishment.

Explanation 5.—It is not necessary to the commission of the offence of abetment by conspiracy that the abettor should concert the offence with the person who commits it. It is sufficient if he engage in the conspiracy in pursuance of which the offence is committed.

Illustration.

A concerts with B a plan for poisoning Z. It is agreed that A shall administer the poison. B then explains the plan to C, mentioning that a third person is to administer the poison, but without mentioning A's name. C agrees to procure the poison. and procures and delivers it to B for the purpose of its being used in the manner explained. A administers the poison; Z dies in consequence. Here, though A and C have not conspired together, yet C has been engaged in the conspiracy in pursuance of which Z has been murdered. C has therefore committed the offence defined in this section, and is liable to the punishment for murder.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The bulk of the existing Articles of War for the government of the Native Army is to be found in Act No. XXIX of 1861. This Act has been amended twice, namely by Act No. V of 1863 and Act No. XXVI of 1865. Some further changes being now required, it has been thought preferable to embody them in an Act consolidating the law on the subject than to add a fourth to the three enactments in which that law is now contained.

The principal changes which the present Bill proposes to make are the following:—

Article 1.—The word 'person' has been substituted for 'recruit.'

A form of oath suitable for Sikhs has been added.

Article 2 provides that, in addition to the persons mentioned in the present Article 167, warrant officers, buglers, musicians, private soldiers, lascars, syces, and grass-cutters shall be attested according to the regulations of the Presidency to which they belong.

Article 4.—The provisions as to dismissal of non-commissioned officers and soldiers contained in the present Article 3 (Act V of 1863, sec. 2), are extended to all persons subject to the Articles.

The provisions as to crimes and punishments contained in the present Articles 5 to 69 are extended to all persons subject to the proposed Articles. Many verbal changes have been made in Chapter II of the present Articles, with the view of introducing greater precision in the descriptions of the crimes therein mentioned. The wording of the Indian Penal Code has generally here been followed.

The provisions in Article 25 as to behaviour unbecoming to an officer has been extended to Sub-Assistant Surgeons, Hospital Assistants, Native Doctors, and Warrant Officers.

Article 26 extends to any person, subject to the Articles, several provisions now applicable only to officers, non-commissioned officers or soldiers.

Article 40 renders it penal to strike any subordinate attested under the Articles.

Article 47 renders it penal to make away with tools, instruments, and equipments.

Article 48.—The crime of attempting to commit suicide has been removed from the category of disgraceful conduct, and rendered more severely punishable.

Article 54 extends to any person subject to the Articles, the provisions as to embezzlement now only applicable to officers and soldiers.

Article 56 makes a similar extension as to disgraceful conduct, the provisions respecting which now apply only to soldiers.

Articles 60 and 61 extend the provisions as to theft to thefts of Government property, and render penal the receipt or retention of stolen property.

Article 62 provides a penalty for obtaining pensions by making false entries.

Article 63 makes it penal to omit, or refuse, to make returns or reports.

Article 65 provides against attempts to commit a cruel, indecent, or unnatural offence.

In Article 67—as to witnesses before Courts Martial,—the Bill provides against the offences of prevarication and refusal to produce documents.

Article 71 provides punishments for abetting within the meaning of the Penal Code the offences specified in the preceding Articles. For convenience of reference, the two sections of the Code defining abetment will be reprinted in an appendix to the proposed Act.

Articles 72 to 94 specify the eight kinds of Court Martial, mentioning in the case of each kind of court, the authority empowered to appoint it, composition and its powers.

Article 113 provides for re-swearing the officers of the courts and witnesses in case of several trials.

Article 116 provides that on trials for desertion, the accused may be found guilty either of desertion or of absence without leave.

Article 140 provides for a second sentence of transportion on an offender already sentenced to transportation for a limited term.

Article 152 extends to the Commander-in-Chief in India, and to the Officer Commanding any force not attached to a Presidency, the power to fix the place of imprisonment of any offender, which the present Article 88 confers on the Commander-in-Chief of a Presidency.

Article 155 provides for striking off the strength of a Regiment a person convicted by a non-Military Criminal Court.

Article 160 extends expressly the power of pardoning persons convicted of military offences to the Governor General of India in Council, the Commander-in-Chief in India, and the Local Governments of Madras and Bombay.

Article 164 empowers the Commander-in-Chief in India, the Commanders-in-Chief of Madras and Bombay, and the Officer Commanding any force not attached to a Presidency to reduce non-commissioned officers to the ranks.

Act XXVI of 1865 gives power to prescribe minor punishments only in cases of non-commissioned officers and soldiers. Article 165 of the Bill proposes to authorise the exercise of this power in the cases of all persons subject to the Articles, except Commissioned Officers, Sub-Assistant Surgeons, Hospital Assistants, Native Doctors, and Warrant Officers. Good conduct pay may be forfeited in addition to any other minor punishment, but will not necessarily be forfeited on the infliction of the minor punishment. It will cease whenever a soldier is convicted by a Court Martial.

Sentences of death, where the offender is not attached to any Presidency, must be confirmed (Article 174) by the Commander-in-Chief in India.

In Part III are contained sundry miscellaneous provisions, the most important of which is a clause providing (a) that no soldier shall be arrested for debt, and (b) that no soldier's arms, horse or regimental necessaries shall be liable to be seized in satisfaction of a judgment.

Article 166 provides a punishment for offences committed by camp-foliowers in camp or at any frontier post, at which troops are stationed, to which the Article may be specially extended.

Article 172 provides that General Courts Martial shall be held for the trial of non-military offences, which shall on the conviction of the offender award punishment in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Penal Code.

Provision is made in Part III, clause (d), for the capture of deserters, and the civil, political, and police authorities are empowered to prevent persons suspected to be subject to the Articles from travelling unless on duty or furnished with a proper certificate.

Civil Officers are required by Part III, clause (e), to aid in the apprehension of persons accused of military offences.

Lastly, power is given to the Governor General in Council to make rules consistent with the proposed Act for the guidance of officers in matters connected with its enforcement.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

It has been brought to notice that, in the absence of any rules under which prisoners confined in Jails could be produced as witnesses in cases before the Courts, much inconvenience has been caused to parties concerned in litigation, and to the Courts both of Criminal and Civil jurisdiction. It being very desirable, in the interests of justice, that reasonable facilities should exist for obtaining the evidence of such persons, when material to cases under trial, and calculated to promote the administration of justice, certain rules were drawn up by the Hon'ble the Judges of the High Court of Judicature, which, with the concurrence and at the suggestion of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, have been circulated to all Officers concerned in their observance.

It is deemed advisable, however, in order to confer and secure necessary powers, that these rules should receive a legislative sanction; and with this view the present Bill has been prepared to provide facilities for obtaining the evidence in Criminal and Civil cases of prisoners detained in any Jail or Prison.

The following are the Conditions of Sale :—

1. The Opium will be sold for exportation by Sea only, and no Certificate will be granted except to cover such Export.

2. The Opium will be ordinarily offered for sale at an upset price of Rupees 800 per chest and sold to the highest bidder above that price, except under the circumstances for which provision is made by Clause 12th of these Conditions of Sale.

3. The sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M. of the day fixed by previous notification, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M ; but if at that hour any of the lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a Public Holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M., and so on until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of, or, if the whole quantity advertised shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board may dispose of the lots which remain on hand at a future sale.

4. Each lot shall contain five chests.

5. A Promissory Note for a sum calculated according to the scale noted in the margin shall be taken as a deposit on each lot from the purchaser in the Sale-room, and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal Receipts, or by substitution of other Public Securities of the Bengal Government, on before 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the fifth day after the sale, or on the other hand, falling such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Bank of Bengal Receipts, or deposit of other Public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit, and all losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale, shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

On bids of Rs. 1,600 and upwards, but less than Rs. 2,000 per chest	„ 400 „

And so on, Rs. 100 being added to the deposit for every bid additional to the extent of Rs. 400.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last-mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realisation in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No Tender of Money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium, upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth Condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or chests shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium, after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots, or of a different number of lots or chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present Conditions will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual, unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these Conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot, and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot; and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of Rupees 800 specified in the second of these Conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots, provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date, by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertised for sale. No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1867-68, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade, will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognise any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified, that, under the 16th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand, that out of the quantities of Behar and Behares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1869, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale, within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thiry days from the publication of this notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above mentioned, the entire quaintity of about 44,915 chests of Behar and Benares as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for a quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales abovementioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French Authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

SUBURBS OF CALCUTTA.

(Repeal of Act XXI. of 1857.)

MR. DAMPIER moved that the Bill to repeal Act XXI. of 1857, so far as it affects the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta, be passed.

The motion was agreed to, and the Bill passed.

TRANSFER OF CIVIL COURT NATIVE MINISTERIAL OFFICERS.

MR. THOMPSON, in postponing the motion, which stood in the List of Business, for leave to bring in a Bill to empower the High Court of Fort William in Bengal to transfer Native Ministerial Officers from one Civil Court to another, said that circumstances had arisen which necessitated further consideration before the introduction of the Bill.

REGULATION OF CERTAIN TENURES IN CHOTA NAGPORE.

MR. DAMPIER moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to ascertain, regulate, and record certain tenures in Chota Nagpore, be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill, and that the clauses be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee. Hon'ble members would see that considerable alterations had been made in the Bill in Committee. A new preamble had been inserted; the Bill was in its nature so local, and must contain so many technical descriptions of tenures, that the Committee had thought it better to adopt the preamble prepared by Colonel Dalton, in which the tenures were set out at length. As he (Mr. Dampier) had said when the Bill was introduced, there were three principal classes of land tenures in Chota Nagpore. Majhahas, which was land absolutely at the disposal of the Zemindars; Rajhahas, or ordinary rent-paying land; and Bhúinhárí, which was land held on a certain customary tenure, and the infringement of the rights of the holders of which had led to the introduction of the Bill before the Council. There were also, as would be seen from the preamble, several other minor tenures which the Committee had thrown into either Bhúinhárí or Majhahas, according to their nature, and which were included within one denomination or the other, for the purposes of the Bill, by the interpretation clause.

The Committee had introduced a Section, which stood as Section VI, giving power to the Special Commissioner to commute the services in consideration of the performance of which lands were held, to money payments on the request of the tenants of such lands and of the person from whom such lands were immediately held. Some discussion had taken place on this point in Committee, and the question had been recommended for the consideration of the Council. As the clause stood, no one would say it went too far; it merely enabled the parties, if they agreed to a commutation, to come to the Special Commissioner, who would act as an arbitrator and fix the proper money equivalent for the service. But the question was open whether the Section should go further and make commutation compulsory on either party if the other desired it.

In Section 7 the Committee had made an alteration in favor of the Zemindar. The provision as it stood in the Bill as referred to the Select Committee was simply to enable the Bhúinhár to obtain possession of lands of which he had been wrongfully dispossessed; but in the correspondence which had been printed relating to the Bill, an account was given of the manner in which, for the last ten years at least, the Bhúinhárs had retaliated by taking possession of some tracts of Majhahas land which belonged to the Zemindars, and by holding possession of them under color of their being Bhúinhárí land. The 7th Section of the Bill as amended would enable the Zemindar to recover possession of his Majhahas, as well as the Bhúinhár to recover possession of his Bhúinhárí lands.

To the next Section of the Bill the Committee had added an important clause. As referred to the Committee, the Bill provided that the status before the period of twelve years from the passing of the Act was to be accepted as conclusive evidence for the purposes of the Act in determining the rents and services to be paid for the land. The Committee had now added to that twelve years' status and presumption a provision to the effect that that presumption might be rebutted by proof to the satisfaction of the Special Commissioner of what were the original terms of the tenure. Such attempts to trace out the original conditions of old tenures, instead of closing the door artificially by presumptions, had been so fully discussed and condemned as quixotic in the late discussions in another place, that it was due to the Council to explain why the Committee had thought themselves justified in departing from the principles which had been accepted in the debate on the Panjáb Tenancy Bill. The Hon'ble Mr. Maine, in the course of the debate on that Bill, had said:—

THE ADVOCATE GENERAL rose to order. He was not aware that reference to discussions taking place in the Council of the Governor General was regular. Hon'ble members could refer to the printed Reports of the proceedings of this Council; but though there was no rule against it, he believed it was not regular to refer in this Council to debates in the Council of the Governor-General.

THE PRESIDENT said there was no rule on the subject, and he therefore could not pronounce the hon'ble member to be out of order in reading extracts from the Reports of the proceedings of the Council of the Governor General; and he himself did not see that there could be any objection to any hon'ble member referring to the debates that had taken place in another Council on another Bill of a similar nature to the Bill under consideration. The debates of the Council of the Governor General were avowedly published for general information; but any hon'ble member referring to those debates must be assumed to do so in a proper manner.

MR DAMPIER said, he would then go on to justify what, unexplained, seemed like a deliberate rejection by the Committee of a principle which, they were told by high authority, "had been selected by jurists as the criterion for distinguishing good and civilized systems of law from those that are bad and barbarous."

The reason given by Mr. Maine for dwelling so strongly on the advantages of creating an artificial right, as against the attempt to trace out original rights, appears in the case then under discussion to have been the indefinite nature of the rights with which they had to deal. Mr. Maine said:—

"The accumulated common sense of ages has shown that, even in societies which have very distinct ideas as to property, enquiries into rights which are unfrequently and intermittently exercised are, if carried back, as nearly as possible worthless."

In the present case, the rights with which the Council had to deal—the original and acknowledged rights which the Bhúinhár had—were no indefinite; there was no haziness about them. The whole correspondence before the Council was to the effect that there was no difficulty in recognizing and tracing up the original terms of each tenure. However much the original condition might have been raised, whether of service or of money; whatever oppression there might have been—there never was any difficulty in ascertaining what the true rights were. It was notorious what lands were Bhúinhárí in any village, and what were the original conditions of the Bhúinhárí tenure in that village. It seemed to run like a silver thread, which any one could at any moment trace up, if he bonâ fide wished to do so. That was the great difference between the tenures now in question and those which were under consideration in the discussion of the Panjáb Tenancy Bill, and this distinction justified the Committee in their recommendation to allow the Special Commissioner to look back to the original terms of the tenure. Twelve years was given, because that was the well recognized term of limitation adopted in such cases. There must have been some change within twelve years to give the Commissioner any sort of jurisdiction; if the rights and services connected with a tenure had undergone within that time no change, the jurisdiction was barred. The Bill as it stood did not pretend to put men back in possession of land from which they had been altogether disconnected for a generation or two; but where they had held on continuously to their lands, and had attempted to assert their rights whenever they could (as the correspondence showed to have been the case), the Bill empowered the Commissioner to replace the tenures on their original footing wherever he might be able to his satisfaction to ascertain the original terms and conditions. But where the original conditions of the tenures cannot be satisfactorily proved, the Special Commissioner must assert their status to have been what it was twelve years ago, and record them accordingly.

By the 11th and following sections the Committee had given power, both to the Special Commissioner and to the Commissioner of the Division on appeal, to revise their own orders and decisions within one month from the date of the passing of such orders and decisions.

The 17th was a new section, and provided that no Mukhtár or Vakíl should be heard without the permission of the Special Commissioner. He (Mr. Dampier) had no doubt that those who had any knowledge of tribes such as these would agree in the propriety of keeping out Mukhtárs as far as possible.

In the 19th Section the Committee had provided that, after all the decisions had become final, the Registers should be prepared, and should receive the formal sanction of the Commissioner of the Division; and on such sanction being published, the Register would become conclusive evidence of everything that was in it. The Committee were guided in that proposal by the procedure with regard to the Revenue Survey, the proceedings of which required the formal sanction of the Government before they became valid.

The motion was agreed to.

The consideration of Section 1 (the interpretation clause) was postponed.

Section 2 was agreed to.

Section 3 empowered the Special Commissioner to investigate and ascertain the titles to Bhúinhárí and Majhahas tenures.

Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal said he observed in the preamble of the Bill that Rajhahas tenures had been omitted; but both the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore, at whose request the Bill had been brought forward, and the Government of India, suggested that Rajhahas tenures should be included in the Bill. If the Council would refer to pp. 28 and 44 of the papers printed as annexures to the Bill, they would find the recommendation of the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore, as well as the views of the Government of India, as far as that class of lands was concerned. In page 28 the Commissioner said—

"It appears desirable that in every village where these tenures (Bhúinhárí, Rajhahas, and Majhahas) exist, we should have an accurate demarcation of the three distinct classes of lands"

And the Government of India, in their Secretary's letter, dated 30th June, 1868, paragraph 2 (page 44), said—

"The proposed enquiry as to the necessity of demarcating not only the Bhúnhárí, but the Rajhahas and Majhahas lands also, may be instituted at once."

He (Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal) therefore submitted that Rajhahas tenures should also be included in the Register, and inserted in the preamble of the Bill.

Mr. Dampier said, the question of including Rajhahas tenures in the Bill had been thoroughly considered by Colonel Dalton and himself. If the Council were now to include Rajhahas tenures, the Special Commissioner would have to demarcate and record the whole of the lands in those parts of Chota Nagpore to which the Bill referred. After a good deal of consideration as to whether Bhúinhárí lands only, or Majhahas also, should be included in the Bill, Colonel Dalton agreed that it would be sufficient to deal with those two classes only in connection with which disputes had arisen, and these two classes bore a small proportion to the Rajhahas lands in the parts referred to.

Baboo Peary Chand Mittra said, this question occurred to him when sitting in Committee, but he had since found that the objection had been met by what the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore said in his letter of the 17th August last:—

"In the Rajhahas lands the cultivators had generally obtained a right of occupancy. If the Majhahas and Bhúinhárí are demarcated, it is all that is necessary."

Thus it appeared that it was not necessary to include Rajhahas lands; the tenures which had been included in the Bill would be sufficient for all purposes of good government.

The section was then agreed to.

Sections 4 and 5 were agreed to.

Section 6 provided for a commutation, by consent of parties, of services to a money payment.

The President thought the consideration of the Section should be postponed. He was inclined to think that there ought to be a provision that the Bhúinhár should, on his own application only, without the consent of his Zemindar, be permitted to commute his labor services to a payment of rent. It seemed to him (the President) that a provision to pay rent partly and labor partly was one which could only exist under conditions where the cultivator was unable to pay in money; and even where the condition of the country was so, it would be to the advantage of the proprietor to receive payment in money. The President did not propose any amendment at present, but he should be glad to let the Section stand over.

Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal said, he would propose that the power to commute labor services to money payments should be made absolute. If the Council would look at the printed papers, they would find that the misunderstanding between the ryots and their landlords on the question of labor services is not of recent origin. He would refer the Council to paragraphs 16 and 17 in page 8, and paragraph 15 in page 10, and to paragraphs 24—29 in pages 50 and 51 of the annexure, and from a perusal of which he had himself come to the conclusion that it was time that this festering sore was healed at once through legislative action.

The Advocate General thought the question before the Council was whether the consideration of Section 6 should be postponed, and the hon'ble member, he thought, was not in order in speaking upon an amendment which he had in contemplation to bring forward at a future meeting.

The President thought the hon'ble member was in order, because the Council would be better prepared to consider the amendments which might be brought forward on this section at the next meeting if they knew what was likely to be proposed. An hon'ble member might surely refer to the recorded views of the Officers of Government; but perhaps the hon'ble member would, between this and the next meeting, prepare a section making money payments in commutation of labor services absolute.

Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal said, he would then propose by way of amendment, for the consideration of the Council at its next meeting, that the words "on the request of the tenant of such lands, and the person from whom such lands are immediately held" in lines 7, 8, and 9 be altogether omitted from this section.

The further consideration of the section was then postponed.

Section 7 was agreed to.

Section 8 provided as follows:—

"It shall be presumed that all lands of Bhúinhárí tenure are rightly subject to the conditions, rents, and services, upon which such lands respectively are found to be held at the time of the enquiry made by the Special Commissioner, unless it be shown that at the commencement of the term of twelve years before the passing of this Act, such lands were held subject to and upon other and different conditions, rents, and services; in which case it shall be presumed that such lands are rightly subject to the conditions, rents, and services, upon which they were so held at the commencement of the said term of twelve years. Provided always that in case it may be shown to the satisfaction of the Special Commissioner that the original terms of the tenure were different from those upon and subject to which such lands may have been so held at the commencement of the said term of twelve years, the Special Commissioner shall determine the lands to be subject to the conditions, rents, and services which he shall find to have been the original terms of the tenure."

The Advocate General said, the subject of the Bill before the Council was one with which he was not at all familiar; but as this Section proceeded on a question of general principle, it appeared to him that there was something illogical and inconsistent in the whole frame of the section. There were three sorts of cases contemplated in the section. First, the Commissioner was to make a presumption that the proper conditions of the rents and services appertaining to each tenure were those which he found existing at the time of making the investigation: that was presumption (A). Then, upon evidence that the conditions of the tenure which existed at the perfectly arbitrary period of twelve years were different, the Commissioner was to make a second presumption, that the proper conditions, rents, and services were those under which the tenure was held at the commencement of the arbitrary term of twelve years: that was presumption (B). And then the Commissioner might make a presumption, or rather conclusion (C), from the evidence before him, that the real conditions, rents, and services were those under which the tenure was originally held. If, as he (the Advocate General) understood from the hon'ble member opposite (Mr. Dampier) there was practically, as regards the question of right, no difficulty whatever; if the origin and nature of these tenures was so very certain, and all that the Bill was practically dealing with were matters of practical investigation of admitted rights—he (the Advocate General) apprehended the only stand-point was to consider what the original terms of these tenures were. And therefore he would move that the whole of this section be omitted down to the 24th line, and that the section should stand thus—

"The Special Commissioner shall determine the lands to be subject to the conditions, rents, and services which he shall find to have been the original terms of the tenures."

The introduction of twelve years, which after all would, as the Section stood, be only a contingent and presumptive mode of determining the nature of the tenure, was perfectly arbitrary. It was not a question of limitation in any way. The general scope of the Bill was that in the case of certain tenures, with regard to the conditions of which there was no doubt, but as to which in too many cases there had been actual infringement of rights, we ought to go back to the original terms of the tenures. But, according to the present section, the Commissioner was first to take the state of things as he found it at the time of the investigation; then, under certain circumstances, to take the condition of things as they were twelve years ago; and lastly, if he found it necessary to go back to the original terms of the tenure. By limiting the section as it was proposed to do, we would not get over the question of the real conditions of the tenure; that was to say the Commissioner would eventually have to determine the original terms as a question of evidence which would depend on each particular case. It could not be said that he was deciding on evidence if he said that the original terms were so and so because the existing terms were so. The twelve years' rule would be a perfect encumbrance in the way of the Commissioner, as it would be his duty to ascertain what were the original terms of each tenure. It appeared to him (the Advocate General) that this matter should be dealt with, not in the interest of the proprietor or of the Bhúinhárs, but that the Commissioner should be directed as to the general principle on which he was to proceed, viz., to find according to the evidence set before him. He thought it should be left as a question of evidence, untrammelled by any artificial legislative rules of presumption, than which nothing was more misleading.

Mr. Dampier said, there was no doubt that the object in view was to get the original terms of the tenures determined as far as was practicable. When he said there was no doubt that the original terms of the tenures were clearly known, he laid that down as a general rule. But there might be certain cases in which the original terms could not be followed out, and in which there was no possibility of getting it proved that any given conditions were the original conditions of the tenure. The Commissioner might find that fifteen years ago there were certain conditions in force as to the tenure; twenty-five years ago there were certain other conditions; but there was nothing to show absolutely what were the original conditions. It might be that there was evidence to show that in consequence of disturbing causes the conditions actually in force had been more favorable at one time to the Zemindars, at another to the Bhúinhárs; but that there was nothing to show what were the original conditions of the tenure. To meet such cases, the Committee had made twelve years the period of limitation, and thus had closed the door to difficulties when the real truth was not to be got at.

Baboo Peary Chand Mittra said, the question before the Council received the attention of the Select Committee, and the view of the Committee was that the hands of the Special Commissioner should not be fettered by a question of time. If, by giving unlimited power to the Commissioner, he could use it to preserve the rights of either party, the Commissioner should have the power given to him. There might be a little inconsistency in a legal point of view, but the object of the section was merely to have the greatest regard for the rights of those concerned; and if this section really appeared inconsistent, it would perhaps be better to omit it, and leave the matter in the hands of the Commissioner that he might make enquiries, and do justice as the state of thinks might warrant him to do.

THE ADVOCATE GENERAL did not know whether it was suggested that the consideration of the section should be postponed, but he would have no objection to a postponement.

MR. THOMPSON, said, he would wish to explain the views he took of the subject in the discussions upon it in the Select Committee. The question of limitation had arisen in the consideration of two Sections of the Bill, Sections 7 and 8; and he quite agreed with the Committee that where cases arose as to claims to title to lands before the Special Commissioner, it was right that his investigations should be limited to a certain and fixed period: and he thought that that period should be restricted to the twelve years which had been provided in Section 7 of the Bill. The older Bengal Regulations on limitation were conclusive on a question of title where adverse possession had been held for more than twelve years, and in the more recent Act of 1859 the same rule had been followed. There was no reason why in the present case the same period should not be adopted. There was the analogy of the existing law and the practice which obtained in the country for many years, and the principle was a reasonable one that if claims, however good, as regards the establishment of a disputed title, were not adduced within a period of twelve years, they should not be heard.

But the case seemed to him (Mr. Thompson) altogether different when we come to the consideration of Section 8. The Commissioner here would have no dispute before him as to the actual right of either party to occupy the lands which might be the subject of enquiry, but the question in this place referred solely to the assessment to be fixed, or the conditions of labor or service upon which the lands should be held, and in such an enquiry he did not think that it was advisable in the interests of either party to the dispute, or reasonable under the circumstances of the case, that any limitation should be imposed. He had suggested therefore in the Select Committee that it was preferable that the Special Commissioner in such a case should be left free to decide by local custom or usage what were the conditions of each tenure and so make his award. From the papers it would be found, and it seemed to be admitted in the speech of the Hon'ble Member opposite, that in most cases the original terms and conditions of such tenures were generally traceable, and that in every village there would be a large number of persons to prove what those terms and conditions were. If such evidence was available, the Commissioner should be guided by it in making his award. There was no necessity therefore to bind the Special Commissioner here to a 12 years' limitation. The subsequent additions to the Section of first going beyond the 12 years and then to the original creation of the tenure were all in the way of compromises. But it seemed to him (Mr Thompson) far more satisfactory to adopt the suggestions of the learned Advocate General to omit altogether the earlier portions of this Section, and to declare that each case as it came before the Special Commissioner should be heard on its merits, and that he should be guided simply by the evidence adduced in support of the claims put forward.

The further consideration of the Section and of Section 9 was then postponed.

Sections 10 to 16 were agreed to.

Section 17 provided that no Mukhtár or Vakíl should be heard without the consent of the Special Commissioner.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN moved that this section be omitted. No reason had been given, as far as he could gather from a hasty perusal of the papers, for the introduction of such an extraordinary provision; and he thought it was wrong, especially in a country where the people were altogether uncivilized, and not acquainted with the practice of the Courts. There was a certain class of officials who were strongly opposed to the admission of pleaders, and who preferred the dispensation of what was called patriarchal justice under a tree, a system of the practical good results of which he had grave doubts. He thought that in a case of this sort the rights of the people would be prejudiced by a prohibition of the employment of legal advisers: the inhabitants of Chota Nagpore had as much a right to professional assistance as any other people: and from the very nature of the proceedings under the Act, cases were likely to arise involving intricate questions and depending upon ancient documents in the unravelling of which these rude people would be quite helpless without the assistance of advisers better qualified than themselves.

THE ADVOCATE GENERAL said, he concurred in the opinion of the hon'ble member, subject to the proviso that there were no special reasons disclosed why the permission to engage Mukhtárs should not be accorded. He himself had not seen any reason assigned why this particular distinction should be made. The questions that would have to be determind under the Act would involve more or less of difficulty and nicety; and he did not see why the parties should not have the assistance of professional men. The preamble of the Bill showed that many cases would be attended with questions of nicety, and he was therefore at a loss to understand why this prohibition of Mukhtárs and Vakíls was introduced, unless there were some very exceptional circumstances which would justify such prohibition; but, as he had said before, he did not find anything in the papers before the Council justifying the introduction of the section before the Council.

MR. THOMPSON said, the reason for the introduction of this section was that given by the hon'ble member opposite (Mr. Eden), that the people were so uncivilized and destitute of education, that they would become the tools of designing Bengallees, and that probably better justice would be done under what was called the patriarchal system, by both parties being brought face to face and stating their claims in the presence of the Special Commissioner.

The appearance of Mukhtárs and Vakíls was not absolutely prohibited; their admission was made subject to the consent of the Commissioner, who would exercise his discretion in the matter. From his (Mr. Thompson's) own experience in that part of the country, he thought that probably more would be elicited by the personal presence of the actual parties, than by the intervention of third parties, probably liable to be influenced by other motives than that of justice. He would support the retention of the section.

BABOO PEARY CHAND MITTRA said, the objections to this section that had been stated to the Council had occurred to him, and he had stated them in Select Committee; but he had noticed that in the Mofussil the body of the Mukhtárs always endeavoured to thwart the administration of justice, and the Select Committee therefore determined to exclude them from appearing in cases under this Act without the consent of the Special Commissioner. If a respectable Mukhtár or Vakíl appeared before the Commissioner, he would, as a matter of course, admit him. The section was not intended to exclude respectable and qualified Mukhtárs and Vakíls; the object was to shut out that class of men who, instead of assisting the Courts in the administration of justice, thwarted them.

MR. DAMPIER said, the Section was adopted on the recommendation made to him by the Commissioner and Judicial Commissioner of Chota Nagpore, and he (Mr. Dampier) had very little doubt that every experienced officer in that district would endorse the recommendation. It was not a section to exclude professional agency, but to give a discretion to the Special Commissioner, to whom the Bill entrusted responsible powers in other matters, to admit or exclude these agents according to what might seem to him to be for the best interests of justice. Then as to what was said about the patriarchal system and dispensation of justice under a tree; good or bad, this was precisely what the Bill proposed to provide. The Council were not now legislating for a civilized province and regular Courts of Justice; they were regulating the procedure of an officer who would go into the villages, and justice would, literally, be administered under trees. The Bill itself, superseding as it did the action of the established Courts of justice, was violently opposed to the principle which would apply to a more advanced stage of society. He trusted, therefore, that the Council would accept the section which it was now proposed to omit, as being another departure from principle which those best acquainted with the circumstances considered to be really desirable.

BABOO ISSUR CHUNDER GHOSAL said, he agreed that the principle advocated ought to be upheld in a Legislative Council, viz., that both parties should be allowed to engage legal advisers to carry on their suits; but from his own personal knowledge of the Mukhtárs in that part of the country, he knew them to be such an illiterate body, that they were scarcely ever passed by any of the Courts; it was only as a matter of necessity that the Courts were obliged to retain a certain number, otherwise no business could be done; and as such, he (Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal) believed the Mukhtárs there created more mischief than good;—the discretionary power given to the Special Commissioner would meet the ends of justice.

THE HON'BLE ASHLEY EDEN said, he would adhere to his motion, as he had heard nothing on the other side that had induced him to change his opinion. He did not think the respectability of Mukhtárs had anything to do with the question. There were rules for the admission of Mukhtárs, and if a man was unfit to be trusted, he ought not to be admitted to plead by the presiding officer; but to prohibit the appearance of any law agent, without reference to his qualification, was a very different matter. And as for the argument that uncivilized people would not require the aid of Mukhtárs, he thought it was the very reverse; being ignorant and uneducated, they would not be able to read the documentary evidence they had of their rights, and even if they could read their papers, they would not know which of them were necessary to be produced in support of their claims. The suggested evil would remedy itself; if the people found that the Mukhtárs cheated them, they would not in future employ Mukhtárs. No doubt the Commissioners to be appointed under the Act were to be presumed to be discreet and conscientious; but there were cases in which it was known that this question about the admission of Mukhtárs was carried to an extreme point by certain officers, and he did not feel sure that the discretion proposed to be given to them would always be wisely and moderately used.

The Council then divided:—

EVIDENCE OF PRISONERS IN CIVIL AND CRIMINAL CASES.

MR. THOMPSON moved that the Bill to provide facilities for obtaining the evidence in civil and criminal cases of prisoners detained in any jail or prison be read in Council. He said the Council would remember how it was that this Bill had been drawn up; it had been framed generally in accordance with the provisional rules of the High Court; there were, however, one or two provisions which it would be possibly necessary to add to the Bill. The section referring to the service of process on prisoners in jail, and the provision that when a Court required the personal attendance of a prisoner who was in a jail more than 100 miles from the Court, the sanction of higher authority was necessary, were taken from the Code of Civil Procedure; in such cases, the Court could, if it chose, issue a commission for the examination of the prisoner, instead of requiring his personal attendance.

BABOO PEARY CHAND MITTRA said it gave him great pleasure that a Bill of this nature had been introduced, and he felt confident that the Bill, with certain modifications, would conduce generally to the furtherance of justice. Some sixteen years ago a case of aggravated assault and plunder was instituted in the Court of the Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs. The case was referred to the Principal Sudder Ameen for disposal. The case was instituted by a khalassee against a rich Zemindar; it was proceeded with, and the Principal Sudder Ameen found that there was primâ facie evidence as to the guilt of the accused. He observed, however, that every difficulty was thrown in the way to prevent the administration of justice in the case, and these efforts were very nearly being successful. The Principal Sudder Ameen, who was no other than the respected Rai Hurro Chunder Ghose Bahadoor, was firm in the discharge of his duties, and found that when the accused was brought before him, the prosecutor was not to be found. That excellent officer, however, was persistent in his efforts to do justice, and at last learned that the prosecutor was confined in the Great Jail at Calcutta on an action for debt. He wanted much to take the evidence of the prosecutor, and referred the matter to the Magistrate, the Magistrate to the Nizamut Adawlut, the Nizamut to the Government, and the Government to the Advocate General, who was of opinion that, unless the Principal Sudder Ameen instituted an action in the Supreme Court, he could never succeed in taking the evidence of tho prosecutor; and he was not quite sure that a writ of habeas corpus could be granted. The Principal Sudder Ameen, however, on the advice of the Government Solicitor, visited the jail, and on the evidence of the prosecutor being taken, the accused was convicted and punished. The Principal Sudder Ameen had the case then brought to the notice of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, on which the prosecutor immediately obtained his discharge from the jail. The object of stating to the Council the facts of this case was to show that the evil proposed to be remedied by the Bill was not of recent origin, but had been existing for many years. Approving as he (Baboo Peary Chand Mittra) did of the principle of the Bill, it was his duty to submit that Section 5, which gave large powers to the jailor, was open to serious objection. In the first instance, it was clear that,—

THE PRESIDENT said, the hon'ble member was not in order in referring to details; in this stage the discussion should be confined to the general principle and features of the Bill. The hon'ble member would have an opportunity of discussing the several provisions of the Bill both in Select Committee and when the Bill came up after report for the consideration of its clauses.

BABOO ISSUR CHUNDER GHOSAL drew attention to the 3rd Section of the Bill, which provided that the person applying for the examination of a person confined in jail should pay the expenses of the conveyance of the prisoner from and to the jail; he thought some provision should be made to suit the case of persons who were paupers, and therefore unable to pay any expenses.

The motion was then agreed to, and the Bill referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Ashley Eden, Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal, Mr. Alcock, and the mover, with instructions to report in a fortnight.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

On the motion of Baboo Peary Chand Mittra, the Hon'ble Ashley Eden and Mr. Alcock were added to the Select Committee on the Bill for the prevention of Cruelty to animals.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 5th December.

Correspondence connected with the Inundations in the Contai Sub-Division in the District of Midnapore.

From T. B. LANE, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 5146B., dated Fort William, the 17th September 1868.)

I AM directed to forward herewith in original, for submission to Government, letter No. 504A., dated the 4th instant, from the Commissioner of Burdwan, with an excellent and practical report* by Mr. A. Rattray, Deputy Collector of Contai, on the floods which occurred in June last in that Sub-division, and of the various relief measures which he carried through with so much credit to himself.

With a Plan and a Statement.

2. These relief measures are described in paragraphs 27 to 30 of Mr. Rattray's report. The total expenditure incurred on account of them amounts to Rupees 14 145-14-3½, as specified in the annexed Statement. This sum is inclusive of Rupees 1.451-1-10½, disbursed by Mr. Rattray, to which the sanction of Government is now solicited. The sale proceeds of rice and paddy up to the date of the local report, amount to Rupees 2,561-1-5.

3. In regard to the failure of the steps taken to supply seed grain for fresh sowings in the inundated tracts, as referred to in paragraph 28 of Mr. Rattray's report, I am desired to make the following remarks:—

4. On the 19th June the Board received the general requisition for seed grain, and ascertained on the same day that 500 or 600 maunds could be collected in about four days. In demi-official communication with the Lieutenant-Governor, the Board awaited a further detailed report from Mr. Rattray. On the 22nd they were informed by him that the seed must be sent at once, so as to be ready for use when the waters abated, and that it "must be of a kind suitable for the wet low land of Hidgellee, otherwise it would rot in the water." On the same day it was ascertained that only about 200 maunds of this peculiar seed could be got in Calcutta, and that 300 maunds more might be collected in three or four days from the neighbourhood of Calcutta.

5. On the 23rd the Commissioner started for Contai with instructions to buy 1,000 maunds on the spot, and on the 24th he was directed by letter to extend his purchase to 5,000 maunds, if necessary; every care to be taken that the seed grain was of the proper kind and good. On the same day the Board obtained the Lieutenant-Governor's sanction demi-officially to the purchase of a reserve stock of seed, and the Collectors of Hooghly and Backergunge,—the Districts in which the special kind of seed for wet low lands was alone probably procurable, were addressed.

6. On the 27th the Board heard from the Collector of Hooghly that about 900 maunds of the proper seed could be got in his District, and he was ordered by telegraph and letter to buy and send off the whole quantity at once. On the same day all that had been collected was shipped for Contai; and orders were issued for continued purchases in Calcutta. Mr. Rattray was also ordered to buy as far as possible, in his own neighbourhood, any quantity still required.

7. On the 1st July all that was further collected in Calcutta, or about 200 maunds, was shipped.

8. On the 3rd July Mr. Rattray wrote, strongly advising the Board to send no more seed, as it was almost useless. Further steps to supply seed grain from Calcutta were then abandoned, and Mr. Rattray resorted to local supplies for his remaining requirements. It will be observed, however, that the quantity of 2.900 maunds collected in the Tumlook Sub-division, the immediate neighbourhood of Contai, also proved unsuitable for sowing in the latter Sub-division.

9. It will be seen from the above remarks, that every possible step was taken to supply seed grain from every quarter. The time, however, within which such a supply could be usefully distributed was so limited, and the quality required was so peculiar, that even after collecting in the very bordering pergunnahs all that could be got, the wished-for relief was not secured.

10. It would appear from the abstract of the accounts given in paragraph 3 above, that a comparatively small portion of the rice and paddy purchased by Government, had been re-sold, after taking into account the difference of prices. The Deputy Collector had been instructed, in regard to the rice, to sell at the Contai market rates to all who could pay, distributing gratis only to those who could not afford to buy. The paddy he was directed to retail at the price which it cost to buy. The separate Statement submitted by Mr. Rattray does not, however, clearly show how these orders were carried out, and on this point a further report will be called for.

11. The Board suggest that the full remarks made by Mr. Rattray, in regard to the embankments and roads of the Sub-division of Contai, may be considered by Government in the Public Works Department. The Sub-division generally appears to require special and prompt engineering measures.

12. The Board desire me specially to recommend Mr. Rattray's conduct to the favorable notice of Government, and would suggest that the thanks of Government be given to the Zemindar and the Naib named in paragraph 28 of his report, and to the Police and other Government servants who were engaged in assisting Mr. Rattray.

13. Mr. W. Rattray, brother of the Deputy Collector, did excellent service in relief operations. He is not in Government employ, and has received no remuneration for his labors. The Board would suggest that, if otherwise fit, he be nominated to the Subordinate Executive Service.

14. I am desired to add, that the obligations of the Zemindars, in regard to the repairs of grambherries, are under separate inquiry, and will be made the subject of a future report.

15. The Board request that (25) twenty-five printed copies of this letter and of its enclosures, may be furnished to them for use and distribution to the local Officers, and that the original papers be returned when done with.

N. B.—The sum of Rs. 45-1-0 was disbursed by Mr. T. H. Shortt in affording relief to the sufferers from inundation in other parts of the Midnapore District.

From H. A. COCKERELL, ESQ., Officiating Commissioner of the Burdwan Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 504A., dated Burdwan, the 4th September 1868.)

I HAVE the honor of submitting, for the information of the Board of Revenue, a report of Mr. Rattray's on the recent inundations in the Contai Sub-division.

2. I trust that the prompt energy, good judgment, and diligence displayed by that Officer at a very critical time, when he was cut off from all communication with superior authority, and was obliged to act entirely on his own responsibility, may meet with the approbation of the Board and the acknowledgments of Government.

3. I would beg to recommend that the names of the Police Officers commended by Mr. Rattray, be brought to the notice of the Inspector-General of Police.

4. The faultiness in construction of the embankments on the Kalyghye and Soobunrekha rivers has probably been brought to the notice of Government by the executive Engineer, but a copy of Mr. Rattray's remarks might, if the Board think proper, be sent to the Joint-Secretary to Government in the Irrigation Department.

5. The result of Mr. Rattray's enquiries into the effect of the two floods in his Sub-division, is very distressing; 27,598 houses utterly destroyed; 667 head of cattle killed, and the almost certain loss of the entire harvest for the year in Pergunnahs Bhooyamootah, Jellamoota, Amersee, Soojamoota, Bagurpore, and in the Doobda Jheel, the loss of paddy destroyed in the granaries is estimated at 35 to 40 per cent. in the Doobda Jheel, and at 20 to 30 per cent. in the Meergodah Pergunnah. It is satisfactory to find that, notwithstanding the recent disasters, a fresh crop is expected in Hidgellee.

6. The almost entire absence of any loss of life, especially amongst helpless women and children, appears to me almost incredible; but as Mr. Rattray's enquiries have been carefully made, I see no sufficient reason for directing any more minute investigations on this point

7. Neither Mr. Rattray nor the Collector make mention of the necessity of any special measures for the relief of the population throughout the inundated tract, beyond what have already been sanctioned by the Board.

8. Referring to the 41st paragraph of the reports, I would strongly urge that the works necessary for the repairs of the embankments and local roads, be at once commenced on; this will afford occupation to a large portion of the population who can at present have no means of gaining their livelihood.

From A. RATTRAY, ESQ., Deputy Collector, Contai Sub-division, to the Collector of Midnapore,—(No. 106, dated Contai, the 25th August 1868.)

I HAVE the honor to submit the following report on the late inundations in this Sub-division caused by the overflowing of the Sooburnorekha and Kalighye rivers.

2. To enable you to understand clearly the cause of the late inundations in Hidgellee, it is necessary that I should touch upon the natural features of the tract of country inundated and trace out the alignment of the numerous embankments which have been thrown up to keep out the waters of the Sooburnorekha, Kalighye, and other rivers and tidal khalls which intersect the country.

3. From the mouth of the Soobunorekha to the mouth of the Russoolpore a ridge of sand hills extend in almost a straight line, east to west parallel to the coast, dividing southern Hidgellee into two parts. The average width of this ridge is half a mile to a mile—the height in some parts, a hundred feet. The furthest distance of the ridge from the coast is about six miles. Near the mouth of the Sooburnorekha, in Pergunnah Bhograi, the country is intersected by a succession of these sand ridges. Besides the numerous gaps in the sand ridges in Bhograi and Dowlutpore, at the mouth of the Russoolpore, there are three gaps along the main ridge, respectively formed by the Peechabonee, Contai, and Mirzapore khalls.

4. The greater portion of Hidgellee being low land, the country is protected from the sudden encroachment of a storm-wave by a line of sea dykes, eighteen feet in height and 145 feet broad at the base, running some distance along the banks of rivers and large tidal khalls, and inland, from the overflow of the rivers and tidal khalls by a line of embankments. The drainage of the country thus enclosed, is effected by means of sluices in the dykes and embankments. In the case of any extraordinary rain-fall or flood, the water way through these sluices combined, is insufficient for the rapid drainage of the country, as was found to be the case during the late heavy rains and inundations.

5. The embankments at the embouchure of the Sooburnorekha are, it will be observed, on reference to the enclosed map, for the protection of the country adjacent from a storm-wave, and not primarily a protective measure against floods coming down the river. It being moreover continued to the main range of sand ridges, prevents the sea dykes along the coast being taken in flank in the event of a storm-wave coming up the river. This line of embankments is partly artificial and partly formed by advantage being taken of the position of successive ranges of sand ridges.

6. An embankment, eight to ten feet in height, runs from Heeracooneah to Balighye, a distance of about twelve miles. This embankment was thrown up for the protection of eastern Hidgellee from floods. Coming down the Sooburnorekha which runs at a distance of about twenty to thirty miles from it. The country along the north face of the sand ridge, from Heeracooneah to the river, is much below the level of the country higher up; at the same time a ridge, about five feet above the level on either side, rises from the Trigonometrical station at Jukee to Mohunpore. The eastern declivity of this ridge terminates in the low land, forming the Doobdah Jheel, which covers about thirty square miles of country, and along the eastern borders of which runs the embankment from Heeracooneah to Balighye mentioned above; the western declivity of the ridge terminates in the low land, known as the Bharea Jheel, which is formed by the Goochida, Cheety, and other tidal nullas, flowing into the Sooburnorekha. During ordinary floods in the Sooburnorekha, he water flows into and floods the Bharea Jheel up to the ridge; in extraordinary floods the ridge is over-topped, and the water spills into the Doobda Jheel, from where it is slowly drained off by the Peechabonee and Balighye khalls: even these combined are inadequate to drain this immense area; hence the construction of the protective line of embankments for eastern Hidgellee. It should also be noticed that the country from the Sooburnorekha (towards Jellasore) falls about thirty feet in the direction of Balighye, as found from levels taken by the Public Works Department.

7. The Surpie river, with protective embankments, five feet in height, runs five miles from the Ballighye embankments, and are connected with the Ballighye and Russoolpore embankments.

8. The Kalighye, scarcely more than an adjunct of the Huldee which it meets at the confluence of the Cossye with that river, drains an extensive tract of country, comprising some six or seven large Pergunnahs, from Narayngurh to the west to Subung on the north. This river is very shallow, and perfectly inadequate to drain such an extent of country, and is by no means improved by the construction of high embankments close up to its banks, which do not fail to act with destructive effect in the most ordinary floods: moreover, the silting up of the Huldee by the sands brought down the Cossye, very materially affects the drainage through the Kalighye, tending in no small degree to the floods in this river. Our old enemies, the Mahrattas, who for a long time held the greater portion of Hidgellee, had evidently a taste for engineering, besides their less peaceful propensities. With little or no theoretical knowledge, but a laudable amount of practical common sense, they threw up a line of embankments, the remains of which still exist on the south bank of this river, nowhere less than one mile from its banks, thus allowing a free and ample discharge within adequate restrictions in the event of floods, ordinary or extraordinary. Since, however, the water has been restricted within the present embankments, floods are almost as naturally expected in Amersee, Jellamoota, &c., as the annual rice crop. The people of the country knowing this from more than one practical illustration, are more or less prepared. Their villages are raised artificially, and in the event of a more than ordinary flood the thatch is cut down and formed into a raft. This will explain how it is that comparatively little injury to property has been done in these Pergunnahs.

9. Another point remains to be noticed. Northern Hidgellee about Jellamoota and the country adjacent, is exceedingly low, and owing to the neglect and indifference of the landholders in keeping clear from silt and deposit the natural drainage channels of the country, it is almost impracticable now to drain off any extraordinary accumulation of water, tending inevitably either to the destruction of the crops, or to the inability of the people to cultivate their lands.

10. The canal of the East India Irrigation and Canal Company connecting the Huldee with the Russoolpore, and intersecting the large Pergunnahs of Goomghur, Soojamoota and Panch, acted most effectually to the drainage of the country along its west bank, and for this purpose was freely made use of by the ryots, who cut the banks in many places to drain off their fields. The country to the east bank of the canal was unaffected by the flood.

11. From the 5th June up to noon of the 14th we had the most extraordinary fall of rain on record. During these few days the rain-gauge in this station shewed a fall of 32·825 inches; (see daily rain-fall as per margin). The whole country was covered with a sheet of water about three feet deep in the fields. All communication was interrupted. Paddy which had been transplanted (not very extensively at the time) was destroyed, and a stop was put to the sowing of seed in nurseries. After the cessation of the rain the water subsided to some extent, and the people again resumed their work, when the alarm was given that the Sooburnorekha and Kalighye waters were out.

12. At Dantoon and Jellasore the Sooburnorekha was observed to rise on the 14th June, and was at its height on the 17th, having fallen a few feet on the 16th. The flood waters spilt across the Trunk Road washed away about four miles of the new road from Balighye to Jellasore, and then fell again into its own bed at Napoochour and Kamardachour.

13. I went down to Sibpoor in company with the Executive Engineer on the 16th June, and saw the water in the Doobda Jheel pouring into northern Majna and Paharpoor over the Balighye embankment. The embankment was also breached in many places, and all our attempts to close them proved ineffectual. The ridge at Jukee had been overtopped the same day and the flood waters had poured into the Jheel, already full of rain water, with great violence. A strong westerly gale, which was blowing at the time, and which lasted for some days, added greatly to the destruction that followed.

14. By the 17th the flood, then at its height, (six to eight feet in the fields in Paharpoor and northern Majna), had overtopped the Surpie embankments. On the same date the water commenced flowing with great violence into southern Majna through the gaps in the sand ridge at Heeracooneah and Contai (the former about three quarters of a mile wide, and the latter about two hundred feet) also into Bahirimootha through the gap at Contai. By the 19th the water in southern Majna began flowing into Bahiri through the gap in the sand ridge at Mirzapore Hât, about a mile wide.

15. The embankments in Bhograi, ten to twelve feet in height, were overtopped and breached on the 16th June, and the country to the south of the sand ridge up to the Peechabonee Khall, flooded to the depth of six to eight feet. By the 19th June the flood was at its height, and then began to subside. The alignment of the embankments in Bhograi will shew that they tended to choke the Sooburnorekha already greatly swollen by the rain, and further by the spill water coming across the country from Dantoon to Jellasore which poured into the river just above the embankments. The position of these embankments in thus choking the river must, in consequence, have materially contributed in overflowing the Doobda Jheel.

16. The Kalighye river had overtopped and breached* its south embankments about the 16th June, from the bend of the river at Amgatchia to Gopalpoor, in Pergunnah Amersee. At the same time floods down the Cossye prevented the possibility of the Kalighye waters finding an exit through the Huldee. One-half of Pergunnah Amersee, the whole of Pergunnahs Jellamoota, Bhoonyamoota, Bujurpoor, Aurunganugur, Soojamoota, and portions of Pergunnahs Nurwamoota, Goomgurh and Erinch, were flooded; the two last as far as the Irrigation Company's canal. Owing to the want of proper drainage mentioned before, Pergunnahs Bujurpoor and Bhoonyamoota are still under water, and the Pergunnahs of Amersee and Jellamoota, more or less so. During the height of the flood the water in Bujurpoor and Bhoonyamoota stood from eight to ten feet in the fields. The remaining Pergunnahs have been drained off through the canal, except Keoramal and Nurwamoota, which were drained by numerous tidal khalls flowing into the Mydakhally and Bagda rivers. Small portions of Pergunnahs Moyna and Tumlook, situated within the jurisdiction of this Sub-division, were also heavily flooded by the Cossye waters.

* In the aggregate one thousand feet in length to an average depth of twenty feet.

Vide paragraphs 33 and 34.

17. By far the greatest injury done by the Sooburnorekha flood, has been in Pergunnahs Paharpoor and Kismut Sibpoor. The alignment of the Surpie and Balighye embankments forms a cul-de-sac to the north of these two Pergunnahs, against which the water rushing down with violence, caused great destruction. Carefully prepared returns show that in these two small Pergunnahs 1,335 houses, or nearly 90 per cent. were totally demolished. The water in the fields stood six to eight feet in depth. Northern Majna was flooded to the same depth, but not with such destructive effect; notwithstanding, about one thousand houses were destroyed, though over a much larger surface of country, principally along the line of the Balighye embankments, where, opposite some of the gaps in the embankments, a few small villages have been literally swept away by the rush of water through these gaps. This tract of country was not thoroughly drained till the beginning of July, when numerous cuts were made in the embankment. Transplanting had not been taken in hand very extensively before the flood came down. All the plant in the nurseries was totally destroyed. With the fall of the houses every thing remained buried under them for days before an entrance could be effected in consequence of the height of the water. About 50 per cent. of the paddy in the granaries was saved. The aggregate length of the breaches in the Balighye embankment is three miles, with an average depth of fourteen feet.

18. The amount of damage done in the country along both sides of the sand [illegible] from Heracooneah to the banks of the Sooburnorekha, falls very little short of that in [illegible] poor. On the north side of this sand ridge the flood poured in unchecked, and in [illegible] the country two miles beyond the large village of Balighye, spilt across the road to [illegible] and fell into the Balighye khall. The south-east corner of Sibpoor forms the D[illegible]heel mentioned before: it is dotted here and there with a few large villages eleva[illegible] the level of previous known floods; these escaped more or less uninjured. A fe[illegible] villages inside the embankments, on the borders of the Jheel, have been destroyed; [illegible] instances totally swept away. I speak from personal observation. The greatest i[illegible]wever, has been done in the tract of country between the Doobda Jheel and the low land, [illegible]own as the Bharea Jheel. The flood in breaking over the crest at Jukee on its way to the Doobda Jheel, carried everything before it. The water at its height stood ten feet over the crest. Along this tract 1,702 houses have been totally destroyed. Further to the westward, in northern Mirgodah, about 1,800 houses have been similarly disposed of, standing in the line of country over which the flood swept. The out-turn of paddy in the Doobda Jheel materially affects the state of the rice market in Hidgellee; there is no transplanting, the seed being sown broadcast. Before the Sooburnorekha flood come down, the whole Jheel had been completely sown. The flood has destroyed the paddy in nearly every beegah of land throughout the Jheel, and as a second crop cannot be sown after the water in the Jheel has once risen to a certain height, there can be no harvest worth mentioning this season. About thirty-five to forty per cent. of paddy has been destroyed in the granaries. The aggregate length of the breaches in the Bhograi embankments extend to nearly three miles, with an average depth of fifteen feet.

19. In the tract of country from the banks of the Sooburnorekha to the Peechabonee Khall, south of the sand ridge, the flood after breaking over the Bhograi embankments and flooding that tract, drained through the sluices in the sea dyke, and the Ramungger and Peechabonee Khalls through numerous cuts made in the embankments.

20. The greatest injury done has been in the direction of the Bhograi Pergunnah (ni[illegible] the Balasore jurisdiction) and along the foot of the sand ridge (densely populated) up to the Peechabonee Khall. In the following Pergunnahs (as per margin) within this tract the number of houses mentioned against them have been totally destroyed.

Mirgoda	... 2,000
Kakrah	... 878
Bhograi, Khalsa Bhograi	... 2,477
Birkool	... 1,522
Kalindee Balsye, Balsye	... 1,639

21. Taking the three first-named Pergunnahs together, the total number of houses destroyed by the flood will be found to fall very little short of seventy to eighty per cent. Taking the whole of this tract of country, the number of houses destroyed amounts to more than fifty per cent. Kalindee, Balsye and Birkool, were the least flooded, owing to these Pergunnahs being generally more elevated than the country along the foot of the sand ridge. More than 200 head of cattle were drowned in this part of the country (principally in Mirgoda). I do not think that more than twenty-five to thirty per cent. of the paddy in the granaries has been destroyed. The paddy in the nurseries was totally washed away, very little had been transplanted.

22. Southern Majna, including Pergunnahs Dakhinmal and Balijorah (the two last scattered in small chucks through southern Majna) forming the tract of country south of the sand ridge between the Peechabonee Khall and the mouth of the Russoolpore, was flooded very gradually to a depth of five or six feet in the fields. This tract of country lies low, and was the last to be drained, the water finding an exit through the few sluices in the sea dyke, which of itself was cut in eight or ten places on the east bank of the Peechabonee khall, and through the Mirzapoor khall, which is closed at its sea face and has a large sluice where it drains into the Russoolpore river. The water was also partially drained off through the gap in the sand ridge at Mirzapore Hât into Pergunnah Bahirimoota. The injury to property has been comparatively slight, about a thousand houses have fallen in, and about one hundred head of cattle drowned. I do not think paddy, to any great extent, has been injured in the granaries. All the young plant in the nurseries was totally destroyed, also the little in the fields that had been transplanted.

23. Bahirimoota, including the small Pergunnah of Bhaitgur, was not flooded to more than three or four feet in the fields. The flood broke through the gap in the sand ridge at Contai Nullah like a torrent, and subsequently the water from southern Majna found an entrance into this Pergunnah through the gap at Mirzapoor Hât. In these two Pergunnahs 237 houses were destroyed; no cattle reported as drowned; no paddy has been destroyed in the granaries. The young plant in the nurseries was first injured by the heavy rains, and subsequently rotted by the flood.

24. In Pergunnahs Keoramul, Nurwamoota, and Kismut Pottaspore, a comparatively small number of houses were destroyed.

25. In Jellamoota the Kalighye flood has destroyed 2,471 houses, a small number in comparison to the large area of the Pergunnah. In the Pergunnahs mentioned in the margin, the number of houses opposite them have been destroyed. In sixteen villages in Pergunnahs Moyna and Tumlook, lying within the jurisdiction of this Sub-division, 349 houses were washed away by the Cossye floods. The area of country flooded by the Kalighye has been mentioned before. At the commencement, on the bursting of the embankments of this river, the landholders commenced bickering and quarrelling amongst themselves about their respective shares in the expenses of closing the breaches. Being unable to come to an understanding, the breaches remained open for days after the flood occurred, with the tide playing in and out sweeping across the country. Orders were issued by the Executive Engineer in charge of the embankments for the closing of the breaches, but his subordinates failed in carrying out these orders. Owing to the play of the tides, and the breaches remaining open, the greater portion of the country continued under water till the season for cultivating the lands had passed. I have already noticed the low level of the country in this part of the Sub-division. The entire Pergunnah of Bujurpore is still under water, and Bhoonyamoota is no better. It would have been possible to have sown three-fourths of this tract of country had the closing of the breaches been taken in hand earlier and the landholders united together in assisting the local authorities.

Bujurpore ...	... 786.
Bhoonyamoota	... 1,763.
Soojamootha ...	... 1,953.
Amersee ...	... 311.

Comparatively speaking, the loss of property in this part of the country, has not been very great. The people about here are accustomed to floods, and in the event of being unable to cultivate their own fields, seek employment elsewhere; in many cases cultivating land in share with others in adjacent Pergunnahs, and in this respect infinitely better off than the residents of southern and western Hidgellee, whose lands were flooded, to whom a fresh water flood is unknown.

Vide paragraphs 33, 34.

26. Immediately the Sooburnorekha flood came down, those living close to the sand ridges took refuge on them with their families and cattle. In twelve hours the sand ridges were densely crowded, and hundreds of cattle were running about loose. In northern Majna, Mirgoda, Bhograi and Paharpoor, the flood came down so suddenly that the people had to take refuge on the thatch of their houses, which in many instances was shared with their cattle.

27. In my absence in the Mofussil Mr. W. Rattray organized a fleet of boats, and with the energetic assistance of Baboo Nil Madhub Deb, of the Public Works Department, and the Sub-Inspector of Contai Thanna, removed many people to the sand ridge and embankments; but owing to the difficulty of procuring boats at the time in sufficient numbers comparatively few were so removed. The boats impressed were engaged both night and day in removing the people. Temporary sheds were run up the whole length of the sand ridge for the accommodation of the people, and were occupied as fast as completed. All communication being interrupted, the price of rice rapidly rose; the markets were closed, and little or none was to be had. Direct communication with Midnapore being closed, information regarding the flood was forwarded to the Board of Revenue, and rice was urgently asked for. In the meanwhile all the rice procurable in the Contai market was brought up, and despatched for gratuitous relief to Paharpoor in charge of Mr. W. Rattray, with a number of boats; the Contai Sub-Inspector, Mohesh Chunder Mitter, with a body of police, for removing the villagers to the embankments, went in company. For a week these officers were engaged from village to village, affording relief, purchasing rice so far as was procurable from the Balighye market. The Court Inspector, Rakhal Chundro Roy, was at the same time sent down to Kedgeree to purchase rice at the local marts till the receipt of the supply asked for from the Board of Revenue, and also to superintend the discharge and despatch of the rice so received. Rezkoolla, Head Constable, was sent in charge of a number of boats with instructions to purchase rice at Balighye for gratuitous relief along the borders of Sibpore and the country to the north of the sand ridge, west of the Balighye embankments.

28. To Bhograi, Kakra, Mirgoda, and the other Pergunnahs, west of the Peechabonee khall, half a dozen boats were despatched with rice for the relief of those in want, under the charge of Mathadeen Duba, Head Constable. The officers named, were engaged in affording relief from village to village in boats, purchasing rice wherever procurable till the receipt of the rice despatched by the Board of Revenue from Calcutta, when immediate steps were taken for the opening of relief centres. One was opened for Paharpoor and the country adjacent, under charge of Mr. Roberts, Assistant Superintendent of Police, sent down by Government to assist in the relief measures; another was opened under the charge of Mr. W. Rattray at Heeracooneah, with a branch at Depal, for the relief of those in Bhograi, Sibpore, and the adjacent Pergunnahs; whilst a third was opened in Contai under my superintendence. Rice was first gratuitously distributed to those in actual want, and subsequently sold at market rates. I also despatched 100 maunds of rice to Bhograi, to the care of Baboo Koilash Chundro Roy Mohasoy, an intelligent Zemindar, for gratuitous relief about Bhograi, Kamardachour, &c.; also 350 maunds to the care of Baboo Grish Chunder Chowdhury, Naib of the Soojamoota estate, for gratuitous relief about Jellamoota, Bhoonyamoota, &c. To Elaturria, to the care of Modhoo Geree, one of the principal men about Bujurpore, &c., I despatched 265 bags of rice and 1,400 maunds of paddy for retail sales. I received in all from the Board of Revenue 1,484 bags of rice (about 2 maunds to a bag), of which I have 50 bags left, reserved by me against contingencies. I also received 998 bags of paddy, but which unfortunately turned out unsuited for seed to a soil like that of Hidgellee. From the Officer in charge of Tumlook Sub-division I received 2,900 maunds 37 seers 8 chittacks of paddy on the dates marginally noted. The Statement enclosed, will show how the paddy and rice received have been disposed of. I also purchased in Bahiri 114 maunds 6 seers of seed paddy. Most unfortunately the paddy received from Tumlook also turned out unsuited for seed, and was, I believe, unavoidably received so late in the season that as seed it was useless even had the quality been otherwise good. This circumstance is much to be regretted, as the ryots have been obliged to submit to exorbitant rates in procuring seed grain under great inconvenience. Amongst other measures the Salt Golahs in this Sub-division were thrown open for retail sales during the intensity of the distress, and salt to the value of Rupees 3,577-4-2 was sold. In addition to the prompt relief rendered by Government in the despatch of rice and paddy, sanction has been obtained to the distribution of relief in money amongst the poorest of those whose houses have been totally destroyed, and Mr. Williamson, Deputy Collector, is now specially engaged on this enquiry in the Mofussil.

29. I closed relief measures under Mr. Roberts on the 15th July. Mr. Roberts [illegible] assisted in the relief measures.

30. I closed relief measures at Heeraconeah and Depal by the 23rd July. [illegible] out these relief measures, the carriage and purchase [illegible] the erection of sheds, &c., I have drawn from my Treasury [illegible] of Rupees 1,451-1-10½.* A bill for this expenditure has been submitted to the Board of Revenue. Up to date I have realized by the sale of rice and paddy Rupees 2,561-1-5. Account of sales by Modhoo Geree has not yet been received.

* Rupees 41-11-4½ having been refunded since the original accounts standing at Rupees 1,505-4-9 was furnished to the Board.

31. At the risk of repetition, I have been obliged in the preceding paragraphs to notice in detail the circumstances connected with, and consequent to, the late inundations. In conclusion, it remains for me to remark on the prospect of the future harvest, and notice certain facts of a general nature.

32. The inundation was followed by great alarm. Such a calamity had not befallen Hidgellee within the memory of the present generation. Distress at the commencement was most severe, but the prompt action taken by Government prevented it from being more than temporary. At present the weather continues most seasonable, and although cultivation has been retarded a few weeks, with the exception noted below, there is every prospect of a full harvest throughout Hidgellee.

33. Between the 13th and 14th instants the temporary repairs to the breaches in the Kalighye embankments were carried away by a second flood, which has again widely inundated the adjacent country. Previous to the occurrences of this second flood, there was a prospect of a 4 annas crop in Bhoonyamoota, an 8 to 10 annas crop in Jellamoota, and a 10 to 12 annas crop in the flooded parts of Amersee, with a full crop in Soojamoota, but this second calamity has made it very doubtful whether these Pergunnahs will not now share the same fate as Bujurpore, which since the first flood has been without any hope whatever of cultivation this season.

34. The Executive Engineer is doing all he can for the closing of the breaches, but it must be remembered that the season for sowing is past, and the only hope now left is the early drainage of the country before the sowings subsequent to the first inundation are seriously injured.

35. Rice is selling in Jellamoota and the country adjacent at the rate of thirteen to fourteen seers for the Rupee. I am now engaged in the despatch of the rice and paddy on hand to those places.

36. In the Doobda Jheel there is no prospect of a harvest this season.

37. Much has been said amongst the natives regarding the deposit of silt brought down by the Sooburnorekha flood and the sweetness of its water as likely to effect injuriously or otherwise the future crop. By many in southern Hidgellee it is believed that water slightly impregnated with salt is necessary to the growth of a crop indigenous to a country more or less saline, and therefore likely to be injured by the sweetness of the late flood water and the slight deposit of silt brought down. The out-turn of the future harvest will alone settle this point.

38. It is necessary that I should touch upon the action taken by the Zemindars for the relief of their tenants. Except in a few solitary instances, I have heard nothing but complaints of the utter indifference and apathy of the landholders to the sufferings of their tenants. On speaking to some of the principal landholders, and taxing them with neglect in not personally visiting their Zemindarees and enquiring into the mischief done, I was told that it was against their custom to leave their homes; that their forefathers had never done so, and that all the information they cared for was furnished by their Naibs and Surberakars. As an exception to the general apathy, it is a pleasure to have to notice the conduct of the Naib of the Soojamoota estate, who, by personal example, helped in the repairs to the breaches in the old Mahratta embankment, and has generally shown a great interest in the welfare of his ryots. Modhoo Geree, of Etaberria, in Pergunnah Nurwamoota, also proved invaluable in the assistance generally rendered by him to the Executive Engineer in closing breaches in the different embankments, and who, through watchfulness on his part, prevented the breaching of the embankments in the northern parts of Nurwamoota.

39. The grambherries or village roads erected primarily for the retention of water on the highlands, have all along been more or less neglected throughout Hidgellee; the heavy rains in the beginning of June greatly injured them, and now they have been all but destroyed by the late inundations. The inconvenience caused by the want of repairs to these grambherries cannot be exaggerated, and is now seriously effecting the cultivation in hand.

40. From returns carefully prepared by the police, it is seen that after rejecting in every instance a house not totally fallen in, 27,598 houses, giving shelter to nearly 85,000 people, were destroyed in this Sub-division by the late inundations, and 667 head of cattle drowned. No loss of life has been reported, but I know of two instances myself in which bodies were found drowned, and three or four instances in which people were killed by the fall of their houses. The above are facts which tell their own tale and need no further comment.

41. The loss sustained by Government has been no less severe. The Executive Engineer estimates the injuries done to the embankments and sluices within his Division, at Rupees 50,000, exclusive of Rupees 10,000, which will have to be expended on the new road to Jellasore, for the re-erection of the portion washed away and repairs to injuries done.

No. 102, dated 1st instant.

On the local roads, under my charge, a carefully prepared estimate, submitted with the letter marginally noted, shows that Rupees 3,480-6-6 will have to be expended on repairs to roads and bridges. This estimate, it will be remembered, does not take into account the large timber bridge over the Ramnugger khall, which was bodily swept out to sea at the first rush of the flood.

42. The state of the Kalighye river calls for the most serious attention on the part of Government. The country adjacent has been inundated more than once within the last ten years. These calamities have made the inhabitants callous to their personal welfare and unsettled, and it is a wonder that they have not emigrated en masse. It would also be advisable, if not absolutely necessary, that the charge of keeping open the natural drainage channels in this part of the country, be removed from the hands of the landholders and made over to the Public Works Department, they have hitherto shown an utter indifference to this important matter, and it is very improbable that any amount of supervision will make them more alive to their own interests.

43. The Sooburnorekha floods have also shown us how necessary it is that there should be a re-alignment of the embankments in Bhograi.

44. I trust that the conduct of the Court Inspector, Sub-Inspector, and Head Constables, named, will meet with some substantial reward at the hands of their immediate superiors. These men worked most laboriously and energetically, and I gladly bear testimony to the very great assistance rendered by them in particular, and the Police generally.

45. Delay in the receipt of Police returns and difficulty in collecting data have, unavoidably, prevented my sending in this report earlier. I am indebted to Mr. Vertannes, the Executive Engineer of this Division, for much of the information regarding the embankments and the injuries sustained by them in the late floods.

46. This report has been called for by the Board of Revenue in their letter marginally noted, with instructions to forward it through the proper channel.

CONTAI,

The 25th August 1868

Deputy Collector.

From H. L. HARRISON, ESQ., Officiating Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 5469B., dated Fort William, the 17th October 1868.)

IN continuation of Board's letter No. 5146B., dated the 17th September last, I am directed to report, for the Sanction of Government, that the additional expenditure as per margin, was incurred by Mr. Rattray, Deputy Collector of Contai, in affording relief in that Sub-division. The disbursment in cash of Rupees 2,330 was made with reference to paragraph 1 of Government order No. 2094 of the 3rd July last, the money having been distributed after careful inquiry into the circumstances of each case in small sums varying from Rupees five to two among 731 families of the poorer classes whose houses had been destroyed in the late inundations, and who were unable to rebuild them without assistance. The aggregate of the expenditure incurred on relief measures in the Contai Sub-division amounts to Rupees 16,533-9-9½ thus,

From H. L. DAMPIER, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 3328, dated Fort William, the 21st October 1868.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 5146B., dated the 17th ultimo, with enclosures, reporting on the recent inundations in the Contai Sub-division in the District of Midnapore, caused by the overflowing of the Sooburnorekha and Kalighye rivers, and in reply to communicate the following remarks and orders of the Lieutenant-Governor :—

2. His Honor sanctions the expenditure incurred on account of the various relief measures as described in paragraphs 27 to 30 of Mr. Rattray's report, the total amount of which, as stated in your letter 5469B, dated 17th instant, is Rupees 16,533-9-9½. All sums realised by the sale of the rice, &c., will of course be re-credited to Government in reduction of this gross expenditure; and the net cost of the measures should be reported when the accounts can be closed.

3. The failure to supply such seed grain as could be utilised with benefit is much to be regretted, but this appears to have been altogether unavoidable, as the seed required was of so exceptional a quality. It is a matter of congratulation that the calamity was attended by scarcely any loss of life.

4. With reference to your 11th paragraph, the Public Works Department of this Government has been addressed in view to the early consideration of Mr. Rattray's and the Commissioner's remarks regarding the embankments and roads of the Sub-division of Contai.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets that the greater number of the Zemindars shewed such apathy and such indifference to the sufferings of their tenants, but is glad to learn that there were some honorable exceptions.

6. His Honor awaits the further report promised in your 14th paragraph as to the obligations of the Zemindars in regard to the repairs of grambherries.

7. In conclusion, I am to request that the Board will be so good as to communicate the thanks of Government to Mr. A. Rattray for his very energetic exertions on behalf of the sufferers and for his excellent report, and also to Mr. W. Rattray, as well as to Modhoo Geree, Zemindar of Etaherria in Pergunnah Nurwamoota, and to the Naib of the Soojamoota Estate, for the assistance rendered by them in alleviating distress.

8. The enclosures of your letter are herewith returned as requested. Twenty-five copies are sent herewith for the use of the Board and for distribution to the local Officers concerned.

No. 3329.

COPY of this letter, and of that (with enclosures) to which it is a reply, forwarded to the Joint Secretary to this Government in the Public Works Department, (Irrigation Branch,) for early consideration and action as to the embankments and drainage; his special attention is also requested to paragraph 8 of the Burdwan Commissioner's letter No. 504A., dated 4th ultimo.

Report on the State of the Salt Market, during the second quarter of 1868-69.

From J. MONRO, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 4736C., dated Fort William, the 31st October 1868.)

C. H. CAMPBELL, ESQ.

I AM directed by the Board of Revenue to submit the following report on the state of the Salt market during the second quarter of 1868-69, comprising the months of July, August, and September last.

2. The quantity of Government Salt which was sold at the Presidency under wholesale Rowanahs, amounted to maunds 15,195, as shewn in the margin, giving a monthly average of maunds 3,065, against maunds 5,702 in the preceding quarter. The sales as in the last quarter, were confined to the Hidgellee stocks.

3. The Government Kurkutch Salt sold at Pooree, amounted to maunds 55,298, against maunds 53,166 in the preceding quarter, and maunds 75,814, the total of both Pungah and Kurkutch, in the corresponding quarter of 1867-68. There was no sale of Pungah Salt during the quarter under review.

4. The quantity of Excise Salt sold from the Dhossa Golahs, amounted to maunds 351, against maunds 153 in the last quarter. The sales of Excise Salt in Cuttack and Balasore from the manufactures during the season 1866-67 and 1867-68, and the quantities remaining in store at the close of the quarter, are shewn in the Statement given below :—

5. The subjoined Statement shews comparatively the total importations into the Port of Calcutta, and the clearances of Sea-imported Salt during the quarter and the corresponding period of the two preceding years :—

As compared with the importations and clearances of the previous quarter, there is a very large increase which may be attributed to the navigation of boats proceeding eastward, being rendered feasible by the rise in the several rivers. There is also a sensible increase as compared with the results of the corresponding quarter of the two previous years.

6. The following are the details of the Indian Kurkutch shewn above:—

No such minor punishment shall be awarded by a Court Martial; and unless otherwise specially provided by the said Commander-in-Chief, no Commissioned Officer, Sub-Assistant Surgeon, Hospital Assistant, Native Doctor or Warrant Officer, shall be liable to any such minor punishment.

Good conduct pay shall not necessarily be forfeited on the infliction of a minor punishment, but forfeiture thereof may be awarded as a substantive punishment either by order of the Commanding Officer or by sentence of a Court Martial, as may from time to time be prescribed in the general orders of the Commander-in-Chief in India or of the Commander-in-Chief of the Presidency, as the case may be.

Whenever a soldier is convicted by a Court Martial, his good conduct pay shall cease.

Forfeiture of good conduct pay may be awarded in addition to any other minor punishment.

No such complaint shall be made to any Officer other than those indicated in the former part of this Article.

Every Officer receiving any such complaint shall examine into it, and, when necessary, refer it to superior authority.

Every such complaint shall be preferred through such channels as may be from time to time pre-

Provided that such punishment shall be limited to the necessity of the case, and shall accord with the orders which the Provost Marshal may from time to time receive from the Officer Commanding the troops:

Provided also that the orders of the said Commanding Officer shall in no case authorize such corporal punishment in excess of that awardable by sentence of a Court Martial.

If the actual commission of the offence is not witnessed by the Provost Marshal, or any of his assistants, but sufficient proof can be obtained of the offender's guilt, he shall report the case to the Commander of the Troops, who shall deal with the case as he may deem most conducive to the maintenance of good order and military discipline.

Voluntarily causing grievous hurt.

322. Whoever voluntarily causes hurt, if the hurt which he intends to cause or knows himself to be likely to cause is grievous hurt, and if the hurt which he causes is grievous hurt, is said "voluntarily to cause grievous hurt."

Explanation.—A person is not said voluntarily to grievous hurt except when he both causes grievous hurt and intends or knows himself to be likely to cause grievous hurt. But he is said voluntarily to cause grievous hurt if, intending or knowing himself to be likely to cause grievous hurt of one kind, he actually causes grievous hurt of another kind.

Illustration.

A, intending or knowing himself to be likely permanently to disfigure Z's face, gives Z a blow which does not permanently disfigure Z's face, but which causes Z to suffer severe bodily pain for the space of twenty days. A has voluntarily caused grievous hurt.

Of Criminal Force and Assault.

Force.

349. A person is said to use force to another if he causes motion, change of motion, or cessation of motion to that other, or if he causes to any substance such motion, or change of motion, or cessation of motion as brings that substance into contact with any part of that other's body, or with anything which that other is wearing or carrying, or with anything so situated that such contact affects that other's sense of feeling; Provided that the person causing the motion, or change of motion, or cessation of motion, causes that motion, change of motion, or cessation of motion in one of the three ways hereinafter described.

First.—By his own bodily power.

Secondly.—By disposing any substance in such a manner that the motion or change or cessation of motion takes place without any further act on his part, or on the part of any other person.

Thirdly.—By inducing any animal to move, to change its motion, or to cease to move.

Criminal Force.

350. Whoever intentionally uses force to any person without that person's consent, in order to the committing of any offence, or intending by the use of such force to cause or knowing it to be likely that by the use of such force he wil cause injury, fear, or annoyance to the person to whom the force is used is said to use criminal force to that other.

Illustrations.

(a). Z is sitting in a moored boat on a river. A unfastens the moorings, and thus intentionally causes the boat to drift down the stream. Here A intentionally causes motion to Z, and he does this by disposing substances in such a manner that the motion is produced without any other act on any person's part. A has therefore intentionally used force to Z; and if he has done so without Z's consent, in order to the committing of any offence, or intending or knowing it to be likely that this use of force will cause injury, fear, or annoyance to Z, A has used criminal force to Z.

(b). Z is riding in a chariot. A lashes Z's horses, and thereby causes them to quicken their pace. Here A has caused change of motion to Z by inducing the animals to change their motion, A has therefore used force to Z; and if A has done this without Z's consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby injure, frighten, or annoy Z. A has committed criminal force to Z.

(c). Z is riding in a palanquin. A, intending to rob Z, seizes the pole and stops the palanquin. Here A has caused cessation of motion to Z, and he has done this by his own bodily power. A has therefore used force to Z; and as A has acted thus intentionally without Z's consent, in order to the commission of an offence, A has used criminal force to Z

(d). A intentionally pushes against Z in the street. Here A has by his own bodily power moved his own person so as to bring it into contact with Z. He has therefore intentionally used force to Z, and if he has done so without Z's consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby injure, frighten, or annoy Z, he has used criminal force to Z.

(e). A throws a stone, intending or knowing it to be likely that the stone will be thus brought into contact with Z, or with Z's clothes or with something carried by Z, or that it will strike water and dash up the water against Z's clothes or something carried by Z. Here, if the throwing of the stone produce the effect of causing any substance to come into contact with Z or Z's clothes, A has used force to Z; and if he did so without Z's consent, intending thereby to injure, frighten, or annoy Z, he has used criminal force to Z.

(f). A intentionally pulls up a woman's veil. Here A intentionally uses force to her; and he does so without her consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby injure, frighten, or annoy her, he has used criminal force to her.

(g). Z is bathing. A pours into the bath water which he knows to be boiling. Here A intentionally, by his own bodily power, causes such motion in the boiling water as brings that water into contact with Z. or with other water so situated that such contact must affect Z's sense of feeling: A has therefore intentionally used force to Z: and if he has done this without Z's consent intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause injury, fear, or annoyance to Z, A has used criminal force

(h). A incites a dog to spring upon Z, without Z's consent. Here, if A intends to cause injury, fear, or annoyance to Z, he uses criminal force to Z.

Assault.

351. Whoever makes any gesture or any preparation, intending or knowing it to be likely that such gesture or preparation will cause any person present to apprehend that he who makes that gesture or preparation is about to use criminal force to that person, is said to commit an assault.

Explantion.—Mere words do not amount to an assault. But the words which a person uses may give to his gestures or preparation such a meaning as may make those gestures or preparations amount to an assault.

Illustrations.

(a). A shakes his fist at Z, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause Z to believe that A is about to strike Z. A has committed an assault.

(b). A begins to unloose the muzzle of a ferocious dog, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause Z to believe that he is about to cause the dog to attack Z. A has committed an assault upon Z.

(c). A takes up a stick, saying to Z, "I will give you a beating." Here. though the words used by A could in no case amount to an assault, and though the mere gesture, unaccompanied by any other circumstances might not amount to an assault, the gesture explained by the words may amount to an assault.

OF EXTORTION.

Extortion.

383. Whoever intentionally puts any person in fear of any injury to that person or to any other, and thereby dishonestly induces the person so put in fear to deliver to any person any property or valuable security, or anything signed or sealed which may be converted into a valuable security, commits "extortion."

Illustrations.

(a). A threatens to publish a defamatory libel concerning Z, unless Z gives him money He thus induces Z to give him money. A has committed extortion.

(b). A threatens Z that he will keep Z's child in wrongful confinment, unless Z will sign and deliver to A a promissory note binding Z to pay certain monies to A. Z signs and delivers the note. A has committed extortion.

(c). A threatens to send club-men to plough up Z's field, unless Z will sign and deliver to B a bond binding Z under a penalty to deliver certain produce to B., and hereby induces Z to sign and deliver the bond A has committed extortion.

(d). A by putting Z in fear of grievous hurt, dishonestly induces Z to sign or affix his seal to a blank paper, and deliver it to A. Z signs and delivers the paper to A. Here, as the paper so signed may be converted into a valuable security, A has committed extortion.

II.—INDIAN PINAL CODE, CHAPTER V.—OF ABETMENT. SECTIONS 107 AND 108.

(See Article 71).

Abetment of a thing.

107. A person abets the doing of a thing, who—

First.—Instigates any person to do that thing; or.

Secondly.—Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or,

Thirdly.—Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.

Explanation 1.—A person who, by wilful misrepresentation, or by wilful concealment of a material fact which he is bound to disclose, voluntarily causes or procures, or attempts to cause or procure, a thing to be done, is said to instigate the doing of that thing.

Illustration.

A, a public officer is authorized by a warrant from a Court of Justice to apprehend Z. B, knowing that fact and also that C is not Z, wilfully represents to A that C is Z, and thereby intentionally causes A to apprehend C. Here B abets by instigation the apprehension of C.

Explanation 2.—Whoever, either prior to or at the time of the commission of an act, does anything in order to faciliate the commission of that act. and thereby faciltates the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act.

Abettor.

108. A person abets an offence who abets either the commissiom of an offence, or the commission of an act which would be an offence, if committed by a person capable by law of committing an offence with the same intention or knowledge as that of the abettor.

Explanation 1.—The abetment of the illegal omission of an act may amount to an offence, although the abettor may not himself be bound to do that act.

Explanation 2 —To constitute the offence of abetment, it is not necessary that the act abetted should be committed, or that the effect requisite to constitute the offence should be caused.

Illustrations.

(a). A instigates B to murder C. B refuses to do so. A is guilty of abetting B to commit murder.

(b). A instigates B to murder D. B in pursuance of the instigation stabs D. D recovers from the wound. A is guilty of instigating B to commit murder.

Explanation 3.—It is not necessary that the person abetted should be capable by law of committing an offence, or that he should have the same guilty intention or knowledge as that of the abettor, or any guilty intention or knowledge.

Illustrations.

(a). A, with a guilty intention abets a child or a lunatic to commit an act which would be an offence if committed by a person capable by law of committing an offence, and having the same intention as A. Here A, whether the act be committed or not, is guilty of abetting an offence.

(b). A with the intention of murdering Z, instigates B, a child under seven years of age, to do an act which causes Z's death. B, in consequence of the abetment, does the act, and thereby causes Z's death. Here, though B was not capable by law of committing an offence, A is liable to be punished in the same manner as if B had been capable by law of commiting an offence, and had committed murder, and he is therefore subject to the punishment of death.

(c). A instigates B to set fire to a dwelling-house. B, in consequence of the unsoundness of his mind, being incapable of knowing the nature of the act, or that he is doing what is wrong or contrary to law, sets fire to the house in consequence of A's instigation. B has committed no offence, but A is guilty of abetting the offence of setting fire to a dwelling-house, and is liable to the punishment provided for that offence.

(d). A intending to cause a theft to be committed, instigates B to take property belonging to Z out of Z's possession. A induces B to believe that the property belongs to A. B takes the property out of Z's possession, in good faith, believing it to be A's property. B, acting under this misconception, does not take dishonestly, and therefore does not commit theft. But A is guilty of abetting theft, and is liable to the same punishment as if B had committed theft.

Explanation 4.—The abetment of an offence being an offence, the abetment of such an abetment is also an offence.

Illustration.

A instigates B to instigate C to murder Z. B accordingly instigates C to murder Z, and C commits that offence in consequence of B's instigation. B is liable to be punished for his offence with the punishment for murder; and as A instigated B to commit the offence, A is also liable to the same punishment.

Explanation 5.—It is not necessary to the commission of the offence of abetment by conspiracy that the abettor should concert the offence with the person who commits it. It is sufficient if he engage in the conspiracy in pursuance of which the offence is committed.

Illustration.

A concerts with B a plan for poisoning Z. It is agreed that A shall administer the poison. B then explains the plan to C, mentioning that a third person is to administer the poison, but without mentioning A's name. C agrees to procure the poison, and procures and delivers it to B for the purpose of its being used in the manner explained. A administers the poison; Z dies in consequence. Here, though A and C have not conspired together, yet C has been engaged in the conspiracy in pursuance of which Z has been murdered. C has therefore committed the offence defined in this section, and is liable to the punishment for murder.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The bulk of the existing Articles of War for the government of the Native Army is to be found in Act No. XXIX of 1861. This Act has been amended twice, namely by Act No. V of 1863 and Act No. XXVI of 1865. Some further changes being now required, it has been thought preferable to embody them in an Act consolidating the law on the subject than to add a fourth to the three enactments in which that law is now contained.

The principal changes which the present Bill proposes to make are the following:—

Article 1.—The word 'person' has been substituted for 'recruit.'

A form of oath suitable for Sikhs has been added.

Article 2 provides that, in addition to the persons mentioned in the present Article 167, warrant officers, buglers, musicians, private soldiers, lascars, syces, and grass-cutters shall be attested according to the regulations of the Presidency to which they belong.

Article 4.—The provisions as to dismissal of non-commissioned officers and soldiers contained in the present Article 3 (Act V of 1863, sec. 2), are extended to all persons subject to the Articles.

The provisions as to crimes and punishments contained in the present Articles 5 to 69 are extended to all persons subject to the proposed Articles. Many verbal changes have been made in Chapter II of the present Articles, with the view of introducing greater precision in the descriptions of the crimes therein mentioned. The wording of the Indian Penal Code has generally here been followed.

The provisions in Article 25 as to behaviour unbecoming to an officer has been extended to Sub-Assistant Surgeons, Hospital Assistants, Native Doctors, and Warrant Officers.

Article 26 extends to any person, subject to the Articles, several provisions now applicable only to officers, non-commissioned officers or soldiers.

Article 40 renders it penal to strike any subordinate attested under the Articles.

Article 47 renders it penal to make away with tools, instruments, and equipments.

Article 48.—The crime of attempting to commit suicide has been removed from the category of disgraceful conduct, and rendered more severely punishable.

Article 54 extends to any person subject to the Articles, the provisions as to embezzlement now only applicable to officers and soldiers.

Article 56 makes a similar extension as to disgraceful conduct, the provisions respecting which now apply only to soldiers.

Articles 60 and 61 extend the provisions as to theft to thefts of Government property, and render penal the receipt or retention of stolen property.

Article 62 provides a penalty for obtaining pensions by making false entries.

Article 63 makes it penal to omit, or refuse, to make returns or reports.

Article 65 provides against attempts to commit a cruel, indecent, or unnatural offence.

In Article 67—as to witnesses before Courts Martial,—the Bill provides against the offences of prevarication and refusal to produce documents.

Article 71 provides punishments for abetting within the meaning of the Penal Code the offences specified in the preceding Articles. For convenience of reference, the two sections of the Code defining abetment will be reprinted in an appendix to the proposed Act.

Articles 72 to 94 specify the eight kinds of Court Martial, mentioning in the case of each kind of court, the authority empowered to appoint it, composition and its powers.

Article 113 provides for re-swearing the officers of the courts and witnesses in case of several trials.

Article 116 provides that on trials for desertion, the accused may be found guilty either of desertion or of absence without leave.

Article 140 provides for a second sentence of transportion on an offender already sentenced to transportation for a limited term.

Article 152 extends to the Commander-in-Chief in India, and to the Officer Commanding any force not attached to a Presidency, the power to fix the place of imprisonment of any offender, which the present Article 88 confers on the Commander-in-Chief of a Presidency.

Article 155 provides for striking off the strength of a Regiment a person convicted by a non-Military Criminal Court.

Article 160 extends expressly the power of pardoning persons convicted of military offences to the Governor General of India in Council, the Commander-in-Chief in India, and the Local Governments of Madras and Bombay.

Article 164 empowers the Commander-in-Chief in India, the Commanders-in-Chief of Madras and Bombay, and the Officer Commanding any force not attached to a Presidency to reduce non-commissioned officers to the ranks.

Act XXVI of 1865 gives power to prescribe minor punishments only in cases of non-commissioned officers and soldiers. Article 165 of the Bill proposes to authorise the exercise of this power in the cases of all persons subject to the Articles, except Commissioned Officers, Sub-Assistant Surgeons, Hospital Assistants, Native Doctors, and Warrant Officers. Good conduct pay may be forfeited in addition to any other minor punishment, but will not necessarily be forfeited on the infliction of the minor punishment. It will cease whenever a soldier is convicted by a Court Martial.

Sentences of death, where the offender is not attached to any Presidency, must be confirmed (Article 174) by the Commander-in-Chief in India.

In Part III are contained sundry miscellaneous provisions, the most important of which is a clause providing (a) that no soldier shall be arrested for debt, and (b) that no soldier's arms, horse or regimental necessaries shall be liable to be seized in satisfaction of a judgment.

Article 166 provides a punishment for offence committed by camp-followers in camp or at any frontier post, at which troops are stationed, to which the Article may be specially extended.

Article 172 provides that General Courts Martial shall be held for the trial of non-military offences, which shall on the conviction of the offender award punishment in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Penal Code.

For the object of ready reference the conditions are subjoined:—

Conditions for Scholarships to be instituted by the Gilchrist Educational Trust for the benefit of Natives of India.

Two Scholarships, each of the value of £100 per annum, and tenable for five years, will be annually awarded to candidates born in India, who shall become eligible by competitive examination, under the following conditions:—

*1. Of the parents of each candidate, one, at least, shall belong to one of the Native races.

2. Every candidate must furnish proof, satisfactory to the local authorities, that he has completed his sixteenth year, and that his age does not exceed twenty-two years.

3. Every candidate must furnish proof, satisfactory to the local authorities, that in regard to personal character and social position he is qualified to be admitted to competition for a Scholarship.

4. The subjects of examination shall be (1) Latin, (2) English Language and History, (3) Arithmetic and Algebra, (4) Geometry, (5) Natural Philosophy, and (6) Chemistry. The Examination Papers will be analogous, in character and difficulty, to those prepared in these subjects respectively for the Matriculation Examination of the University of London; and the number of hours assigned to each of the Papers will be the same as those assigned to the like Paper by the University of London. These papers will be sent out in sealed covers through the India Office, to the charge of Sub-Examiners appointed by Her Majesty's Government.

5. The examination shall be held, under the charge of a Government Sub-Examiner, at each of the Presidential Capitals simultaneously; and shall commence in the second week of January in each year. The place, and the days and hours of examination (which shall be the same at all the Capitals), shall be appointed by the local authorities.

6. The Sub-Examiner shall open the sealed covers containing the Examination Papers, in the place of examination, at the hour prescribed for the candidates to assemble. He shall be present throughout the whole of each examination, and shall at the end of each collect the answers written by every candidate during the time allowed. He shall transmit these answers in sealed covers, through the India Office, to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, who will cause them to be carefully considered and compared by Examiners of established reputation named by the Trustees in each of the respective subjects. The Trustees will name, whenever practicable, the Examiners or Sub-Examiners acting in those subjects respectively for the University of London. The Examiners shall consider the papers, with as little delay as possible, and shall make their award thereupon, assigning to each paper a number of marks suitable to its merits. Such award shall be transmitted forthwith by the Secretary, through the India Office, to the local authorities in the Presidential Capitals, to be by them announced to the candidates.

7. The first Scholarship shall be awarded to the candidate whose aggregate of marks stands highest; provided that he passes in each of the six subjects abovementioned, and that his aggregate of marks amounts to not less than one-half of the total. Such candidate shall have his choice whether he will pursue his curriculum of study in the University of Edinburgh, or in University College, London.

8. The second Scholarship shall be awarded to the candidate whose aggregate of marks stands second; provided that he passes in each of the six subjects, and that his aggregate of marks amount to not less than one-half of the total. Such candidate shall pursue his curriculum of study in that one of the two Institutions above named, which shall not have been chosen by the other candidate.

9. If the two highest candidates are equal in aggregate number of marks, the privilege of choosing between these two Institutions shall be determined between them by lot.

10. The successful candidates shall be expected to arrive in London, and to present themselves to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, not later than the first week in the October following their appointment.

11. The Scholarships shall be considered as commencing from the 1st of July following the award of the Examiners; and shall be paid in quarterly instalments on the first days of October, January, April, and July.

12. Each scholar shall attend in every Session at least three courses of lectures at the Institution in which he studies (unless specially excused by the Trustees from doing so during the first year); and shall transmit to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, at the conclusion of each Session, a certificate from each of the Professors whose lectures he has attended, stating that his diligence and conduct have been satisfactory. Should he not be able to produce such a certificate, or should he be proved guilty of discreditable conduct elsewhere, he shall be considered to have forfeited all claim to the remaining instalments of his Scholarship.

13. Each scholar shall be expected to present himself both at the Matriculation Examination of the University of London, and at the first examination in one of its four faculties—Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine,—before the termination of the third (Academical) year* from the commencement his scholarship, unless excused from doing so by the Trustees; and if he do not so present himself (unless by permission of the Trustees), or if he fail to pass he shall be considered as forfeiting his claim to the remaining two years' instalments of his Scholarship.

14. The foregoing scheme shall be subject to revision from time to time; the Trustees reserving to themselves the power of altering the conditions of the Scholarships, or of altogether withdrawing them, if they deem it expedient to do either. But no change will be made in such a manner as to affect the interests of candidates already appointed to Scholarships, or in any case without twelve months' notice.

„ 23rd September 1867, No. 6.

3. You will observe that the Trustees feel themselves unable to adopt the suggestion made by the several Governments in India with regard to the substitution of one Scholarship annually of £200 for two at £100 each, and that they decline to accept the modifications proposed on other points, with the following exception, namely, as regards the question of race, in which matter they are disposed to modify their scheme "so far as to admit to the competition all persons born in India, except those of pure European descent."

4. You will perceive that the Trustees desire that the first examination should be announced for January 1869.

5. I have to inform your Excellency in Council that, in accordance with a request received from the Trustees, I have decided to grant the sum of £100 for passage to each of the scholars proceeding to this country, and have further determined to allow the same amount for a return passage to such of them as may forfeit their Scholarship.

I REGRET that it has not been in my power to send an earlier reply to your communications of the 23rd of August, the 25th of October, and the 26th of November.

2. The first of these communications, with its enclosures, was considered by the Trustees of the Gilchrist Educational Trust at the earliest date at which they could be brought together; but as the opinions expressed therein had reference to the original scheme, it was deemed advisable to wait the arrival of the opinions of the Authorities in India in regard to the scheme finally adopted by the Trustees.

3. These opinions, contained in your communication of the 25th of October, have also been carefully considered by the Trustees, who, regretting to find them still in disaccordance with their own views, have desired to obtain the advice of gentlemen well acquainted with India, and especially with its Educational Institutions.

4. The recommendations of the Indian Authorities, which were embodied in your communications of the 23rd of August and the 25th October, may be stated as follows:—

1st.—That instead of two annual Scholarships, of £100 each, there should be one annual Scholarship of £200.

2nd.—That the award of the Scholarships, instead of being made, through a competitive examination open to candidates of all the Presidencies, by Examiners in this country acting under the direction of the Trustees, should be made by the Authorities of the Presidential Universities in the three Presidencies in rotation; and, further that Latin should not be one of the subjects examination.

3rd.—That the admissibility of candidates should be extended beyond the limits proposed by the Trustees, so that "East Indian" youths generally should be eligible for the Scholarships.

5. I am now to state the conclusions at which the Trustees have arrived, after fully weighing each of these recommendations.

1st—The Gilchrist Trustees are directed, by the terms of the founder's will, to apply and appropriate the funds under their control to the "advancement of education and learning," not in British India or in any other quarters specially, but "in every part of the world, as far as circumstances may permit." The Trustees, therefore, do not feel authorized, consistently with this obligation, and with educational demands from other quarters, to grant so large an amount as £200 per annum, continued for five years, to any single student from India; and they, therefore, decide to abide by their previous offer of two Scholarships each of £100 per annum, to be continued for five years.

2nd.—The Gilchrist Trustees still feel bound to adhere to their original scheme, in regard to the award of the Scholarships by competitive examinations, and they do not think it advisable to relinquish Latin as one of its subjects.

3rd.—As regards the question of race, however, the Gilchrist Trustees are disposed to modify their scheme, in deference to the representations made to them from India, so far as to admit to the competition all persons born in India, except those of pure European descent.

6. The Trustees desire, therefore, that, subject to the modification just stated, the scheme should be carried out in the form prevously adopted; and they earnestly hope that Her Majesty's Government, both here and in India, will give it such encouragement as may be found practicable. In particular, they would represent that, as in several of the communications, forwarded from India, the cost of passage to England and of the return to India are dwelt on as serious drawbacks, the advantages of their scheme will be greatly enhanced if the Secretary of State for India should be pleased to announce his readiness to provide for the transit of the Gilchrist scholars in the mode suggested in my letter of August 16th.

7. Should their scheme, after a fair trial prove inefficacious, the Trustees will be ready to re-consider their decision, and will endeavour, so far as the conditions of their trust may permit, to bring it into harmony with the proved requirements of the case.

8. The Trustees consider that the delay which has attended the promulgation of the scheme, and the uncertainty under which the Authorities in India must still be in regard to the mode in which it is to be carried out, altogether preclude the possibility of bringing it into immediate operation; and they, therefore, desire that the first examination should be announced for January 1869."

3. It is further notified that the examination in question will be held at the Presidency College of Calcutta, commencing on the 15th January 1869, at 10 A. M.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor has appointed Mr. James Sutcliffe, M. A., Principal of the Presidency College, to be the Sub-Examiner under paragraph 5 of the "Conditions" of the Trustees; and all candidates intending to compete are requested to forward their applications and any enquiries they may wish to make to his address at the Presidency College.

5. Each Candidate is required to furnish to the Sub-Examiner particulars as precisely as possible of—

(2.) His age.
(3.) His personal character and social position.

6. No communications will be received by the Sub-Examiner later than the 10th January 1869.

From the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,—(No. 358, dated India Office, London, the 14th October 1868.)

I HAVE considered in Council your letter dated the 28th of July last, No. 279, bringing to notice the cases of Lieutenant-Colonels Stainforth and Smith, who, by the operation of the rule laid down in the Secretary of State's Despatch of the 8th of October 1863, No. 352, have, on obtaining promotion, resigned their appointments in the Public Works and Police Departments, respectively, in consequence of the salary of their appointments being less than the pay of their substantive military rank.

2. As intances of this kind will rarely occur, I sanction the adoption of the rule proposed by your Government, that in any such exceptional case, the difference between the consolidated salary of the appointment and the substantive military pay of the Officer should be paid to him and treated as a military charge.

3. Should your Excellency find no difficulty in replacing Lieutenant-Colonels Stainforth and Smith in the appointments which they have vacated, I shall not object to your assigning a retrospective date to the operation of this order for that purpose.

"The Treasury Warrant of the 27th September of last year relating to the postage to be charged on the correspondence of Military Officers does not, according to the construction placed upon it by this Department, confer any privilege on letters other than those specifically addressed to, or actually sent by, the Officer himself."

"It is accordingly considered that it is not open to an Officer, with the view of sending at the reduced rate a letter from his wife, to insert his name in the address as the sender, or for the Commanding Officer to affix his countersignature."

The mean Temperature and the mean Wet Bulb are derived from the twenty-four hourly Observations made during the day.

The Dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants.—The figures in column ten represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity.—The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the Anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's Anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

JOHN MACDONALD, Major,
Offg. Boundary Commissioner.

The following Orders issued by the Government of India, in the Home Department, are re-published for general information :—

No. 4788.—Fort William, the 15*th December* 1868.—Public.—Notifications.—The undermentioned gentleman, appointed by the Secretary of State for India a Member of Her Majesty's Civil Service on the Bengal Establishment, has reported his arrival in India on the 10th instant :—

*No.*1103.—The 18*th December* 1868.—Revenue.—Major G. H. Thompson, a Surveyor of the Second Grade, in the Revenue Survey Department, is permitted to resign his appointment, and his services are replaced at the disposal of the Military Department.

The following Orders issued by the Government of India, in the Foreign Department, are re-published for general information :—

No. 1009.—The 18*th December* 1868.—Telegraph.—The following extracts from the International Telegraph Convention, signed at Vienna by the delegates of all the countries in Europe and Asia in which there are telegraphs worked by the State, are published for general information :—

2. The portions which are not published relate entirely to departmental procedure.

3. The attention of the public is particularly drawn to the rules laid down in Articles 13, 24, 25, 26, 32, 40, 51, and 52.

4. Under Article 9, messages composed of figure or secret letters must be registered, which involves double payment.

5. It is not clear whether commercial code messages will fall within that category, but as messages in words of ordinary language will be allowed to pass, commercial code messages, if in words to be found in Dictionaries, will be accepted as ordinary messages, until refused by other Administrations parties to the Convention.

6. It is, however, to be clearly understood that no refund can, under any circumstances, be made on account of the loss of such messages, unless registered.

7. Under the new tariff the cost of a telegram of 20 words will be :—

Between any place in India east of Kurrachee and London	... Rs.	28	8	0
To any other telegraph station in the United Kingdom	... „	28	12	0

An additional charge of Rs. 2 will be levied on the above for telegraph stations east of Chittagong, or in Ceylon.

8. Arrangements are in progress for the transmission of half-group messages of ten words under Article 32, to take effect from the 1st July 1869. The tariff for this class of messages will be published in due course.

INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION.

Revised at Vienna, 1868.

THE INTERNATIONAL SYSTEM.

Article 2.

Between important towns of the contracting States, the service is, as far as possible, permanent, day and night, without interruption.

Ordinary offices performing full day duty are open to the public—

From 1st April to 30th September from 7 A. M. to 9 P. M.

From 1st October to 31st March from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

Offices of limited duty have their hours of opening fixed by the respective Administrations of the contracting States.

The time kept by all the offices of the same State is the mean time of the capital of that State.

TRAFFIC.

Section I.
General Conditions.

Article 4.

The high contracting parties recognise the right of all persons to correspond by means of the International Telegraphs.

Article 5.

They undertake to adopt all necessary measures to insure the secrecy of messages, and their prompt expedition.

Article 6.

The high contracting parties however make known that they accept no responsibility on account of the service of the International Telegraphs.

Section II.
Acceptance of Messages.

Article 7.

Telegraphic messages are classed in three categories :—

1*st.*—Government messages : those which emanate from the Chief of the State, Ministers, Commanders-in-Chief of Land or Sea Forces, and Diplomatic or Consular Agents of the contracting Governments ; also the replies to these messages.

Messages from Consular Agents who are engaged in commerce, are not considered as Government messages, except when they are addressed to an official personage, and when they relate to Government service.

2*nd.*—Service messages : those which emanate from the Telegraph Departments of the contracting States, and which relate either to the service of the International Telegraphs, or to objects of public interest determined by common accord by the said departments.

Article 8.

Government messages are only accepted as such when the seal or stamp of the authority who sends them is affixed.

The sender of a private message can always be called upon to prove that the signature attached to it is genuine. He has, on his side, the power of including in his message the legalisation of his signature.

ARTICLE 9.

A message may be written in any one of the languages used in the territories of the contracting States, or in Latin.

Each State is at liberty to designate which languages, among those used in its territories, it considers to be suitable for international telegraphic correspondence.

Government messages and service messages may be expressed in figures or secret letters, either wholly or in part.

Private messages may also be composed of figures or secret letters when exchanged between two contracting States which admit that mode of correspondence. They will be subject to the conditions prescribed in the service regulations hereafter mentioned in Article 59.

Messages in transit are not subject to the reserve mentioned in the preceding paragraph.

Semaphoric messages must be written either in the language of the country in which is situated the semaphore station which has to signal them, or in the Commercial Code of Signals of all Nations.

Messages which are not admitted as ordinary messages according to the terms of the 1st paragraph of the present Article, are considered as secret messages.

ARTICLE 10.

The message to be transmitted must be legibly written in characters which have their equivalent in the Official Code of Telegraph Signals, and which are in use in the country where the message is presented.

The body of the message must be preceded by the address and followed by the signature.

The address must contain all the information necessary to insure the delivery of the message at its destination.

Every interlineation, reference, erasure, or alteration of words should be authenticated by the sender of the message or by his representative.

TRANSMISSION.

ARTICLE 11.

The transmission of messages takes place in the following order:—

1*st.*—Government messages.
2*nd.*—Service messages.
3*rd.*—Private messages.

A message commenced cannot be interrupted to give place to a communication of superior rank, except in case of absolute emergency.

Messages of the same rank are transmitted by the original sending station in the order of their deposit by the senders, and by the intermediate offices in the order of their reception.

Between two offices in direct communication, messages of the same rank are transmitted in alternate order.

At intermediate stations, local messages and transit messages which have to be sent by the same wires, are placed together, and transmitted without distinction, according to the time received at the office.

This rule and that in paragraph 1 can however be departed from in the interest of quickness of transmission on lines where the traffic is continuous, or which are worked by special instruments.

ARTICLE 12.

Offices at which the duty is not permanent cannot be closed before transmitting all their international messages to an office at which the duty is permanent.

These messages are immediately exchanged in the order of their reception between the offices of permanent duty of the different States.

ARTICLE 13.

Each Government remains judge, with regard to the sender, of the route by which it is expedient to direct messages, both during ordinary working, and in case of interruption or block of traffic on the lines habitually employed.

If, however, the sender prescribes the route to be followed, the stations concerned are bound to conform to the instructions given, unless the exigencies of service oppose, in which case no complaint can be entertained.

ARTICLE 14.

When an interruption to communication occurs during the transmission of a message, the office beyond which the interruption exists immediately despatches the message by post (as a pre-paid registered letter), or by quicker means, if available. It is addressed, according to circumstances, either to the nearest telegraph station able to continue its transmission by telegraph, to the terminal station, or to the receiver direct. As soon as communication is re-established, it is transmitted afresh by telegraph, unless its receipt has been previously acknowledged, or, in consequence of an exceptional pressure of messages, its re-transmission would be manifestly injurious to the general traffic.

ARTICLE 15.

Messages which it has been impossible to signal from semaphore stations to the ships to which they are addressed within 30 days of the date of their original deposit, are considered as dead letters, unless the sender has paid for their registration.

ARTICLE 16.

Any sender can, by proving his identity, stop, if in time, the transmission of a message deposited by him.

Section IV.

DELIVERY AT DESTINATION.

ARTICLE 17.

Messages may be addressed either to the place of residence of the receiver, or poste restante, or bureau télégraphique restant (telegraph office waiting).

They are delivered or sent to their destination in the order of their reception.

Messages addressed to place of residence or poste restante, within the delivery limits of the telegraph office, are at once taken to their address.

Messages addressed to place of residence or poste restante beyond the delivery limits are, according to the instructions of the sender, sent immediately to their destination by post, or by more rapid means, if available.

ARTICLE 18.

Each of the contracting States reserves to itself to organise, as far as possible, a delivery service more rapid than the post, for localities not provided with the telegraph. And each State engages itself towards the others to enable the correspondence of every sender to have the advantages of the arrangements made and notified in this respect by any of the other States.

ARTICLE 19.

When a message is taken to the place of residence and the receiver is absent, it may be delivered to the adult members of his family, to his employés, lodgers, or landlord, unless the receiver has designated by writing a special person, or the sender has instructed that the message be delivered to the receiver only.

When the message is addressed bureau restant (office waiting), it is only delivered to the receiver, or to a person duly appointed by him.

If the message cannot be delivered at its destination, notice is left at the place of residence of the receiver, and the message is brought back to the office to be delivered to him upon his demand.

If the message is not claimed within six weeks, it is destroyed.

The same rule applies to messages addressed bureau restant (office waiting).

Section V.

CONTROL.

ARTICLE 20.

The high contracting parties reserve to themselves the power to stop the transmission of any private message which may appear dangerous to the security of the State, or which may be contrary to the laws of the country, to public order or decency, on condition of immediately advising the Administration to which the original sending station belongs.

This control is exercised by the terminal or intermediate offices, subject to recourse to the Central Administration which decides without appeal.

ARTICLE 21.

Each Government also reserves to itself the power to interrupt the system of the International Telegraphs for an indefinite period, if it judges it necessary, either generally, or only upon certain lines, or for certain kinds of messages, upon condition that it immediately advises each of the other contracting Governments.

Section VI.

RECORDS.

ARTICLE 22.

The originals and copies of messages and the slips containing the signals or similar papers are preserved during at least one year, counting from their date, with all necessary precautions to secure their secrecy.

After that time they can be destroyed.

ARTICLE 23.

The originals or copies of messages can only be communicated to the sender or to the receiver after proving his identity.

The sender and receiver have a right to be furnished with certified true copies of the messages sent or received by them.

Section VII.

SPECIAL MESSAGES.

ARTICLE 24.

Any sender can pre-pay the reply which he requests his correspondent to send.

The delivery station pays to the receiver the amount deposited for the reply at the original sending station, either in money, telegraph stamps, or by a cheque on the office, leaving it to the receiver to send his reply at any time, by any route, and to any address he chooses.

The reply is considered and treated as any other message.

If the original message cannot be delivered, or if the receiver formally refuses the amount deposited for the reply, the delivery station informs the sender of it by a telegram which takes the place of the reply. This telegram indicates the cause of non-delivery, and gives, when requisite, the information necessary to enable the sender to cause his message to follow.

The amount deposited for the reply cannot exceed three times the cost of the original message.

The sender of any message has the power of registering it.

When a message is registered, the different stations employed in its transmission collate it, as it passes, by repeating it to each other integrally, and the terminal station, immediately after the delivery of the message, despatches by telegraph a service to the sender, announcing the exact time at which it reached its destination.

If the message cannot be delivered, the service indicates the circumstances which prevented it and gives, if possible, the information necessary to enable the sender to cause his message to reach its destination.

The sender of a registered message can have the service addressed to him at any point of the territory of the contracting States by giving the necessary instructions.

ARTICLE 26.

Any sender can request that a notice of the time at which his message is delivered be transmitted to him by telegraph.

If the message cannot be delivered, this acknowledgment of receipt is replaced by a service giving the information indicated in paragraph 3 of the preceding article.

The sender can have the acknowledgment of receipt addressed to him at any point of the territory of the contracting States on furnishing the necessary instructions.

ARTICLE 27.

Registration is compulsory for messages composed of figures, or secret letters, or considered as secret messages.

ARTICLE 28.

When a message bears the notice faire suivre / to follow without further instructions, the delivering station, after presenting it at the address given, re-transmits it immediately, if requisite, to the new address supplied at the residence of the receiver. It is, however, only required to make this re-transmission within the limits of the State to which it belongs, and it then treats the message as a local message.

If no new address is supplied, it keeps the message in the office. If the message is re-transmitted, and the second station cannot find the receiver, the message is retained by that station.

If the notice faire suivre / to follow is accompanied by successive addresses, the message is successively transmitted to each, until the last, if necessary; and the last office treats it in accordance with the regulations of the preceding paragraph.

Any person, by explaining the necessity, can request that messages which may arrive at a telegraph office to be delivered to him, within the radius of delivery of that office, be re-transmitted to the address which he furnishes, or in conformity with the conditions of the preceding paragraphs.

ARTICLE 29.

Telegraphic messages may be addressed—

To several persons in different places.

To several persons in the same place.

To the same person in different places, or at several residences in the same place.

In the two first cases, each copy of the message should bear only its own address, unless the sender has requested the contrary.

ARTICLE 30.

In applying the preceding articles, the facilities given to the public for pre-paid replies, registered messages, messages to follow, multiple messages, and acknowledgments of receipt, can be combined.

ARTICLE 31.

The high contracting parties engage to take measures for the delivery of messages sent from sea through the medium of the semaphores established, or to be established on the coast of any of the States which shall have taken part in the present Convention.

PART III.

CHARGES.

Section I.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES.

ARTICLE 32.

The high contracting parties resolve to adopt the following bases for the establishment of international tariffs:—

The charge for all messages exchanged by the same route between the offices of any two of the contracting States shall be uniform. To render this always applicable, a State may be sub-divided in Europe into, at the most, two large territorial divisions.

The minimum charge applies to a message which does not exceed twenty words. The charge for a message of twenty words is increased one-half for every ten words or fraction of ten words above twenty.

Telegraph administrations out of Europe are authorised to admit upon their lines messages of ten words at a reduced tariff; the charge however for the transit of such messages in Europe will be the same as if they contained twenty words.

ARTICLE 33.

The Franc will be considered the monetary unit for international tariffs.

The charges for messages exchanged between any two points whatever of the contracting States should be so regulated that the cost of a message of twenty words should invariably be a multiple of half a Franc.

A Franc will be valued as follows:—

In North Germany—8 silbergros.
In Austria and Hungary—40 Kreuzers (Austrian value.)
In the Grand Duchy of Baden, in Bavaria, and Wurtemburg—28 Kreuzers.
In Denmark—35 Skillings.
In Spain—0,40 Crown.
In Greece—1,11 Drachma.
In British India—76 Pies.
In Italy—1 Lira.
In Norway—22 Skillings.
In the Netherlands—50 Cents.
In Persia—1 Sahibkran.
In Portugal—200 Reis.
In the United Principalities—1 New Piaster.
In Russia—25 Copeks.
In Servia—5 Piasters.
In Sweden—72 Œres.
In Turkey—4 Piasters 32 paras medjidies.
Payment can be demanded in value sterling.

ARTICLE 34.

The rate of tariff is laid down from State to State under agreement between the furthermost Governments and the intermediate Governments.

The tariff applicable to the messages exchanged between the contracting States is fixed according to the tables annexed to the present Conven-

TARIFFS.

INTERNATIONAL SERVICE REGULATIONS.

Forming a Supplement to the Paris Convention.

I.

1. The wires specially set apart for the International Service are distinctively noted on the Official Map drawn up in conformity with Article 63 of the Convention.

Art. 1.

2. These wires are designated by the name of International wire from to.

3. As far as it is possible, they serve only for the relations between the two towns named as their extreme points.

4. They may be taken from this special service in case of derangement of the lines; but they are to be returned to it as soon as the derangement ceases.

5. These wires are placed under the collective safeguard of the States on whose territory they are erected; the respective Administrations combine their arrangements, so that the best result may be obtained from each wire.

6. The heads of the surveillance parties on neighbouring frontiers communicate with each other direct to insure, so far as they are concerned, the execution of these arrangements.

III.

2. Messages from Consular Agents to which paragraph 3 of Article 7 of the Convention applies, are not refused by the original sending station, but the latter signals them immediately to the Central Administration.

3. Messages emanating from the different offices and relating to the contingencies of transmission circulate throughout the international system as services.

IV.

1. Each State nominates, if it judges it expedient, functionaries or magistrates in each town to legalise signatures of senders of messages. In this case each of the offices of such State checks the authenticity of the legislations which are presented to it, and transmits the following formula after the signature:—

Art. 8.

Signature legalised by (designation of functionary or magistrate.)

2. This notice enters in the number of words charged for.

3. In every other case the legalisation is charged for, and transmitted in the form in which it is presented.

V.

1. As a general rule services messages are written in French; the different Administrations can, however, arrange among themselves for the use of another language.

Art 9.

2. Government messages may be composed of figures or secret letters, either wholly or in part.

3. The same applies to service messages when they emanate from the heads of the telegraph administrations.

4. In private messages which are composed of letters or secret figures, the address and the signature must be written in ordinary language.

5. The body of the message may consist either wholly of cipher, or partly of cipher and partly of ordinary language. In the latter case, the parts in cipher must be placed between two parentheses separating them from the rest of the message which precedes or follows.

6. The part in cipher must be composed exclusively of letters of the alphabet, or exclusively of Arabic figures.

7 The first Administration is judge of the application of the final paragraph of Article 9 of the Convention, especially with regard to the toleration accorded to messages relating to exchange and other commercial subjects.

8. When such messages have been accepted, they cannot be stopped or charged for at extra rates en-route Any remarks or notifications which they may call forth from departments concerned in their transmission, can only apply to future messages of the same kind.

Without further official instructions.

4 The address of private messages should always be such that delivery can be effected without difficulty or the necessity of making inquiries.

5. For large towns, it should comprise the name of the street and the number, or in default of these particulars the name of the profession of the receiver, or similar information.

6. For small towns the name of the receiver ought if possible to be accompanied by information sufficient to guide the delivering office in case of any alteration of the proper name.

7. The name of the country in which the residence of the receiver is situate is indispensable, unless it is in a capital or important town. It is included in the number of words charged for.

8. Messages whose addresses do not contain these particulars should nevertheless be transmitted.

9. In all cases the sender supports the consequence of insufficiency of address.

10. The address of a message to be conveyed beyond the telegraph lines is written in the following form:—

M. Muller, Stiglitz express (or post), Berlin, the name of the terminal telegraph station being written last.

11 The address of a message for a ship at sea should contain, in addition to the ordinary directions, the name or official number of the vessel and its nationality.

VII.

1. Neither Government messages nor service messages enter in alternate order with private messages transmitted by the Morse instrument.

Art. 11.

2. The transmission of messages by the Hughes instrument is effected in alternate series. The series is limited to five messages, of whatever description they may be, Government, Service or Private. These five messages are considered as forming a single transmission, which should not be interrupted, except in cases of great emergency. Every message of 100 words or upwards is considered as forming an entire series.

11. With the exception of the cases determined on by the different Administrations in concert, it is forbidden to employ any abbreviation whatsoever in transmitting the contents of a message, or to modify the contents in any way whatsoever. Every message must be transmitted as the sender has written it, following his copy, except in the case provided for in the 3rd paragraph of Article 37 of the Convention.

12. Immediately after transmission, the clerk who has received compares, in the case of each message, the number of words it contains with the number announced, and if there is any difference informs the sending clerk of it. If the latter finds he simply made an error in the number announced, he replies right. If not, he repeats the first letter of each word until he comes to the passage omitted, which is then inserted.

13. Every message is partially collated without extra charge. But registered messages are collated integrally.

15. On the Morse instrument the collation is given by the clerk who has received immediately after the verification of the number of words; the partial collation includes the proper names, numbers (except the date), doubtful words, or words little known.

XII.

1. When the sender withdraws or stops his message before transmission has been commenced, the charges are returned to him after deducting a fixed sum of four annas, the fee of the original sending station. Art. 16.

2. If transmission has been commenced, the charges received remain to the credit of the States concerned, so far as the signalling has been effected; the remainder is returned.

3. If the message is already transmitted, the sender's only means of requesting it to be cancelled is by a telegram addressed to the chief of the terminal station, for which he must pay. He pays also for the reply, if he desires to be informed by telegraph in what manner his request has been acted upon.

4. Messages of this nature are sent by the original sending station in the form hereafter described. (§ XXIV).

XIII.

1. The terminal station has a right to employ the post. Art. 18.

a.—In the absence of directions in the message of the means of transport indicated by the sender.

b.—When the means indicated differ from the mode adopted and notified by the terminal State in conformity with Article 18 of the Convention.

c.—When there is a claim to be made for porterage to be paid by a receiver who has previously refused to pay such charges.

2. When a message, to be forwarded by registered letter, cannot immediately be registered, it is, in order to take advantage of a postal departure, first posted as an ordinary letter; a duplicate is addressed in a registered letter as soon as possible.

3. Messages addressed to passengers of a vessel arriving in a port are delivered, if possible, before their disembarkation.

XIV.

1. When a sender desires that his message should be delivered into the hands of the receiver only, he must state so in the address.

2. This notice is carefully written on the envelope of the message by the terminal station, and the messenger receives the necessary orders to act in conformity with it.

3. When the receiver of a message cannot be found, the terminal station forwards to the original station a service in the following form:—

No. ..... from ..... addressed to ..... Street ..... (name of town). Receiver unknown.

The address given in this service must be the exact reproduction of the address received.

4. The original sending station verifies the correctness of the address and only replies to the terminal station when there is an error of transmission to be corrected.

5. Each Administration is at liberty to authorize its offices to communicate these services to the senders. But the senders can neither complete, rectify, nor confirm the address except by a paid message in the form hereafter prescribed. (§ XXIV).

XV.

The transmission of Government messages takes place by right. Telegraph offices have no control to exercise over them. Art. 20.

XVI.

The telegraph administrations are under no obligation to communicate the contents or give copies of the messages specified in Article 23 of the Convention, unless the senders or the receivers furnish the exact date of the messages to which their requests refer. Art. 23.

XVII.

1. When a pre-paid reply is requested, the sender must write after the body of the message and before the signature the notice "Reply paid." Art. 24.

2. Charge is made for a single rate by the same route.

3. The sender can, however, add to the notice "Reply paid" (..fr..c) on depositing the corresponding amount, within the limits authorised by Article 24 of the Convention.

4. The service provided for by the same Article is sent in the following form :—

Date .....
Official reply to No .. .. of . .....
The receiver has refused, or cannot be found.

XVIII.

Arts. 25 and 26.

Date.....
Message No. .....Delivered the.....
at.....m (or reason of non-delivery).

The acknowledgments of receipt take an official No. from the station which sends them, and are in all other respects treated in their transmission as new messages. They take precedence of services over private messages.

XIX.

Art. 28.

1. The original contents [body] of the message to follow must be transmitted in full to the successive delivery stations, and reproduced in the copy addressed to the receiver, but in the preamble each station reproduces after the words to follow only the addresses to which the message has still to be sent.

2. The demands for re-transmission provided for in Clause 4, Article 28 of the Convention, may be made by post.

3. Each Administration reserves to itself the power of re-transmitting, when necessary, in accordance with the information given at the residence of the receiver, messages respecting which no special instructions have been otherwise furnished.

4. The international charge for messages to follow is simply the charge calculated to the first terminal station; all the addresses entering in the number of words charged for.

XX.

Art. 29.

1. In transmitting a message addressed to two or more persons, the number of addresses must be indicated in the preamble.

2. The request mentioned in Clause 5, Article 29 of the Convention, must be entered in the address, and consequently be included in the number of words charged for.

3. The request is also inserted in the official instructions.

XXI.

Art. 35.

1. The sender must write immediately after the address of his message any instructions he wishes to give relative to the route by which it is to be sent, its delivery, or to its acknowledgment of receipt; also the notice of registration, or to follow.

Words, numbers, or signs added by the office in the interest of the service are not charged for.

XXII.

Art. 36.

The signal for underline is transmitted before and after the word or passage to be underlined; but it is only counted as one word extra for each passage underlined: example "The matter is urgent leave without delay," 9 words charged for, i. e., 7 words and 2 underlines.

XXIII.

Art. 38.

1. The name of the original sending station, the date, hour, and minute tendered for transmission are added by the office and written on the copy delivered to the receiver.

2. The sender can insert these notices wholly, or in part, in the body of his message; in which case they enter in the number of words charged for.

XXIV.

Art. 39.

The messages specified in Article 39 of the Convention have the following form :—

Paris from Berlin.—Service paid.

They take rank with service messages, bear the prefix A, and a number.

2. The receiver of any message can request the correction of passages which appear to him to be doubtful. He deposits for this purpose,—1*st*, the price of a message (single rate) for the demand; 2*nd*, the price of a message calculated according to the length of the passage to be repeated.

3. The same power is accorded to the sender in case he has reason to suppose that his message has been altered.

4. These charges are returned if the repetition shows that the mutilation of the sense of the message was made by the telegraph. In this case the office at once makes the refund.

5. Charges made for paid service messages remain wholly to the credit of the Administration which receives them, and do not appear in the International Accounts.

6. A Telegraph station which receives a message, requesting the suppression of another message previously received, informs the original sending station by post in what manner the request has been acted upon, unless the sender has pre-paid a reply by telegraph.

XXV.

Art. 48.

1. If the charges to be made by the delivering station are not recovered, the loss is borne by the delivering station, except special agreements have been concluded in conformity with Article 64 of the Convention.

2. The telegraph administrations take, however, as far as possible, the necessary measures in order that charges due on delivery which are not paid by the receiver be recovered from the sender. When such recovery is effected, the department which effects it credits the department to which it is due with the amount.

XXVI.

Art. 50. Telegraph administrations and telegraph offices adopt all necessary measures to diminish as much as possible the number of free service messages.

Information not of an emergent nature is demanded or given by post

XXVII.

Art. 51. 1. Every claim for reimbursement of charges ought to be made to the original sending department and be supported as follows, i. e., in case of non-delivery, by a written statement from the terminal station or addressée; and in case of mutilation or delay, by the copy actually delivered.

2. If the sender does not reside in the country where he deposited his message for transmission, he can have his claim forwarded to the original sending department through the medium of another department. In this case, if it is evident that the claim is well founded, the latter is deputed to make the refund

3. In the case of messages not delivered, or which have not accomplished their object, the reimbursement is supported by the departments on the lines of which the irregularities were made which caused the claim.

4 In case of delay the claim for reimbursement is absolute if the message did not reach its destination sooner than it would have done by the post.

5. The integral return of the charges is effected at the expense of the departments which caused the delay.

6 In case of error the claim is only forwarded by the first department to the other Administrations, when it is shown that the message was mutilated to the extent of rendering it unable to fulfil its object. The first department then specifies the errors which led to this result, and the contributive shares of the different Administrations concerned are regulated according to the number of faults thus specified.

7. No reimbursement is granted on account of errors made in unregistered messages accepted by toleration under the terms of paragraph 7 of Article 5 of the present Regulations.

8. The contributive share for the alteration of a word mutilated successively on the lines of several Administrations is supported by the first of the Administrations in fault.

Fort William, the 14th December 1868.

READ—

A letter from the Officiating Deputy Accountant General, Bombay, No. 2167 A, dated 12th November 1868, enquiring, with reference to the Financial Resolution of the 14th October 1868, directing that in calculating the furlough allowances of a Military Officer on the average salary of the previous three years, all acting allowances should be omitted, whether the order should have prospective effect from the date it was passed.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council observes that the ruling of the 14th October 1868 was not intended as an alteration but as an interpretation of a portion of Section 5 of the Rules for the grant of leave of absence to Military Officers, published in the General Order of the Military Department of the 19th June 1868, and it should therefore affect all cases, whether they occurred before or after the ruling was issued.

ORDERED, that the foregoing Resolution be published in the Gazette of India.

The 15th December 1868.

Letter from Deputy Accountant General, Mysore, No. 1623, dated 31st October 1863.
Letter from Accountant General, British Burmah, No. 3752, dated 7th November 1868.

RESOLUTION.—Some diversity of practice having arisen as to the conditions under which salary may be drawn in India by Officers on leave, the following rules are prescribed in supersession of all others on the subject.

I. If the Officer signs the salary bill himself, he shall, unless he presents the bill personally for payment, attach thereto a life certificate signed by a Covenanted Civil Servant, or an Officer exercising Magisterial powers.

II.—If the salary be drawn through an Agent, such Agent must be formally authorised in that behalf, and must execute a guarantee to refund over-payments.

III.—When the salary bill is drawn, as in the case of ministerial Officers, by the head of the Department or Office, the drawer of the bill will be held primarily responsible for any overcharge, and no other security will be necessary.

No. 3579.

The following letter to the address of the Officiating Accountant General, Bombay, is published for general information :—

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. $\frac{A}{2065}$ of the 3rd ultimo, enquiring whether the Resolution No. 2703, passed in this Department on the 29th September 1868, applies to Uncovenanted Servants on salaries of less than Rs. 100 per mensem, and in reply to refer you to the order of this Department No. 3420, dated the 2nd ultimo, which has been published in the Gazette of India, and to state that the spirit of the Resolution of the 29th September last, as of other leave rules for Uncovenanted Servants, is applicable to servants on salaries of less than Rs. 100 per mensem.

2. I am desired, however, to add that whenever privilege leave is granted, arrangements should, if possible, be made for the performance of the absentee's work without extra charge to the State, because it was by no means intended, when the Resolution of the 29th September 1868 was passed, that on every occasion of an Uncovenanted Servant being allowed privilege leave, a substitute should be formally appointed to act for him.

The 17th December 1868.

The following Resolution is published for general information :—

Read Office Memorandum from the Home Department No. 4248, dated the 23rd October 1868, and its enclosure, regarding the allowances of Assistant Surgeon H. C. Cutcliffe, as the officer in medical charge of the camp of the Lieutenant Governor of the North-Western Provinces from March to October 1867, and as Officiating Superintendent of the Government Press, and Curator of Government Books in the North-Western Provinces from the 1st July 1868.

RESOLUTION.—Dr. Cutcliffe is permitted to draw an allowance of Rs. 100 per mensem, in addition to the pay and allowances of his rank, for the period for which he was in charge of the camp of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant Governor.

With regard to Dr. Cutcliffe's allowances as Superintendent of the Government Press and Curator of Government Books from the 1st July 1868, it appears that under the second of the rules contained in the Resolution No. 1490, passed in this Department on the 30th idem, regarding the allowances of Military Officers acting in Civil appointments, the Deputy Accountant General, North-Western Provinces, has passed to Dr. Cutcliffe a subsistence allowance of Rs. 250 per mensem in lieu of the military pay and allowances of his rank, in addition to an acting allowance of 50 per cent. on the salary of the Superintendency and Curatorship, but that the Government of the North-Western Provinces doubts the applicability to the case of the Resolution of the 30th July last, because Dr. Cutcliffe is a Medical Officer.

As the appointment in which Dr. Cutcliffe was officiating was one which may be held by a Medical or by any other Military Officer, the Resolution of the 30th July last is certainly applicable to the case; but the Deputy Accountant General has apparently misconstrued the second of the rules Rcontained in the Resolution of the 30th July last. The intention of that rule was not to interfere with any Military Officer's claim to the pay and allowances of his rank, but to restrict the aggregate of his emoluments to the amount which would be drawn as subsistence allowance and acting allowance by a Covenanted Civil Servant of corresponding rank in his position. Under that rule, therefore, Dr. Cutcliffe is entitled to his Military pay and allowances and such an acting allowance as would raise his total emoluments to the aggregate of a subsistence allowance of Rs. 250 and an acting allowance of 50 per cent. on the salary of the offices in which he is officiating; but as the Resolution of the 30th July 1868 was not intended to reduce the allowances which any Officer was drawing at the time of its promulgation, Dr. Cutcliffe is permitted, as Officiating Superintendent and Curator, to draw after the 30th June 1868 the allowances he was drawing on that date.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the last-mentioned condition, if remaining unredeemed at 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realisation in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No Tender of Money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Public Securities on account of Opium upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the fifth day following the day of sale, will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertised for sale shall be paid for within fifteen clear days from the day of sale, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth Condition, or any Public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or chests shall be forfeited, and the Opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium, after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots, or of different number of lots or chests, whether more or less than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No deposit of Public Securities under the fifth of the present Cond'tions will be received in this Office, except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book, or his authorized Agent. The receipt for deposit of Public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the Securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual, unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these Conditions.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot, and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained, and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot; and the Officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of Rupees 800 specified in the second of these Conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of lots of the same Agency Opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots, provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the Opium to complete the said twenty-five.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the Opium included in this notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

15. The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date, by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue:—No. 1.—Certificate of the Opium advertised for sale. No. 2.—Report of the examination of such Opium.

16. The Public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1867-68, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each cake An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade, will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognise any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified, that, under the 16th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand, that out of the quantities of Behar and Behares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1869, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale, within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided, however, that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thiry days from the publication of this notification. If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above mentioned, the entire quaintity of about 44,915 chests of Behar and Benares as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner, and if they shall make application for a quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertised for sale at each or any of the twelve sales abovementioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French Authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

"I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of the letter from the Officiating Examiner of Claims, Calcutta, No. $\frac{E}{1777}$ of the 23rd ultimo, and in reply to forward an Extract (para. 3) from a letter, No. 3727, addressed this day to the Accountant-General, Madras, from which you will observe that, in calculating the amount of furlough admissible to Covenanted Civil Servants under the rules of the 16th June 1868, the period of any junior furlough taken by them under the rules in force prior to 1855 should be regarded as dies non."

Extract from a letter from the Secretary to Government of India, Financial Department, to the Accountant-General, Madras, No. 3727, dated 21st December 1868.

PARA. 3, PARAGRAPH 5.—At the time the new leave rules were promulgated, an Officer, who had been compelled by ill-health to take, under the rules in force before those of 1865, what was called a "junior furlough" previously to having completed the residence entitling him to an ordinary furlough was entitled to the full three years' furlough when he had completed such residence, and could also obtain leave on medical certificate up to a limit of three years; and the declaration in Rule II. of the new rules that "the maximum period of furlough, which can be granted to any Officer during the whole period of his service is limited to six years," is qualified by the declaration in Rule XXIX that "whatever aggregate amount out of the three years' furlough and three years' sick leave under the rules until now at force at present remains to be taken by an Officer under the old rules, shall remain to be taken by him under the rules now promulgated." It seems clear therefore that "junior furlough" does not form a part of the maximum of six years' furlough admissible under the new rules, but that it should be treated as dies non, i. e., that it should neither be credited in an Officer's account as actual service qualifying for furlough, nor debited as furlough taken. Accordingly the entry in the fifth column of your statement against the name of Mr. Robinson should be one year nine months and twenty-two days, and the entry in the eighth column should be supplemented with the remark that Mr. Robinson's leave may be extended up to the 4th April 1870 on an allowance of Rupees 1,000 per mensem, and may be further extended on medical certificate up to the 4th April 1871 on a subsistence allowance of Rupees 400 per mensem.

RESOLUTION.—His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council observes that the object aimed at by the Resolution of the 31st of January 1867, which was forwarded to all Governments, Administrations, Departments, and Agencies, was to give facilities for the execution of the decrees of Civil tribunals obtained by British subjects in our own territory, by enlisting the influence of the several political authorities with the Princes and the Chiefs of Native States to which the debtor had absconded, or in which he was possessed of property.

2. It then appeared that several Political Officers objected to the Resolution in question, and the subject again came under the consideration of the Government on the 10th of April 1867.

3. On that occasion the Governor General in Council explained the broad principle under which the decrees of Courts of one nation or country are recognized by the Courts of another country, and the Government declared its opinion that there was no reason why this just and equitable principle should not be recognized in India. The Governor General in Council next proceeded to modify and explain the Resolution of the 31st of January preceding, by proposing more specific rules for the guidance of the political authorities, and by inviting their opinions on this important question. The rules, it may be stated, comprised the following provisions:—

I.—Where there were regular Courts in Native States, the holder of a decree obtained from a British tribunal was himself to apply to such Native Courts for the execution of his decree.

II.—Where there were no regular Courts, the decree-holder was to bring the decree to the notice of the Native ruler, through the political representative of the British Government, who was to recommend to the Native Chief or Prince that effect should be given to the decree in whatever way the system of administering justice in such state would permit.

III.—The practice of reciprocity in execution of decrees between our own and Native tribunals was, if possible, to be adopted.

4. The replies to the Circular above mentioned of the 10th of April, inviting opinions and suggestions, have been received, and have been fully considered by the Government of India in Council.

5. The opinions of the experienced Officers consulted on this question differ considerably, both as to the propriety of issuing the proposed instructions and as to the possibility of attaining the end which the Government had in contemplation.

6. The Governor General in Council sees no reason whatever to question the soundness and equity of the principle laid down in the Circular of the 10th April 1867, nor does he cease to hope that, in process of time, regular tribunals may gradually be established in all important Native States, which shall eventually secure the confidence of suitors, which shall be reliable instruments for the execution of the decrees of British tribunals, and which in their turn shall deliver decrees such as would, in ordinary cases, be respected by our own Judges.

7. But, looking to the weighty objections urged by several able and experienced Officers to the adoption of the second provision of the Circular in question, to the inexpediency of subjecting Native Princes and Chiefs to the constant official pressure of the British representatives, to the irritation and complications to which such a course might possibly give rise, and to the probability that, in the end, the legitimate influence of high Civil or Military Officers may be weakened or diverted from its proper scope, the Government of India is not prepared to insist on carrying out the instructions which it had previously contemplated in the interest of honest and successful suitors. In future, then, all administrations and political representatives of the British Government will be guided solely by the following instructions.

8. The rule contemplated for cases and States where regular tribunals exist will still be maintained. Holders of decrees obtained in British tribunals must present them themselves, or by their lawfully-constituted Agents, for execution before such tribunals, without in any way invoking the aid or relying on the influence of the British representative. The question of reciprocity in the execution of decrees is one which the tribunals of the respective Governments must decide.

9. Where there are no regular tribunals, the political representative will, as a general rule, abstain from putting any pressure on, or using his influence with, the Chief or the Durbar, in order to the execution of a decree obtained in British territory.

10. Nor ought this determination to inflict any real hardship on claimants who successfully have resorted to our Courts for redress.

11. In many cases where large sums of money are claimed from debtors resident in British territory, such persons, if they abscond into Native States, leave either property or partners behind them in the said British territory, against whom execution may at once be taken out; and in all cases where plaintiffs apprehend that a defaulting debtor may abscond, or may convey away his property, the provisions of Act VIII. of 1859, regarding the attachment of property while a suit is pending, afford to all litigants, who are properly alive to their rights and position during litigation, a fair and adequate security against eventual loss by evasion or default.

12. There may occur, however, the Governor General in Council observes, some flagrant cases in which a defaulting and absconding debtor possesses large means within the limits of Native territories, in which the default and evasion may be marked by acts of gross fraud and flagrant dishonesty, and in which, by deceit or artifice, he may have reduced the honest creditor to ruin, or have left him without the slightest prospect of redress; and there may be other peculiar circumstances which, in the judgment of the Political Officer, might render interposition on his part expedient.

13. In such cases the representative of the British power may, when applied to, most properly use his discretion in pointing out to the Chief and the Durbar the special circumstances which render intervention desirable, and may urge them to compel the defaulter to discharge his liabilities. In cases of remarkable difficulty or doubt, the political authority may, if he thinks fit, refer the matter to Government for orders before taking any action.

14. But it must be clearly understood that these cases will form the exception, and not the rule, and that the political authority will only adopt this course when he is fully satisfied that the case is distinguished by exceptional circumstances, and that the claimant has been the victim of fraud and trickery, and has, practically, no other means of obtaining his rights.

15. In such marked cases, the Governor General in Council does not doubt that the moral influence and advice of the British official may be properly exerted, and that the Durbar will recognize the propriety of insisting that the evading debtor shall come to some satisfactory arrangement with his creditors.

16. The Resolution of the 31st of January is hereby cancelled, and all Officers will henceforth be guided by the principles as above laid down.

ORDER.

ORDERED, that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded to all Departments, Governments, Administrations, and Agencies.*
